VOLUME 52. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, DECEMBER 27, 1928 NUMBER 45.

OAKLAND A. A. TO MEET WESLEYAN FIVE SATURDAY

Visitors Will Present Star Players—Local Team Loses to Keyser and Altoona

Wesleyan College barnstormers will be the next opponent of the Oakland A. A., meeting the local team in Naylor's hall, Oakland on Saturday, night December 29. Wesleyan brings several of the best ones who appeared here last year, and two or three additional varsity prospects, and they are expected to present an exceptionally strong lineup. "Mickey" McClung, forward and captain of last year's team, Noah Anderson, forward, and others are going to try and make it two straight victories from the Oakland team. They won last year 32-28.

During the past week Oakland has been playing some of the best teams in this part of the country and have been giving good account of themselves. The quint was topped by the Keyser collegians at Keyser hist Thursday night 51-28. Oakland held Keyser to a 14-12 score at half time but after that the famous Keyser team ran wild. Killen, McComas and Pollock scored four baskets apiece for Oakland while Hanst's guarding was an outstanding feature. Goldstein and Lyons were the high scorers for Keyser.

Altoona Too Fast.

The Altoona Overlands, by virtue of their commanding lead in the first half, easily defeated Oakland Christmas night at Naylor's hall by the score 40-22. The Oakland boys were completely outclassed during the first half, and the smooth teamwork of the Altoona quint found the score 23-3 at hal ftime. During the second frame, however, the locals seemed to find the basket and gave the visitors a struggle, outscoring them 19-17, but could not overcome the lead. Killen led in the attack on the basket for Oakland with four field goals while Soyster was the main scorer for the visitors with five field goals and five fouls.

The lineup and summary:

| Oakland-22 | | Altoona-40 |
|---|---|---|
| Killen | F | King |
| McComas | F | Means |
| Hamill | C | Soyster |
| Nally | G | Piper |
| Hanst | G | Daly |

Subs: Oakland, Kahl, Pollock. Field goals, Killen, 4; McComas, 1; Nally, 2; Hanst, 1; King, 4; Means, 3; Soyster, 5; Piper, 3; Daly, 1.

Foul goals: McComas, 3-8; Nally, 1-2; Hanst, 2-2; King, 1-6; Soyster, 5-6; Piper, 1-2; Daly, 1-1. Referee, Parsons.

Caseys Defeat Locals.

The Knights of Columbus, Cumberland, added Oakland to its string of victories last night when they won 33-16 at the K. of C. gymnasium, in Cumberland. Much closer guarding featured the Oakland team, who held the Caseys better than they did last year when they were trounced 51-22. Vic May was the only man to get loose for any number of goals. Killen, with four double deckers and one foul goal, was responsible for nine of Oakland's sixteen points. Keegan got only one goal and Dorsey was held scoreless. A return game will be played in Oakland on Friday, February 15.

According to the Cumberland News this morning, the Caseys "won annual rough and tumble mateh" from Oakland. "The feud," the paper continues, "started last year in Oakland and the boys have been doing everything but exchanging wollops ever since." "Ike" Law, referee, called eight fouls on each team.

Will Clear Fifty Dollars

Approximately $50 will be cleared by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department from the benefit picture, "Four Walls," which was shown at the Maryland theatre on Tuesday and yesterday. The entire amount has not heen turned in, but L. M. Fraley, a member of the department, estimated that that amount would be cleared.

Car Destroyed by Fire on Caddell Mountain.

The Reo car owned and driven by Lester Giessman, of Morgantown, W. Va., son of Mr. George Giessman, of Oakland, was entirely consumed by fire Tuesday afternoon when it became ignited while climbing the Caddell Mountain grade. Mr. and Mrs. Giessman, occupants of the car, were en route to Oakland to spend the day with relatives.

PRIZE WINNERS AT FAIR HAVE RECEIVED CHECKS

Last Check Signed and Mailed By Manager Before Chritsmas

Checks in full for all awards at the Garrett county fair have been sent out by Henry M. Speicher, manager, it has been announced. The last check was filled and mailed before Christmas.

Inasmuch as the Fair was carried on under many difficulties this year, has made this achievement outstanding. It was Mr. Speicher's special wish to have every bill paid as soon as he could so arrange it, and this was made possible by a check for $1,250 from the State of Maryland, as their contribution toward agricultural fairs each year.

NORTHWESTERN TURNPIKE TO BE FINISHED IN 1929

Romney Review Predicts Reconstruction of Highway In Year

It is gratifying news that the link in the Northwestern Turnpike between Red House, Garrett county, and Gormania, W. Va., will be completed next year. That appears to be the very satisfactory result of the recent meeting between the Baltimore Association of Commerce and about sixty representatives of cities and towns in West Virginia, Ohio and Western Maryland

Out of the discussion came the statement by Road Commissioner Mackell, of Maryland, that if the legislature made the usual biennial appropriation there would be enough money available to complete the work in two years; that if someone would advance the money all the work could be done next year, the funds advanced to be repaid by Maryland out of the second year's appropriation.

No one doubts that the legislature of West Virginia will authorize the State Roads Commission to advance the necessary money, or that if it fails to do so the money can be procured in the shape of loans from banks in cities and towns along the turnpike—from Winchester to Parkersburg.

It is safe, therefore, to predict that one year from now this important highway will be completely reconstructed and be the main automobile thoroughfare between Washington, Baltimore and New York on the east and the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys on the west.

Even better than that the Eastern Panhandle counties will be brought into close contact and relationship with Northern and Central West Virginia—a consummation devoutly to be wished.—Romney Review.

Ice Causing Numerous Wrecks.

Ice on the Crellin-Oakland highway, just west of town at what is known as Sport's Inn, has been the cause of numerous wrecks during the past few days, damaging all the cars involved slightly and giving the occupants a fright.

Wheels have been torn off in several cases, fenders smashed and the cars otherwise damaged when they skidded into the bank or ditch alongside the roadway. Following a wreck on Sunday, an occupant of one of the cars, a lady from Bayard, West Va., suffered the freezing of her feet while standing alongside the road waiting for a wrecker's ear to reach the spot from Oakland.

Holiday Bazaar to Begin Monday, December 31.

The annual holiday bazaar, under the auspices of St. Peter's Catholic church, will open on Monday evening, December 31, in the Knights of Columbus Hall, First National Bank building, Oakland. There will be music, dancing and plenty of entertainment of various kinds.

A special turkey dinner will be served on Tuesday, January 1. During the evenings of the week refreshments will also be served.

Door prizes will be awarded each evening. The three days' festivities will close on Wednesday night, January 2, 1929.

To Hold Union Week of Prayer.

The union week of prayer, universally observed in the United States under the auspices of the Federal churches of Christ, will be observed hy the Oakland churches, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, in the Lutheran, Presbyterian nnd Methodist churches, respectively.

The sermons for these services will be the assigned topices of the federation, which deal with those fundamental institutions, the church, the home and the spreading of the gospel. The entire community is invited.

RESUME OF SCOUT WORK IN 1928 SHOWS ACTIVITY

Troop Now Has 28 Members—22 First Class Scouts Have Earned Seventy-four Merit Badges

Twenty-two first class scouts, members of Oakland Troop, No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, passed 74 merit badges, 15 members of the troop advanced at least one rank and accomplished other achievements for the year 1928 are recorded in the annual report which has just been sent in to National headquarters by George H. Hanst, Scoutmaster.

This interest in class study, coupled with the two weeks' camping trip and participation in many other events has made the year 1928 an important one for the local troop, which will rival those when the troop was in the early stages of formation and development.

During the past year, three scoutmasters have been leaders of the local troop, Scott W. Shirer resigning the work in July, and Rev. Paul G. Linaweaver, his successor, giving up the duty in November. The third leader to be appointed, Geo. Hanst, is planning on a big year for 1929. He has been busy during the last month of 1928 in becoming familiar with his duties and when he has become conversant with these, an active program will be mapped out.

At the present time there are 28 members of the troop, three of these being Tenderfoot scouts, four of them second class and 20 first class. Two of the first class scouts are Eagle scouts and one of these was made a Knight-Eagle, the highest rank any boy can obtain.

Those who advanced at least one rank during the past year are Schell Hoye, William Tillett and Gene Nordeck, to Tenderfoot; Cheston Browning, Daniel Houck, Logan Weber to Second; Elvin Iman, John Kendall, Lindsay Gonder, Donald Stemple, Ward Hinebaugh.Charles Davis, Howard Rathbun, Harley Dawson and Louis Wildman to First Class scouts; Elvin Iman and Ward Hinebaugh have both become Star scouts.

Merit Badges Passed.

Seventy-four merit badges were won by 22 first class scouts during the past year, the report states. A merit badge involves much work and is of benefit in that the scout many times finds a glimpse of his life's work as he learns to do the interesting things involved in winning merit badge honors.

Those passing one or more merit badges included Scouts Joseph Sollars, Bernard Gonder, Bruce Smouse, Lewis Lawton, Arthur Lawton, Robert Stemple, Forrest Warnick, Richard Glotfelty, Harley Dawson, Wilmot Bowen, Richard Davis, Donald Stemple, Robert Stanton, Humbird Offutt, Howard Rathbun, Charles Davis, Louis Wildman, Ward Hinebaugh, Leonard Murphy, James Nordeck, Elvin Iman and Donald Stemple.

Badges were won in scholarship, bugling, conservation, firemanship, gardening, pathfinding, cooking, woodcarving, plumbing, craft in metal, personal health, pioneering, camping, painting, bookbinding, craftmanship in leather, angling, craftmanship in wood, masonry, handicraft, journalism, swimming, electricity, farm home and planning, leathermaking, cycling and markmanship.

Local organizations which are auxiliary to the local troop include the troop committee composed of W. W. Dawson, Harland L. Jones, Donald R. Sincell, F. E. Rathbun, L. M. Fraley; the Ladies' Auxilitary, Mrs. Barnard Gonder, president; the Court of Honor composed of a number of Oakland citizens who examine the scouts for merit badges.

A public meeting and official installation service will be held during the first part of January, it was stated, at which time Mr. John E. Rhodes, scout executive of Cumberland, will be present and take part.

Prisoners Taken to Penal Institutions by Officers.

Last Thursday morning Sheriff W. D. Casteel, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Joy Griffith, took Harley Clegg and Nathan Friend to the Maryland Penitentiary to serve their sentences, Clegg for one year for forgery, nnd Friend for fifteen years for rape.

Sunday the Sheriff, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Thomas Seymour, took Paul Jones, convicted of bastardy, John Miller and George Jones, both being guilty of the crime of carnal knowledge, to the House of Correction. Paul Jones will serve one year and the other two eighteen months ench.

SECOND ANNUAL CONCERT RENDERED BY BOYS BAND

Improvement During Year Is Demonstrated Christmas At Maryland Theatre Here

Before a fair sized but enthusiastic audience the members of the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland rendered its second annual concert in the Maryland Theatre, Oakland, on the afternoon of Christmas. The concert numbers played by the organization showed the improvement made by the band since its initial appearance before the public one year ago.

Instead of a few easy selections the boys tackled some real music and gave a fine demonstration of what had been accomplished by R. R. Gilbert, director, and his assistant, Russell Brown, in teaching the boys the use of their instruments and to harmonize the music.

Walter W. Dawson gave a short talk at the close of the program in which he voiced the appreciation of many Oakland citizens for the work which has been done by Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Brown and promising continued interest in the work of the organization.

The program was concluded very appropriately with the Flag of Humanity March, glorifying the Star Spangled Banner. The program as rendered included the following:

New Colonial March.....Hall
Autumn Leaves Serenade.....Beyer
College Boy March.....Bennett
Energy Overture.....Bennett
Silent Night.....Franz Gruber
The Booster March.....Klein
The Flag of Humanity March..Hays

Local Chevrolet Garage Will Be Under New Management

Charles U. and Harry C. Edwards, Grantsville, have leased the Oakland Garage, owned by H. A. Loraditch, and will operate the business under the name of Edward's Chevrolet Sales, beginning January 1, 1929. Mr. Loraditch will retire from the automobile business it has been reported.

H. C. Edwards will be in charge of the local business and he will carry a full line of accessories. New models will be on display on January 1.

The Grantsville Garage at Grantsville is also owned by Mr. Edwards and son, and will continue to be operated under its present management.

The Messrs. Edwards were formerly of Crellin, four miles southwest of Oakland, where the senior partner was associated with the Kendall Lumber company for a number of years, and since their venture into the automobile business several years ago, it is said they have been very successful.

Man Killed and Woman Seriously Hurt Returning Home from Oakland Yesterday.

Returning to their home after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, in Oakland yesterday, M. Lee Yagle, East Stroudsburg, Pa., was instantly killed, and his wife, a sister of Mrs. Murphy, was seriously injured when the automobile which the victim was driving, skidded on a stretch of ice in the roadway and landed in a stone quarry west of McConnellsburg, Pa., on the Lincoln Highway.

Mrs. Yagle was taken to a hospital in Chambersburg, Pa., with a severe scalp wound and it is feared that her skull is fractured. Mrs. Murphy, upon receipt of the news of the disaster, left Oakland last night for Chambersburg.

Mr. nnd Mrs. Yagle were married last June.

They are being sent out under the direction and supervision of the Maryland-Delaware Council of Religious Education.

Stories particularly adapted for kindergarten children, will be told on Monday nights; primary stories on Wednesday nights, and junior stories on Friday nights.

The Republican greatly regrets that several letters to Santa Claus were received at this office too late for publication on Thursday. One letter in particular, from Flatwoods school, was received after the paper had been printed and mailed.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME AND FAMILY FORCED TO FLEE

Bloomington Resident Suffers $2500 Loss As a Result

The home of Mrs. Wilson Kennell at Bloomington, Garrett county, was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, resultant from an overheated cookstove which communicated the fire te the woodwork in the structure. Mrs. Kennell's son-in-law, Scott Elliott, arose at 5:30 and kindled the fire in the stove and returned to his bed to be awakened an hour later by the noise of the crackling flames. He aroused his wife, two children and Mrs. Kennell, all fleeing in their nightclothing in the almost zero weather to the home of a neighbor.

The house, a two-story frame structure, was almost completely consumed with all its contents. Bonds valued at $700 and $42 in cash were also consumed. The house was the property of the Davis Coal and Coke Company.

Mr. Elliott places the loss sustained at $2500 with no insurance. He is an employe of the Marstellar Coal Company at Hampshire, W. Va., located just across the river from Bloomington.

Piedmont and Westernport fire companies responded to the alarm, but due to the absence of fire hydrants at Bloomington, could not use the equipment.

NEARLY 37,000,000 VOTES CAST IN LAST ELECTION

Of the Number Hoover Received 21,429,109 and Smith Received A Total of 15,005,497

Of the 36,798,669 votes cast in the November election, the largest number in the history of the nation, Herbert Hoover received 21,429,109 and Alfred E. Smith received 15,005,497.

The Republican candidate's plurality over that of his Democratic opponent was 6,423,612, on the basis of these figures gathered by The Associated Press from the election officials of the 48 states.

Candidates of minor parties received the 364,063 votes aside from those for Hoover and Smith, as follows. Thomas, Socialist, 267,835; Foster, Workers, 48,228; Reynolds, Socialist-Labor, 21,181; Varney, Prohibition, 20,101; Webb, Farmer-Labor, 6,391; scattered, 327.

Failed to Eclipse Coolidge.

Despite his large plurality, Mr. Hoover failed by 914,901 votes to equal the plurality of 7,338,513 given Calvin Coolidge over John W. Davis in 1924, but at that time the LaFollette-Wheeler Independent ticket received 4,822,856 votes. In that year the Republican vote was 15,725,016.

While the Republicans carried 37 states in 1924, they garnered 40 in the recent election. This represents the most overwhelming defeat ever sustained by the Democratic party in the electoral college. Governor Smith's popular vote, however, exceeded by 6,628,994 the 8,386,503 polled in 1924 by Davis.

Big Increase in South.

The total November vote exceeded by 7,707,252 the total of 29,091,417 cast four years ago. Much of the increase was accounted for in the southern states where approximately 33½ per cent more votes were cast. The increase for the nation as a whole was slightly above 25 per cent.

Votes for the two major parties in the once traditionally democratic "solid South" totalled 3,004,145, with 1,406,488 going to Hoover and 1,597,657 to Smith, the states considered being Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia. Of this group, however, Hoover carried, Florida, North Carolina, Texas and Virginia, which had supported Democratic presidential candidates since reconstruction days until the recent election.

Electric Bulbs Stolen from Curb Christmas Trees.

Indignation was expressed upon several occasions within the past week by Oakland business men when it was found that approximately seventy-five colored electric light bulbs had been stolen from the curb Christmas trees during the time by unknown thieves.

Each succeeding morning since the trees were placed along the streets several bulbs were missing from various trees, and in one or two instances the trees were entirely stripped of the bulbs, while on other trees two or three bulbs were left intact. It is assumed that the thieves drive up in cars and after parking alongside the trees the bulbs are purloned by merely lowering a window in the vehicle and unscrewing them from the sockets.

Policeman Nethkin said yesterday that he is pretty well satisfied in his own mind who the guilty parties are, both of them being young men of respectable parents and living within a mile or two of town.

Last year two young men were arrested and fined after they had been caught breaking the lights on the trees.

"No possible reason other than plain thieving could be the motive of such actions," one merchant said. "To my mind this is one of the lowest and meanest things one could do and if the guilty party or parties are apprehended they should be punished to the limit of the law."

GRANDMA KNAPP smoothed the tawny bobbed head in her lap.

"Never mind, Emmy Lou. We will have a dinner dance for your young friends or a beach picnic or something. Only do stop crying, child."

Emmy Lou shook her head. "But nothing can take the place of the cruise on that beautiful yacht, Granny, can't you see? I've invited all the crowd and we've got our clothes ready and Bob's Uncle Win has got the crew together and even an orchestra to go along! And all the provisions are on board and everything! He must have just—scads—of money. And then Mrs. Winslow has to go and get sick and Mrs. Davis has company and Aunt Agnes says she cannot go as chaperon because she gets seasick and—"

"How about Granny?" and she laughed as Emmy Lou looked up quickly.

"Oh! but you see, Granny dear, I—I am afraid you—you—"

"Too old? Of course, I was only joking, precious—"

"Oh, not so much that, Granny," apologized lovely Emmy Lou, "but you might get seasick and have lumbago and—"

"Never had either, but we won't talk about it. You must realize, Emmy Lou, that disappointments come into every life—and you must learn to be braver about them. They only make the sunshine more golden, child. Now run along and call Bob so he can tell his uncle there will be no party. I am so sorry, precious."

"But there must be, Granny, there must be! It will be our last chance, because Bob's uncle is going to cruise to Florida and stay there all winter. He is on his way there now. I just can't tell him!" She looked up, her finger in her mouth, pondering. "And you haven't the clothes, either, Granny. You would need lots of white sports things and a dinner dress and white shoes . . ."

"Excuse me, precious! I haven't worn anything but white and black and lavender for nineteen years—since grandpa died. I am just an old-fashioned grandmother. . . . not a Twentieth century one. Now run along. . . ."

Emmy Lou jumped to her feet. "You are going, Granny! Come quick! We must be at the pier at 2:30, Granny, you have saved the day." Granny was a trifle shorter than Emmy Lou, so the white flannel skirt was the proper length. There was a black and white sweater that buttoned down the front. She wouldn't even try one of the slip-overs. There was a plain tailored white crepe de chine frock and with her own little orchid colored silk and her black-and-white flowered silk Granny's outfit was complete. Emmy Lou's white linen shoes pinched a bit, but she said nothing. While Emmy Lou sped downstairs to call Bob and tell him Granny was to be chaperon, she slipped a comfortable pair of black slippers into the bag—and a lavender and white gingham house dress!

It was a handsome yacht that lay at the end of the pier. Bob met Emmy Lou and Granny at the gangplank and introduced them to his uncle, an elderly man with a kind, sun-tanned face framed with a shock of iron-gray hair. He showed them their staterooms and told Granny he hoped she would like the one with the lavender spread and drapes.

"Uncle Win has ducked already," announced Bob gayly as the crowd of young people gromped under the striped awnings and the Sea Gull cast off moorings. "Let's clear the deck and dance. Uncle Win says the whole boat belongs to us except his own little nook on the upper deck."

"Wonder where Granny is," said Emmy Lou, looking around with concern.

"Probably down in her stateroom wishing she had never left the solid green," and then Bob lifted the tall glass of lemonade over his head. "Here's to the chaperon; may she learn from Cupid—just enough blindness to make her sweetly stupid. My dance, Emmy Lou."

But Granny was not in her stateroom. She had been standing at the rail looking down at the blue, green water as it cut away from the Sea Gull's prow when she found the owner at her elbow.

"When you wish to run away from the younger generation, Mrs. Knapp, I will share my retreat with you. It is my own—on the upper deck. By George!" as he went up the steps, Granny following "it must be great to be young like these kids. Now here it is! Plenty of wicker chairs, out off from the wind, reading matter, a buzzer at your elbow connected with the kitchen . . . Oh! do you like Tennyson, too? Fine!"

Through the inland waterway of the Atlantic coast the Sea Gull nosed her way, stopping occasionally to let the young people disembark for a few hours ashore. Sometimes Uncle Win and Granny went with them, sometimes only Granny. Then there came the storm and for two days the Sea Gull tossed helplessly about, unable to put into shore on account of the rocks, and one by one the gay party sought their respective rooms. Emmy Lou was one of the last to succumb, and Granny hovered over her maternally. Emmy Lou was very sick, but she managed to groan:

"Granny, tell me aren't you not—one—single bit—sick? Why, Granny Knapp, oh, Granny, I do wish I were home. . . ."

Granny went softly from one room to the next and ministered to the miserables. She bathed hot faces and soothed them with her quiet voice. Then she went up on deck and laughed as the spray hit her in the face. A man in an oilskin coat was approaching. At first she thought it was one of the crew, but it proved to be Uncle Win.

"And the chaperon survives the younger generation!" he laughed.

"Wait and I'll get you oilskins. It's wonderful up forward."

When they finally got to port the invalids lost no time in donning their best clothes and leaving for the big hotel dinner-dance. Uncle Win gave the crew the afternoon and evening off and went to his retreat. Granny was tired and her feet, in Emmy Lou's linen shoes, hurt. She started to go to her stateroom and then remembered she had wanted to examine the kitchen. Everything was spotless. The pots and pans were alluring . . . it had been so long since she had prepared a meal. She peeped into the refrigerator. The cook had planned the dinner and it was on ice; boxes of strawberries, fresh vegetables, a great pan of chicken ready for cooking. Resolutely Granny turned to the stove, lit a burner, put the kettle on, and went back to her stateroom, where she changed into the comfortable black slippers and the lavender and white house dress! She laughed gleefully as she dropped several choice pieces of chicken into the boiling water. She sang as she hulled the strawberries and sifted the flour for biscuits and shortcake. She arranged two places at the big dining room table, one across from the other. She wondered if Uncle Win was still napping. . . . hoped he would until dinner was ready. The yacht seemed so quiet after the noise and confusion of the young guests . . . seemed so peaceful and—domestic! She was making the gravy when she heard steps coming down the deck. Could it be the cook—after Uncle Win had given him the evening off? She turned, her face flushed with the heat, the gravy spoon in her hand. It was Uncle Win looking in at the door. He sniffed the savory odor of chicken; he looked at the delicately browned biscuits; he saw the shortcake—he laughed.

"You will invite me to stay, won't you—Ursula? And what a beautiful dress. Lavender—and gray hair—beautiful! Can I help?"

"Yes, put the biscuit on the table and set the cream out of the icebox. I'll be right there with the chicken and potatoes and salad."

When she did go into the dining room, the two plates were set side by side and Uncle Win took her hands in his.

"That's the way it will be when we start our cruise to Florida—so let's begin—right now! And I am not sure that I envy those youngsters after all, little woman. We are so happy . . . and we are so sure of life—and love . . ."

Many Will Think This Judge Had Right Idea

When John Gibbon was elected junior bailie of Elgin in Scotland, says the London correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, he said he could not promise, like the other magistrates, to temper justice with mercy, for he was not temperamentally built that way. A bailie in Scottish burghs has a position something like an alderman in England, but he also exercises some functions in connection with the administration of justice. He sits on the burgh bench to deal with petty offenses.

But although John Gibbon's conscience would not permit him to affirm squarely that he would be merciful, he stated with exactness what he would do. "For offenses of violence," he said, "I may be inclined to be severe, but if, on the other hand, the offense is a technical one by some poor submerged soul I am afraid I shall be inclined to pay the fine out of my own pocket."

Awful Threat

A five-year-old girl was taken to a jeweler's, where her watch was to be repaired.

"It will be ready on Tuesday," said the assistant.

"A promise?" asked the little girl, seriously.

"I promise," replied the man smiling.

But on reaching the door the child turned round and said, gravely: "If it is not mended then, I shall sue you for breach of promise."—New York Herald Tribune.

Keeping Balance in Life

Conditions demand that we live with other people, and our problem is to keep our mental, moral, and spiritual balance while all kinds of influences are brought to bear upon us. Our task is similar to that of the old-time seaman who rigged his sails so that his vessel would ride on an even keel. Instead of being blown over by the wind, the ship would make progress on its course even in a gale.

Fundy's Furious Tides

The remarkable tides in the Bay of Fundy are caused by the natural obstructions which make it difficult for the sea to enter. The bores that pour in and out in such furious fashion are the result of the sea forcing its waters through a very narrow channel. The Bay of Fundy has an average breadth of 35 miles and a length of 140 miles. The tides have at times reached the height of 60 feet.

By Telephone--Europe "Just Across The Way"

Service Now Available to More Than 272,000,000 People on Both Sides of Atlantic

Europe, for centuries on the other side of the world from America, is now "just across the way"—by telephone. The telephone first bridged the gap across the Atlantic January 7, 1927, when service was established between New York and London. Since that time the telephones of many nations have been made available to users on this side of the ocean. Today the 19,000,000 telephones serving the United States are available for intercommunication with 7,000,000 telephone stations in many foreign countries.

Nations whose telephones may now be interconnected with those of the United States include Canada, Cuba, Mexico, Great Britain, France, Germany, Spain, and Spanish Morocco, Africa; Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Danzig, Hungary, Austria, and Czecho-Slovakia.

In establishing the service between the United States and foreign countries many notables have talked with each other. Only recently with the inauguration of telephone service between the United States and Spain, President Coolidge exchanged felicitations with King Alfonso. Secretary of State Kellogg has talked with the representatives of many foreign countries and to American ministers in Old World Capitals. Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American National Red Cross and chairman of the Board of Governors of the League of Red Cross Societies, talked with Vice-President Bernard Bonvier of the International Committee of the Red Cross Society in Geneva on the opening of the service to Switzerland.

"PBX" Switchboards Increasing Rapidly

There has never been a time when private branch exchange switchboards were used as much as they are today. More than 4,500 subscribers' private branch exchange systems are now serving about 121,000 telephones in the territory of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, which includes Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

Every year telephone companies are installing hundreds of switchboards in business firms, large and small, hotels, clubs, and similar places, both for intercommunication and communication with the outside public. Such systems are connected with the main telephone offices by trunk lines which give the public telephone connection with the particular department of the subscriber's business he requires.

TELEPHONE BRIEFS

Telephone users in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia made 26,660,759 out-of-town calls during the first ten months of 1928, which is an increase of about 8 per cent over the same period last year, say officials of the company.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company and 454,184 stockholders October 1, which was a gain of 9,601 [illegible] year [illegible] of the country's stats.

GOVERNOR FORCED TO ACT IN EFFORT TO SAVE HIMSELF

Stench Raised In Road Scandal Becomes Greater As New and Developments Occur in Office

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

After ten months of vacillation during which millions of dollars of State roads money was spent Governor Ritchie decided to supersede the chairman of the State Roads Commission and demote him to his secondary job of Chief Engineer.

As Chief Engineer Mr. Mackall will get a salary of $8,000 a year while Oscar F. Lackey, the new chairman, is to get $1,500 a year. For this $9,500 a year he is to boss the Chief Engineer with his $8,000 a year salary. This is due to a peculiarity of the budget as made by the Governor [illegible].

The associate members of the Road Commission remain, so it seems even though the Governor's "Advisory" Committee of three criticized them severely for what they let pass them. According to this, Commissioner R. Emmet Darnell will continue to have two Franklin air-cooled cars at State expense with an allowance for upkeep while the Republican member, W. W. Brown, of Cumberland, will continue with his one fast car, an allowance of $10 a month for upkeep and a $10 expense allowance for each meeting of the Roads Commission he attends.

Governor's Course
Not Unexpected

The belated action of the Governor was not unexpected. The situation was getting too hot for him. He had few if any defenders in his course of procrastination and attempting to shoulder onto a committee responsibilities which were his own. He was informed of the roads scandal early last February. He acts in December. Thus his critics see in his long delay an effort on the part of the Governor to find an excuse for not doing anything at all.

But the situation was hurting the Governor and when he learned of this he was driven to act in an effort to save himself. It is doubtful, say many, that action at this late day can save the Governor from the political retirement and oblivion into which he seems to be slipping.

Mackall and the Governor have been very close ever since the beginning of the Ritchie administration. The Governor seems to have selected Mr. Mackall for the position of Roads Chairman and saddled the Chief Engineer's salary on him to add to his comfort largely because he liked him personally.

There was criticism of the Severn River bridge celebration but that did not deter the Roads Chairman from providing a bigger event as an advertisement for his chief, the Governor, at the Crain Highway opening. Indeed, much of the criticism that has been leveled at the Roads Chairman in the last few years has been based on the charge that he had been running the Roads Commission as a wheel in the Ritchie machine. Anyway, the Governor must have liked the way Mackall ran it, for it was well known that in 1923 when the Governor was running for a second term he promised that he would jump the Mackall salary from $8,000 to $10,000 in the event of his success at the polls.

Again in 1926 when the Governor was running for his third term it leaked out that in the event of the Ritchie election the pay of the Roads Chairman was to be jumped again and thus it was raised to $12,500 by a combination of two salaries for what was virtually one job. These two jobs the Governor is now separating on the "advice" of his "Advisory" Committee and so it is that both Mr. Mackall and Mr. Lackey are to hold forth in the Commission simultaneously. Prior to the Ritchie administration the Chairman was Frank H. Zouck, and the Chief Engineer was Mr. Mackall. At the time the appointment of Mr. Mackall to the Chairmanship was made the budget had been passed and the salary of the Chairman was set at the original modest sum of $2,500 a year. The Governor gave Mackall both jobs and both salaries, and that's the way it has been ever since 1920.

Auditor's Office
Now a Storm Center

Coincident with the report of the office of State Auditor Milbourne became a storm center in which the Governor has figured without adding anything to his own political prestige.

The State Auditor was drawn in by a statement of Daniel H. Carroll, Deputy Auditor, who uncovered the stealings in the State Roads office, that his salary was being withheld. It appeared to Mr. Carroll and probably to others, that he was being punished for his candor in the roads case and thereby breaking down the principal wheel in the Governor's state-wide political machine.

The Governor gave out profuse statements about Mr. Carroll and [illegible] work in one paragraph and praising him in another till it seemed to some commentators that the State Executive was becoming [illegible].

Secretary [illegible] was [illegible] had at the request of Richard P. Tippett, who was acting as a private citizen in trying to bring about a thorough investigation of the roads administration, checked a sum [illegible] given him by a third party in relation to the roads office. The figures were used by Mr. Tippett when he appeared at the Governor's office last Spring to urge a full investigation. It was at that investigation [illegible] the administration's hostility was shown and there was an apparent effort to discredit Tippett. But so far as the inquiry has now gone Mr. Tippett has been corroborated.

The Governor made various charges against Carroll, among them that of disloyalty to his administration, although it appears from the record that the Governor's appointees are sworn to serve the State rather than the Governor.

Auditor Milbourne was brought in because it was through him the salary of Mr. Carroll was held up for months. The daily papers and particularly the Post have given details of this controversy and it has served to show that the office of the State Auditor, directly under the control of the Governor, has not been properly manned since Mr. Ritchie assumed control through his reorganization act.

Mr. Carroll is a direct appointee of the Governor just the same as is Auditor Milbourne and the Governor can remove either or both on charges after a hearing.

Still Too Hot
For the Governor

While the Governor last week on receipt of the report of his "Advisory" Committee of three stated publicly that he did not expect that body to pursue its inquiries further, he changed his mind this week after announcing the appointment of Mr. Lackey as Roads Chairman, and requested the committee to ask the aid of Lawyer Edwin G. Baetjer and proceed to examine the legality of the contracts made by the Roads Commission which legality had been repeatedly questioned by Lawyer Richard B. Tippett, who so persistently demands a real investigation.

The request for the "Advisory" committee to resume operations was made known early Wednesday and late that day the Governor in another of his long statements revealed that he had himself made an inquiry into the Tippett charges and prepared a report presumably addressed exclusively to himself under date of June 12 last which was long before the start of the Maryland delegation to the Democratic National convention at Houston.

The Governor does not reveal whether the investigation he conducted and the report he made to himself was satisfactory to himself or not but it must have been even though he saw fit to keep it secret. His only explanation is that he did not want to embarass the "Advisory" Committee. However, it would be interesting to know how the Governor made his investigation—whether he went to the Roads Commission office and made it or whether the Roads Commission's records were taken to the Governor's office. The inference is that the result of this investigation was satisfactory to the Governor as he did not remove the chairman but let him stay till the "Advisory" Committee got through with its work. The public may be surprised to learn that the Governor made such a report and then kept it to himself but this whole toads scandal has been marked by a great deal of secrecy.

Tippett Insists Facts Be Revealed

Lawyer Tippett, although his suggestions are not received by the Governor with any enthusiasm, keeps at it and demands an open inquiry to the end that all the facts about the Commission's operations be brought out. He offers to assist without pay and suggests that the charges he makes can be substantiated by a thorough inquiry and that the thing can be done without monetary cost. To the man in the street it must appear that Mr. Tippett is on the right track as the taxpayers have a right to know how their money was handled. Certainly if the facts are not promptly brought out the Legislature will be asked to act with expedition. Possibly the Governor at this late day is trying to head off the Legislature.

Somehow the Governor's belated activity not only fails to help him but serves to increase public criticism. The taxpayers cannot understand why the Governor has been so slow. The only possible explanation is that he did not understand the situation or that he was hypnotized by someone.

At the same time, Col. Bell got only half his desires fulfilled. Instead of a cure he has a new boil growing and consequently an additional ache, which is certainly enough to try anyone's patience. Nevertheless the Col. got around with his camera right after the turkey dinners had been devoured.

He found Mr. E. Ray Jones in the act of calling up a local physician. A cranberry got crossways in his larynx it seems, and the attorney was in quite a sweat for a while. ### Sixty-three Permits Granted During Past Two Weeks.

The Christmas rush at the marriage bureau which began two weeks ago culminated Monday when 17 licenses were issued up to noon. These, coupled with the total issued on Saturday, was greater than that of an average week, according to court officials.

A total of sixty-three licenses have been granted to applicants during the past two weeks, 25 having been given out last week and 38 so far this week, the greatest number of these were given out on Saturday and Monday when 11 and 17 were granted respectively.

The total for December now stands at 89, or 9 less than the figures for the month of December, 1926. Seven of the licenses issued were marked "don't publish" and three applicants were refused permits.

COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA.

Some people are a good deal alarmed about manifestations of Communist propaganda in the United States. They note that the Communists are organized politically in most of the states, that there are Communist schools in various cities, and the Communists are active in spreading their gospel among members of labor unions, in the army and navy, etc.

Considering how Russia has lagged behind the rest of the world since the war, as the result of Communist domination, it is indeed a terrible misfortune when these philosophies get any hold in a country. But the fact that the Communist parties get only a very insignificant vote at our elections, shows that this cause is making no progress. It is not probably as strong in this country as it was 25 years ago.

The result of the Russian experiment have disgusted a great many people. A lot of these folks were once attracted to these principles. They thought there is something fine in having property divided up equally, with extremes of riches and poverty abolished. But they learned from Russia, that Communism not merely makes the rich poor, but it makes the poor poorer.

The average workingman does not get excited when he is told that some man's fortune which amounts to $100,000,000 should be divided up among the common people. He can see that by letting some brainy man make a lot of money by organizing business better, the business that employs him is likely to give him more regular work at better wages.

Communism will never get any hold in this country, so long as the business management of these times makes an effort to provide comfort for the average run of people.

MR. HOOVER'S TRIP.

President-elect Hoover's tour of Central and South America, which ended with his visit to Rio de Janeiro, has impressed the country as an experiment of great value wisely projected and carried through with striking results. It was, in the first place, a sensible mission of self-education. Mr. Hoover has spent many years abroad. As an engineer he has lived in Europe, Africa, Asia and Australia. His food relief work during the great war and after the armistice brought him into intimate touch with many governments and with a vast complex of international relations. The voyage to Central and South America was the only thing needed to round out his personal knowledge of all the continents. He will enter the Presidency next March far better acquainted with the outside world than any of his predecessors.

While completing his own education he has educated others. It will be of advantage to the peoples of the countries which he has visited to have entertained a prospective American President. It will help them in shaping their attitude toward the United States and in appreciating the attitude of the United States toward them. There is a radical and trouble-making element in this country which persists in attacking our government's Latin-American policy as aggressive and "imperialistic." Such views are cheerfully echoed in Europe and communicated through many channels to Latin-America. In the southern republics there has also been a press similarly imputing aggressive designs to the United States.

This triple propaganda was depended upon to create a rife in the recent Pan-American Conference at Havana. Everything was set for an explosion there of Latin-American protest against "Yankee imperialism." It did not come, however, because the agitation was artificial and fantastic. It was not based on realities. The United States has many warm friends among the Latin-American republics. The states in which it was hoped to develop a hostile feeling had few common interests and little inclination to work together. The sincerity of the support given by this country to the Pan-American Union and to the ideals of Pan-Americanism could not be successfully challenged. The Havana Conference destroyed the illusion of an irrepressible conflict within the Pan-American Union and materially bettered the country's relations with the other members.

Mr. Hoover's trip has further clarified the situation, since it has enabled the Central and South American governments and capitals to judge for themselves what kind of a man the President-elect is. All his predilections are for closer association and strengthening neighborly ties. Both as an engineer and as a statesman he wishes to see the Latin-American states develop and prosper and to aid them to do so. The President-elect is not traveling as an advance agent of American trade. Trade can look after itself. He is more concerned with the spirit which lies behind larger exchanges and intercourses—the spirit of Pan-American concord and solidarity. In emphasizing and quickening this he has done a notable service both to the Latin-American countries and to the United States.

LIFE'S LOST CHANCES

(By Bruce Catton)

Science will never be able to remake an old man into a young one, and no normal adult would want to undergo such an operation if it were possible.

That, at any rate, is the opinion of Dr. Serge Voronoff, the famous rejuvenation specialist.

"My experience," said the doctor, "is that people who have lived full lives and have exercised their intellectual and emotional faculties have no desire to be thrown back into youth."

The only trouble with that is that there are so many people who somehow fail to get that full life of which Dr. Voronoff speaks. Even the smallest hamlet has its quota of people who have never experienced all that they might have experienced, and whose lives, for some reason, have missed the richness of thought and feeling that they might have had.

To be sure, it is probably just as well that there is no chance to go back and live everything over again. We should probably make a woeful botch of things on our second attempt. But there are many of us who would try it, even so.

One of the aspects of life that is hardest to understand is the fact that nearly all of our important decisions and selections have to be made when we are young, immature and ignorant of the world. The youth sets forth without any very clear idea of what he wants to accomplish or where he wants to go, and drifts into manhood along devious paths of chance; and when experience has made him wise enough to choose his goal properly, he is apt to find that he has gone in the wrong direction.

So it is that the man of 45 or thereabouts is prone to look back over his life and wish that he might have shaped certain parts of it differently. And it is seldom the downright blunder that causes regret; it is the missed opportunity—the time when a different course of action would have brought some higher, sharper emotional or spiritual experience. We live briefly, and much of our time must be taken up by trivialities; what a pity to lose out on any real moment of ecstasy or vision!

If Dr. Voronoff could really turn age into youth he probably would have many, many clients, despite his prediction to the contrary. But he can't, and there's no use in thinking about it. The fortunate men and women are those who, as he says, have managed to achieve lives so full and rich that they do not feel the need of reconstructing them.

HUNTERS MUST REGARD CLOSE OF GAME SEASON

Last Day For Hunting of Upland Game is December 31

The State Game department of Maryland receives numerous inquiries about this time of year concerning the close of the legal hunting season for upland game. Numerous sportsmen are under the impression that they have the privilege of hunting on January 1.

A letter from the State Game department states that the open season for hunting or killing of all upland game, including jacksnipe, squirrel, dove, woodcock, Chinese ring-neck pheasants, ruffed grouse, rabbits, wild turkey, and bob-white quail is November to December 31, inclusive. This makes December 31 the last legal hunting day for upland game this season in the State of Maryland, and any person found hunting upland game after one-half hour after sunset on December 31, will be prosecuted for violation of the game law, the letter states.

Section 62, Chapter 568, Acts of 1927, provides for an open season on muskrat and otter from January 1 to March 15, inclusive. This section also provides for an open season on Raccoon and oppossum, namely: November 1 to January 31, inclusive. The open season for wild fowl is November 1 to January 31, inclusive.

Regional Health Conference at Havre de Grace

Some interesting facts showing that it costs the householder in rural communities less money annually for water and sewage disposal service from publicly owned systems than from individually owned systems, were pointed out by Mr. Abel Wolman, chief of the State Bureau of Sanitary Engineering at the regional health conference held recently at Havre de Grace under the direction of the State Department of Health. The conference was presided over by Dr. R. R. Riley, director of the State Department of Health.

Reporting on the progress that is being made throughout the State in establishing public water and sewerage districts, Mr. Wolman said that systems have just been completed at Gaithersburg and Washington Grove and the residents are being supplied from supervised and protected water systems. Bonds for financing the installation of water and sewerage systems have recently been sold in La Plata and Rockville, which has had a public supply for some time, is considering the extension of the system by which it is served.

The total cost for public water and sewerage service, Mr. Wolman said, to the individual householder in a community of from 200 upward, ranges from $25 to $45 annually—considerbly less than it costs the individual householder in an isolated section not having community service, to have his water supply kept in safe condition and his septic tank cleaned out.

St. John's Church, Cove, is Rededicated

Services rededicating St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church at Cove were conducted December 16, following completion of repairs and rearrangement of the structure, which required several months' time on the part of the workmen engaged.

A large crowd attended the services morning and afternoon, the same being conducted by Rev. Franke, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Rev. Fickenscher, pastor of the Cove church. Rev. A. W. Gode, pastor of Zion Lutheran church at Accident, assisted in the services as organist and director of the music.

The special collection taken at the services will be of great benefit toward the building fund, it was stated by those directly interested in the rededication of the structure, and the congregation as a whole wishes to extend its thanks to everyone who assisted in the work, either by labor or donation, and also wishes to thank Mr. F. G. Fox, of Friendsville, for his work and interest.

Dates for Special Occasions

In homes where the quota of milk is consumed each day, where fruits, green vegetables, whole-grain cereals and dark breads are eaten faithfully, even the most vigilant homemaker can relax occasionally and serve a dish to the healthy adult members of her family just because it is well-liked or because it fits into the traditions of holiday celebration or hospitality.

Half-Moon Cookies

Three cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup butter or margarine, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup milk.

Filling—1 pkg. (2 cups) sliced dates, ½ cup chopped nut meats, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream the butter, add the sugar slowly, then the beaten egg and vanilla. Add the dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Chill for at least one hour. To make the filling, mix the flour with the sugar and stir the mixture into the boiling water. Stir constantly until thick. Add the chopped dates, nuts and lemon juice. Cool. Roll the chilled dough to about 1-8 in. thickness. Cut cookies with a three-inch cutter. Place a spoonful of the filling on one-half of the cookies and with a broad bladed knife fold the other half of the cookie over to form a semi-circle. Press the edges together. Bake on a well-oiled cookie sheet or inverted pan in a fairly hot oven for about ten minutes.

Ice Box Cookies

One and one-half cups flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup of chopped meat nutes, 1 cup sliced dates, ½ cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sift the flour and baking powder together. Mix the finely cut nuts and dates thru the flour with the finger tips. Cream the shortening, stir in the sugar gradually. Add the unbeaten egg and the vanilla. Stir until well mixed. Stir in the dry ingredients. Shape the dough into a roll about two inches in diameter. Chill thoroughly. Cut with a sharp knife into thin slices. Bake on a well oiled baking sheet in a moderate oven for 10 or 15 minutes.

Date and Nut Bars

A cross between a cookie and a cup cake is the date nut bar which is baked in a shallow sheet and cut into strips while hot. These bars keep fresh and moist indefinitely if stored in a tightly closed receptacle.

Three-fourths cup flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup chopped nut meats, 1 cup sliced dates, 2 eggs. Mix and sift the baking powder, salt and flour. Mix the dates and nuts thru the flour with the finger tips. Beat the eggs until light; beat in the sugar gradually. Stir in the dry ingredients, nuts and dates. Spread the mixture evenly over a shallow pan which has been lined with paper or well greased and dusted with flour. Bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes or until the surface will spring back when pressed lightly with the forefinger. Cut into strips four inches long by one inch wide. The strips may be rolled in confectioner's sugar. This recipe will make 18 bars.

Are you planning for next year too? Hundreds of thoughtful people have our ### Boys' Work Committee of Rotary Club Makes Report.

R. R. Gilbert and Rev. Charles A. Shilke represented the local Rotary Club at the fifth annual International Boys' Work Council, held in the Wardman Park Hotel, Washington, D. C., on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 10, 11 and 12.

The Council is made up of representatives of agencies in the world that are dealing with the problems of the boy. About 250 were present at this conference.

Addresses were made by juvenile judges, probation officers, university professors and leaders, dealing with the needs of the boy of today. Finding and training leaders, the relation of the boys' spare time to the courts, vagrancy, delinquency child labor, industrial education and the kindred problems of the rural boy were all presented to the council in an interesting manner.

Boys' work was divided into three classes: the over-privileged boy, who has all the money he can spend, is killed with kindness and seems to have no thought of responsibility; the average boy; and the under-privileged boy who finds himself without an opportunity. The boys' agencies are attempting to help the boys of all these classes, and more especially those of the last class.

Separate sessions to plan their work were held by the Boy Rangers of America, the Boy Scouts, the Salvation Army, the Boys' Life Bureau of the K. O. C., the Antlers of the Elks, the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs.

National Boys' Week will be held this year from April 27 to May 4, with something of special interest to the boys designated for each day of the week.

The committee of the local Rotary Club hopes to stimulate work among the boys of the town and county. The success of the future lies in the hands of the boys of today.

Slight Fire Yesterday.

Fire in the furnace room at the residence of Mrs. D. E. Offutt on Second street, supposed to have originnted from an overheated flue, was extinguished yesterday morning about 9:30 o'clock by Fire Chief Geo. Kerins before it had gained much headway.

Thinking the flue was on fire a message was telephoned to Mr. Kerins to make an investigation, but not to turn in an alarm. Upon arriving at the home of Mrs. Offutt the firemnn discovered the floor just above the furnace ablaze. This was extinguished by the use of chemicals which he had taken with him when summoned.

The Woodmen of the World of Deer Park held a very enjoyable banquet in the Warnick building nt that place on Monday evening, about one hundred members of the order, their wives and friends being present. The room was tnstefully decorated in a manner befitting the occasion and presented an attractive nppearnnce to the assembled members and friends. A hountiful supper was served by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of Deer Park and no one could have possibly left the banquet hall hungry. Following the supper Mr. Clarence Lashorn acted as toastmaster and addresses were made by Rev. Westfall, of Deer Park, and Mr. E. B. Jones, of Oakland.

WIDESPREAD USE OF CABLE FORESEEN BY BELL IN 1878

Present-day Telephone Development Made Possible by Wide Use of Cable, Some of Which Contains 3636 Wires

(Underwood & Underwood)

As a prophet, Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, was in a class by himself. And one of his prophecies not only came true, but he lived to see it developed to an extraordinary degree. In 1878, just two years after he had spoken the first words over the telephone he wrote a letter to a group of British capitalists setting forth the advantages of the telephone as a means of person-to-person communication.

Evidently the proposition outlined in Dr. Bell's letter did not appeal to the Britishers, who, it seemed could not vision the possibility of the telephone as being necessary in their scheme of things. But in the United States people were quick to recognize the usefulness of this new communication service and proceeded to put it to a practicable use and it is in this country that the telephone has attained its highest degree of perfection. Today there are about 19,000,000 telephone stations in operation in the United States from which more than 75,000,000 calls result daily, officials of the company say.

Dr. Bell, in his prophetic letter which predicted the use of telephone cable overhead and underground, said in part:

"The telephone may be briefly described as an electric contrivance for reproducing in distant places the tones and articulations of a speaker's voice, so that a conversation can be carried on by word of mouth between persons in different rooms, in different streets, or in different towns.

"The great advantage it possesses over every other form of electrical apparatus consists in the fact that it requires no skill to operate the instrument. All other telegraphic machines produce signals which require to be translated by experts, and such instruments are therefore extremely limited in their application, but the telephone actually speaks, and for this reason it can be utilized for nearly every purpose for which speech is employed. . . .

"At the present time we have a perfect network of gas pipes throughout our large cities. We have main pipes laid under the streets communicating by side pipes with the various dwellings, enabling the members to draw their supplies of gas and water from a common source.

"In a similar manner, it is conceivable that cables of telephone wires could be laid underground, or suspended overhead, communicating by branch wires with private dwellings, country houses, shops, manufactories, etc., etc., uniting them through the main cable with a central office where the wires could be connected as desired, establishing direct communication between any two places in the city. Such a plan as this, though impracticable at the present moment, will, I firmly believe be the outcome of the introduction of the telephone to the public. Not only so, but I believe, in the future, wires will unite the head offices of telephone companies in different cities and a man in one part of the country may communicate by word of mouth with another in a distant place."

Nothing has done more to bring about present-day telephone development than the use of cable. Using this type of plant telephone companies are able to serve large numbers of telephones by wires enclosed in a small space, the cables being strung either on poles overhead or in conduit systems under the ground. Such cables not only serve cities and towns, but connect far distant communities, north, south, east and west, all over the country. Telephone cable has been used since 1879. The first cable was installed by a telephone company in San Francisco. The first cable used was home-made and consisted of insulated wires drawn into a lead pipe. But in 1888 a cable was manufactured which contained 100 wires covered by a continuous lead sheathing very similar to the cable of today, except that modern day cables contain thousands of wires. The largest cables manufactured and used by the Bell Telephone System companies now contain 3636 wires, each wire being separate and distinct from the other and all enclosed in a continuous lead sheathing which protects the wires from the elements and assures continuous and practically uninterrupted telephone service.

THUMPING HEARTBEATS MADE AUDIBLE TO LARGE ASSEMBLY

Scientist Demonstrates Electrical Stethoscope and Other Achievements of Telephone Laboratories to Distinguished Group

Dr. P. Grace demonstrating new ... of communication

... sensitive electrical stethoscope developed in the telephone laboratories in co-operation with Dr. Richard Cabot of the Harvard Medical School.

The electrical stethoscope which has proved of great benefit to physicians everywhere was first presented before the American Medical Association which was said to be enthusiastic about its performance.

Mr. Crate also demonstrated "deaf sight" which is necessary to the operation of transatlantic telephone service and for long land telephone lines.

Exhibits of the artificial larynx, a product of the telephone laboratories, which enables people who have lost their vocal cords through surgical operations to talk again, were also demonstrated. The latest type of artificial larynx developed by the telephone scientists has a range of nine octaves. This permits a variation in the pitch of the human tones and avoids the tone monotony of the earlier designs.

Another apparatus, another development of the telephone laboratories for those whose hearing is impaired; permalloy, the wonder metal that has revolutionized the General ... deep sea trans-Atlantic telegraph cable so that it will have to count the ... many words be transmitted ... a telephone, and the ... receiver," a new ... metal ... in loading telephone cable circuits were also among the interesting subjects covered in Mr. Crate's address.

The Big Blue Limousine

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

WHEN the Carltons pulled into the tenting camp their first thought was for the blue limousine. Had it arrived ahead of them? A survey of the small, grassy park set on the hilltop revealed no sign of it among the few cars scattered about.

Not that there was any hope to be gotten out of that. It had happened before that they had gone to bed assured that they had eluded their camp follower only to find in the morning it had arrived sometime during the night.

"But if they were really pursuing us, mother," had insisted Julie Carlton, "they would make some effort to become acquainted. But they don't. They keep by themselves."

The trouble was that ever since Mrs. Carlton had realized that her little girl was growing into an extremely pretty woman she had suffered from the complex that her daughter would be the natural prey of all members of the other sex. And there had been certain circumstances that almost justified her fears. Were they not, at the present moment, taking this trip to cure Julie of an absurd infatuation for the "boy next door."

Of course, Julie's father absolutely scouted the idea that any car had deliberately pursued them.

And now he pointed out the probability of their having turned off on another road. "They've just been taking a trunk route like the rest of us," he explained, hammering in a tent stake. "Haven't seen them all day, have we? Well—"

"Daddy!" Julie grabbed her father's arm. "There it is now—the blue limousine!"

In a cloud of dust from the gravel road arrived the huge car of ancient vintage for all its recent coat of azure paint. Hardly had it stopped before the long-legged youth with whose appearance they had grown so familiar stepped out, cast his glance toward a square of level ground farthest from the Carlton car, and indicated the spot to his father in the driver's seat with a gesture.

"Well," said Mr. Carlton, very firmly, "those tourist camps are free to all and as I've done nothing to put anyone on my trail, they're welcome to track me to Hudson bay—if I go that far. And, for anything I've seen to the contrary, that young man doesn't even know our Julie exists!"

Yet in his heart the man was puzzled. There was surely more than coincidence in the fact that night after night the limousine had camped in their company. Regardless of how many times in day they passed it only to be passed in turn, always they landed up together for the overnight stay.

The next few days, however, could but show if there was actual intention behind all this. Did the blue limousine party time their departure with that of the Carltons who were remaining over for several days to take in side trips? There was little doubt but that they, the Carltons, were the object of an inexplicable pursuit.

On the second night, the blue limousine was still there, but the Carltons, spending two days in another city, were unaware of the fact. The third night the car was gone, but not all of the equipment, hinting at expeditions similar to their own on the part of the limousine's owners.

On the following morning, Mr. Carlton, rising early for a speedy getaway, saw the long-legged young man come out of his tent, look around a bit, then start pitching out the bags.

Yet it is doubtful if he would have done what he did, had not he observed, half an hour later, his daughter Julie sauntering over from the pump in the young man's company. Had there really been "other opportunities for them to meet? Had his wife been right, after all?

Throwing down the tent pole he was disjointing, he strode over to the blue limousine and addressed the young man's father. "Sort of funny how you people are trailing us," he said.

The other man looked sheepish, then grinned. With a cautious glance in the direction of his wife's tent, he came over to Carlton and whispered in his ear.

"Say, I'm glad of a chance to tell you all about it. It was my wife's idea. We've been doing this motor camping business for fifteen years—been everywhere. Got so there was no kick in it, going the same old places. So Alby suggested we get a thrill by not knowing where we would land. Last year we took every third concrete road, but this year she says, 'Let's follow the first camping party we see after pulling out of Athol camp.' And it was you. He haven't meant to be a nuisance. My son is just getting over an illness and his fiancee is off teaching in a girl's camp, so we brought him along. He's kind of disgusted with his mother's idea, but you sure have taken us into a fine country!"

When Julie's father told her, she sniffed. "That nice young man told me all about it this morning," she said. "And, by the way, Dad, Niles wrote me that if I don't come home pretty soon to get the ring he has just bought me, he'll drive here after me!"

Mr. Carlton threw up his hands. "Never!" he cried. "Being chased by a jewel thief is bad enough, but that rattle trap driver of Niles'—nothing doing. We start for home tomorrow!"

State Board of Health Always Alert, Sends Out Timely and Suggestive Warning on Colds

"That arch enemy of mankind—the common cold—is always on the rampage at this time of the year, and it behooves every one of us to mobilize our powers of resistance against it," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, said recently. "It is a mistake" he continued, "to say that we 'catch' a cold. As a matter of fact, the cold usually catches us when we are off guard or below par physically.

"Colds and other diseases of the respiratory system are spread from person to person not through maliciousness but through ignorance, carelessness and indifference. To be specific:

"Every time the victim of a cold has a coughing spell, germ laden droplets of mucus are brought to the surface. Every sneeze projects germ laden spray into the atmosphere. The mucus that is raised up by the spitter and carelessly deposited on the street or road carries untold numbers of germs of the common cold, or tuberculosis, or of other respiratory diseases. Dragged indoors on the shoes of passersby these germs become a menace to the members of the household and especially to the little children who play around on the floor.

"Every victim of a cold who kisses another person squarely on the mouth, implants the germs of his ailment in the most favorable spot for their speedy growth. Every sufferer from a cold in the head, or throat, or coughter, who shares his towel or wash cloth or his drinking cup with the other members of the family or with his friends at the office or at school, simply serves as a germ distributor.

"The best way to protect yourself against the common cold is to strengthen your powers of resistance. Keep yourself as physically fit as possible. Eat plenty of nourishing food, but don't over eat. Take some exercise out of doors every day. Get plenty of sleep. Drink from five to six glasses of water throughout the day, every day. Dress according to the weather. Always wash your hands before eating.

"If you take a cold, have some thought for the other fellow. Cover your mouth with your hand, or better still with your handkerchief when you cough; sneeze into your handkerchief, spit into a sputum cup or a paper handkerchief and destroy the cup or the handkerchief afterwards. Even a very small child can get into the habit of using a paper handkerchief when he has a cold. A small paper bag placed beside your bed or kept in your pocket will serve as a safe container for the germ laden handkerchiefs and can be destroyed with them."

"WHAT IS WRONG WITH THE FAMILY?" DISCUSSED HERE

David Goldstein Lectures on Divorce Evil Before K. of C.

There is nothing wrong with the origin, form and function of the family, for it was designed by Almighty God, whose designs are perfect," said David Goldstein, of Boston, in his address Tuesday night in the Maryland Theatre under the auspices of the Oakland Council of the Knights of Columbus. "The wrong lies in irreligion, in marriages that take place upon the basis of mere sex tondness, in the animalistic standards that disgrace family life, cause the increase in the number of broken homes and thus weaken the moral fibre of America."

Mr. Goldstein's lecture was entitled, "What is Wrong With the Family?" and was, as previously announced, entirely original in manner and form of presentation. It was interesting, entertaining and instructive.

Before presenting the different views of marriage and divorce Mr. Goldstein set forth two standards by which the family, its origin and purpose should be studied,—the spiritual and the material, the Christian and the neopogon standard.

Proceeding he said, "The Knights of Columbus being founded on Christian principles, being composed of men who are Christians, having as their object the furtherance of the welfare of Christian civilization, look upon the origin, the function, the right and the duty of the family, and the wrong now made manifest, from a religious view point."

"Opposed to this divine standard we find upholders of a materialistic, animalistic standard applied to the origin and the obligation of the family unit. This standard is making headway thru secular colleges and universities and in radical circles by being set forth as rationalistic, as scientific. As a matter of fact it is a standard based upon a mechanistic theory of the origin of the family that is as far from being scientific as was the so-called scientific theory of spontaneous generation which Louis Pasteur smashed to smithereens, after a century of brazen assumption that it had dethroned God."

The lecturer spoke of the number of persons appearing on the public platform who spread vile doctrines among men and women and even among the youth. He did not charge these men and women with the deliberate intention of degrading the human race by their attack upon family life, but he held that such intelligensia are so steeped in the perversity of their animalistic cult that they do not appear to realize the enormity of their attack upon the sixth commandment.

He then flayed the teachings of the Bertrand Russells, ex-Judge Lindsay and the doctrinaire Socialists who misdirect the minds and poison the hearts of men, women and children. Mr. Goldsetin presented quotations from these writers and speakers to prove his contention. He held that the ideal land for their animalistic concept of family relationship is Soviet Russia—"the land of Socialism applied. There the dictators of the Proletoriat have carried out the vicious principle of atemptting to cure sex disorder with more sex disorder. Their birth control, unregistered marriage and divorce by mutual consent and abortion have been organized.

Mr. Goldstein then dwelt on the divorce evil in our own country, which he said has been and is increasing year by year at a greater pace than the increase in our population, until today we grant more divorces per hundred thousand population than any country in the world, save Russia."

After telling the vital part that the Christian concept of the origin and obligations of the family and its principle of the indissolubility of the marriage unit played in leading him from Socialism into the Catholic church, the lecturer continued: "My view is that more and more as despair and disaster follow upon the breaking and degredation of the marriage bond, decent minded men and women will look and marvel that the Catholic church stands like a Rock of Gibraltar against breaking the bonds that God hath bound together."

After answering the question, "What Is Wrong With the Family?" Mr. Goldstein spoke of the Holy Family of Nazareth—Joseph, Mary and the Divine Child Jesus—as the model of authority and integrity of family life. He concluded by saying that "the Knights of Columbus, every one of them, stand for the Christ ideal for marriage as a life union. The Knights of Columbus—700,000 of them, with a divorced man in the land in America as a bulwark in defense of the State by their determination to maintain the integrity and the purity of the family units that compose the State. The Knights of Columbus appeal to their fellow Americans to help make America a better and a holier place to live in by living a better family life."

Unless Something Is Done Speedily, Former Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, Avers, Our Forests, Once Covering 822,000,000 Acres, Will Be Entirely Devastated.

Mr. Benj. H. Sincell, Editor,
The Republican,
Oakland, Maryland.

Dear Mr. Sincell:—For the last decade and more the essential fact about the forest situation in America has been winked at or overlooked in most public discussions of the subject. This fact is that our forests are disappearing at a rate that involves most serious danger to the future prosperity of our country, and that little or nothing that counts is being done about it.

Out of 822,000,000 acres of virgin forest, only about one-eighth remains. Half of that remaining eighth, roughly speakng, is held by the Government and is safe from devastation. The rest is being cut and burned with terrible speed. And there is nowhere in the world anything like a sufficient supply of the kinds of timber we use to take the place of what we have destroyed.

The foregoing statement is taken from the introduction to a pamphlet by Major George P. Ahern, entitled "Devastated America," which I am sending you under separate cover. Major Ahern establish the Philippine Forest Service, organized the protection and utilization of forty million acres of public timberlands, and not only laid the basis for a perpetual succession of timber crops, but earned cash enough to pay all the expenses of administration, all the expenses of the Philippine Forest School (which he founded), and four million dollars to boot for the public treasury.

This outstanding success in forest conservation in the Philippines was built on Government control of lumbering. That is and has always been the foundation of such successes thruout the world. And thruout the world the right of the Government to exercise such control in the public interest is recognized. Forest devastation in the United States can not be stopped without it.

Forest fires are steadily growing worse in America, and fire prevention is absolutely indispensable. But the axe, carelessly used is the mother of forest fires. The axe and not the fire is our greatest danger. Until the axe is controlled there can be no solution of the fire problem, or of the problem of forest devastation.

Over the National Forests, which cover one-fifth of our ultimate possible timber-growing area, we have established Government control of the axe. These forests are safe, they are well handled, and they will produce larger and larger crops of timber as time goes on. Over the other four-fifths of our forest land the axe holds unregulated sway.

Either we must control the axe on these privately owned lands or the forests that are left will follow the road of those that are gone already.

The lumber industry is spending millions of dollars on propaganda in the effort to forstall or delay the public control of lumbering, which is the only measure capable of putting an end to forest devastation in America. It is trying to fool the American people into believing that the industry is regulating itself and has given up the practice of forest devastation. That is not true, and Major Ahern has proved it beyond question in his most valuable paper. We are still reaping the wind and the whirlwind is not far off.

Sincerely yours,
GIFFORD PINCHOT.

Milford, Pa., December 13, 1928.

GOOD HEALTH WORK HAS BEEN DONE IN CECIL CO.

Follow Up Treatment Has Had Good Results Among Children

The Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health has been reviewing the results of the health examinations that were made during the summer of young children who were getting ready to enter school and attention has been directed wherever there has been outstanding need for follow up medical advice or care.

One of the first counties to report on its follow up work was Cecil in which out of the total prospective first graders examined, 84 were found who had some unfavorable physical condition and were in need of follow up care. A recent report from the public health nurse in the county shows that practically all of these children have been visited in their homes and the parents interviewed and the necessary care has been arranged for. Over half of the children—52—had enlarged tonsils; 21 have had the necessary operation for their removal performed; others will be operated on later.

Commenting on the promptness with which the necessary care was secured for these children, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, said: "The purpose of the health examinations of children is two-fold: first, to find out conditions that need correction, and second, to urge the parents to do something about it. When the children are examined, special attention is paid to conditions indicating undernourishment; to the throat and nose; to the sight and hearing; to posture; to the teeth, and to the general health. Prompt follow up care will help to clear up unfavorable conditions and to protect the children from physical handicaps and from conditions that open the way for disease."

Regional Health Conferences.

A series of monthly health conferences in different parts of the State, for health officers, public health nurses, and others interested in health activities, has been arranged by Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health. The first meeting of the series was held on December 7 at Upper Marlboro and was participated in by representatives of health organizations in Prince George, Anne Arundel, Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's counties. The other conferences will be held as follows:

December 14, at the Health Center at Havre de Grace, for Harford and Cecil counties.

January (date and place to be announced) for Dorchester, Caroline, Queen Anne, Kent and Talbot counties.

March, (date to be announced) in Frederick, for Washington, Montgomery and Frederick counties.

Youth Will Be Served

By MARIE MARSH

(Copyright.)

"GOSH!" said Mrs. Gleason, pushing her small feet painfully into smaller dancing slippers. "Excuse me, Tom, for saying 'gosh,' but honestly I'd rather scrub floors than to go to that dance."

Tom Gleason looked sympathetically from his post before the chiffonier, where he was struggling with the studs of his evening shirt. "I suppose we've got to go."

"Oh, I suppose so," said the young wife, now carefully brushing the collar of Tom's evening coat as it lay on the bed. "Housework and the twins are nothing to compare with what I have to undergo for that 'younger set.' I promised to chaperon them. Grace Hayes will meet us at the clubhouse and will be back for the night. Your brother, I suppose, will be there and he'll want the other spare room. I thought once we'd pull off a match with them—"

"Them," echoed Tom sneeringly. "They're just like the rest of the younger set. Crazy for excitement—they'll never settle down and have real happiness the way we did."

So the Gleasons, clad in their best, went to the dance at the country club, leaving the slumbering twins in the custodianship of the maid of all work, who also slumbered in her room.

An hour later Jim Gleason tried the front door of the Gleason suburban home, found it locked and made an unceremonious entrance through a partly open front window. He found a pair of slippers and a smoking jacket of his brother's in a downstairs hall closet. A foraging expedition in the kitchen resulted in some crullers of his sister-in-law's baking and some apples. He filled his pipe with his brother's tobacco, poked the embers, threw on a fresh log and sat down to enjoy all the comforts of home.

At 10:30 he heard a knock at the front door and opened it to see Grace Hayes, in day clothes with an overnight bag in her hand.

"I thought you'd be at the dance," she said.

"No," drawled James. "I can't stand the pace. I said I might come, but it was only for an excuse to spend the night here. How those married people want to gad about as they do I can't see. With a home like this—have a coolier and an apple," he interrupted. "Gee, if I had a little house like this and a wife, believe me, I'd stay at home! But then we're different."

Grace looked wistfully into the fire. "I know," she said. "Girls are different now—more serious."

There was a long and rather painful pause. Then James Gleason bent toward Grace, who was sitting up straight in her chair. "Grace, won't you marry me?"

"No," Grace said, still very wistful. "I think I would marry you if I married anyone, Jimmy, but I'm afraid of marriage. It seems to change people so. I'm afraid that once I was married I'd be like your sister-in-law. And you might change about and be as mad about dancing and excitement as Tom."

Then one or two of the twins walked out from the floor above, and Grace, with James in her wake, fled to the nursery. They were busy executing requests for drinks of water when Tom and Mabel let themselves in the front door below.

"Well, we're back again to home, sweet home," said Tom.

James and Grace went noiselessly down to the landing where they could see them. Then Tom leaned toward Mabel and took her hand in his. "There's nothing like it, is there, little wife?" he said. "More than ever, I can't understand the point of view of the younger set. There's my brother, Jim, could marry any day he wanted to."

"And there's Grace," continued Mabel. "She's independent herself. She wouldn't have to wait for a man to support her."

"I guess they are different. They don't know the meaning of home. Here we went over to that dance on purpose to get them together, and they didn't even come. I suppose something more exciting kept them both."

There would have been more of this sort of thing between the Gleasons if Grace had not missed a step on the stairway. She gave a very little scream and clung to Jim. The Gleasons hurried to the hall and snapped on the electric light that showed Grace being upheld with unnecessary tenacity by Jim.

"We didn't mean to overhear you," said Grace.

"We heard all we needed," Jim laughed. "We heard enough to know that you and Tom are home folks, after all. Somehow I think that what we heard is going to make a big difference in our lives."

Perhaps they whispered something or perhaps they said it aloud or perhaps they understood each other just by an exchange of glances. No one of the quartette just remembered how it happened later. But there on the landing Grace told Mabel and Jim told his brother Tom, and there were general congratulations and a few tears, and Tom and Jim [illegible] Mabel kissed Grace and then [illegible] her brother and kissed Jim, and it was not much later that [illegible] had no intention of [illegible]

Lesson for December 30

REVIEW—PAUL, THE WORLD CHRISTIAN

GOLDEN TEXT—For me to live is Christ.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories of Paul.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Paul's Life Teaches Us.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Secret of Paul's Greatness.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Life and Achievements of Paul.

Two methods of review are suggested.

1. The application of the principles to modern everyday life. This can only be applied to adult classes. Assign a week ahead the task of finding in each lesson a vital application to the current interests of life. The following are offered as examples:

Lesson 1. The bearing of Christian doctrine upon magical arts.

Lesson 2. How to love everybody.

Lesson 3. The standard of Christian giving.

Lesson 4. The measure of pastoral responsibility.

Lesson 5. How to overcome the drink habit.

Lesson 6. Brotherhood in Christ the way to abolish war.

Lesson 7. The civil rights of a Christian.

Lesson 8. Prayer, the index of the genuineness of the Christian's life.

2. Make a summary of the facts of each lesson and study the leading teaching thereof.

Lesson for October 7. Paul boldly preached the gospel at Ephesus in the synagogue and in the school of Tyrannus. God accompanied his preaching with miraculous deeds.

Lesson for October 14. The infallible test which determines the reality of spiritual gifts is one's conception of and attitude toward Jesus Christ. The best of the Spirit's gifts is love, within the reach of all.

Lesson for October 21. The source of Christian generosity is the grace of God. God's gifts are reckoned by the degree of willingness.

Lesson for October 28. Paul, knowing that false teachers would arise in the church at Ephesus, called the elders of the church together that he might instruct them how to meet the difficulty. The ground of the charge he gave them was that the church had been purchased with the blood of Jesus Christ.

Lesson for November 4. The believer in Christ is a citizen as well as a Christian, loyal to the state as well as to the church.

Lesson for November 11. The believer is in the world but not of the world. He sustains a relationship to God which is absolute devotion to Him, a relationship to his fellow-believer which is genuine love, and a relation to the unbeliever which is to do good for evil, live honestly before them and be at peace with them.

Lesson for November 18. In order to remove prejudice from the mind of the Jews, when Paul went to Jerusalem he took a Jewish vow.

Lesson for November 25. Paul's prayer life explains the power and efficiency of his ministry.

Lesson for December 2. Though Paul was brought before powerful rulers, he not only defended himself against the charges, but used the opportunity to witness to them of Jesus Christ, making a personal appeal.

Lesson for December 9. Paul's longing to see the Romans was now about to be realized. After a stormy voyage he was met by the brethren from Rome some forty miles out of the city. Though in the capital city and treated with leniency, he remained under the guard of a soldier. This gave him an opportunity to preach the gospel to the soldiers.

Lesson for December 16. Paul had many real friends. This reveals his humanness, for he who would have friends must show himself friendly. He not only prayed for his friends, but furnished them with letters of introduction when on business errands. He also wrote letters to his friends. One of the most tender and beautiful letters ever written was that of Paul to Philemon, a model of tactfulness and the first antislavery petition ever penned.

Lesson for December 23. As Paul came to the end of his life he presented the true view which a Christian should have concerning death. He presents it under two metaphors; one an offering, and the other a departure. He not only had the right view of death, but he could look backward upon his life with the consciousness of having finished his course, and forward with confidence of an eternal fellowship with God.

The Believer

The believer is the Bible of the street. If he can reveal that he has found a secret, his life is more eloquent than any preaching. For it reaches [illegible] pulpit, but from the levels of their every day. [illegible] is seen difficult and [illegible] is not a man who [illegible] to be a [illegible]

MT. LAKE PARK.

The Christmas entertainment in the M. E. church Sunday evening was a real enjoyable affair to the goodly number present. Each one did his or her part splendidly, reflecting credit upon those who made it possible.

Word has just reached here from headquarters in New York, that the Park is likely to go into the hands of an interdenominational association in the near future. All denominations have been well represented here in the past.

In reply to the letter written the President concerning Mountain Lake Park as an ideal spot for the summer White House by the correspondent of The Republican, the private secretary of the President, wrote a very pleasing letter. Mountain Lake Park and all other sections of the Alleganies are said to be more desirable for summer residences than Florida is for a winter home.

Another leap year is nearing its close and the fair readers of The Republican are reminded to carry no regrets for four years more.

The cantata, "The Echo of a Song," was rendered at the Loch Lynn Baptist church Sunday evening. Its presentation was greatly enjoyed by a large number of persons.

Mrs. Ella Stottlemeyer and family have moved to a farm near Table Rock, where they will make their home in the future.

Mrs. E. A. Richardson, accompanied by her daughter Miss Catherine, of Washington, D. C., are here for a visit during the holidays with Mrs. Richardson's mother.

Rev. 1. M. Middaugh and family are visiting relatives at St. Mary's, West Va.

Niles Falkenstine, University of Maryland student, is here spending the holidays with his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Chance had as their guests on Christmas their children and grandchildren.

Miss Margaret Leighton and Gerald Biggs, both of whom are students at Maryland University, are spending the holiday season here with their respective parents.

Miss Edith Ream, teacher in the schools at Leonardtown, Md., is here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ream, for the holiday season.

Marshall Brown, who is principal of a public school located near Washington, D. C., is spending a few days in the Park with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Brown.

Archie Oswell, Washington, D. C., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Oswell, in the Park.

Miss Kate O'Donnell, who is engaged as a teacher in a Baltimore City school, is here for the week as a guest of her mother and sister.

GRANTSVILLE.

CLEO MARCELLI DURST

Cleo Marcelli Durst, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Durst, of near Grantsville, died Friday night at ten o'clock, after an illness of two weeks of measles and pneumonia. She was in her 16th year and was a freshman in the Grantsville High School. She is survived by her parents and by three brothers, Sylvian, of Frostburg; Dallas and Wayne, at home. The funeral services were held in the New Germany Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday afternoon, Rev. J. E. Johnson officiating. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining.

Community Christmas Tree.

Christmas Eve of this year brought more than its usual treat and enjoyment for the children and in reality for the grown-ups of Grantsville and vicinity, owing to the generosity of the American Legion. A large and handsomely decorated community Christmas tree was erected on the spacious lawn so generously donated for the purpose by former Mayor Wm. Winterberg.

The American Legion Drum Corps of Salisbury, brilliantly arrayed in their new uniforms of scarlet and blue, furnished the music for the occasion. As the uniformed body marched thru the town they were appropriately led by Santa Claus himself, who was accompnnied by Santa Claus, Jr.

The drum corps formed near the tree and rendered a number of selections while the little tots from far nnd near gathered around the tree and stood in awed silence awaiting the greetings of good old Saint Nick.

When the music ceased Santa Claus called all the children to him and gave each one a generous Christmas treat and then introduced them to Santa, Junior, who shook hands with each one and told them how glad he was to meet them.

CHRISTMAS GIFT, UNCLE SAM!

It's a big house, combination of city house and farm house, bungalow and old brick mansion, log cabin and marble front. It has a great chimney through which prayers of a nation may be whispered up to Santa Claus. But since the prayer is a national one and Uncle Sam alone may grant it, Santa Claus takes on the guise of Uncle Sam.

The country likes to think of Uncle Sam as a kindhearted old fellow anyhow, listening to his children and anxious to please. So to Uncle Sam goes the plea: "Uncle Sam, I want a Christmas present, a real one. I want it for myself, I want it for the nation. I want it for my country—the world. Uncle Snm, are you listening?"

"I am listening. I am always listening. I listen more closely than ever now. It is Congrss time."

"But it is Christmas time, too. I want——"

"What?" Uncle Sam is snappish.

"I want the Kellogg treaty, ratified, signed, a real thing, a peace pact given to the world."----

That is what the American people nre saying. This comes from log cabin, marble front. What a Christmas present the ratified and signed treaty would be! From Uncle Sam to America, to the world!

And it could be given so easily! The signing of a paper. No money spent for it, but money saved—this year, next year, and years and years to come. The beginning of colossal saving--for why spend money for battleships and amunition when Uncle Sam has agreed with the rest of the world to settle international difficulties without resource to war. Uncle Sam might well say, "Here is the gift. It is Christ time, it is peace time. Here is this gift for PEACE."

And he might remember that when the Prince of Peace was born some nineteen hundred years ago the world was still and quiet—under armed peace, Rome ruled the world and held it hy force of arms. Her soldiers and her ships had conquered all the known world and had ventured still conquering, into what had not been known.

It was all Rome's—by force. That peace by force was soon broken. The great empire broke like glass into slithering bits. It was the proof to all ages that peace by force cannot be kept.

Now comes the era when the peace of PEACE is prayed for. It will be the peace of brotherhood and good will. Uncle Sam, it waits upon your signing this peace treaty. Christmas gift, Uncle Sam, Christmas gift!

Christmas Seals Help Finance 261 Free Chest Clinics

The twenty-first annual sale of Christmas Seals, which is being conducted throughout the State, by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated branches, again gives an opportunity to the people of the counties to assist in the continuance of the free chest clinics, which have been conducted for five years.

It is interesting to note from the report of the Medical Director of the State Association, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1928, that 261 chest clinics were held during the year and that 3334 examinations were made. The number of manifest cases of Tuberculosis found was 1300. Four hundred and twenty-one active cases of Tuberculosis were disclosed.

Seven hundred practicing physicians in the state either attended or referred cases for diagnosis.

The clinics are rendering a distinct service to the people of this state, who are unable to pay for a consultant's examination. Known cases of Tuberculosis, suspects and contacts are examined when referred by physicians for corroboration of diagnosis, resulting in the recommendation of many early cases for sanatorium treatment. Families are advised as to the proper home care and prophylactic measures in general, which is conducive to their own protection as well as that of the public.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 52. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, JANUARY 3, 1929. NUMBER 46.

REPRISALS MAY RESULT FROMORGANIZATIONFIGHT

Lee's Election Brings Threats—Delegates Attack Gov. Ritchie And His Administration

State House, Annapolis, Md., Jan. 2.—With stormy sessions showing bitter factional strife within the Democratic House ranks, the 1929 biennial meeting of the Maryland General Assembly convened today, organized, heard Governor Ritchie's message and then adjourned until next Tuesday night, without further action.

But the action of organizing the House furnished the fireworks, and forecast further dissention in the legislation to come. E. Brooke Lee, delegate from Montgomery county, selected by the Democratic caucus, minus members of the recalcitrant bloc, on Tuesday night, was elected speaker by a vote of 67 to the 14 cast for Daniel Joseph of Baltimore City. J. Allison Wilmer, of Charles county, choice of the Republican caucus, received the full 35 votes from his party.

Gunter Floor Leader in Senate

While the fight on Mr. Lee's election was going on in the House, applause from across the hall told of the peaceful organization of the upper house, electing David G. McIntosh, of Baltimore county, president. The selection was made unanimous on motion of William A. Gunter, Allegany county Republican, his party's choice for the office. He automatically becomes floor leader of the minority party in the senate by the action of the caucus.

Following the organization in the House, Mr. Lee called for suggestions for committee selections and brought out a resolution to enlarge the committee of grand inquest from nine to thirteen members. This committee investigates any and all matters that are placed before it.

Precedent Broken.

The fight on Mr. Lee's selection as speaker brought bitter exchanges between his backers and opponents and ended in breaking a precedent which has stood since 1804, when a roll call vote was sought and obtained on the speakership.

Attack Ritchie Administration

Mr. Osborne and Mr. Lawder, Democratic members from Harford county, attacked the administration of Governor Ritchie and hinted at further investigations of state departments, resolutions for which he intimated, might be submitted later in the session. Mr. Lawder attacked the State Roads Commission and other scandals and declared that the people of the state were not yet satisfied with the inquiry into that body which has recently been concluded. He was answered in heated terms by Mr. Edmunds, who charged that the strife being manifest was the result of trouble in the ranks of the Democratic party in Baltimore City.

Mr. Joseph and Mr. Lee then each took the floor in defense of their candidacy and Mr. Joseph called for the secret ballot, which he said had been in force since the session of 1804. Backers of Mr. Lee demanded the roll call vote and a roll call was forced on that demand, it passing by a vote of 68 to 48.

Following the vote on the speakership, Mr. Lee was sworn in as speaker and the meeting was recessed, but not without threats of future action by the group of insurgents in coming legislation.

Both houses met in joint session at 3:30 and heard Governor Ritchie read his message, in which he reviewed the progress of the state during the last ten years, since he first took office and embodying recommendations for legislation. Included in this legislation which he recommended were funds for the construction of the first unit of a state prison, appropriation of $930,000 for construction work in conjunction with the University of Maryland, and other public building requiring many other thousands of dollars..

Governor Ritchie also touched on the State Roads scandal and the retirement fund for teachers, which he said prevented the lowering of the state tax rate for the coming two years.

Mr. Peter P. Gortner, father of County Commissioner Harvey Gortner, was stricken with paralysis on Monday afternoon when engaged in doing some work at his barn near Gortner. His entire right side is involved and his condition this morning is such as to cause grave concern to his family and friends.

TO DISCUSS IMPROVEMENT IN MAPLE SUGARINDUSTRY

Postponed Meeting Being Held Today at County Agent's Office

F. B. Trenk, forestry specialist, and Dr. F. Bomberger, marketing specialist, University of Maryland, are in Oakland today at the County Agent's office, Court House, discussing the probability of establishing a maple sugar and maple syrup refining plant in this county. The meeting was to have been held on December 21, but due to the illness of interested parties it was postponed.

Data concerning the industry in Vermont and information on equipment needed in a standard plant and the best methods of producing the sugar and syrup are available. The recent survey of conditions in Vermont, made by these two specialists, was undertaken with the end in view that Garrett county sugar and syrup producers would be able to realize more money from their products. In the absence of J. L. McGlone, former county agent, H. C. Buckingham, district forester, will be in charge of the local details incident to the maple sugar and syrup project.

NOISE WELCOMES ARRIVAL OF NEW YEAR IN OAKLAND

Postoffice Closes But Banks and Business Establishments Remain Open for Business

The usual noisy greeting welcomed the New Year at midnight Monday with bells, whistles and the firing of guns adding to the din, with a few "Happy New Years" thrown in for good measure. The ovation was short lived, however, as it subsided almost as suddenly as it started.

The occasion was observed by a few with watch night parties in homes but no general or public festivity was arranged. There was a somewhat restricted observance of the day of Tuesday, when the postoffice and one or two stores were closed, but the banks and other business establishments remained open for business.

Many of the business establishments took advantage of the holiday to get the annual inventories under way while others retained the old tradition of starting the new year right by operating all day.

One of the noticeable features of the arrival of the new year is the fact that 1928 automobile license plates disappeared from the streets and in their place the new 1929 plates appeared. No notice of an extension of time has been received here and although officers are non-committal as to whether arrests would be made, it is not considered likely that any attempt will be made to enforce the law for a few days.

Approximately 135,000 Maryland motorists, mostly Baltimoreans, were without their 1929 automobile license plates on Monday night. The office of the Commissioner of motor vehicles was beseiged by the largest crowd in its history.

Mr. H. A. Loraditch To Carry On Insurance Business.

In making the transfer of his automobile business to Messrs. Charles U. and Harry C. Edwards, known as the Oakland Garage, but now operating under the name of Edwards' Chevrolet Sales, Mr. H. A. Loraditch will remain as a resident of Oakland and will be engaged in settling up his matters connected with his automobile business, disposing of cars which he now has on hand, and in selling life and fire insurance. Mr. Loraditch will make a formal announcement through The Republican next Thursday in which he will state what his activities will be and ask for a continuance of patronage to his successors.

Everybody Being Good.

Whether or not the old adage "a lull before a storm," will be carried out in Oakland, is a matter now confronting Sheriff W. D. Casteel and other officers of the law. Sheriff Casteel says that so far as he knows there has not been an arrest made in more than two weeks.

"Everything is exceptionally quiet and everybody seems to be behaving," the Sheriff said. "But you can never tell just how long it is going to last. There's liable to be some shootin' and cuttin' 'most any minute."

OAKLAND FIRE COMPANY RESPONDED TO 28 ALARMS

Efficiency and Equipment of the Volunteer Fire Fighters Has IncreasedDuring Past Year

Twenty-eight calls have been responded to by members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department since January 12, 1928, and in all instances where the alarm was turned in as soon as the fire was discovered, the flames were extinguished in the minimum amount of time, it has been found by an examination of The Republican files of last year.

Approximately 95 per cent of the fires were fought by the use of the chemical apparatus. In many cases an ample supply of water was not available, especially at Mountain Lake Park, to which point the department was called upon several occasions and chemicals were almost exclusively used there.

Ten calls were answered from Oakland residents and with the exception of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Feather, the fires were extinguished without much damage. Four calls from Crellin were answered, four from Mountain Lake Park and two from Terra Alta, W. Va.

In four instances buildings were entirely consumed, all of them out of town. These were Rock Lodge, Mt. Lake Park planing mill, a small building at Crellin and a dwelling at Blisstown, just west of Crellin, and all were too far beyond control before the alarm was turned in.

During the past year about $500 worth of new equipment, consisting of helmets, raincoats, nozzles, hose, masks, electric lanterns, etc., has been added, so that today, according to Fire Chief George Kerins, there is not an emergency that cannot be met by the volunteer department.

In addition to minor alarms, the fire company responded to the following:

Automobile of Albert Lee, January 22, damage slight.

Fence and grape arbor in rear of Grover Stemple's residence, Oakland, April 6, damage slight.

One dwelling destroyed and three others damaged at Blisstown, west of Crellin, April 26. Loss $1,500.

Rock Lodge, 12 miles north of Oakland. Loss $10,000. This fire occurred April 27.

Six forest fires during April and May. Loss small.

Cinder fill at Swanton, June 2. No damage.

Feright house at Crellin, June 8. Slight damage.

Mountain Lake Planing mill, June 30. Loss $8,500.

July 30, Dodge's Meat Market, Terra Alta, record run made; little loss. Run made to same place week preceding.

Store of Bryson Gibson, Mountain Lake Park, August 9. Slight loss.

Outbuilding on property of H. P. Stuck, Oakland, September 8. Loss small.

The home of Miss Kate Lee, Mountain Lake Park, September 28. The property was considerably damaged.

Barber shop of Arthur Warnick, at Crellin, October 10. Destroyed. Loss $200.

Garage on J. L. Pollock property, Oakland, October 18. No resultant loss.

Home of Steven Sanders, Crellin, December 2. Damage slight.

December 3, Auto Electric, Oakland. No damage.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Feather, near Oakland. Loss $1,500.

Home of A. L. Lawton, Oakland. Slight damage.

Allenhurst Hotel, Mountain Lake Park, December 13. Slight damage to roof.

Home of Mrs. D. E. Offutt, Oakland, December 26, Damage to basement slight.

Officers of the Department.

Officers of the department, who were elected at the last meeting of the organization, are: Fred. Peddicord, president; Alva Gortner, vice-president; H. P. Stuck, secretary; W. W. Dawson, treasurer; George Kerins, chief; Emroy Bolden, assistant chief; Grover Stemple and Milton Sincell, captains.

Mrs. Joseph Martin, of near Gortner, was taken to a Cumberland hospital Monday where she was operated upon immediately following her admission to the institution. Mrs. Martin had suffered a slight injury to her hand about two weeks ago when a needle punctured it. Blood poisoning later developed. Her condition was very bad last night, according to reports from the hospital.

MANY STREETS IMPROVED LAST YEAR BY COUNCIL

Resume of Accomplishments of City Government Taken From Files of The Republican

The permanent improvement of a number of Oakland's streets, erection of three traffic signals at dangerous corners, the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the solicitation of people desiring to obtain marriage licenses here, and a general interest in other civic improvements, are only a few of the accomplishments of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland during the past year, a search of The Republican files reveals. The most important street improvement was made on Alder street between third and fourth streets, which had long been an eyesore to the town.

Including this year's repairs, 75 per cent of the town's streets are now permanently built, and it is the hope of the present administration that in a few more years every street will be permanently constructed. The first permanent street was built 27 years ago.

Electric Signals Erected

Three electric traffic signals were erected by the Town council during the year, all of them at dangerous corners and a way was provided during clean-up week for citizens to get rid of all trash at the city's expense.

All of the streets already improved were resurfaced and oiled during the spring of the year. Other improvements were made on Pennington between First and Second. Third street from railroad bridge to Little Youghiogheny river bridge, Center street leading up to and fronting the local creamery, Liberty street from First street to edge of town, and the street at East Oakland was well cindered. Curbstones along the main streets of town were repaired and replaced, and many other minor repairs made thruout the entire city.

Oakland Established in 1861.

Oakland, established 1861, with a population of 100, has grown consistently during the past ten years and now has a population of approximately 2,000, all modern conveniences, ample fire protection, splendid water and sewage system, electric and gas service, bus line and railroad facilities, and excellent educational institutions with a growing enrollment.

The growth of Oakland might be illustrated with a few figures. In 1917 the receipts from water accounts was $3,439.83. In 1927 they were $10,678.54. In 1917 tax receipts were $5,819.55 and in 1927 they amounted to $18,100.04. The assessment basis on March 1, 1917 was $1,077,967, and on March 1, 1928 this had increased to $1,687,884. The town assets were valued at $54,253.99 on March 1, 1917 and at the same time in 1928 they were valued at $152,721.64.

Lawrence Fraley is mayor at present and the following make up the Council: Delbert Davis, president; J. W. Whorton, Grover Stemple, Ralph Thaver, Samuel Aronhalt, and Jesse Ashby; A. G. Ross, city clerk; W. R. Offutt, city attorney; James O. Hinebaugh, tax collector; and E. 1. West, police magistrate. They all predict greater improvements in 1929.

Miss Janet Tower returned from Cumberland Friday where she had gone to attend the Lafayette dance. She was accompanied home by Miss Elizabeth Baird, Mr. Paul Dubbs and Mr. John Wentz.

OHIO WOMAN IS KILLED ON PUZZLEY RUN GRADE

Mrs. Bernard Brown Receives Broken Neck When Car Skids

Mrs. Bernard Brown, 30 years old, of Alpha Ohio, near Dayton, was instantly killed at 9 o'clock Saturday morning when a Chevrolet sedan in which she was riding skidded on the slippery road on the west side of Negro Mountain, near Puzzley Run bridge, this county. The other occupants of the car, her husband and five children received cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Brown's neck was broken, it was stated. The child she held in her lap was uninjured. The family was on its way home from Gainesboro, Va., where Christmas had been spent with Mrs. Brown's father, Mr. James Emory.

She is survived by her husband, two daughters and three sons, her father and two sisters. The body was removed to William Winterberg's mortuary, Grantsville, where it was prepared for burial. It was sent to Gainesboro, Va., by Mr. Winterberg on Sunday morning, and was accompanied by her husband and children, where the funeral was held on Monday.

J. L. McGlone, who recently resigned as County Agent of Garrett county, left this morning for Pittsburgh, Pa., where he will affiliate with the Liberty Dairy Products Corporation. He will be in charge of the department of production of certified milk and will have under his supervision the farms and barns near the city from which the corporation draws its supply of milk. Mr. McGlone has been a resident of this county for upwards of two years.

In a letter to the editor of The Republican, under this morning's date, he says:

"I hope that you will allow me a few lines in your paper to extend to all those with whom I have come in contact as County Agent, my very best wishes.

"I also wish to take this opportunity to say that I have enjoyed my work while County Agent here and greatly appreciate the cooperation of your newspaper, the business men, farmers and all others with whom I have worked.

"In concluding, I certainly hope that my successor will be given the same cooperation by my many friends as they have given me.

"Wishing you all a very Happy New Year, I remain,

"Very truly yours,

"J. L. M'GLONE."

No successor to Mr. McGlone has been named as yet, it has been stated. Dr. T. B. Symonds, director of the Extension Service, University of Maryland, will choose the new county agent in the near future.

Wins Cash Prize in Contest.

Richard Hesse, of Oakland, is one of the cash prize winners in the cream contest for Blue Valley boys and girls which came to a close recently. Approximately five thousand boys and girls in seventeen states took part in the contest, and among these, 1801 cash prizes were distributed. The grand prize went to Elizabeth K. Evans, 11 years old, a farm girl of Watertown, S. Dakota.

1,236 MARRIAGE LICENSES WERE ISSUED LAST YEAR BY LOCAL OFFICIALS; NUMBER LESS THAN IN 1927

Couples Apply From All Neighboring States—Biggest Months Of Year Were in Summertime

An average of more than 100 marriage licenses each month, and more than three each day, was the record made during the past year at the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court, when a total of 1236 permits were granted to couples from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, and a few scattered states.

This number was 64 less than the total for 1927 when the all-time record of 1300 licenses were issued. The record previous to 1927 was made in 1925 when 1160 permits were granted.

During three of the months of the year just closed new records were made in the number of licenses issued, while two other months just missed last year's figures by one. June and August were the biggest months of the year when 149 and 148 permits were issued.

Following is a table showing the number issued each month during 1928:

BILL TO RAISE MONEY FOR SCHOOLS PROPOSED

Copies of Act Authorizing Loan of $150,000 for School Buildings, Sent to Assemblymen

Copies of a proposed bill authorizing a loan of $150,000 for school buildings for the county and recommended by the County Board of Education of Garrett County, have been received by Senator A. D. Naylor, Delegates Arthur Lawton, Albert Markley and Arthur Green, during the past few days, with the request that it be passed by the General Assembly of Maryland, 1929.

The bill is recommended for passage under the provisions of the Referendum whereby it will be up to the people of the couty whether the bill, if passed, shall come before them at the next election.

Copy of The Bill

AN ACT to empower and direct the County Commissioners of Garrett County to borrow money on the credit of said County for the purpose of erecting public school buildings in the county of Garrett, and heating, furnishing and equiping the same, and to purchase or condemn real estate for the erection of the same, and for the purpose of repairing and heating public school buildings in said County and to issue bonds for the payment of said money, and to levy taxes upon the assessable property of said County to redeem such bonds and to pay interest thereon.

RETURNS FROM SEAL SALE ARE BELOW LAST YEAR'S

Peopie Are Asked to Send in Either Money or Unused Seals

Returns from the sale of tuberculosis seals in Garrett county are below the returns of last year, up to this time, according to Mrs. C. Milton Sincell, chairman, but there are many to whom seals were mailed prior to Christmas who have not yet replied or sent in their checks. Returns to date total $141.93, as compared with $183.94 for the same period last year.

"Christmas is a busy season," Mrs. Sincell said. "and we feel sure that some of those to whom we sent seals early in December have not yet found time to reply. Just now we are making a final check-up, as we are required to account early in the year for all seals sent out.

"We shall be deeply grateful if the unused seals are returned or the money for them sent in, because the 1929 program of tuberculosis prevention and relief is a big one, and we want all to have proper credit on our records for any assistance made. Help put Garrett county over the top."

The campaign just closed has been carried on for twenty-one years and the world has been asked to buy the seals so that the unceasing fight against tuberculosis may be unrelentingly continued until the disease is stamped out in the human race.

Wins Cup for Biggest Fish

William Glotfelty, Oakland, fisherman deluxe, is in receipt of a silver loving cup, presented to him by the Baltimore Sun for landing the largest brook trout in the State of Maryland during 1928.

Mr. Glotfelty's catch weighed three pounds, nine and one-half ounces and was 19½ inches long. The trout was caught in Deep Creek Lake.

Loving cups similar to the one received are given away each year, Mr. Glotfelty said. A much larger cup is given if the same person wins three years in succession, and this now seems to be the aim of the Garrett county prize winner.

Many Ill With Influenza.

Influenza has been credited with putting a number of local people "down for the count" during the past week or two, and doctors have been working over time in an effort to bring the many afflicted ones back to normal. Although the epidemic is not as serious as that of about ten years ago, it is still dangerous and physicians are warning against getting up too soon.

Many who thought they were clear of the disease veutnred from their beds and as a result suffered relapses and a second attack in almost every case has proven to be of a more serious nature than the first. People are advised to be extremely careful when they feel an attack coming on.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for January 6

OUR HEAVENLY FATHER

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:24-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Heavenly Father.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Heavenly Father.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What the Heavenly Father Means to Me
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fatherhood of God.

Half of the lessons for the year 1929 are of a topical character. The aim of the committee seems to have been to place before the Sunday-school pupils some of the great doctrines of God's Word, as well as teachings on practical life.

I. Who Is Our Heavenly Father? (Genesis 1:1, 27).

He is the Almighty God who created the universe. God was before all things. "Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God." The universe came into being by the will and act of the personal being called God. Man himself is a creation of God. He was created in the likeness and image of God. God is the infinite and perfect spirit in whom we live and move and have our being. He is omnipotent, omniscient and omnipresent. He was not only before all things, but the cause of all things.

II. What the Father Does.

1. He loves us (1 John 4:9, 10).

This love was expressed by sending His only begotten Son into the world that we might live through Him. He not only loves the redeemed, but He loves the world (John 3:16). In the very essence of His being God is love (1 John 4:8).

2. He redeemed us (1 John 4:9).

He gave His only begotten Son that we might live through Him.

3. God preserves us (Ps. 103:1-14).

The preserving mercy of God embraces the following gracious beneficial acts:

(1) He forgives all our iniquities (v. 3). This He is able to do because of the righteous provision He made for sin in the atonement wrought out by Jesus Christ.

(2) He healeth all our diseases (v. 3). This healing refers to the body and soul.

(3) He redeemeth the life from destruction (v. 4). Redemption implies the payment of all demands against the debtor.

(4) He satisfieth thy mouth (v. 5). This means that God satisfies all legitimate desires so that youth is renewed like the eagle's.

(5) He executes righteousness and judgment (vv. 6-12). The wrongs of life are righted and man is thus relieved of their burdens.

(6) He pities His children (vv. 13, 14). The pity of an earthly father for his children is but a faint suggestion of the sympathetic heart of the loving God, our Father.

III. Our Responsibility to the Heavenly Father (Matthew 6:24-34).

Christ came to reveal the Father. The subjects of the heavenly kingdom will love Him as the child loves its father.

1. He will give unto him undivided attention (v. 24).

The child of God makes the unequivocal choice between the heavenly Father and the world. The word "mammon" is a kind of personification of worldliness.

2. Will not be anxious about food and clothing (vv. 25-32).

The child of God who knows Him as a Father will not be supremely concerned about what it shall eat or what it shall put on because anxiety is

(1) Useless (v. 27).

Regardless of what thought or concern one exercises concerning food and clothing, it will be provided only according to His will. In Him do we live, move and have our being. God supplies all our needs (Phil. 4:19).

(2) It shows distrust of the Father (vv. 28-30). In the measure that one is anxious about these needs, he shows lack of faith in the love of God.

(3) It is heathenish (v. 32). That those who are ignorant of God should manifest anxiety is not to be wondered at, but for His children, those who know God as the Father, to do so is to play the heathen. He knows that we have need of temporal blessings.

3. Will diligently seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. (vv. 33, 34).

This means that he will subordinate temporal things to the things of the Spirit. It does not mean that a child of God will fail to exercise proper forethought in providing for himself and family.

The Reality of Life

Silence is in truth the attribute of God; and those who seek Him from that side invariably learn that meditation is not the dream, but the reality of life; not its illusion, but its truth; not its weakness but its strength.—Martineau.

God's Promises

God's promises were never meant to ferry our laziness like a boat; they are to be rowed by our oars.—Henry Ward Beecher.

How Nature Appealed to Fashion Designer

"I never saw anything like it! It was wonderful! Such color! I seemed to stand on a wall of taupe, fading away to a dim olive ecru in the distance, while on my left was a cathedral of golden airdale, touched with aloma, antique, and ashes of roses with just a suggestion of bamboo and beaver. And in the distance walls upon walls of bloado, brick-dust, heather and brunette reflected the dying sun in a thousand flats of nutria, gamboge, honeydew and borso-chestnut!

"And always the colors seemed to change and blend. Kit fox faded to wild honey and died away into vandyke; Spanish gold blushed and became tangerine, the sun kissed it and it became sherry deepening into jocky; glowing monkey skin became morning glory, became straw, became nut, became oyster, became pigeon, became popeora and sweetpea, only to blend into a riot of brown sugar and verdigris. Flesh cliffs changed to nude and softened to French nude.

"I tell you it was wonderful. If I don't get a new shade of silk hose out of it I miss my guess!"—Kansas City Times.

Skimpy Apparel Not Popular in Hungary

There is one section of Europe where the short skirt has not penetrated, where the petticoat billows and sways in unchallenged supremacy. In the rural districts of Hungary girls and women wear from eight to a dozen daintily embroidered petticoats, all in different colors, making the wearers appear like Dresden dolls come to life.

Hungarian girls still use woolen stockings and recently, when a local coquette ignored village gossip to the point of wearing silk hose, she was held up to public opprobrium. Petticoats and all dresses are heirlooms as a rule, and are handed down from mother to daughter through generations. Marriage trousseaus are objects of veneration bordering on ancestor worship.

The clothing, together with embroidered linen and plates, go to form the dowries of marriageable daughters.

Recall Days of Drake

When—if ever—the Nicaraguan canal is built and the United States establishes a protective naval base off the Mosquito coast on Little Corn Island, personnel assigned to that station will find a people still talking the English of the days of Good Queen Bess.

They are lineal descendants of the British buccaneers who once made letter-of-mark warfare on the fleets of Spain lumbering up from the south to beat their slow way through Yucatan strait and so into the open seas and eastward ho for Spain.

The two Corn islands, some 60 miles off the Nicaraguan coast, were the extreme southwesterly outpost of the curious double chain of buccaneer settlements flanking on both sides of sea approach to the bottle neck of the strait itself.

A Private Tutor

Helen was five years old and was not old enough to go to school. She was somewhat envious of several neighbor children who started to school this year.

After school in the evenings and on Saturdays Helen had listened to the wonderful accounts of her sophisticated little friends until she felt that she must defend her unlightened preschool age.

"I don't think I shall ever go to school," she volunteered one day. "Daddy knows everything, so I think that I'll just stay at home and let him teach me."

A Cloud for a Lining

It was their first quarrel, and it lasted longer than post-honeymoon squabbles generally do. But finally it was over, and the wife was confiding to a friend. "My dear, it was really terrible while it lasted," she said. "But I'm glad in a sense. See what a splendid present Percy gave me afterward."

Her friend picked up the magnificent evening wrap. "Oh, how gorgeous to have a husband like that!" she cried. "That's a cloud with a silver-fox lining."—Yorkshire Post.

Colonial Badsteads

The turn-up bedstead was popular in New England. "This," writes Alice Morse Earle, "was a strong frame filled with a network of rope, which was fastened at the bed head by hinges to the wall. By night the foot of the bed rested on two heavy legs. By day the frame, with its bed furnishings, was hooked up to the wall and covered with homespun curtains and doors." These beds were in the kitchen, the place chosen because the room was the warmest in the house.

African Tribal Language

One of the greatest difficulties of missionaries in the Sudan lies in the perfect babel of languages existing among its many tribes, a great challenge to the ambitious linguist, as there are no books of any kind among them, and no teachers. Added difficulties are the various intonations of each word, a wrong tone being used often completely changing the meaning of the word. Recently it has been discovered that in one tribe seven different tones are used.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

An Ode to Giving.

The pocketbook is empty
The problem of giving is o'er,
But we'll scrimp and scratch the rest of the year
And do just the same thing as before.

The Strings on the purse are pulled tight,
We really can't afford it, all say.
We resolve to be more economical
And next year just throw it away,

Party Is Big Success.

Keepers of the brass eagle, in other words, the Court house occupants, having kept to their business for such a long period of time, decided to throw a party on New Year's eve that would long be remembered. The party was held in the basement with Oscar Notes presiding. The furnace room was gayly decorated with the court house colors. The banquet table was set for fifteen guests and Oscar. Those present included J. L. McGlone, John Fitzwater, Charles F. White, F. E. Rathbun, E. E. Friend, Charles A. Tower, A. G. Ross, E. Z. Tower, Harvey Gortner, A. L. Lee, George Browning, Walt Meyers, J. C. Renninger, Bill Casteel, Daniel Orendorf and Mr. Notes.

The dinner was truly a stag affair. Talks were made by the following on the following: Prof. Rathbun, "the educational advantages of a well kept furnace room;" Mr. Lee, "Why the eagle should be removed and polished each year;" Mr. McGlone, "economy of elevators;" and Charley Tower on "my rise in the Associated Press."

Col. Bell was called at the proper time to snap the picture and make a permanent record of it, but the smoke was so thick that even his brightest flashlight could not penetrate the fog. However, he remained there long enough to get a picture of the feature of the evening, when Mr. E. Z. Tower appeared as the personification of Father Time. He proceeded around the banquet table but got only as far as the Sheriff's place when Bill confiscated the scythe for his collection of antiques. This broke up the meetnig, and all expressed the wish that it become an annual affair. Exit all.

Modesty in Advertising.

"If you need a good printing job the worst way, have it done by the Lake County publishing company." This didn't come from The Republican but from an ad in a Florida paptr.

The End of the Hunt.

After a hard day's search the hunters assembled one hour after sundown on Monday and swapped tales with each other about what the hunting season had brought forth. Harry Mickey, Jim Painter, Uncle Gum Coddington, Abe Lawton, Deer Bill Browning, Thad Hinebaugh, and all the other nimrods were there, and with much lamenting they promised to be kind to all animals until the hunting season opened next year. In the midst of all the discussion a bear appeared from the brush followed by Browning's pointer and setter. (it points to a corner and then goes and sets in it.) The pointer was too late so the only thing to do was to make up. This he did, and Col. Bell was called to make a snapshot of it so that it would be published far and wide, showing the good sportsmanship in Garrett county.

Friends Until Next Year.

Outdoing Solomon.

Solomon's well known wise-cracks won't have a chance from now on. Here are some that Archibaldson has been working on for some few weeks:

Beauty is often only skin dope.

Give a girl an inch and she will make a dress of it.

Gold Digger's Version—Nobody loves a flat man.

A stitch in time so's your old man.

An honest confession is good for the soul, also for a front page story.

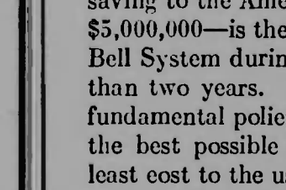
Reductions in LONG DISTANCE RATES

Effective February 1, 1929



IN extending to telephone users the best wishes of the season, the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City desires to announce a further reduction in the day telephone rates to many other cities at distances from 130 to 1500 miles. These changes are effective February 1, 1929.

Thus thousands of cities and towns, already within quick and easy reach by telephone, are reached more economically than ever.

This reduction—which means an annual saving to the American public of more than $5,000,000—is the third to be made by the Bell System during a period of little more than two years. It is in keeping with the fundamental policy of the System to furnish the best possible telephone service at the least cost to the user.

Further announcements giving detailed information will appear shortly.

1928 BANKING

Business in 1928 marched into new high ground. It enters 1929 with a preponderance of favorable factors and should go forward at a satisfactory pace.

The year was one of superlatives. Steel, automobile and construction industries reached new high points. Distribution, including wholesale and retail trade, mail order and chain store sales, set new records. Profits exceeded even the record of 1926. Labor was wisely employed at good wages. Agriculture incomes equalled or exceeded 1927.

Although 1928 saw increases in business failures, tightening of commercial credit and weak spots in coal, textile and petroleum industries, it is safe to assert that as a whole the American people are enjoying a larger measure of prosperity than ever before.

The American banking system gave ample evidence of its fundamental soundness and progressive adapatability to changing conditions. Despite loss of several hundred million dollars of gold through export and great amounts of credit absorbed by stock exchanges, there was an ample supply of credit at reasonable rates for business needs. We not only financed great undertakings in this, country but loaned great amounts for financing foreign projects. The inherent soundness of our Federal Reserve System was ably demonstrated. Courage and resourcefulness of the banks achieved both proper trusteeing of our financial resources and their use in channels which make for the broader distribution of prosperity and of well-being.

There is every justification for reasonable optimism regarding the future, says Craig B. Hazelwood, president of the American Bankers' Association.

GAINS IN EDUCATION

The educational trends and achievements of 1928 provide the only safe basis for a reliable estimate on the educational outlook for 1929. According to this view the unprecedented progress in 1928 becomes the foundation for still greater gain in 1929.

The people as a whole are more than ever before showing confidence and pride in their schools. They turn the cold shoulder to college and foundation presidents who would limit high school and college opportunities to the talented and to the few in order to reduce the costs of edueation. The people are giving enthusiastic support to school authorities through parent-teacher associations and through civic and other organizations. Citizens understand teachers better and teachers understand citizens better.

The provisions in cities and states for retirement allowances for the more adequate teacher-tenure regulations have increased teaching efficiency throughout the nation. The legal and medical professions now place the teaching profession on a par with their own. There is excellent teamwork in the profession.

The conditions which folowed the war created difficult problems in education as well as in business, industry and social life. There is a clear demand for higher stnndards of ethics in every phase of modern nctivity. Teachers, like the other groups, nre working on these problems. There is an effort to create higher standards of scholarship in the schools and to keep them free from partisan or commercial influences. The public will never again allow selfish agencies, patent medicine advertisers or social agitators to invade the schools with their propaganda.

The stage is set for a rapid advance in education. There are more than 4,000,000 young people in high schools and more than 1,000,000 in colleges. In 1929 the following items will stand out in the record of growth and achievement: Relating the work of the school to the work and the needs of the home and community; carrying forward the movement for more extensive character training in the schools; improvement of courses of study and a better articulation between subjects and courses and between schools on different levels; the growth of professional spirit on the part of teachers; increased attention to the philosophy of teaching and shaping educational policies, methods and all work to meet the needs of the child.

COWS MUST BE TAIL-LIGHTED.

It appears that if a Connecticut cow ventures or is led on n highway after dark she must have a lantern tied to her tail, whether she resents such an indignity or not. Morris Miller, a farmer in the State named, faces a $2500 damage suit because he failed to put a tail-light on his cow after dusk, and the law requiring him to do so is said to be "plain." While Mr. Miller was leading his cow along a highway an automobile turned the corner and because the cow's tail was "dark" the machine ran into her and one of its occupants was injured. So the cow, or her owner, was brought into court for causing an injury by disregarding the traffic rules. Farmers might hold that motor-car headlights should show up even a "dark" cow and thus prevent collision, but the point is made that, though this may be true on a straight highway, a mere turn of the road puts danger in an unlighted cow's tail; and, moreover, that farmers are motorists themselves and the law is for their protection as well as for that of the general public.

So the farmer must give his cow a proper tail light after dark or take the consequences. But what about the cow that escapes bounds and ventures abroad on its own—will her owner be equally responsible? As nobody will ever provide tail-lights for stray dogs or cats, to say nothing of skunks, it is obvious that the Connecticut law fails to cover all contingencies. It is obvious, further, that the complexities of our civilization due to the automobile age, are such as were never imagined by our ancestors in their wildest dreams.

MT. LAKE PARK.

The Ostrich Never Escaped Danger by Hiding Its Head in the Sand.

There are probably a half dozen permanent residents of the Park who are doing some constructive thinking looking to the betterment of this community.

Most of the others are assuming a "what's the use" attitude and seem inclined to let things slide.

They have an inferiority complex as to the rehabilitation of the Park.

Then, too, there are others who, whenever a criticism is voiced relative to conditions or management say, "sh-h; don't say anything out loud, you will make some one mad."

They seem to think that some of our summer colony members will hear it and think we are not progressive.

There is no danger of that—they already know it.

We suggest that at least 90 per cent of the summer residents of the Park are enthusiastic about it and will willingly join any proper movement looking to its betterment, either in form of government or otherwise.

To this "sh-h" class, let us point out that no good thing was ever accomplished except by means of legitimate and constructive agitation. Constructive criticism should always be welcome.

It is not intended to try to tell the gentlemen or the owning organization how to run their or it's business.

We ascribe to them the very highest motives in their efforts to uplift the submerged tenth, although we may possibly not agree with all their policies.

For instance, we believe earnestly and sincerely, that inasmuch as Mountain Lake Park has always been advertised and known as a Christian resort, those in control could do nothing better to show an earnest of its endeavors than to adopt a program having for its object the making of this resort so nttractive that people within striking distance would be drawn here with perfect assurance that not only would they secure rest and resultant health themselves, but that the environment would be such that their children would be taught the advantage of close association with the people and things that make for a better and fuller life.

We have no doubt but that the Association, if properly and earnestly approached, would give this matter favorable consideration.

The Church and affiliated organizations should be and we believe are, always ready to help the "backslider."

THROWING SAFEGUARDS ABOUT THE YOUNG BABY

A Circular To Be Sent to Mothers With Birth Certificate

For the benefit of the 16,000 or more young citizens who arrive in the counties of Maryland every year, a circular, entitled, "Guarding the Baby," has been prepared by the Bureau of Child Hygiene for distribution with the certificate sent to each mother by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, notifying her that her baby's birth has been duly recorded. Since so many of the difficulties in raising a baby are due to a bad start, mothers are urged to make the right sort of a beginning. Here is some of the advice:

Medical Oversight.

Every young child should be brought up uder the care of an experienced physician. This saves money and lives. Have your doctor see your baby at regular intervals through the early years.

Feeding

Mother's milk is the right of every baby. It greatly reduces the likelihood of illness. Begin giving one to four teaspoonsful of orange juice every day when the baby is 2 or 3 months old. Begin giving one-half to one teaspoonful of cod liver oil every day at the snme age.

Baby's Bath.

A healthy baby should be bathed every day. The best time is in the morning before the second feeding. The bath water should have a temperature of about 95 degrees at first, decreasing gradually to 80 degrees for a year-old baby.

Clothing

The baby's clothing should be soft and comfortable and adapted to the weather.

Rest, Exercise and Fresh Air

The baby should have a bed by itself, in a quiet, well ventilated room. The baby will exerseise itself by kicking and stretching if allowed to do so. Twice a day let it play freely when undressed. Fresh air is needed by a baby even more than by adults. When practicable, the baby should take his nap on a porch.

Weight

A healthy baby should double his birth weight at six months and triple it within a year. It should gain from 4 to 8 ouces a week.

Danger From Colds

A baby should be carefully protected from any perosn with a cold. The younger the baby the greater the danger from bronchitis and pneumonia following a simple cold. The danger can be greatly lessened if the baby is properly clothed, fed, given abundant sunshine and fresh air and kept away from ill persons.

Smallpox and Diphtheria.

Your bahy should he vaccinated against smallpox before it is a year old, better at six months. It should be given the toxin anti-toxin treatment against diphtheria when about a year old.

Child Health Conferences

Health conferences for the examination of young children are held each month in most of the counties of Maryland. They are free and are intended for those children who are not seeing a doctor regularly. Consult the County Health Officer or the Public Health Nurse for the place and date of the next conference.

Boring For Oil at State Line

Several representatives of the Garrett-Preston Oil Company, recently made a trip to Morgantown and consulted the State Geologist in reference to the well being put down in Garrett county, near the West Virginia line. While the location is beyond the bounds of the West Virginia State Geologist, he showed the representatives every courtesy and produced maps of Maryland showing the geologic formations of the territory in question. From the information they received gas and not oil is what may be found, as the oil lies too deep for ordinary operators to reach. It is estimated that the Spiechly sand should be encountered at a further depth of about 250 feet and it is to this level it is proposed to sink the well. A number of Oakland people have become interested in the project and are getting behind it with their means. Drilling has stopped temporarily until repairs can be made to a part of the rig.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE WINS CLOSE ONE FROM LOCALS

Oakland Improves Considerably On Passwork and Fights Until Final Whistle Blows

In a closely contested match, the Oakland A. A. was defeated by Wesleyan College barnstormers last Saturday night by the score 46-41, Oakland A. A. exhibiting the best brand of passwork of the season and kept in the running throughout the entire contest, and although never in the lead, kept within a few points of the winners at all times.

McClung, Wesleyan's star forward, had a big night on the floor, looping ten field goals and six out of seven fouls into the net. Minter, Wesleyan's center, garnered seven field goals and one foul.

Killen and Pollock, Oakland's forwards, worked the ball up the floor many times and the passwork of the team was much improved over previous games. Killen scored ten field goals while his running mate was not far behind with eight. Nally added two field goals and Hanst a foul to complete the scoring. Oakland scored twenty field goals to nineteen for Wesleyan, but the barnstormers were too good at the foul line with 8 out of 12. Wesleyan led at half time, 25-17.

Crowd Was Slim.

A small crowd watched the game. In an effort to bring the best attractions to Oakland on the basketball court, the Oakland A. A. is losing money, the manager stated, and anyone desiring to make a small donation for the benefit of the local team can do so by sending it to George Hanst, Oakland. The lineup follows:

| Oakland-41 | | Wesleyan-46 |
|---|---|---|
| Killen | F | McClung |
| Pollock | F | Hines |
| Kahl | C | Minter |
| Nally | G | W. Anderson |
| Hanst | G | N. Anderson |

Field Goals: Killen 10; Pollock 8: Nally 2; McClung 10; Hines 2; Minter 7. Fouls: Hanst 1-3; McClung 6-7; Hines 1-2; Minter 1-2.

HER CURE FOR THE JOY-KILLERS

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

JANET HALL had spent the day in making the new living room suite look homelike. She had had to rearrange many things in order to produce a well-balanced effect, but the effect was charming. She was so happy, pleased and proud. Mac had presented her with the new furniture on her birthday the day before, but it had reached the house too late last night for her to do more than admire it.

She was tired, of course, for she had moved everything about half a dozen times. Even yet she was not sure that she liked that large chair on that side of the room. But perhaps she had best leave it until she had thought about it a little.

Sinking into the soft cushions of the davenport she luxuriously rested while she studied her new possessions. Although they had been married many years this was the first really nice furniture she and Mac had ever felt able to buy. He had said just the other day: "Why, we are getting to be old folks, Janet. It's time we began to have a few things we want. No sense in waiting." She had never dreamed that he was even then contemplating buying this suite for her. They had seen it when it first appeared in Orton's window and had stopped to admire it, but she had had not the remotest idea that it would ever be hers.

The back door opened and steps sounded on the kitchen linoleum. A familiar "Hoo-hoo!" announced the appearance of a small woman with slightly crossed eyes, a pursy mouth and a steaming red complexion. It was Mrs. Keeler, Janet's next-door neighbor.

"My goodness, Mrs. Hall! What's the matter with you? You are as pale as a ghost!" cried the visitor.

Janet tried to smile.

"Why, I am a little tired, that's all. Come here and sit down beside me." She hospitably patted the inviting cushions beside her.

Mrs. Keeler stared hard at the davenport before she sat down.

"Oh! This is that suite they had in Orton's window, isn't it?" she said.

"My husband gave it to me for my birthday" Janet replied.

Oh! Yes! Well, that's nice," Mrs. Keeler's hand was critically exploring the texture of the material. "Looks as if it might wear a long time."

"Hope so," Janet began to feel a sense of chill.

Mrs. Keeler sighed.

"We need some new furniture, but what's the use of getting it? Keeler and I haven't any children, or anybody we care much about leaving it to. And I tell him I'm not going to put myself out buying for somebody that wouldn't thank you for it. At our ages, you never can tell how long you're going to be here."

Janet swallowed at a growing tightness in her throat. It was true. She and Mac had no children, either. The twins had died at three, and a little boy that had followed had never got out of long dresses. They had nobody, but some nephews of Mac's. She looked at her new furniture with darkening eyes. Who would have it after they were gone? Why in no time at all somebody she did not know about might be sitting as she now was upon this very davenport.

"You ought to go to the doctor," Mrs. Keeler said, observing Janet seriously. "I think you have a very bad color. It doesn't pay to put these things off, you know. A bit of murmur in the heart, a degree of blood-pressure and—Well, life is a mighty uncertain proposition—make the best you can of it."

"That is true," murmured Janet. She began to feel rather queer and gaspy. Maybe her heart was "acting up" again. Of course, she couldn't tell about the "pressure," but people of her age were not to suffer from it. Yet she would be afraid to go to a doctor. Suppose he should tell her that she had not long to live. Or that Mac had not long to live? She remembered something she had heard Mrs. Willard say yesterday at the woman's club: "Just as we get our house of life in order where we may enjoy it, we die." With a terrible little curly feeling along her spine she sank farther into the delightful cushion to convey premonition of tragedy.

"I came over," said Mrs. Keeler "to see if you'd lend me a few slices of bread for supper. I missed the bake-cart someway. Oh, dear, hum! I get so tired of this eternal cooking and baking. What's the use anyway? You can half kill yourself getting up a meal, and half an hour after it has been eaten it is forgotten, unless, of course, it creates indigestion—Just a few slices, Mrs. Hall. I presume I shan't touch it myself. Keeler says I don't eat enough to support a fly."

Janet cut the bread, wrapped it in paraffin paper and Mrs. Keeler took it away. But she bore away more than the bread; she had stolen, not borrowed, Janet's peace of mind.

A few minutes later Janet lay in a heap on the new davenport sobbing into the dainty apron she had donned for the supper hour. She ardently longed to live to be Mac's dear comrade to enjoy the first real home she had ever had. Yet if the other people noticed a change in her looks it must be she was ill. And that thing Mac had said about not "waiting for things." That also proved something.

didn't it? And that wretched little pain that had been tagging her heartbeats lately—why, at this moment she could feel it, piercing her side like a needle. Pains were symptoms. This might mean—angina pectoris!

Another woman might have acted more sensibly, but Janet was not a sensible woman. She was just pretty and affectionate and very, very gentle and timid. Credulous, too, as a child, and sensitive and high-strung. Mac, her big kindly husband, had molded about her an environment of love and care and tenderness. He understood her and gloried in her every feminine quality, because it gave him a chance to show how much he loved her. And Janet had thought foolishly that everybody in the world felt toward her just as Mac did. She looked for no harm and expected no evil.

She was fast sobbing herself into a feverish headache when she felt a presence in the room and suspected her husband. With an impulse to fling herself into his arms she moved. But it was not Mac who stood beside the davenport gazing down upon her with a curiosity that was half humorous.

"Well, I declare! What are you trying to do? Make yourself down sick with that foolish sobbing?" demanded old Mrs. Tobey. She sat down beside Janet. "My!" she exclaimed, as she sank deep. "Where'd you get this sofa? I never sat so comfortable in all my life."

Janet wiped here eyes and nose and tried to look reciprocative.

"Mac gave the set to me—for my birthday,' she said and sighed.

Old Mrs. Tobey quizzed her with a long look out of shrewd blue eyes.

"What are you sighing about it for?" she demanded. "Don't you like it?"

"Like it!" said Janet, dolefully. "Of course I do. I've wanted some nice furniture for years. But, oh, dear! Mrs. Tobey, what does furniture or anything matter in this world if—if you aren't going to live to enjoy it?"

Old Mrs. Tobey studied Janet a moment. "Heart trouble, eh?" she said at last.

Janet nodded dumbly. She took up the old woman's large warm hand and laid upon her own bosom. Her eyes explored old Mrs. Tobey's with terrified question.

The real shock came when old Mrs. Tobey laughed . . . and laughed so heartily that Janet felt an aggrieved sense of being made fun of.

"Guess you need a little soda for your digestion," the old woman said. "You haven't got any heart trouble, child. If you had you wouldn't know it. The worst kinds of heart trouble are quiet. Yours isn't heart. It's—Flossy Keeler. She just went out of here, didn't she?"

"Yes," admitted Janet.

"I saw her, and her face was as red as fire. She's mad clear through because you've got the very living room suite that she had been prodding her husband to buy for her. I shouldn't be surprised if she told you that though you had got the set away from her you wouldn't live long to enjoy it. She's capable of it or anything else with her jealous nature."

Janet was scarlet with astonishment and relief.

"Why, Mrs. Tobey!" she gasped.

"I suspected what she was up to when I saw her coming in here," went on old Mrs. Tobey quietly. "So the minute I saw her leave I patted over myself. I was pretty sure what I'd find—besides the new furniture. When you've lived to my years you'll have learned not to let the Flossy Keelers of this life have any influence over you. Alkali kills acid, you know and there's nothing like a good laugh to counteract the effects of a nasty dose of envy."

Odd English Auction Has Its Good Point

A curious auction is held in the village of Upwey, Weymouth, England, every spring when the parish meadow is rented for the year, not to the highest bidder, but to the one who bids last when the light from a bit of candle expires.

The auctioneer lights an inch of candle on his desk and the bidding begins. Every eye is fixed on the flickering flame, and every rustic brain is trying to judge the length of time it will take for it to burn down to the end. As the flame turns blue the bidding becomes fast and furious, but no man is allowed to speak out of his turn. To the one who bids last at the moment the flame expires the meadow is let.

The auction by candle is primitive but fair, for the meadow often goes to a poor man who can afford to pay but little, where an auction conducted in the usual way would give him no chance against his richer neighbors.—New York Times.

Seven Ages of Woman

Women also have their seven ages: When they won't marry anyone, when they won't marry anyone except a rich man, when they won't even marry a rich man unless they can have a career, when they may marry some day, when they'll marry anyone, when they actually do marry and when they say they wouldn't have married except for his insisting.—Fort Wayne News-Sentinel.

Greeks Ate Asparagus

Asparagus has been for at least 2,000 years a favorite table delicacy. The ancient Greeks are said to have first become acquainted with its use and virtues when they came into contact with their Asiatic neighbors. The Romans obtained the succulent vegetable in turn from the Greeks and for centuries cultivated it as a luxury for the wealthy.—Gas Logic.

Success Within Reach of Practical Dreamer

What is the good of dreaming if your dreams never come true?

That almost sounds hopeless. Dream if you like of possible development toward the aims and ideals of life. I dream pleasantly of nice things, although they are not within the bounds of possibility. There is no harm in that so long as you keep control of your dreaming. Why shouldn't we make our own romance within our own mind? It's a nice and attractive recreation, just as is the reading of a story.

But we must dream, too, about the goal of success we want to reach. It need not be material, it may be a spiritual goal. Certainly it should be both. The material one is good to have, especially if it is an honorable one. It's no good, however, simply dreaming about it only; we must get busy in trying to achieve it. Dreaming about it is futile unless we support it with real, solid effort to attain our ends.

That, says the London Chronicle, is the way great things have been accomplished, great adventures carried out, great inventions brought to fruition. There were the dreams, sure enough, but the dreamers gave their dreams life.

London Has Right to Be Proud of Big Ben

One of the most conspicuous structures in London is the tower of the houses of parliament that rises high above the pavement near Westminster abbey and the neighboring River Thames and seems to watch from its great height all the many activities of the largest city in the world. The inside of this tower contains a staircase of 500 steps and when one has climbed to the top one is in the room containing the mechanism of one of the largest clocks in the world, the clock known as Big Ben, and which has marked time for London for many a year.

It is impossible to understand the size of this giant of a clock as one stands on the ground, but if one measures its four faces one finds them to be 23 feet across, which means a distance equal to that of four average men standing on each other's heads. The minute hands are 14 feet long; they would reach higher than an average room. The swinging pendulum weighs nearly 500 pounds. The figures on the faces are each two feet long and the minute spaces are a foot square. While the minute hand of your little watch jumps in very small spaces, the minute hand of Big Ben jumps a foot at a time.

Watermelon From Africa

The traditional appetite of the colored man for watermelon is due to the fact that he acquired his fondness for the watermelon in the land of his origin, Africa, where they are found today growing wild. That watermelons were grown by the ancient Egyptians is proved by numerous paintings as well as carvings on monuments. The fruit was probably introduced into England some time in the Sixteenth century.

According to Master Graves, it abounded in Massachusetts in 1629, only nine years after the landing of the Pilgrims. The Indians lost little time in adding the watermelon to their list of cultivated plants. In 1664 the Florida tribes were cultivating it in their fields of maize, and nine years later Father Marquette found the Western tribes growing watermelons.

Bird Made Much Trouble

When telephone service suddenly stopped between Melbourne and Albury, Australia, says the Pathfinder Magazine, a long, careful search revealed that the cause of the trouble was a magpie. This busy bird had built a nest on the top of a pole—a nest 14 inches across and about 8 inches deep. The size of the nest would not have mattered, but evidently intent on making the new home durable and solid, the magpie had used several pieces of wire which had been snipped off and left on the ground by repair men. One of the pieces of wire was in contact with two wires of the line, which naturally caused a short circuit and stopped the service.

Gratitude

The wise old Dr. Samuel Johnson once said: "Gratitude is a fruit of great cultivation. You do not find it among gross people." Observations will convince you that this is true, at least in some degree. Cheap or coarse people are usually lacking in a sense of gratitude. They are likely to be the sorts who carry chips on their shoulders, brag that the world owes them a living, boast of accomplishments for which they are not responsible. Lacking a sense of appreciation of most good things, they naturally lack a sense of appreciation of what others have done for them.—Grove Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

Why the Flag?

A speaker was addressing a country school in southern Indiana and was making a talk on patriotism. Pointing to a large flag hung on the wall, he asked:

"And why is that flag hung in your schoolroom?"

There was a loud whisper from one of the pupils addressed to the teacher:

"Shall I tell him we put it there to cover up the place where the plaster's off?"

Many Legislators Now Hostile to Lee

(From the Baltimore Observer)
By the Man in the Street.

With the meeting of the first holdover Legislature only a few days off Democratic members of the House find themselves in a great stew.

Many of them do not want Major Brooke Lee for Speaker again and some of them will have to feel the lash of their local bosses before they get into line for the man from Montgomery and the choice of Governor Ritchie.

This week members of the House came to the city to look it over in the course of a three-days tour. No sooner had the county men arrived here and gathered in the lobby of Harry Busick's new hotel that some of them began to register their objections to voting for Lee a second time. Apparently they didn't care to support the Governor's choice in view of the developments of the past year.

Of course they had read about the ruction in the city delegation which occurred last Friday night. While they knew this caucus was called primarily in the interest of some city candidate for Speaker the main purpose was to defeat Major Lee, the Governor's candidate of two years ago and his candidate of today.

It is not exactly clear that there is any great personal hostility to Major Lee but some hold the view that the Governor is running the party into a ditch as was shown in the Baltimore City municipal election of last year when Billy Curran was defeated by a larger vote than was cast later against Al Smith.

All now know that the Governor's popularity is on the wane, that he is near the bottom of the political ladder even though he will have official power for two more years.

Curtis Seat May Be Called in Question

I hear that even though Delegate Francis P. Curtis is more or less of a candidate for the Speakership on the theory that the honor should be given Baltimore City his right to be sworn in as a member may be questioned.

In 1926 Mr. Curtis wanted the nomination for the State Senate. He was shunted aside through a boss-made edict in favor of Ambrose J. Kennedy, who in turn had to make a primary fight against the veteran George Arnold Frick, enemy of the drys and anti-race track men. So Mr. Curtis ran for the House of which he had been Speaker in the preceding session. But Mr. Curtis held a comfortable position as a member of the Board of Commissioners for Opening Streets by the favor of the then Mayor Jackson. Finding that he could not legally hold onto both places at the same time Mr. Curtis elected to continue to open streets and did so continue all the ninety days the Legislature was in session, said streets remaining wide open to this very day.

As Mr. Curtis did not go to Annapolis and take the oath constitutionally provided he drew no pay from the State. He served the city until the new Mayor, Mr. Broening, desiring the place for another, called upon him to resign. He did resign although it was his contention that he was not legally bound to do so under the terms of the City Charter and the Declaration of Independence.

Now there are disagreeable members of the House who say that Mr. Curtis, having scorned his seat two years ago, should not now be allowed to have it. So we shall se what we shall see but there is no doubt that Mr. Curtis will go to Annapolis to swear into or at the House.

Curran and Kelly
Battle for Lee

The bolt of the anti-Lee members of the city delegation from the caucus of last Friday night was occasioned by a resolution offered by one of the delegates pledging those present to support the Democratic caucus nominee for Speaker.

This, it appears, was not expected. It came, it seems, as the result of the activities of Senator Dan Chambers, Senator Kennedy, Billy Curran and Greenmount Avenue Joe Kelly.

Before the caucus met in the rooms of the Democratic State Central Committee in the Royal Arcanum building, Senator Chambers, Billy Curran and others appeared at the Rennert and there met some members of the House. They stayed around till the caucus was over or at least until those Democrats who associated themselves with City Chairman Bieby and ex-Mayor Jackson left the meeting.

Greenmount Avenue Joe Kelly, who is a friend of Billy Curran as well as a political hacker of Senator Kennedy, was in the hall of the Royal Arcanum building and was engaged in steering delegates to the Rennert lobby.

As the majority of the delegates remained in the meeting and voted for the caucus resolution, it was evident that some missionary work had been done by the Governor's remaining supporters. It was evident that Billy Curran, who has been given more or less of a cold shoulder by the Governor lately, had been maneuvered into a position where he had to help the Governor and Brooke Lee in order to show his antagonism to Jackson and Bieby.

I doubt that Curran cares a great deal for Lee. I hardly think he is under any further illusion as to the Governor. By this time it must have dawned upon him that the Governor did not weep violently when he was defeated for Mayor.

Enough Votes to Prevent Smothering of Bills

Now it appears that notwithstanding the failure of what the Wet Blanket calls the anti-Ritchie faction to bring about an agreement among the city members of the House as to a course of action on the Speakership there are enough men who adhere to their side to make an effective bloc by joining with the Republicans to prevent the smothering of bills in committee. The Speaker appoints the committee and he can so frame them that they will be his own creatures in regard to measures the State administration may not relish. And no doubt there will be a raft of such measures in the coming session. There are various doings of the administration that may be brought under fire and a Speaker friendly to the Governor will have it in his power to protect the Executive Department on many occasions.

Outsiders do not realize how much the Legislature can really do when it feels so minded. For instance, in the session of 1922 it got to the ears of one of the members of the House that the Governor had not fully accounted for all the money that had been withdrawn from the treasury on account of the preparation of the State budget. A resolution was prepared one night making inquiry on the subject but before the House assembled next day word came that the unexpended amount, something over a thousand dollars, had been returned to the State treasury. The Legislature's most effective weapon is publicity.

Lee's Best Chance
Is in the Background

While it is apparent that Major Lee does not see it the same way that I do I have no doubt that his best course would be to avoid the Speakership this time as he would avoid a plague. It can do him no good and it may do him great harm.

In politics people look to the future and they care little about the past. Some of those who have been conspicuous in the past or who may still be conspicious are about to be shelved. It will be possible to shelve Major Lee with them.

There is plenty of talk among Democrats that if the party is to have anything like a fair chance in the next State election there will have to be an entire new State ticket, eliminating all those who are now serving. Let the Major be hooked up tightly to the surviving administration and he will be marked to go with it.

The Governor says the administration will propose nothing to evoke bitterness in the Legislature. But others may evoke things that will arouse the opposition of the administration. The Major will have to be the administration's man. There is small glory to be had but it is evident that little though it may be the Major is anxious to grab it. This may be his last chance. Who knows?

Entertainment in Prospect at Annapolis

I have an idea that this coming year I might scrape up a few sheckels and journey down to Annapolis and try to see what the bosses do to hold Maryland back. I am particularly desirous of noting the maneuvering of Major Brooke Lee who last session was continually running over to the Senate and whispering in the ear of this one and of that one.

I would like to see what the lobby does if and when a bill unfavorabe to the race tracks arrives and whether the Third House will continue to meet on the main floor of the Senate House or retire to the basement where it held its sessions prior to the incoming of the current and more or less discredited administration.

Beyond question the oystermen will be there with their boots on to see that the astute Swepson Earle doesn't have a bill to give two-fifths of the natural oyster bottoms to the planters during one of the Governor's unfortunate naps. Which reminds me that down Crisfield way I hear the oyster dealers or shuckers or what you may call them are hinting that a planting law may be the best after all. Whether it is or not I am not prepared to say.

Then Senator Colgan will return with his twelve famous bills requiring the Governor to send to the Senate for approval his important appointments just as he sends his J. P. and notary public appointments. These bills will give the public notice as to who the Governor thinks should regulate street car fares and will make it unhandy for him to pick Wet Blanket reporters for such work.

Of course, Senator Colgan will not be able to get these bills through without the cooperation of his brother Senators from the city. Some of these may be interested in getting appointments for their friends. But possibly the Governor, who vetoed such bills once, may sign them this time, realizing that they will not effect his power as he is at the end of his rope in Maryland.

Two years ago these Colgan bills were passed through the Senate a second time but when they went to the House of Delegates they stuck in committee. The committee in which they stuck was appointed by Speaker Brooke Lee. He knew the Governor did not want them passed. The "objection" to these bills is well known. It is that once the appointments get into the Senate for confirmation the politicians may take a hand. This would be annoying to the Governor who is not a politician, having graduated into the statesman class.

Those Bills Receivable
Still a Mystery

The great mystery of the present and that $50,000 audit of the State Roads Commission's accounts is the $250,000 of bills receivable. Nobody attempts to give an explanation. The daily papers leave the question alone as though it might be poison. Even the Scrippspost which for several days manifested activity passes it up.

I ask why this fear of the bills receivable? Surely none of this money is due by the newspapers. Certainly none of the newspaper reporters got the benefit of the State Purchasing Agency run under the noses of the Roads Commission and got goods for which they have not paid.

The time was when the daily papers would quickly have dug out those "bills receivable." But times have changed. Nobody wants to know anything about the bills receivable. Anyway, they're only $250,000. And what's that?

Ferries, Bridges

Seems like when one gets a thing fixed it doesn't stay fixed. Take the case or cases of those State subsidized Chesapeak Bay ferries.

That Clairborne-Annapolis ferry in which ex-Governor Harrington and State Treasurer Dennis have invested some ducats, has a fine new boat in the water when along comes the Stuart Janney Chesapeake Bay bridge which is soon to be started, if all goes as well as planned. This bridge will knock the Baltimore-Tolchester subsidized ferry galley west and also take something from the Harrington-Dennis ferry.

Now a meeting has been held at Cambridge to organize still another ferry. It is to run from Dorchester shore to a point in Lower Anne Arundel County. This, presumably, will take some trade from the Annapolis-Clairborne ferry. Then another group, now supposed to be squelched, has been talking of establishing a ferry between Sandy Point and Kent Island. All this transportation sounds fine but we would like to know where all the people are to be found to transport. The Eastern Shore population does not grow as rapidly as the population of Chicago.

Grand Jury Grapples
With the Roads Scandal

The Grand Jury of Baltimore City has evidently been doing its best to find out something more about the looting of the State Roads Commission but it seems to have made slow progress. Evidently the special auditors gave the jury too many figures. When the case first started last winter on the basis of the investigation made by the State Auditor there was quick work. Now there seems to be a great deal of fog.

Of course, if there are to be further prosecutions the Grand Jury is the body to start the proceeding. But the fact remains that in such a case as is presented by the road frauds the Grand Jury is not the body to make a full inquiry. It has too much other work to do.

Meanwhile there is Governor Ritchie's "Advisory" committee composed of three eminent business men. The Governor has asked them to inquire into the legality of the road building contracts, and Lawyer Richard B. Tippett has volunteered to help if he is not hampered by restrictions. This committee, I understand, has ceased its activities because of the Grand Jury inquiry. The Grand Jury is to go out in a few days. Then perhaps we will hear from the Governor's committee and Mr. Tippett. There should be interesting sessions with Edwin G. Baetjer, one of the leaders of the local bar, assisting the committee.

But it is my own view that the best instrument for such an inquiry is a legislative committee fortified by an able lawyer to direct the search for facts. And these facts should relate to all alleged abuses of authority by the Commission and should include an inquiry into the character and worth of the roads that have been built.

It is no secret that Maryland roads have lately been subjected to sharp criticism and unfavorable comparison with roads in adjoining States. The cold facts should be brought out in justice to all concerned, among them being the humble taxpayer.

Col. Janney Now Leaving
The Ritchie Household

It came as a jar to many, that resignation of Col. Stuart S. Janney as Director of Welfare and head of that body which has in the last few years come to be known as the Farewell Board because it so rarely meets. I here that the Janney resignation was preceded by a ruckus between the Director and the Governor concerning the amount of money to be allotted to the Department in the forthcoming State budget. Report has it that Col. Janney wanted the "injy rubber" budget stretched more than the Governor was willing to stretch it and that there was a sort of ultimatum. Be that as it may, the resignation was given and the Governor is at this writing casting about for a man to fill the place just as he has been searching for a man for Chairman of the State Roads Commission and mayhaps a new Chief Engineer, too, for it is understood that the Governor does not expect John N. Mackall to tarry long after a new chairman is installed.

Associate Members Reported
Ruffled by the Governor

They do tell me that R. Bennett Darnall and W. W. Brown, the two associate members of the Roads Commission who were severely criticized by the Governor's "Advisory" Committee, are chafing under the scorching they got while the Chairman was let off with a slap on the wrist by the committee.

Mr. Darnell, I am told, seems to feel that he has been placed in an embarrassing position through his willingness to serve the political ends of the Governor and help him along in his ambition while Commissioner Brown is said to be averring that if he stepped over the wrong side of the chalk line in any instance it was at the Governor's own suggestion.

It is expected by those conversant with the situation that the Governor will undertake to legislate Messrs. Darnall and Brown out of office at the same time that he puts the toboggan under the political corpus of State Auditor Lewis M. Milbourne. By new legislation the Governor can get rid of all the officials mentioned without having to ask them to resign.

Minor League
Ideas in Baltimore

It is worth while to note the way the newspapers look at Baltimore. Not so many years ago but that I can remember it, Baltimore was in a major baseball league and won pennants. Daily newspapers were printed daily. There were theatres in the theatrical season. Now so much is changed. I was reminded of those things on last Tuesday when one had to buy a Washington, Philadelphia, or New York morning paper to find out what might be or might not be going on in the world. The surviving morning paper skipped an issue for the altruistic purpose of giving its employees a holiday and the other papers kindly did the same. I understand that the same thing occurred in Hagerstown, Annapolis, Clarksburg, W. V., and Chambersburg, Pa. Also I might note that the stadium lacks customers.

If the Wet Blanket dominates the burg long enough we may yet get the horse cars back. I understand the United has a few in cold storage.

L'Enfant Planned Open Space in Washington

"Mall" was originally the name of the mallet used in playing pall-mall, a game in which a ball was driven with a mallet. In time "mall" was applied to the game itself, and by extension to the place where the game was played. Thus Pall-Mall (pronounced pell-mell), a famous street in London, received its name from the fact that the site was formerly a pall-mall alley. In the United States "The Mall" is applied specifically to a strip of land lying between the capitol and the Washington monument. It is bounded on the east by the capitol grounds, on the south by Maryland avenue and B Street Southwest, on the north by Pennsylvania avenue and B Street Northwest, and on the west by Seventeenth street. It includes the botanic garden, East Seaton park, West Seaton park, Henry park, Smithsonian grounds, agricultural grounds and the monument grounds. In the original plans prepared by the French engineer, L'Enfant, and approved by Washington, the Mall was to be 1,600 feet wide and was to present an unobstructed vista from the monument to the capitol. This plan was departed from, and there are now a number of buildings on the Mall. L'Enfant did not use the name "Mall" on his maps of Washington. On the original L'Enfant map, as well as on the maps of 1792 and 1822, this area is designated "Appropriation No. 2." After those dates the name "Mall" appears regularly in connection with the area in question.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Bank Account Belied Old Man's Appearance

A woman who does much free-lance charity work was accosted on Walnut street by a bent-over old man selling lead pencils.

Upon having a handful of the stock-in-trade thrust under her nose she opened her handbag and offered the old fellow a dime, remarking: "Keep the pencil. I do not need it."

Upon further inspection of the old peddler's rags and his feeble frame her huge heart outswelled its bounds.

"Suppose," she said, "I take you into that bank and start a small savings account for you. You are getting old and will not be able to sell pencils much longer?"

"I have a bank account there, thank you," was the old man's rejoinder.

"Well, then," she persisted, "allow me at least to add a few dollars to it."

The old man agreed and they walked together a half block to the bank.

"Now let me have your book," said the woman as they entered the bank building.

As she approached the receiving teller's cage she casually opened the book. His account totaled $4,362.30. —Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"Safety First" Idea

The bureau of mines says that the phrase "Safety first!" became a national slogan in the year 1911, when the bureau of mines gave a national safety first demonstration at Pittsburgh, Pa. Previous to this, the phrase "Safety Is the First Consideration!" was used on the stationery and among the employees of the H. C. Frick Coke and Steel company of Pittsburgh and the Illinois Steel company of Chicago. But since the national demonstration these firms and a great many others dealing with safety appliances have adopted this phrase.

Logical "Arithmetic"

The children were playing school and naturally the oldest sister was teacher. She was putting the "class" through the intricacies of arithmetic.

"Put down the 6 and carry the 4; put down the 8 and carry the 1," she taught. Finally she turned to little sister, who had been listening quietly and attentively.

"Now, Edith," she said, "you're only a little girl, so I'll give you an easy question. Add 1 and 2."

"Well," answered Edith slowly, "I think I'll carry the 1 and let the 2 walk, 'cause the 2's bigger than the 1."—Exchange.

Parrot Loved a Puppy

An uncommon story of a parrot's supreme love for a puppy comes from Charlerol. A month ago the owner of the parrot adopted a puppy a few days old, which had lost its mother.

The helpless state of the dog seemed to have been understood by the parrot, which at once made its home beside it in its basket, kept it warm with its outstretched wings, and permitted no one to approach its protege except its master at feeding time.

Unfortunately the puppy died. The parrot was inconsolable, refused to eat or drink, and has also died.

Navaho Blankets

The Smithsonian Institution says: "The Yebechai are nature gods of the Navaho whose chief function is healing the sick. The so-called Yebechai 'dance' is a ceremony for this purpose. Up to some years ago representations of the gods were painted in colored sands at the ceremony and wiped out at the close. Later, the Navaho began to weave the Yebechai figures in rugs for sale. These rugs are usually made on a hand loom. This may easily be told if the designs are alike on both sides as to form and color. Such specimens were never common."

Living Things Thrive Under Canopy of Ice

Life proceeds calmly enough within every pond and stream roofed over with its glassy canopy like a natural hothouse. Peer down through the clear ice and you will see the plants are green, though small, and that there are fishes gliding about. Their scales, however, show that they grow but little now. There is enough to eat, but their appetite is poor.

The land snails spin storm doors athwart the opening of the shell, and, creeping into some secure crevice, become dormant; but the pond snails move about as usual, but build no new shells.

The small aquatic creatures still creep lazily over the fermenting mud or ensconce themselves in its depths. The water spider is wrapped in a glistening bubble of the air he took down with him.

All these tiny creatures of nature's underworld are at ease. There is no need now for activity, little necessity for hunting or fleeing. Hunger is stilled, no energy need be expended in producing eggs or in the distress of molting; and so, like the plants, the animals lie still, recuperate from the waste of one summer and gather strength for the next.

Skelligs List Survival of Old Irish Custom

The Skelligs list is at once the dread and the joy of unmarried Irish youths and maidens in Valencia, Ireland, westernmost point of Europe.

The list, the Kansas City Star informs us, is nothing more than a succession of names of such young men and women, but it is supposed to bring them a wife or a husband within a year if their name is upon it.

The Skelligs list is the survival of an ancient custom founded on the Skelligs rocks, two huge rocks, 850 feet high, which protrude from the ocean 14 miles from the coast. When young men and women, so ran the legend, refused to marry, they were taken to the rocks and left there for a week. At the end of the week they were forced to marry other obstinate young eligibles.

The great Skellig rock was once the site of a religious foundation dedicated to the archangel, St. Michael. The remains of the cells and chapel of the monastery are still well preserved. They are mostly of conical shape, and are built of uncemented stones.

Fight for "Women's Rights"

As early as 1848 agitation for women's rights was commenced at Seneca Falls, N. Y., by Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton. Prior to this, under some Colonial governors, women voted, and at the time of the American Revolution demanded to be included in the government. Susan B. Anthony became a leader in 1848, but it was not until 1872 that she made the test by voting at the polls. She was arrested and fined, but was not jailed for refusing to pay her fine, which she did. In 1875 the first woman suffrage amendment was drafted and introduced in 1878 by Senator Sargent of Colorado. Several other measures were introduced later, and an amendment to the Constitution was passed by the house January 10, 1918, and by the senate, 1919, and was ratified by the necessary number of states in 1920.

Colorful Javanese People

The natives of western Java are generally considered the most intelligent and agreeable of all the millions in the close populated island. The varied and radiant hues of their raiment, the adornment of finger and ankle and wrist, the true artistry of an occasional batik "sarong" lead them a picturesqueness unknown to the simpler-garbed Tahitian. Along the wayside everywhere they are grouped in a colorful multitude, for this is Sunday morning, and the Dutch see to it that Sunday is, as far as possible, a day of rest in Java.

Earliest "God's Houses"

It is curious to find a clergyman putting forward the view that the title, "the Lord's House," applied to churches, was originally given to them because lords of the manor held courts there. This appears in a book about a remote Kent parish, All Hallows, Hoo. It is certainly true, as the author contends, that churches in pre-Reformation days were more like village halls. Plays were acted in them and inquiries of any kind held; sometimes valuables were stored there. But they were to the people God's houses even more than they are now.

Sagacious Mother

We are told of the Chinese sage Mengtsen, that when he was a child, his mother's home was near a slaughter house, and that she instantly left her home when she saw the child watching with indifference to pain inflicted upon animals. Her second home was near a graveyard, and again she left when she saw the boy imitating at his play the rites of superstition.—Dean Farrar.

On the Job

A city man visiting in the country one week-end asked his host how it happened he had no scarecrows on the place.

"Don't you need them?" asked the guest.

"No. You see I stay around the place pretty close myself," replied the farmer.

An emergency law shall remain in force notwithstanding such petition, but shall stand repealed thirty days after having been rejected by a majority of the qualified electors voting thereon; provided, however, that no measure creating or abolishing any office, or changing the salary, term or duty of any officer, or granting any franchise or special priviledge, or creating any vested right or interest, shall be enacted as an emergency law. No law making any appropriation for maintaining or aiding any public institution, not exceeding the next previous appropriation for the same purpose, shall he subject to rejection or repeal under this section. The increase in any such appropriation for maintaining or aiding any public institution shall only take effect as in the case of other laws, and such increase or any part thereof specified in the petition, may be referred to a vote of the people upon petition.

SEC. 3 (a). The referendum petition against an Act or part of an Act passed by the General Assembly, shall be sufficient if signed by ten thousand qualified voters of the State of Maryland, of whom not more than half shall be residents of Baltimore City, or any one County; provided that any Public Local Law for any one County or the City of Baltimore, upon a referendum petition of ten per cent. of the qualified voters of the said County or City of Baltimore as the case may be, calculated upon the whole number of votes cast therein respectively for Governor at the last preceding Gubernatorial election.

(b). If more than one-half, but less than the full number of signatures required to complete any referendum petition against any law passed by the General Assembly, be filed with Secretary of State before the first of June, the time for the law to take effect, and for filing the remainder of signatures to complete the petition shall be extended to the thirteenth day of the same month, with like effect.

THE HOMEMAKERS CORNER

BY MISS ELSIE BENTHIEN
Home Demonstration Agent

Add variety to the winter menu by making a new jam or jelly from available fruits in season.

Grape Jelly from Bottled Juice

One pint bottle (2 cups) grape juice, 3 level cups sugar, ½ cup certo.

Measure sugar and then the juice into saucepan, stir and bring to a boil. Stir in certo and bring again to a full rolling boil for ½ minute. Remove from fire, let stand 1 minute, skim, pour quickly and cover hot jelly at once with hot melted paraffin.

Canned Pineapple Jam

Two level cups pineapple, 3½ level cups sugar, ½ cup certo, juice of 1 lemon, if desired.

Use small can of crushed pineapple. Measure 2 full cups crushed pineapple into saucepan. Add sugar, mix and bring to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire and stir in certo. Skim, pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot melted paraffin.

Banana Butter

For cake filling and sandwiches, 3 level cups crushed bananas, juice of 1 lemon, 7 level sups sugar (3 lbs.), 1 bottle Certo.

Use mellow ripe bananas. Crush with masher to fine pulp and measure crushed fruit into large kettle. Add sugar and lemon juice, mix well and bring to a boil. Add ounce of Certo stirring constantly and bring again to a full boil and boil for one minute. While boiling stir constantly over enbottom of kettle to prevent sticking. Remove from fire and stir frequently for 8 minutes to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover at once with hot melted parraffin.

Dried Fig Jam.

Three-quarters lb. dried figs, 2 cups water, juice 1 lemon, 5½ level cups sugar, 1 bottle of certo.

Remove stems. Place figs in large bowl, add lemon juice and water; cover and let stand 4 hours or overnight. Drain juice into saucepan, crush fruit thoroughly with masher to break up skins or put thru grinder and place in saucepan with juice. Add sugar and mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly over entire bottom of pan before and while boiling. Remove from fire and stir in certo. Pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot melted paraffin.

Note—This jam may take from 1 to 3 weeks to come to a full set according to the kind of figs used . For a quick, hard set for cake fillings use one cup more sugar, and break up jam with fork before spreading on cake.

Orange Marmalade

Four medium sized oranges and the juice of one lemon, 3 level cups cooked fruit, 6 level cups (2½ lbs) sugar, ½ cup certo.

Peel off orange skins in quarters. Cut the orange meats in thin slices crosswise and seed. Then cut them up reasonably fine, discarding the hard center parts and add the juice of the lemon.

Lay the orange skins flat, use a sharp knife and shave off about half of the white part next to the yellow skin and discard these whites. Then shred the skins real fine to the thinness of a dime (the thinner the shreds the more tender they will be) and cook these skins in a covered pan with 1½ cups of water and exactly ¼ of a level teaspoon soda, for just 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Then add the cut-up fruit to the cooked skins and water. Cover pan again and boil slowly for 20 minutes longer.

Measure just 3 solid cups of this cooked fruit, adding water to fill 3rd cup if necessary. Add sugar, bring to a boil and boil gently 5 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in certo. Let stand 5 minutes, stirring occasionally to cool slightly, which prevents fruit from floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot marmalade at once with hot melted paraffin.

LEAFLET IS ISSUED ON REFORESTATION

Western Section of State Shown To Have Many Idle Acres

In an effort to acquaint the people of the State with the importance of reforestation and the preservation of the woodlands now in existance, F. W. Besley, of the State Department of Forestry, in conjunction with the Maryland Forestry Association, has issued a number of attractive and instructive leaflets showing the advantages to be derived from the acquisition of State forests.

Point Out Reasons.

The subject touched upon in the leaflets deal specifically with the important part played by the State forests in the conservation of the water supply, the relation of woodland to industry and recreation and the value of wooded land over idle land to the farmer.

Some interesting and important facts, many of which are not known to the average citizen of the State, are brought out. For example, it is said that residents of the State of Maryland are now paying more than $4,000,000 a year in freight rates for timber which is shipped in from the Pacific Coast, when the State could be growing a large proportion of this wood within its own borders.

Furthermore, it has been estimated that in four of the Western Maryland counties more than a third of the total combined acreage is lying idle instead of being made to yield by the planting of trees.

Seven Dollars Per Acre.

In actual figures this area is estimated to be over 200,000 acres. The average cost of reforestation has been found to average around seven dollars per acre.

The leaflets are designed as Forestry Leaflets 37, 38, 39, 40 and 41 and may be secured from the State Forestry Department, Baltimore.

RITCHIE MUST NAME NEW STATE ROADS COMMISSION

Members Resign Because of Dishonesty Among Employes, Is The Reason Given by Them

Governor Ritchie Tuesday night had the duty of naming an entire new State Roads Commission thrust upon him.

Two members, R. B. Darnall, of Ruxton, Democrat, and W. W. Brown, Republican, of Cumberland, handed the Governor their resignations Tuesday afternoon. The post of commission chairman had been vacant since Governor Ritchie decided to separate the posts of commission chairman and chief engineer and retain as engineer John N. Mackall, who had held both positions. The governor appointed Oscar F. Lackey to be chairman, but Mr. Lackey died suddenly of pneumonia before he could take up his duties.

Mr. Darnell's resignation was given in a letter received by the governor, while later in the day Mr. Brown telegraphed from Cumberland offering his resignation to be effective whenever the governor wished. Governor Ritchie announced that he would accept both resignations.

Resigned Position

Mr. Darnall reminded the governor that he had tendered his resignation as soon as dishonesty among the employes of the commission had come to light and before the full amount of their peculations became known, in order that the governor might have a free hand in restoring public confidence by reorganizing the commission. This resignation had been withheld, he explained, at the request of the governor while investigations of the road fund shortages were under way, but with completion of the grand jury investigation into the $376,000 shortage and the presenting of 11 men for indictment in addition to six already sentenced, Mr. Darnall insisted that his resignation be accepted.

Collecting Accounts.

Other developments during the day included announcement by Attorney General Thomas H. Robinson that he would begin at once a move to collect the various items listed as "accounts receivable" by the roads commission books, and reported by Haskins & Sells, auditors who examined the books as amounting to $254,000. State's Attorney Herbert O'Conor, whose declaration that these accounts receivable showed a deplorable state of the commission's accounting method, although no basis for criminal action was challenged by Governor Ritchie as an unfair statement, reiterated his criticisms and pointed to two items in these accounts on each of which interest for the time they had been due amounted to about $1,000.

"The State has been paying out interest on borrowed money while these accounts were neglected," he added.

The state's attorney and his staff completed on Tuesday the task of drawing up the 18 indictments to be brought against the eleven men presented by the grand jury last week.

Another development of the day was a declaration by Chief Engineer Mackall that $32,000 had been paid to Haskins & Sells to date for the auditing of the commission's accounts. Neither Mr. Mackall nor Governor Ritchie could say how much further charges for this work might be.

Home Demonstration Agent's Schedule, January 14-18.

The following schedule was given out by Miss Elsie Benthien, Home Demonstration Agent, for the week of January 14 to 18, inclusive:

January 14, Hutton 4-H Club at 2:45 at the school house.

January 15, Wilson 4-H Club at 10:30 a. m.

January 16, Mountain Lake Park-Loch Lynn Women's Club, at 2:00 p. m., at the Aid Hall. Election of officers.

January 17, Bittinger Women's Club at 2:00 p. m.

January 18, Oakland Women's Club at 2:00 p. m., in the Court House. Election of officers.

Influenza Still Prevalent.

Although a number of those who were ill with influenza have recovered, the situation is about the same that it was a week ago, according to local physicians, who seem just as busy ns they were then.

Many new cases have developed and although no serious ones have resulted, the situntion calls for extreme care in treating the patients and keeping them from exposure following apparent recovery.

POWERFUL SNOW PLOWS TO BE USED ON ROADS

Two of Eight Purchased Capable Of Keeping 50 Miles Clear

While so far this winter the snowfall in Western Maryland has been almost nil except in the Grantsville-Oakland sector, in this county, the State Roads Commission is prepared if January or February should produce an old-time blizzard.

Two of eight powerful motor driven snowplows, recently purchased by the State, have been sent to Allegany and Garrett counties. One will be assigned to Cumberland-McCoole roads, and one to the National highway. The State Roads commission has also assigned two to Washington county, one at Boonsboro and one on the Hancock-Flintstone section. These are in addition to the regular snowplows in service in recent years.

The plows, the most powerful ever used upon highways, are capable of keeping more than fifty miles of road clear of the heaviest snow storm, so it is claimed. Six other plows have been placed at strategic points in Maryland ready for the demands of winter.

Motor power for the plows is furnished by 100 horse-power trucks, and a test shows it capable of cleaning an eighteen-foot swath and hurling it over the fences along the road.

The new plow is an improvement on the caterpillar type, which is slow in moving to a distant point, as the former can be moved almost as fast as an automobile.

CHANGE IN BUS SCHEDULE TO TAKE EFFECT JAN. 15

Shift in Schedule Will Benefit School Children Especially

For the general accommodation of all patrons, with special attention for school children, several changes have been made in the bus schedule of the Morgantown-Kingwood, Kingwood-Mt. Lake Park and Morgantown-Uniontown lines of the Monongahela Transport company. New schedules, recently issued, disclose the extent of the changes which are effective Tuesday, January 15.

So that children attending Morgantown schools and living on the Kingwood road will have a full fifteen minutes to get from the bus to the schools, a change has been made to accommodate them.

Another change which will benefit school children of two states has been made in the early morning bus operating between Oakland, Terra Alta and Mt. Lake Park. The bus will leave Oakland at 7:25 and arive in Terra Alta at 7:55. This will enable it to leave at 7:55. arrive in Oakland at 8:20 and Mt. Lake at 8:25. With this new arrangement school children in Maryland and West Virginia, attending schools in Terra Alta and in Oakland, will have enough time to get to school.

Train Connections

These changes will not disturb the present excellent connections with east bound trains at Terra Alta. Passengers leaving Morgantown on buses at 12 o'clock and 5:45 will be taken to Tera Alta in time to catch both of the trains with only a brief wait.

Copies of the new schedule can be obtained from bus drivers and at ticket offices.

Senator Is Naylor Named on Eight Committees

Except for changes necessitated by death of two members since the last session of the State Legislature, and the chairmanship of two committees, committee assignments for the 1929 biennial session, announced Tuesday, show no change from those of 1927.

Senator A. D. Naylor, of Oakland, was named on the civil service and election reform, elections, fish and game, inspections, railroads and canals, revaluation and assessment, sanitary and temperance committees.

Senator W. A. Gunter, of Allegany county, was named chairman of the Pensions committee and also a member of the finance, insurance, judicial proceedings, printed bills, supervision of employes and rules committees.

Council Has Quiet Session

The passing of the monthly bills occupied the time of the Mayor and Town Council at their monthly meeting held on Monday night at the City Council chamber. A short session was held due to the illness of several of the members of the body. The next meeting will be held on February 4.

LARGEST HOGS ON RECORD BUTCHERED LAST FRIDAY

Poland China Monster, Raised in Garrett County, Weighed 1682 Pounds Gross.

Two of the largest hogs on record, one weighing 1682 pounds and the other 1350 pounds, were slaughtered last Friday in Garrett county by C. W. and James Wilson, stockmen, of near Gorman. The largest animal, a Poland China stag, D. M. Rainbow, registration No. 159975, was 2 years and ten months old. The hog was purchased from Frank DeWitt, of Prairie Depot, Ohio.

His gross weight was 1682 pounds, having been weighed on the scales at the farm of Charles E. Duckworth a few days before butchered. The length of its body was 8 feet and six inches; length from tip to tip; neck diameter, 26 inches; smallest eireumference of hind leg just below hock joint. 11 inches; height, 52 inches.

Seven shots fired from a .25-calibre rifle were necessary to kill the animal, the final shot being fired into the same spot made by a pervious bullet. There was very little blood, probably less than a gallon, and very little waste material, it being estimated that the animal dressed at least 1500 pounds by disinterested parties. Mark H. Moon, of near Oakland, assisted in the work of butchering the hog.

A five year old sow, butchered the same day by the Messrs. Wilson, was a large animal also, weighing at least 1350 pounds. Her body length was seven feet and four inches, the total length being eight feet and six inches.

As stated above the stag was weighed on scales at the farm of C. E. Duckworth and Mr. Duckworth, Frank Wildesen and C. W. Wilson were witnesses. At least 65 persons were present at the slaughtering of the two hogs, among whom were Wm. White, G. W. Harvey, Russell Harvey, Frank Wildesen, I. R. Wildesen, Lemoin King and Howard Ridder, all of near Gorman; Claude Wilkins and Jas. Sims, Mt. Lake Park; M. H. Moon, T. C. Bittinger and Daniel Spiker, of Oakland.

The hogs had the freedom of an open wood and pasture lot and were fed on milk and other flesh producing foods, in addition to corn.

POSTOFFICE SHOWS GAIN IN BUSINESS DURING 1928

Postmaster Figures Net Profit Would Have Been Larger But For Reduction In Rates

Showing an increase in the sale of stamps at the Oakland postoffice for the year 1[illegible] of $711.50, Postmaster Webster Ravenscroft refers to the fact that this increase in postoffice business came despite that on July 1 1928, the postage rates on several classes of mail matter were reduced by an Act of Congress.

Therefore from an approximate estimate on the number of pieces of mail carried during this period under the reduced rates of postage, Postmaster Ravenscroft figures that under the old rates the increase would have been at least $500 more than is shown on the tables of receipts printed herewith.

The local postoffice really handled during 1928 a greater number of pieces of mail with less revenue coming from the handling. This is considered very gratifying. "It indicates that Oakland has not gone back during the past year," Dr. Ravenscroft said, "although a number of cities and towns did show a loss for the year."

Following is a table showing the sale of stamps at the Oakland office for the years 1927 and 1928, indicating the gain during the last year:

| | 1927 | 1928 |
|---|---|---|
| January | $1,346.71 | $1,287.72 |
| February | 889.51 | 1,268.72 |
| March | 1,336.25 | 1,180.59 |
| April | 1,055.18 | 914.16 |

SIN

LESSON TEXT—I John 1:5-2:6.
GOLDEN TEXT—If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Grieving God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Grieving God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Sin Is and Does.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Sin and Its Consequences.

There is much disparity between the subject and the Scripture unit selected for study. Since the plan is to present the subject topically, using the many texts, it is proper that we should first give a definition of sin.

The etymology of the word translated sin in both the Hebrew and the Greek signifies "to deviate from the way—to miss the mark"; therefore a going aside. Failure to measure up to a standard is sin. Sin is also the transgression of the law (I John 3:4). The positive meaning then is that sin is a transgression of the law. Deeper than all this is the condition of the soul, out of which all thought and actions spring. This is called by Paul concupiscence (Rom. 7:7, 8).

I. The Origin of Sin (Gen. 3:1-24).

Man was placed on probation in the Garden of Eden. This was necessary because Adam was created with the possibility of character, but not with character. This he could get only through testing. Free will, alternative choice, which Adam possessed as a creature bearing the likeness and image of God, made character possible and inevitable.

Character is the resultant of choice. The means used was most simple. God issued just one prohibition. Alongside the tree of good and evil was the tree of life. Satan, a personal being, appeared in the guise of a serpent. He insinuated doubt into Eve's mind and appealed to innocent appetite. She gazed upon and lusted after that which God had forbidden. Following this, she involved Adam in her sin. From this account we see that sin originated, so far as the race is concerned, in the free choice of the head of the race, and through the law of heredity has passed upon all mankind.

II. The Universality of Sin (Rom. 3:10-18).

By the use of numerous quotations from the Scriptures, Paul proves that every member of the race is guilty of sin. He does not admit of an exception.

III. The Fate of Sinners (Gen. 6:5-8).

The disobedience of man greatly displeased God and He resolved to destroy man from the face of the earth. God's nature is such that sin must be punished.

IV. The Source of Sin (Mark. 7:14-23).

All evil thinking and practice spring out of the heart of man. The heart stands for the very center and foundation of the personality. The reason men think vile thoughts is because of their vile nature, which is the result of original sin.

V. The Sins of Believers (I John 1:5-2:6).

1. How perceived (v. 5).

God is here declared to be light. Therefore sin is perceived through the glorious light of the Divine being. No one can see God without seeing himself a vile sinner. To claim fellowship with God while walking in darkness is the lie of life.

2. The Divine remedy for sin (v. 7).

It is the blood of Jesus Christ. Without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin.

3. The believer's responsibility (v. 9).

It is to confess his sin. It is only when we are conscious of our sins in the light of God that we are disposed to make confession of them.

4. God grants forgiveness and cleansing (vv. 9, 10).

Because of His faithfulness in dealing with His children on the basis of the finished work of Christ, He not only forgives, but He cleanses them from all sin.

5. Christ the believer's advocate (2:1, 2).

For believers to sin is not necessary, but the advocate who champions his cause in case of sin is the Lord Jesus Christ Himself, who on Calvary's cross made a propitiation for his sin.

6. Christ's followers obey Him (v. 5).

Those who have experienced God's saving grace render obedience to His Word.

The Love of Christ

A stream can rise no higher than its source. It takes the love of Christ coming into a man's heart to raise him above himself, sweep away the sins he cannot conquer, and fill him with peace and power.

Wealth

Wealth is a weak anchor and glory cannot support a man; this is the law of God, that virtue only is firm and cannot be shaken by a tempest.—Pythagoras.

STOLEN HORSE IS FOUND DROWNED IN CARR RUN

Activities of Thieves at Avilton Are Very Numerous

J. O. Wilhelm, near Avilton, this county, found the big black horse, which was stolen from his stable on New Year's Eve, dead in Carr's run, a mile distant from the Wilhelm farm. The horse was found Thursday morning by William Garlitz enroute to his work at the Big Savage clay bank.

Garlitz immediately notified Wilhelm and with the assistance of Orval Stark, a passerby, the horse was dragged from the stream of water which was about three feet deep. According to Wilhelm the bridge erossing the stream was very frail and possibly at great speed crossing the bridge the horse went through, breaking his legs, forced to remain in the stream and drown. The horse was valued at $200.

The incident is one of many acts of petty thieves in that locality in the past thirty days. Turkeys by the droves, chickens by the hundreds, wood piles and coal piles have mysteriously disappeared. Cellars have been lotted of their stores and graneries have been emptied. Hunters recently discovered a turkey trap in which they found about 36 well fed turkeys Who planted the trap is not known, but Wilhelm's turkeys were returned to him. Investigation is being made into the several robberies and arrests will probably follow.

An Oakland Organist?

This might have happened in Oakland. A sign in front of a church last week read: "Subject of Sunday evening's sermon, 'Do you Know what Hell is?'" and just beneath it in smaller letters; "Come and hear our new organist."

Lots of High Priees.

A reader of Scoop's "eolyum", valuing his personal safety and not desiring a funeral at this time, wrote a letter recently on nothing in particular but a lot of things in general—real estate being included in his epistle. Here it is:

"Word comes that oil was struck near John Martin's, at less than 1,000 feet down, one day recently, reminding us that silver mines were running full blast at Vindex; Shuttlesworth's gold mine is getting into richer ore; Garrett county families were reported heirs to the hundred million Hopkins estate; everyone got rich on Florida real estate a few years ago, not to mention the chain bakeries, etc.

"No diamond mines open as yet, but there are thousands of acres in this county on which to open them as soon as the rush is over and the county has additional banking facilities to offer. Add to this the possibility of an inland waterway for ocean liners up the Youghiogheny river to Oakland, to handle the output of its enormous factories and carry its gold bullion direct to European creditors, and no further explanation for the rise in this county's real estate quotations is needed."

Sand Flat Breezes

Charlie Rodeheaver, Dodge school house and Sand Flat, Inc., breezed into The Republican offices last Saturday and gave out the following information without any solicitation of any kind from Raymond Houck or E. S. Evans:

"I use Amoco gas in my New Ford and when I look around at the boys, they just have to stay back." As far as Scoop has been able to ascertain, no other high powered liquids were used prior to that statement. "However," says Charlie, "with some additional high powered liquid 'stuff' I could negotiate the court house steps.

Col. Bell, with his special apparatus attachment, took a picture of what would happen if Charlie ever got hold of any.

Hittin' On All Four

* * *

Highly "Insoolted"

All the ladies employed at the court house were downright "insulted" last Tuesday night at not being invited to share in the stag party held in the furnace room when the New Year bells rang out the tidings that men were one year older and women were just the same age.

A deep conspiracy to retaliate became a reality last night when an entirely feminine affair was held in the court room, the judges' bench being used as the banquet table. Admittance to the room was obtained only after a strong legal fight. Oscar refused to let them have the furnace room and it was only after a writ of fiery facial ad referendum, sine viro, jury of inquiricndo, and habeas corpus proceedings, that they were admitted to the bar room. The room was gayly bedecked with color and covers were laid for Mrs. A. L. Lee, Mrs. Evelyn Teets and Misses Vivian Clary, Frances Miller, Grace Shatzer, Nell Nethkin, Rhesa King, Evelyn Casteel, Helen L. Kinnick, and Elsie Benthien. A place was set for Miss Green, a former Oaklander, who was to have been the guest of honor, but due to late trains and the breakdown of the sheriff's automobile, she did not arrive.

After singing the song "What a great world this would be if the men were transported to the Northern sea" (for a short furlough only), the meeting was put in charge of Mrs. Lee. Talks were made as follows: Miss King on "A sneeze is your danger signal;" Miss Duvall on "Behind the Closed Doors;" Mrs. Teets, "Why the first floor is nearest the basement;" and Miss Benthien, "Why county agents and others leave home."

Following these enlightenments the meeting was turned over to Miss Kinniek who cut the gobler and dealt the gravy. Col. Bell got a picture of her at her labors.

Read The Republican

When your throat is sore and your ribs feel like they are caving in on your lungs; when it hurts you to cough and the doctor tells you that you have the influenza and that you must remain in bed for two weeks at least; when you know darn well that you won't get outside to get all of the news you want—just read The Republican. It gets all the news of the county while it is news. Then decide to send in $1.50 and subscribe.

If you want more news than that, send a private letter to Scoop and he will supply you with plenty more, in a plain, sealed envelope, postage prepaid. (if two cents is enclosed with request)

CHEVROLET

"Beyond all Expectations!"
-say those who have seen the Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History
-a Six in the price range of the four!

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History has now been seen and inspected by millions of people in every section of America—and everywhere it has been hailed as exceeding all expectations.

Many looked forward to finding a motor of exceptional design—but none expected a six-cylinder valve-in-head engine which develops 32% more power than its famous predecessor, higher speed and faster acceleration, and which delivers better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Many anticipated numerous factors contributing to ease and safety of control—but were amazed at such quality car features as full ball-bearing steering mechanism with latest flat-type wheel, foot controlled headlamps and newly designed, quiet, easy-acting four-wheel brakes.

Many were confident that the new Chevrolet would be a comfortable car—but were delightfully surprised to find such outstanding comfort features as adjustable driver's seat in all closed models, fully cushioned seat backs and larger, roomier bodies.

And although everyone expected that Fisher genius would contribute a new note of beauty in the new Chevrolet—no one ever dreamed that it would be possible to achieve in any low-priced car the elements of beauty, luxury and safety so worthy of direct comparison with the finest and costliest automobiles.

If you have not already made a personal inspection of the new Chevrolet, we urge you to do so at your earliest convenience. The beautiful new models are now on display on our showroom floor—and you are cordially invited to call.

THE INAUGURAL

A very simple program for his inaugural was what President-elect Hoover left instructions for when he sailed away on the man-'o-war Maryland last November.

The ceremony planned for him, in his absence, includes the gaudiest parade in the whole history of inaugural events, with trimmings in proportion, winding up with a ball of unprecedented magnificance.

That Mr. Hoover will submit to the blow-out arranged for him—little as he may like a carnival of fuss-and-feathers—is practically certain. It would be impossible for him to veto it without causing a great deal of hard feeling—an inauspicious beginning for his administration.

The truth is that what the new president wants weighs lightly against the inauguration-manufacturers' desires—especially when he was seven thousand miles away while they were concocting their schedule. There was a lot of talk, at the outset, concerning the simplicity which must characterize the coming inauguration, but nobody meant a word of it. Bit by bit feature was superimposed upon feature until various committees on management had turned out just the article they originally were bent on.

Washington itself always clamors for a regular quadrennial cornation. The capital, of all cities in the country, is geared up to make money from big crowds of tourists. Inauguration day brings such crowds of course, and the bigger they are, the bigger the rakeoff.

Moreover, it is astonishing how many folks fairly revel in parading past a presidential reviewing stand and congratulating themselves on playing their part in a historic "occasion"—governors of states, members of their staffs, army and navy officers, assorted politicians, "prominent citizens" from hither and yon—all sorts of people who, it might seem reasonable to suppose, would have outgrown such childishness.

As for the inaugural ball, the society and official "sets" simply are crazy about it. The men, if anything, are more so than the women. The latter have reasonably frequent opportunities to wear their gladdest of glad rags anyway. Those of the sterner sex with gorgeous full dress uniforms—gold lace, plumed hats and clanking cutlery—are less often privileged to appear in all their splendor. The inaugural ball gives them their chance—and how they love it!

With all these influences at work, the pressure for a rip-snorting pageant at these four-yearly-intervals is tremendous.

The essence of the whole thing is to have the president and the first lady themselves on the job. The parade is no good minus the president to view it. The ball is a frost unless the president and his consort are in attendance.

POPULARIZED LEARNING

It is worthy of note that during the closing week of 1928, 5,000 scientists met in New York; the nation's historical and political scientists met in Indianapolis; the specialists in literature and language met in Toronto; the nation's music teachers met in Cleveland. There were conventions of educators in many places.

The interesting fact about these meetings is that the public at large now shows genuine interest in the discussions and papers presented by the speakers. There are at least two reasons for this. One is that the public education level has beea going up in recent years. There are more pupils in the elementary and secondary schools, more students in colleges, universities and technical schools. More adults who were deprived of educational advantages in their yourth are now attending night schools and seeking book learning from every available source. Naturally all these people are paying more or less attention to the things the leaders in their special fields of interest are doing and talking about.

The other reason is that the organizations referred to have come down quite a distance from the rarified atmosphere in which they formerly conducted their learned discussions and have begun to take a real interest in popularizing the knowledge they possess. They are beginning to speak in plain English a little more and in their own particular jargon a little less. Philosophy, history, science and other subjects which used to be reserved for the savants are now made open books for laymen, not in patronizing ways, but straightforwardly and simply.

These two things are perhaps the most hopeful developments in the contemporary cultural life in this country.

THE NEXT WAR

A naval officer of the United States says, "The next war between big powers will be over fifteen minutes after the fighting fleets come within range of one another."

He explains that the improvements in explosives, guns, gunnery and airplane "spotting" that have been developed since the battle of Jutland are so important that they will make the next great naval battle short and thoroughly decisive.

But there is something that bids fair to he more decisive than big guns and fighting ships. It is so deadly that it can wipe out whole armies in a few minutes. Whole armies or whole cities, as you will. The scientist who talks about this new killing agency explains that it is very cheap and easy to make, and that any nation can make and use it in great quantities in a very short time.

Then the simple-hearted scientist adds that he doesn't believe any nation would really make use of it except in a dire emergency, since it would be so easy, once the thing came into use, to wipe out nations and races.

Of course they'll use it! Can you imagine this country, for instance, engaged in a war to end wars or to establish freedom of the seas, and failing to use any deadly weapon within its reach? Can you imagine the roar that would go up from the parents of the boys at the front if our secretary of war should refuse to authorize the use of a weapon that might end the war overnight?

Futthermore, our public officials know their jobs just well enough to realize that they'd better not run the risk of being caught napping when the next war comes. They'll have plenty of deadly gas, and some even more deadly, stored and ready to release upon the big cities in the enemy country. The next war may be over before it is formally declared, for the nation that beats the others to the big cities of the enemy will have the war won out of hand. The polite custom of formally declaring war will be abandoned for safety's sake, and the gas will be sent swooping down upon the enemy's cities before he has time to realize that he is actually engaged in a war. When politeness and self-preservation clash, in the policy of nations, politeness always goes by the board.

Yes, it's going to be a rather tough war, with very little time wasted in preliminary exchange of courtesies.

Mr. Charles H. Shaffer, Former Garrett Countian, Sails Away to the Canal Zone, Visiting Interesting Points en Route. Among Which was Porte au Prince, Where They Have No Sunday Laws or Eighteenth Amendment.

To the Editor of The Republican.

On December 11th, in company with Mr. C. B. Coflin, of Washington, I sailed from New York on the steamer Cristobal for Panama. We left in the night and the next morning when we awoke we found the sea like a millpond, and this condition existed all the way down. Besides the crew, we carried about 175 passengers, most of them being Canal employes returning from vacation. Children were everywhere and one little cherub would every now and then do cartwheels on the deck for the entertainment of those about. We had also seven Congressmen and their families and a number of engineers going to the Canal Zone to do some road work.

The fifth morning out we reached Port au Prince, Haiti, a seaport of about 125,000, all very black. Everybody seemed anxious to get ashore and most of the passengers did leave the ship for the day. It was Sunday, but they have no Sunday closing law and they have no Eighteenth Amendment, all of which was very evident as the passengers returned loaded down with various purchases. As a rule they carried their liquor well for there was no disorder that night aboard the vessel. Usually it is otherwise on the night after leaving Haiti.

My friend and I were fortunate in that we were met by an old friend, a planter on the island who took us into the hills to a point about 1,500 feet above the sea, where the view was grand and the air was cool and pleasant. We returned to his home for dinner and made our first acquaintance with fried plantain and other tropical dishes. As I was returning to the ship I was stopped by a youthful engineer to change a bill so he could pay for his purchases which a half dozen natives were carrying. Just what he was going to do with his purchases he did not know as he expected his job on the Isthmus to last many months. That night at dinner he regaled us with an account of his adventures ashore and praises of Haiti in general. He concluded by saying that if he could find a girl that would marry him they would return and spend the honeymoon in Haiti, for it was too grand a place for one to fully enjoy all alone.

We reached Cristobal or Colon, the Atlantic entrance of the canal, Wednesday morning in a pouring rain. Here we spent two days taking in the sights of the town and ia visiting the Gatun locks, and as a special favor we were allowed to go into the operating tower and witness the manipulation of the keys that controlled the locks ia passing ships through the locks and also to see the ponderous machinery employed in the operation.

In crossing the Isthmus by rail you pass through arms of Gatun lake. A great number of old trees were killed when the lake was filled. They are now white and bleached and make a ghostly sight. A number of native dug-outs or cayugas are to be seen, and of course the wild banana and plantain trees are to be seen everywhere. Balboa on the Pacific side is the new residence section of Panama, where the Americans mostly live. It is a beautiful place. Here we met a number of old friends who entertained us royally, one Mrs. Parker lifted a load of responsibility from our shoulders hy taking us shopping, for of course one always has a number of commissions given him when visiting Panama. The merchants are mostly East Indians and Chinamen, but one of the most interesting I found was a native, mostly Indian, who sold Panama hats near the Opera House. Of course we visited the water front where they have at times an eighteen foot tide. There we saw pelicans and other birds feeding, and native boats on the beach loaded with strange produce from down the coast. On the gunwhale of one I saw a pet toucan feeding on bananas. Panama City is a strange and interesting town. The streets aree crooked and narrow. The side walks are wide enough for only one person. It contains some fine residences and numerous old churches dating from the time of the Spaniards. One contains a gorgeous and beautiful altar, said to have come from Old Panama. It is said to have been overlooked by Morgan's men as the priests had covered it with a coat ofwhitewash. Both Panama and Colon are well paved and clean, thanks to the Americans who retain exclusive jurisdiction over such matters.

We were scheduled to leave Balboa Sunday morning early and up te 9 o'clock Saturday night had not yet seen the ruins of old Panama, which is about seven miles down the coast. Then our friends came to our rescue and drove us down so we could view it in the full glory of a tropical full moon. We had a splendid view of the old church tower, about 75 feet high, the monastery, and King's bridge over which Morgan crossed when he attacked the city. The place is now deserted and cattle were feeding about. In the fore ground was a long horned steer that looked as though it had descended from the old Spanish cattle.

On Sunday afternoon we started back. Chritsmas Day we spent at sea and it did not seem at all natural although attempts were made to make it so. We reached New York the day before New Years, and sure were glad to be back even if it was cloudy and cold.

In conclusion I want to say that I take my hat off to the Americans who cleaned up the Isthmus and built the Canal and who are running it today. Those I met were very courteous and obliging and were glad to show me all I wanted to see. They take a great pride in their work and all the equipment is kept in perfect shape which must require eternal vigilance in that climate. CHARLES H. SHAFFER.

MT. LAKE PARK.

THE EDITORIAL "WE."

We never understood until just the other day why it was that anyone who writes an article savoring of an editorial is supposed to use the personal pronoune "we," whenever referring to himself. We presumed, generally, that it was simply a broad gesture to modesty.

But standing near the postoffice the other day we overheard a fellow discussing some of the articles appearing in this column and from his manner he didn't entirely agree with us.

We didn't hear everything he said, as we sort of sidestepped, not wishing to be too close if he got excited.

Then it was that we came to the conclusion that the use of "we" had its practical side. In short, if aaything appears ia a column of a newspaper at which a citizea takes offense, he examines it to see if he can find the author. But the closest he can come to finding out is the word "we." That being the case, he rushes to the sanctum and takes a crack at the editor, (in his judgment) to be designated as he being the only person connected with a paper of enough importance "we." Therefore, we will continue to use the word.

Seriously, we hope no one will take offense where none is meant. So far as any criticisms that may appear, "there is not a knock in a carload." They are made solely with the intention of bringing to the attention of readers the goldea opportunities here for pleasure and profit if they will but awaken to the fact.

Let your minds hearken back to but a few years ago. Then Doctor Davidson was putting on his big show—the Chautauqua. Then it was that thousands of visitors flocked to the Park. Everyone was happy and prospering. Peter T. Garthright's store was doing a big business and the Oakland merchants were getting their share of the trade. Jake Echard was running at capacity with his long, many-seated carryall, making daily trips to the far and near points of interest. All the cottages were occupied and well kept and the boarding house keepers were satisfied, looking sleek and extremely happy.

Of course, the day of the big, heavy Chautauqua is past. This day of the radio, fast trains, faster automobiles and still faster airplanes, with keen competition in business and the multiple worries incident to the swifter pace and with the progress of the age demands a different and more varied form of entertainment and mental stimuli than to sit through six weeks of intellectual grind listening to long lectures composed of facts that can now be obtained by simply tuning in on the favorite station while sitting at home with family and friends enjoying a good cigar.

It is again insisted that we, on this mountain top, have the nucleus about which to build even a bigger and better resort, having for our objective the restoration of health through the medium of a rejuvenating climate, an abundance of pure water and the natural beauty of our surroundings as well as giving good, clean entertainment and outdoor entertainment and enjoyment in keeping with the progress along such lines, for those desiring such entertainment.

This can be brought about by energetic, organized effort.

Let's go to it.

Wiley Welling employed in Cumberland, is home, recovering from a serious case of influenza.

The regular services will be held in the M. E. church on Sunday, as follows: Sunday school at 10 a. m., Mr. Charles Harvey, superintendent; morning service at 11 o'clock; Epworth League at 6:45, using the story of Methodism. Evening worship at 7:50. Rev. Middaugh, pastor, will preach both morning and evening.

Mrs. G. B. M. Friend is recovering from an illness.

Miss Norma Welling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Welling, is ill at her home.

Rev. Fultz was compelled to close the revival meetings which have been in progress for the last week, on account of the prevalence of the flu, and weather conditions. The meetings will be resumed at a future date, to be announced.

Rev. Cuppett has been assisting Rev. Westfall in a series of meetings at Deer Park during the past week.

A nice crop of ice, about 8 inches thick, was harvested from the lake this past week by Mr. Tassie and his assistants.

Mr. R. L. Hamill, who is a patient in the Western Maryland Hospital, at Cumberland, we are glad to note, is improving. Mrs. Hamill has been at his bedside for the past week.

The Park has been remarkably free from sickness lately, considering the reports from other communities. While, of course, we have a few scattered cases of flu, the attack has been in a light form, and all the patients are recovering nicely.

We understand that the negotiation for the sale of the Park are progressing. It is interesting to note that if the sale is completed, credit is due to Mr. J. W. Traver, who brought it to the attention of a real estate firm in Washington. Mr. Traver is spending a few months in Florida.

Oak Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F., held a very interesting meeting Wednesday evening, with a goodly number present. The officers for the ensuing year were installed, after which a smoker was held, at which delightful refreshments were served. The Lodge is thankful that although it has a membership of more than 150, not a single death occurred during 1928.

BITTINGER.

The old year 1928 passed out quietly, and the new year is passing on apace, but thus far not a single jingling sleigh bell has been heard.

Mr. Irvin Beachy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Beachy, of this community, and Miss Myrtle Durst, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Durst, of near this settlement, were quietly married at the Lutheran parsonage by Rev. E. E. Campbell, on Monday evening, December 31. The bride and groom left Tuesday morning for Akron, Ohio, where they expect to reside in the future.

Peter Opel, of the Amish settlement, was a very pleasant caller in this village one day last week.

Mr. Jonas Gnagey is spending some time with his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Beachy, at the Beachy farm near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wiley returned from Baltimore last Friday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Wiley placed their two little daughters, Fannie and Olis, in a city hospital, for treatment, hoping to remove the effects of a recent attack of infantile paralysis. The children are said to be improving.

Miss Bertha Lechnor, of Aurora, is at the Petersheim home at present.

Mr. S. W. Slabach, Mrs. Wm. E. Spoelein and son Earle were present every Sunday during the year 1928.

Miss Ida Martin is home from Morgantown.

Mr. Joseph Martin spent Sunday with Mrs. Martin in Cumberland in which city she is a patient in Western Maryland Hospital to which institution she was taken following the development of blood poisoning in her hand caused by the puncture made by a darning needle several days before. Mrs. Martin's condition is now somewhat improved.

SPARKS FROM AN OAKLAND PULPIT

Revelation 3:8: Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it.

St. John was a prisoner on Patmos, a penal island in the Mediterranean, inhabited by convicts marooned for various crimes ranging from high felonies to Christian discipleship, openly confessed, like John's. This island was the cage in which John was confined, the bars of which were bars of water, yet stronger than steel—the sea, the encompassing sea which separated him irrevocably from home and friends and church.

But the prisoner of Patmos, sighing because the door of liberty has been closed upon him, hears a Voice from above speaking of the open door which cannot be closed. Locked in this cage by the key of Rome, he sees in his dream One who holds the key of David, who openeth and no man shutteth; and shutteth and no man openeth.

It is one of the sublimest revelations that has ever come to the human soul. What is true liberty? What is real bondage?

Stone walls do not a prison make,
Nor iron bars a cage;
Minds innocent and quiet take
That for an hermitage.

If I have freedom in my love
And in my soul am free,
Angels alone, that soar above,
Enjoy such liberty.

What human being has not experienced the bitter tragedy of having the door slammed in his face? It may be some poor fellow with a starving family knocking in vain at the employment offices. It may be some foolish ambitious girl who has gone to New York or Hollywood to become a "star," only to be greeted with a shrug. It may be some young man black-balled by the lodge he wants to join, or by the sweet girl he wants to marry. It may be some pathetic woman with a shawl over her head, a baby in one arm, a bundle in the other, waiting at Ellis Island to be sent back to the old country, from which she had come to rejoin her husband who had preceded her to America, only to find the quota filled, the door closed. It may be some splendid lad who yearns for a university education but who has a widowed mother, or an invalid sister to support. Oh, the tragedy of the closed door!

Who has not stood in Moses' stead on Mount Nebo, and gazed with wistful eyes at some promised land, just over there, and yet forever out of reach? So St. John stood on the shore of Patmos and looked with yearning eyes across the blue-green waste of waters to the purple hills where lay his home. And who does not need to hear, as John heard, the Voice, as of many waters, "Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it."

We are passing through the open door of the New Year into the unexplored country of 1929. Each one must blaze a new trail where foot of man has never trodden before. A virgin continent lies before us with limitless opportunities for those who seek them—with incalculable treasurers for eager minds and expectant hearts, but only barren soil for the listless and the dull—with victory for the courageous and defeat for the timid.

The year will be what we make it. But the richest rewards will come to those who find the secret door to life more abundant.

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door," Christ Himself is the Open Door, the Way, the only Way, to Life.

The Black Hole of Calcutta

Nowhere in history is there a tale of a night more closely crammed with horror than the tale of the Black Hole of Calcutta.

Today Calcutta is the seat of British government in India. In 1756, when Suraj-ud-Dowlah, the young Nabob of Bengal besieged it with his force of fanatical Mohammedans, it was being held by a small English garrison. The fashion of the defense reflected no great credit upon those in command of the defending unit, although the handful of troops for the most part fought bravely.

Early in the siege a majority of the white officials took ship and fled away to safety. The remaining Europeans, under the volunteer leadership of John Zephaniah Holwell (also spelled Holwell) behaved with great gallantry. But when the fort was ablaze in a dozen places, when 25 members of the fighting force were dead or fatally wounded, and 70 more had sustained disabling injuries, and finally when many of the common soldiers, having broken into a storehouse of native rum, were hopelessly intoxicated, the place was surrendered.

Of the prisoners, 146, including at least one woman, were by the Nabob's instructions crammed together into a chamber, a cell, really—for it had been used as a dungeon—less than 25 feet square. There were but two small barred windows and these windows were set well back under the overhang of a wide veranda. At best, the room almost was airless. The heat was terrific even for India in midsummer. It was the night of June 20.

In the morning, when the order for release came, 23 poor wretches, all of them either insensible or raving mad, were carried out. The others remained in heaped-up masses of dead. The civilian leader, Mr. Holwell, was one of those who still lived.

After considerable delay the survivors, with the exception of Holwell and two others, were turned loose. These three were loaded with fetters and kept as captives for some time, the Nabob trying to force them to betray the whereabouts of treasure which he believed was secreted somewhere in the sacked city. After seven months, a British expedition under command of Admiral Watson and Colonel Clive retook Calcutta.

In the meantime, Holwell had written out his recollections of that hideous night in the Black Hole. It is a narrative of such suffering and such heroism as almost to stagger the imagination, but set down with so much vigor and so much attention to detail as to recreate the ghastly scene in all its pristine vividness.

IT IS Mr. Holwell speaking to us across the gap of nearly one hundred and seventy intervening years. He is one of the handful who emerged alive from that hideous pit where one hundred and forty-six were thrust a short twelve hours before. Twenty-three are left out of one hundred and forty-six, and some of these twenty-three are crazed and all will bear to their graves the marks of their incredible suffering.

But Holwell is strong and he still is sane. In language so graphic that the colors of the picture glow as devilishly bright in 1925 as they glowed in 1756, he tells what happened on that unutterable night. Reading what he set down, it is as if he were speaking to us. I say this Holwell was a born reporter. If ever there lived one. In our gallery of eye-witnesses he stands out conspicuously.

Follow his narrative, please, and I predict you will agree with me:

"We had been but a few minutes confined before everyone fell into a perspiration so profuse you can form no idea of it. This consequently brought on a raging thirst which increased in proportion as the body was drained of its moisture. Various expedients were thought of to gain more room and air. To obtain the former, it was moved that all should put off their clothes. In a few minutes I believe every man was stripped (myself, Mr. Court and two wounded young gentlemen excepted). Every hat was put in motion to produce a circulation of air; and Mr. Baillie proposed that every man should sit down on his hams. As they were truly in the situation of drowning wretches, no wonder they caught at everything. This expedient was several times put in practice and at each time many of the poor creatures whose natural strength was less than others or who had been exhausted and could not immediately recover their legs as the others did when the word was given to rise, fell to rise no more; for they were immediately trodden to death or suffocated. When the whole group sat down they were so closely wedged together that they were obliged to use many efforts before they could set themselves in motion to get up again."

The Fatal Water.

To this terrible phase of the torture Holwell was a spectator but not actually a participant. For he had managed to secure a place near one of the two tiny windows. Clinging to its cross-bars, he for a while observed the struggles of his fellow-sufferers. He continues: "Efforts were made again and again to force the single door, but in vain. Many insults were used to the guards to provoke them to fire upon us. By keeping my face between two of the bars I obtained air enough to give my lungs easy play though my perspiration was excessive, and thirst was commencing. At this period, so strong an effluvia came from the prison that I was not able to turn my head that way more than a few seconds at a time. Now everybody excepting those near the windows begin to grow frantic and many delirious. 'Water, water!' became the general cry.

"One guard, taking pity on us, ordered other natives to bring some skins of water, little dreaming, I believe, of its fatal effects. This was what I dreaded. I foresaw it would prove the ruin of the small chance left us and I essayed many times to urge him privately to forbid its being brought; but the clamor was so loud that it became impossible. The water appeared. Words cannot paint to you the universal raving which the sight of it threw us into. I had flattered myself that some of us, by preserving an equal temper of mind might outlive the night; but now the reflection that gave me the greatest pain was that I saw no possibility of a single one escaping to tell the dismal tale.

"We had no means of conveying the water into the hole except by hats forced through the bars; and thus myself and Messrs. Coles and Scot (notwithstanding the pain they suffered from their wounds) supplied our fellow victims as fast as possible

"The confusion now became general and horrid. Several quitted the other window—the only chance they had for life—to force their way to the water, and the throng and press upon our window was beyond bearing; many pressed down those in their way who had less strength, and tramped them to death.

"Our enemies took care to keep us supplied with water, that they might have the satisfaction of seeing us fight for it, as they phrased it, and held up lights to the bars that they might lose no part of the inhuman diversion. From about nine to near eleven, I sustained my situation, still supplying water, though my legs almost broke with the weight against them. By this time I myself was very near pressed to death, and my two companions with Mr. William Parker—who meanwhile had forced himself into the window—already had succumbed.

"My friend Baillie, Messrs. Jenks, Revely, Law, Buchanan, Simpson, and several others, had for some time been dead at my feet. At last I became so wedged upon that I was deprived of all motion. Determined now to give everything up, I called to those nearest me and begged them to remove the weight upon me and permit me to retire out of the window to die in quiet. They gave way, and with much difficulty I forced a passage into the center of the prison where the throng was less by reason of the many dead, then, I believe, amounting to the third of us.

At the Window.

"In the Black Hole there is a platform raised between three and four feet from the floor, open underneath; extending the whole length of the east side of the prison and above six feet wide.

"I traveled over the dead and repaired to the further end of it just opposite the other window and seated myself on the platform between Mr. Dumbleton and Captain Stevenson, the former just then expiring. I was still in the same calmness of mind which I had preserved the whole time. Death I expected as unavoidable, and only lamented its slow approach. Here my poor friend, Mr. Edward Eyre, came staggering over the bodies to me and with his usual coolness asked me how I felt. He fell and expired before I had time to make reply. I laid myself down on some of the dead behind me. I had the comfort of thinking my sufferings could have no long duration.

"I had not remained in this situation ten minutes when I was seized with a pain in my breast and palpitation at my heart. I retained my senses, notwithstanding, and had the grief to see death not so near me as I hoped; but since I could no longer bear the pain without attempting relief, which I knew fresh air, only, could give me, I determined to push for the window opposite me. By an effort of double the strength I ever before possessed, I gained the third rank at it and with one hand seized a bar, and by that means gained the second rank. In a few moments my difficulty in breathing ceased; but my thirst continued intolerable. I called aloud for 'Water, for God's sake!' I had been regarded as dead; but as soon as they heard me amongst them some still had tenderness enough for me to cry out: 'Give him water, give him water!' Nor would one of them at the window attempt to touch a tilled hat until I had drank.

"But from the water I found no relief; my thirst was rather increased by it; so I decided to drink no more, but patiently wait the end. I kept my mouth moist from time to time by sucking the perspiration out of my shirt sleeves and catching the drops as they fell like heavy rain from my face. You can hardly imagine how unhappy I was if any of them escaped my mouth. One of my miserable companions took the hint and robbed me, from time to time, of a considerable part of my store of perspiration by sucking at one of my sleeves, and our mouths and noses often met in the contest. This plunderer, I found afterwards, was Mr. Lushington, a worthy young gentleman in the service, and one of the few who escaped death

The Fight for Air.

"By half past eleven, much the greater number of those yet living were in delirium and all the rest were quite ungovernable; few retaining any calmness. They all now had found that water, instead of relieving, rather heightened their distress; and 'Air, air!' was the general cry. Every insult that could be devised against the guard was repeated to provoke the natives to fire upon us. Every man that could move was pushing towards the windows with the hopes of meeting the first shot. Then arose also a general prayer to heaven to hasten the approach of the flames of the burning town and put a finish to our misery.

"But these failing, they whose strength and spirits were exhausted, laid themselves down and quietly expired on their fellows. Others, who had yet some vigor left made a last effort at the windows and several succeeded, by leaping and scrambling over the backs and heads of those in the front, and these got hold of the bars, from which there was no removing them. Many to the right and left sank under the violent pressure and were suffocated; for now a steam arose from the living and the dead which affected us as if we were being forcibly held with our heads over a bowl full of strong spirits of hartshorn.

"Frequently when I was forced by the load upon my head and shoulders to hold my face down, I was obliged, near as I was to the window, instantly to raise it again in order to escape suffocation. In this plight, from half an hour past eleven till nearly two in the morning, I sustained the weight of a heavy man, with his knees in my back and the pressure of his whole body on my head. A Dutch sergeant had taken his seat upon my left shoulder and a black Christian soldier was bearing down on my right. The two latter I frequently dislodged by shifting my hold on the bars and driving my knuckles into their ribs; but my friend above held fast by two bars and was immovable.

"I exerted my strength and fortitude. But the repeated trials I made to dislodge the insufferable incumbrances upon me at last quite exhausted me. Towards two o'clock, finding I must quit the window or sink where I was, I resolved on the former course. In the rank close behind me was an officer of one of the ships, whose name was Cary, and who had behaved with much bravery during the siege. His wife, a fine woman, would not quit him but accompanied him into the prison and was one of the few of us who survived. This poor wretch had been long raving for water and air; I told him I was determined to give up life, and urged him to gain my station. On my falling back he made a fruitless attempt to get my place; but the Dutch sergeant supplanted him.

"Poor Cary expressed his thankfulness but said that he would give up, too. It was with the utmost labor that we forced our way back from the window through dead bodies which yet remained standing, being upright by terrific pressure. He laid himself down to die, and his death, I believe, was very sudden.

Miraculous Escape.

"I was at this time sensible of no pain and had little uneasiness. I felt a stupor stealing on me and laid myself down by that gallant old man, Rev. Mr. Jervas Bellamy, who lay dead, hand in hand with his dead son, Lieutenant Bellamy, near the southernmost wall of the prison. When I had lain there some time I had some fear in the thought that I should be trampled upon after I was dead, as I myself had done to others. With great difficulty I raised myself and gained the platform a second time, where I presently lost all sensation.

"Of what passed from this time until the time of my resurrection from this hole of horrors I can offer no account; and indeed, the particulars given by some who survived were so absurd and contradictory as to convince me that very few of them retained their senses.

"In my own escape from death the hand of Heaven was manifestly exerted. When the day broke, and the survivors found that no entreaties could prevail to get the door opened, it occurred to one of them—Mr. Secretary Cook, to make a search for me in hopes I might have influence enough with the guards to gain a release.

"Accordingly, Messrs. Lushington and Walcot undertook the search and by my shirt recognized me under the heapen-up dead upon the platform. They drew me forth and, imaging I had some sign of life, brought me to one of the windows. But as life was equally dear to every man, no one would give up his station in or near the window; so they were obliged to carry be back again. But soon after, Captain Mills, who was in possession of a seat in the window, had the humanity to offer to resign it. I was again brought by the same gentlemen and placed in the window. At this juncture the native commander, who had received an account of the havoc death had made amongst us, sent one of his under officers to enquire if the chief among us survived. They showed me to him, told him I had the appearance of life remaining in me, and they believed I might recover if the door was opened very soon.

"This answer being returned to the chief, an order came immediately for our release, it being then near six in the morning. The fresh air at the window soon brought me to life; and a few minutes restored my sight and senses. The little strength that remained amongst the most robust who survived made it a difficult task to remove the dead piled up against the door, so that, I believe, it was more than twenty minutes before we obtained a passage out for more than one at a time."

UNWRITTEN CUSTOMS AND RULES ARE OBSERVED

Maryland Legislature's Procedure Is About The Same Since its First Session in 1776

(From The Marylander.)

Two years ago the Baltimore Sun decided that sixty days would see the close of the session of the General Assembly, but the sixty days passed, and, as those who are familiar with the habits and customs which have prevailed at Annapolis since the organization of the State, expected would be the case, so far from being ready to adjourn, less than one-fourth of the work was actually started on its way, and the usual jam took place during the last few days, and the last night of the term, on Monday, April 4, found the sergeant-at-arms turning back the clocks of the two houses to prolong the legislative day beyond midnight, which is the constitutional hour for the end of business.

Does Things In Its Own Way.

The legislature has its own way of doing things—and it does them in its own time-honored ways, no matter what may be the views of newspaper writers and general run of citizens.

It may change certain of its written rules of procedure from time to time in unimportant particulars, the whole membership may change, but there are certain unwritten rules and customs which have not changed since the first session, after the adoption of the constitution of 1776.

And no matter what may be the criticism from newspapers, bodies of citizens or individuals, the same old customs are followed and the outcome is always about the same, for when the members of the two Houses are gathered together at Annapolis, whether the control is in the power of one party or the other, in all important particulars, the outcome is about the same, and the State goes on in its old-fashioned, peaceful way, the government averages about as usual, and the prosperity of the whole people of Maryland has never declined, but slowly and surely has continued to increase, from the foundation of the colony to the present time.

Whether those in control in the olden times were Whigs, Federalists, or Democrats, and in these later days, Democrats or Republicans, the peace, progress and prosperity, scarcely ever varied, and a spirit of conservative justice, decency, and honesty prevailed and still prevails from the mountains to the sea, and from the Mason and Dixon line to the borders and waters of Virginia.

Throughout the entire three centuries of her existence as a colony and later as a State, the commonwealth has been noted for her conservative policies, and for the conservative spirit evident in those who have been entrusted with her government, and, as a result, "peace and prosperity, truth and justice, religion and piety," have, as a general thing, prevailed in all her borders.

From time to time during the hundred and fifty years of her history as a State, there have been threatened outbreaks of radicalism, sections of popular sentiment have appeared dangerous to the peace and well-being of the people, but when the General Assembly has convened after an election held at such intervals, the normal conservative record has been followed and no signs or traces of radicalism have left the slightest vestige in the legislation enacted.

The laws which have been placed on the books have been of the same safe and sane character as all those which have gone through the test of the General Assembly since the colony became a soveregin state, and in the end all have been satisfied.

Conowingo Under Control of Maryland Laws.

And, despite all the warnings and prophesies of changes and unfortunate enactments, despite all the fears of evil and dangerous legislation, despite all the forebodings of the extravaganee and waste, this legislature will doubtless pass its time without any really dangerous signs or tendencies of any sort. The oyster fisheries, as well as all other fishing and tidewater privileges, will remain subject to the riparian rights of those who dwell on the shores of the bays and inlets of the State; there will be no reckless expenditures of the public funds, Conowingo will remain under the control of Maryland laws, the public highways will continue to be improved, the Sunday laws will remain as they are, the State Prohibition laws will keep on being enforced in the mild and not drastic manner the masses of the people prefer, and when the final adjournment takes place, at midnight on April 1, the population of the commonwealth will find everything going on as it has always been going on and there will be satisfaction evident on the faces of all, except possibly a small portion of the people, who are never satisfied with the work of the General Assembly, no matter what course the law-making body may follow or what it may do.

Ninety per cent of the people of the State are opposed to all radical changes in laws and customs prevailing, and their representatives at the State House are prepared to carry out their wishes. They realize that they are there in a representative capacity—that they are at Annapolis to carry out the popular will—and they can be depended on to do it, as their fathers have done before them.

Old-Time Lobbyists Gone.

Perhaps the most noticeable feature at the opening of the session is the complete absence of the old-time lobbyists—none of them are camped there, as they have been at all former meetings since the Civil War.

It is true most of them are dead, but there are a few of those who were called in the olden days "petty larceny lobbyists," but there seems to be little left for them to do of a profitable nature, and those who will admit that such is their business, complain that there is "nothing doing," and bewail the profitable sessions of the past.

If there is any real work for the lobby, there is no open sign of it, and the picturesque, and interesting characters of former generations, who dealt out champaign and terrapin, not to mention money and promises, appear to have gone forever. The usual corporation bills are no more in evidence—the usual "prominent attorneys." who were here in days past and gone, "looking out for interests of their clients," are conspicuously absent, and, while occasionally a lawyer of eminence may appear on the scene, he will satisfy himself by making an argument before a committee and then depart for Baltimore.

And the "big games," which were part of former sessions, are heard of no more.

There is no appreciable drunkenness here now, and while possibly a member may occasionally take a drop or two more than is good for him, it will be a rare exception to see anyone under the influence of any sort of liquor either at the State House or around the town.

While a large proportion of the members cannot be said to favor prohibition, there is no doubt but practically all are really temperate in their habits, and whatever drinking may be done, will be moderate in its character, and none of the former scandals arising from drunkenness will be seen at the State House this winter.

Members Thoroughly Representative.

Taking altogether, the members of the present legislature are thoroughly representative of what is best and most respectable in the citizenship of the whole State, and Maryland will probably have no reason to feel ashamed of them when the final adjournment takes place and the record is placed in the historic archives of the commonwealth.

ONLY SEVEN APPLY FOR LICENSES DURING WEEK

Small Number of Permits Are Granted at Local Bureau

Although the number of marriage licenses issued during the month of January has always been low, what is believed to be the lowest figure during any one week, was issued during the past week, ending Monday at noon, when only seven applicants presented themselves at the office of Mr. E. Z. Tower, clerk of the Circuit court.

If the present average were carried out for the entire month January, 1929, would have 49 applications granted, a figure that hasn't been associated with marriage licenses at the Court House in Oakland for a number of years.

Fifty-nine licenses were granted last year for the month of January, while the highest number for this particular month was granted in 1925 when 76 were issued.

"January, February and March are always rather slow," A. G. Ross, deputy clerk at the Clerk's office said Monday.

Those applying for the coveted papers were:

Thomas Kenneth Parry, 21, student, and Wilma McCracken, 18, student, both of Waynesburg, Pa.

Clarence Hugh Bateman, 19, (parents' consent) farmer, Swanton, and Ruby Grace Wright, 17, (parents' consent) Altamont.

Gilbert Nay Kitzmiller, 22, miner, and Lucille Myrtle Marteny, 21, both of Cassville, W. Va.

Dayton Fike, 21, miner, Vindex, Md., and Nora Knox, 17, (parents' consent) Swallow Falls, Md.

Leonard Russell Satterfield, 31, miner, and Daisy Belle Moone, 18, both of Hammond, West Va.

George Walter Summers, 21, miner, and Meredith May Sease, 18, both of Fairmont, West Va.

William Frederick Gerkin, 21, laborer, and Eva Lala Vandergrift, 29, both of Fairmont, W. Va.

GRANTSVILLE.

High School To Have Paper.

The members of the student body of Grantsville high school are engaged in one of the most important extra-curricular activities in the history of the school in planning to introduce to the public within the next few days their new high school paper, "The Pike." Grantsville school is one of the oldest educational institutions in Garrett county and it is located on the National Highway. The students, therefore, thought it fitting to have their school paper named "The Pike."

The first issue will contain an interesting historical sketch of the development of the present Grantsville high school with a eulogy of the public school officials, and the patrons who have made this organization possible.

The students and faculty trust the public will receive this paper in the spirit in which it is published and help them to boost the school and the educational advantages it aims to give.

A very interesting meeting of the Womans' Community Club was held at the home of Miss Christina Winterberg on Wednesday afternoon. The programs for this year were discussed and outlined by Miss Elsie Benthien, county demonstration agent. Special meetings to be held during the year were also discussed.

Owing to the small attendance the election of officers was not held as had been scheduled. A special meeting will be called by Miss Winterberg this month.

The February meeting will be held at Mrs. J. U. Stanton's home during an entire day. Demonstrations and making of lamp shades will be the program.

OVER 6600 CHILDREN WERE TESTED AT CONFERENCES

Ranged in Age from Babes to Older Brothers and Sisters

Over 6,600 children, ranging in age from babies a few months old to their older brothers and sisters who were getting ready for admission to school, were given a health examination at the child health conferences held throughout the counties during 1928, under the joint direction of the local health officer and the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health. A report of each examination was sent to the family physician. There were 404 conferences, every one of the counties being represented.

Tuberculosis Clinics.

Under the joint direction of the State Department of Health and the Maryland Tuberculosis Association, chest clinics for the examination of persons showing symptoms of tuberculosis were held throughout the counties during 1928.

Over 250 clinics were held, an average of 21 each month, and covering every section of the State. Over 3,200 persons were examined, more than 90 per cent of the total being referred to the clinics by their own physicians.

Pasteur Treatments.

Over 150 persons who had been bitten by rabid or vicious animals were given the Pasteur treatment as a preventive against rabies (hydrophobia) in 1928. Of that number, 100 were treated at the headquarters of the State Department of Health, in Baltimore, by the Chief of the Pasteur Division, Dr. C. W. G. Rohrer; 50 were given whatever emergency aid was necessary and were referred to the family physicians for the completion of the treatments.

There were 450 additional applicants who had been bitten or otherwise injured by vicious animals for whom the Pasteur treatment was found to be unnecessary, as the animals by which they were injured were found to be normal after they had been kept for observation for the required length of time by the State or Baltimore City Departments of Health or by the State Board of Agriculture.

Over 220 animals—200 dogs, 12 cats, 2 cows and a number of rats, were involved in the injuries to the men, women and children who applied for or were given the Pasteur treatments. Laboratory examinations showed that 35 of the dogs, 2 of the cats and the two cows were rabid. Over 140 of the dogs were found to be normal after they had been kept under observation for the required length of time.

DIED

DEATH OF MRS. CATHERINE WEBER.

Mrs. Catherine Weber departed this life early Sunday morning, January 6th, near the completion of her eighty-third year. She was wholly devoted and loyal to God and strived continually to follow in the footsteps of her Lord.

Always frail physically, she was nevertheless undaunted and untiring in her duties and privileges as a wife and mother. Her kindly Christian influence and her desire always to be of assistance went beyond the circle of her home, as many can testify.

She was the eldest daughter of the late Peter and Christena Schultz, of Mount Savage, Md., and was united in marriage to the late Henry Weber on February 2, 1866. The fruit of this union was eleven children, nine of whom survive and who pay loving tribute to her memory and to her untiring faithfulness as a mother and who look forward to the time when the loving relationship temporarily broken may be resumed again in our Lord's due time.

Funeral services held at the family home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock were attended by many friends and relatives. Her remains were consigned to Mother Earth in a quiet spot on the homestead under the trees which she loved. Her spirit is forever joined with the Lord.

The pallbearers were chosen from among her grandsons and nephews. The services were conducted by Mr. W. E. VanAmburgh, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. VanAmburgh said in part:

We must all acknowledge that we are real, actual people. We are living on a real earth and our experiences, both joyful and otherwise, are very real. When one of our dearly loved ones is suddenly called from us by the heavy hand of death, the pain is real.

When we are afflicted with bodily pains our friends seek to relieve them by the comforts of soft bedding or medicine, but there are pains of the heart and mind which such comforts can not ease. Doubtless the Apostle had these latter in mind when he wrote to the Corinthian church, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of all mercies, and the God of all comfort; who comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God."

Much of our sorrow or pain of heart and mind is caused by ignorance which can often be relieved by knowledge. For instance if we were walking along the street with a friend who had been born blind and the fire wagons should suddenly come rumbling down the street with their whistles and bells and great noise, our friend might be terrified because he did not understand the cause. On the other hand we would be at ease of mind because we did understand the matter.

The Apostle says, "I would not brethren that ye be ignorant concerning them which are asleep (in death) that ye sorrow not (have terror or pain of mind) as others who have no hope."

The Apostle here plainly states that a knowledge of God's plan brings an ease of mind and a comfort for pain. This is true concerning those who understand God's purposes and His wisdom in permitting the human race to have gone through such trouble during its past history. God has not been unmindful of all the terrible suffering which man has passed through.

The Apostle mentions a hope which inspires the Christian. What is a hope? According to the dictionary and also the Bible, it means a definite desire with the prospect of obtaining its fulfillment. If a friend would write to us that he was sending us a check for a thousand dollars, it would no doubt greatly cheer us. The desire might already have been in our hearts but no prospect of obtaining it; but when the letter is received there is a definite prospect and this becomes a hope. Later when the check is received and deposited it changes from hope to possession.

Try to picture to yourself this world upon which we are living without a sick person, without a doctor, nurse or hospital; without an army of any kind for any nation, without a policeman, court, or jail. With every man and woman as handsome as an angel in heaven enjoying the full blessing of life without an ache or pain of any kind. Everyone enjoying a home of his own with all his friends and loved ones about him and no prospect of sorrow, sickness or death. Not a life or fire insurance company in existence for no one would be dying or no accidents occuring; every one in the bloom of youth with no expectancy of old age. In other words this earth as delightful a place to live in as heaven.

You might say that is a beautiful picture and every one could desire it, but there is no prospect of ever obtaining it, hence we might as well pass it by. Do you know that God has issued his checks for those very things here on earth? You might say no! When did God ever issue any checks? What is a check? A promise to pay. God's Bible is his check book. It is filled with wonderful promises to pay; they include the very things I have just mentioned and many more.

The Bible is the only book in the world which has a promise or check that those who go down into the grave shall be resurrected. That means your friends and my friends have all got to be brought back to life. Jesus gave three illustrations of how this would be done. He raised Jairus' daughter, the widow's son and he brought Lazarus forth from the grave. His promise is that all who are in their graves shall hear his voice and come forth. That means your loved ones who have died and my loved ones, and that means our dear friend who lies here in the casket today. Jesus Christ, by the grace of God, bought her and every other child of Adam. His purpose in buying them was that he might redeem them, even though they had gone down into the grave itself.

The time for all these blessings is the kingdom of God for which we were taught to pray, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth." According to the Scriptures, both by the Prophets and by the Lord and his Disciples that kingdom is right at the doors and is now being established. The old structure of world empires and unrighteous conditions are being torn down to make a place for the new. Every auto, every radio, every telephone and the thousand and one wonderful instruments of our day all proclaim with a loud voice that the kingdom of God is at hand. Evidences are accumulating that many people now living on earth will never need to go into the tomb nor have a funeral sermon over their dead bodies. My firm belief is that some of you here this afternoon will be of that number. The Lord enumerated many signs by which we might recognize the time. He said, "when you see these things lift up your heads for your redemption draweth nigh."

I bring to you dear friends who are here this afternoon the joyful message that your loved ones also will be returning from the grave that you may know and rejoice in the great blessing which God has in store for all the world, and you dear relatives, I bring this message that the Great Jehovah God has not forgotten you nor your loved one who is temporarily passed from you.

God says he will be a mother to the motherless to those who ask his grace and comfort, and so I bid you to look to the God of all Comfort who will answer the earnest prayer of the sorrowing heart to grant you the comfort which comes from a knowledge of his purposes, his love and his power. May his blessings rest upon each and all of you as you seek from him knowledge and strength and comfort.

Proof That Forests Have Hygienic Value

We hear much of the importance of the conservation of forests from an economic standpoint, but little is said of the hygienic value of forests.

Forests contribute to the general health by breaking the force of steadily blowing winds. They mitigate the heat of summer by the vast amount of evaporation from their leaves that occurs by day. They also promote rainfalls Thus they check the tendency of the earth to desiccate, which is almost as injurious to health as it is to vegetation.

Cholera often passes a wooded district and revels in a treeless one. A certain road in India leads for 60 miles through a dense forest. Further on it runs for 90 miles through a barren plain. Hundreds of persons travel the entire road daily. Now, in the first or wooded section cases of cholera seldom occur, while within the latter it has been of frequent occurrence. One year cholera raged in Allahabad. Soldiers whose barracks were on a hill suffered the most from the epidemic; those in barracks surrounded by four rows of trees much less; but not a single case was reported among the soldiers whose barracks were in a thicket. It was the same the next year.

Various Ideas as to Spots on Moon's Face

There exist in various parts of the world curious ideas regarding the dark spots in the moon's disk. In the eastern part of Asia the spots are believed to be a rabbit or a hare. The Chinese, in particular, regard them as a hare sitting up and pounding rice in a mortar. Siamese take the same view. Others see in the moon a man and woman working in a field.

Curiously, the North American Indians have almost the same superstition as the Chinese. On old monuments in Central America the moon appears as a jug or vessel, out of which an animal like a rabbit is jumping. South American Indians, on the other hand, believe that a girl, who had fallen in love with the moon, sprang toward it, was caught and kept by it, and that it is her figure which is seen on the moon's face.

Samoa Islanders regard the spots as representing a woman carrying a child. Other Southern peoples have similar beliefs, the woman and child sometimes being altered into an old woman bearing a burden on her back.

Arthur's "Round Table"

The table which is now called "The Round Table of King Arthur" is to be seen in the Great hall at Winchester, England, part of the old castle there. At the west end of this hall, above the remains of the royal dais, hangs this table, 17 feet in diameter. It is known to have existed in the Thirteenth century and is possibly older, and was repainted in the reign of Henry VIII. Of course there is no way of tracing any connection of King Arthur and his knights with this table. This table is divided off into places for the king and 24 of his knights. According to one version of the King Arthur legends, there were 13 seats around the table, while according to another there were 30 seats, and the total number of knights of King Arthur was 140.

Why?

Four-year-old Richard and his sister were both very fond of James Whitcomb Riley's poems for children and could say the "Raggedy Man" and "Little Orphant Annie," and "Way Out to Old Aunt Mary's," word for word.

One day Richard was looking through the book of poems again. He seemed quite thoughtful for a moment, then he said:

"Daddy, if this Mr. Riley liked little boys and girls so well, why do people call him James Whipthem Riley?"

The Reason

A clergyman was congratulating himself on a convert from a rival place of worship.

"Why," he asked the good lady, "have you decided to forsake your chapel for my church? Is it that you find my sermons of greater comfort to you?"

"No," was the reply. "It's not exactly that. The fact is they have cluttered the pathway up to the chapel and I find it that uncomfortable for the feet that I had to change."—Weekly Scotsman.

Acquainted

Virginia Anne, age three years, was just getting a good start in the primary department of a suburban Sunday school. The young teacher was telling the story of the shepherds and wishing to give especial attention to the babies of the class, asked:

"Virginia Anne, do you know anything about the shepherds?"

"Sure," replied Virginia Anne, confidently, "I know all about 'em. They live right next door to us."

THE NEWSPAPER MAN

I

Bit of a priest and bit of a sailor,
Bit of a doctor and bit of a tailor,
Bit of a lawyer and bit of a detective,
Bit of a judge, for his work is corrective;
Cheering the living and soothing the dying,
Risking all things, even dare-devil flying;
True to his paper and true to his clan—
Just look him over, the newspaper man.

II

Sleep! There are times that he'll do with little,
Work till his nerves and his temper are brittle;
Fire cannot daunt him, nor long hours disturb him,
Gold cannot buy him and threats cannot curb him;
Highbrow or lowbrow, your own speech he'll hand you,
Talk as you will to him, he'll understand you;
He'll go wherever another man can;
That is the way of the newspaper man.

III

Surgeon, if urgent the need be, you'll find him,
Ready to help, nor will dizziness blind him,
He'll give the ether and never once falter,
Say the last rites like a priest at the altar;
Gentle and kind with the weak and the weary,
Which is proved now and then when his keen eyes grow teary,
Facing all things in life's curious plan,
That is the way of the newspaper man.

IV

One night a week may he rest from his labor,
One night at home to be father and neighbor.
Just a few hours for his bit of leisure,
All the rest's gazing at other men's pleasure;
All the rest's toiling, and yet he rejoices;
All the world is, and that men do, he voices—
Who knows a calling more glorious than
The day-by-day work of the newspaper ma.

—Edgar Guest.

Twain No Plagiarist

Mark Twain's famous "Jumping Frog" story caused much discussion. Twain related the story as having happened in Calaveras county, Calif., in 1849. Professor Van Dyke of Princeton pointed to the fact that the story is told in ancient Greek as having happened 2,000 years ago. Clemens felt that the California story could not have been based upon the Greek one, since the man who told the story as a fact was a simple, ignorant fellow with no contact with literature. Clemens decided that the similarity of the two tales should be laid to coincidence.

THE HOMEMAKERS CORNER

BY MISS ELSIE BENTHIEN
Home Demonstration Agent

What Length Sheets?

Sheets are a familiar necessity of daily life. Like many other essentials they are so commonplace that few persons realize the importance of adequate length in sheets or the manner in which they affect individual comfort and health. In a very real sense they may reflect important standards of personal hygiene.

With the January White Sales offering this merchandise at an attractive price, this practical household necessity is too often purchased in a haphazard manner. The average woman buys sheets so seldom that size is not always impressed as a consideration. Aside from quality, finish and cost, one should clearly understand what is meant by adequate length. For example the 108 inch sheet is urged by discriminating consumers and merchants that this is the best size and be adopted as standard.

Usually a sheet which is sold as 108 inches in length means torn length before hemming. Hems may vary in width—a reasonable allowance for shrinkage would be 5 inches in the 108 inch length—leaving an average length of 103 inches. Deduct from this hem widths, thus giving a net useful length of 98 inches.

Short sheets are bound to be an annoyance, a disappointment and poor economy. It requires sheets at least 108 inches long to provide real economy and satisfaction.

Sheets should contribute to personal comfort and health.

Sheets should provide adequate protection to the individual user and to the bedding with which they are used.

Sheets should conform to the principles of good taste and individual economy.

Sheets that are long enough will give the greatest satisfaction in each of these respects.

GEORGE W. BLOCHER, AGED COUNTY RESIDENT, DIES

Garrett's Oldest Resident, Who Would Have Been 99 on August 11, Succumbed Sunday

George William Blocher, Garrett couaty's oldest resident, who would have been 99 years old on August 11 next, died at 2:30 p. m., Sunday, at the home of his niece, Mrs. William Turner, near Shade Mills, on the National Highway, about six miles east of Grantsville, with whom he resided for a number of years.

Mr. Blocher was one of the first residents to hold the office of County Commissioner after the formation of Garrett county and was elected to the House of Delegates from Garrett county in the year 1875, serving for a term of two years as a member of that body. He took a genuine interest throughout his entire life in matters political, and was until in recent years a Republican leader in his locality. Advaacing years and the loss of his hearing by reason of age were responsible for his retirement from the activities of both political and active life on the farm, following which he went to reside with Mrs. Turner, his niece. Mr. Blocher was never married.

He was familiarly known as "Uncle George," and was one of the pioneer residents of this county. His ancestors were prominent in the Methodist Episcopal church and he inclined to the faith of that denomination, to which he gave liberal support.

His father, John Blocher, was a native of Allegany county and when this county was formed became a resident of the new unit. He spent his entire lifetime on the Blocher farm, in Election District No. 11 where he owned about seven hundred acres of land and was one of the largest property owners of the community. Throughout his life he engaged in farming. During the existence of the Whig party he supported its principles and upon its disintegration he became a Republican. He went to Selbysport to cast his first vote. He died in 1859 at the age of sixty-nine years.

Mr. Blocher's mother was a daughter of Christian Musselman. She died at the age of forty years and was the mother of twelve children.

While remaining on the home farm, the deceased attended the neighboring schools in his hoyhood days. In the death of his father he succeeded to the management of the old homestead.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at Mt. Zion church on the National Highway, the Rev. J. E. Johnson, pastor, officiating. Interment was made in the Blocher cemetery.

Mr. Blocher is survived by his niece, Mrs. William Turner, and by two nephews, Messrs. Bradford and Bruce Blocher, both of Garrett county and other relatives, all of whom reside in the west.

O. H. S. BOYS PURCHASE PIGS FOR PROJECT WORK

Will Correlate Practical Work With Theoretical Instruction

Twelve pure bred pigs for project work among the boys of the agriculture club of the Oakland high school have been purchased from Frederick county breeders through Harry McDonald, agriculture instructor in the Feredrick high school, and these animals will be used to correlate in a practical manner the agriculture instruction received in the local high school under O. T. Graser, head of that department.

Eleven Poland-China pigs and one Berkshire, all registered, were those purchased and the average price was $7.50 per head. The new owners, all members of the Oakland High School agricultural classes, are Harland S. Beckman, Cletis Beckman, William DeBerry, Lavigne Friend, Gilbert Kight, Cecil Kight, Wilbert Ridder, Cecil Snyder, William Spiker. William Spiker and Harland Beckman purchased one pair of pigs each while Wilbert Ridder took the lone Berkshire to raise.

"By these purchases an opportunity is given each boy to put into operation the practices and principles of feeding and mangement learned at school," Mr. Graser said.

NIGHT WATCHMAN DIES FOLLOWING AN ASSAULT

Rowlesburg Man Victim of Robber Whom He Identifies

A charge of murder will likely be placed against Roy Strawser, Tunnelton, W. Va., who is being held in the Preston county jail in connection with an assault on John Bolyard, 70, of Rowlesburg, W. Va., 20 miles west of Oakland, who died Monday in a Grafton hospital of injuries received in the alleged assault.

According to Sheriff W. W. Williams, who with two State policemen, investigated the affair, Strawser went to the store of the Rowlesburg Grocery company, where Bolyard was employed as night watchman, and asked permission to get warm while waiting for an east bound freight train.

While in the store, Strawser is alleged to have struck Bolyard over the head with a poker, later inflicting wounds on the head with a hatchet. He is then said to have removed from the unconscious man a wallet containing four $20 bills, three $10 bills and three $5 bills, a total of $125.

Bolyard was found in the store by another employe, E. B. Calleo, Monday morning and removed to the hospital in Grafton, where he died as he was being admitted. He had recovered consciousness, however, long enough to furnish officers with a description of his assailant and on that information Strawser was arrested in Tunnelton.

The wallet and money were said by officers to have been found in Strawser's possession when he was arrested. He was lodged in the county jail on a technical charge awaiting the outcome of Bolyard's injuries, and and since the death of the aged man, a charge of murder will likely be lodged against him. Strawser is married and has one son.

Boys' Band Receives Donation.

A donation of $5.00 was received during the past week by Mr. R. R. Gilbert, director of the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland, the first that has come to him in a long time.

"I heard your Christmas program in the Maryland theatre on the afternoon of December 25," Mr. Geo. Kerins, the donor, said, "and it was worth every bit of that to hear those boys play." Mr. Kerins has two boys in the band who have been under Mr. Gilbert's instruction since the organization was started in April of 1927.

BOY SCOUTS IN OAKLAND TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Week of February 8, Date of Founding, Set Aside Each Year For Celebration.

Boy Scout Anniversary Week will be celebrated this year by Oakland Troop, No. 1, and all other scout troops, during the week of February 8 to 14, inclusive. February 8 will mark the observance of the 19th birthday of the Boy Scout movement in this country.

Three events of outstanding importance to the nation will mark the celabration.

On the evening of February 8 more than 800,000 scouts and their leaders, 29 of whom will belong to Oakland Troop, No. 1, will stand at attention and rededicate themselves to the principles of the scout oath and scout law.

On February 9, in nearly every city and hamlet of the country, scouts will mobilize to perform a community good. It will be a spectacular demonstration of the rapidity with which scouts can be mobilized for emergency service at any time.

Rededicatioa Ceremonies.

The rededication will be observed at 8:15 o'clock on February 8. Every scout, wherever he may be, will stand at attention and rededicate himself to the principles for which the scout oath and the scout law stand. The scout will pledge himself anew to the ideals and objectives of the scout movement, which in the nineteen years of progress in this country has become the greatest organized effort on behalf of boys of which history holds record.

Comes of Age.

This year's anniversary week will also mark the 21st birthday of scouting throughout the world, which was launched in England three years before by General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, its founder. In observance of the celebration boy scouts will wear their uniforms throughout the week, to schools and in their homes.

February 10 will be observed as Scout Sunday and the local troop will attend church in uniform at either the morning or evening services.

Monday, February 11, will be observed as 'School Day, and uniforms will be worn to school during the entire week.

On Wednesday, February 13, the scouts will participate in civic Good Turns, doing something to improve their communities, and the day will be known as "Citizens' Day." "Home Day" will be observed on Thursday, at which time all scouts will do some good turn in their own homes.

Emphasis will be placed on Merit Badge activities in carpentry, plumbing, painting, handicraft and scouts will be urged to do something that will be useful to their parents.

Specific preparations for Anniversary week will be made at the next meeting of the local troo pto be held tomorrow evening at 7:00 o'clock. At this time also the reregistration cards of each individual scout will be filled out and given to the members.

HARRY WILLIAR IS NAMED ACTING CHIEF ENGINEER

New State Roads Commission Makes Temporary Appointment—Mackall's Assistant

Th recently appointed State Roads Commissioa on Tuesday named Harry D. Williar, Jr., its acting chief engineer, following the resignation of John N. Mackall, former chief, which was presented to and accepted by the new commissioners on Monday.

Mr. Williar had been Mr. Mackall's principal assistant since 1920 and was reported to have the confidence of Governor Ritchie and the new commission members.

Ritchie Not to Iaterfere.

Governor Ritchie made it plain yesterday that he did not intend to interfere with the reorganization of the commission's affairs. That will be left entirely in the hands of the new members, he said.

G. Clinton Uhl, Mount Savage, as chairman, and Howard Bruce and J. K. Shaw were named hy Mr. Ritchie Thursday to succeed the late Oscar F. Lackey, chairman, and R. Bennett Darnell and W. W. Brown, who resigned as members following the report of the grand jury investigating the financial shortage discovered in the office of the commission.

The new commission spent most of the early part of the week examining the records of the Commission and studying its affairs with a view of preparing plans for its reorganization.

Mr. Uhl explained that the work of the commission was new and the new members held their first session for the sole purpose of getting acquainted with their duties. Not until the Commission has become fully conversant with their work and with the history of the Commission, will there be anything definitely decided.

Governor Stayman Talks To Rotarians.

Joseph Stayman, president of the Potomac State College, Keyser, West Va., and Governor of the 34th District Rotary International, visited the Oakland Rotary club at its weekly meeting last Friday night at the William-James, to pay his annual official call.

The meeting was turned over to the visitor who spoke to the members on the practical side of Rotary work, the idea of service, and the work for the coming year.

This week's meeting, to be held tomorrow evening, will be given over to the initation of new members, those in charge said.

Third Week of Legislature Closes Quietly.

The quietest and shortest session of the Maryland Legislature so far this year closed yesterday, marking the third week of the deliberation of the Assembly. Introduction of bills, and a plea from the chair for the completion of the outline business of the House so that it might get down to the real business to avoid a jam in legislation in the closing days of the Assembly.

Thirteen bills, none of which affect Garrett county, were placed in the hopper of each house yesterday.

RADIO LOCATES PARENTS OF GARRETT COUNTY GIRL

United With Father and Mother After Twelve Years.

One of the wonders of the radio was emphasized when Bessie Wegeley, who had not seea her parents, who live in Fairmont, West Va., for more than twelve years, was located by means of WMMN, the Fairmont broadcasting station.

When Miss Wageley was about six years old, owing to the fact that the family had met with financial reverses, and owing also to the illness of both her father and mother, she was seat to reside with a distant relative, a Mr. Beachy, of this county, with whose family she remained until about two years ago. Since that time her family had not heard from her. Letters and cards with Christmas boxes were undelivered.

One day last week the postmaster at Fairmont received a letter from Sidney Harvey, residing eight miles from Oakland, saying that since about June 1st of last year a girl by the name of Wageley had been stopping at his home and that she would like to get in touch with her family residing in Fairmont.

Failing to locate the parents, the postmaster turned the letter over to the broadcasting station which immediately put the matter on the air. The police of the West Virginia city also took the matter up and shortly afterward the father of the girl appeared at the broadcasting station at Fairmont to ascertain the facts relating to his daughter and her whereabouts.

Communication was had with Sheriff W. D. Casteel in Oakland, who informed the broadcasting studio that the girl had been located. Soon she will rejoin her parents in Fairmont.

NUMBER OF LICENSES IS STILL FAR BELOW NORMAL

Eleven Permits Granted at Marriage Bureau During Past Week

The number of marriage licenses issued during the past week ending Monday afternoon was still far below the average, only eleven applying at the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court. This brings the total number for the month of January to 18 thus far, which is 41 below the number for the entire month in 1928.

Five of the eleven permits granted this week were issued on Saturday. "The whole week's total wouldn't make an average Saturday during the summer months," Mr. A. G. Ross, deputy clerk, said.

Three licenses issued were marked "don't publish."

Willam Jackson Cover, 21, lumberman, and Mary Helen Boggs, 18, both of near Grantsville, Md.

Merle R. Eddy, 21, student, and Ochel Blanche Chisler, 21, both of Oakland.

Charles John Rodgers, Jr., 43, mill worker, Charleroi, Pa., and Elizabeth Martha Pletcher, 19, Rockwood, Pa.

William Harold Osler, 21, laborer, Confluence, Pa., and Leora Rebecca Phillippi, 20, Humbert, Pa.

Ernest Franklin Damron, 22, glass cutter, Cumberland, Md., and Agnes Belle Cunningham, 20, glass worker, Westoa, West Va.

Howard Shaver, 47, contractor, and Beulah Leyh, 26, school teacher, both of Enterprise, West Va.

Ronnie Boswell Hart, 24, laborer, and Juanita Magdaline Nutter, 20, both of Oxford, West Va.

Owen James Taylor, 21, farmer, and Mildred Marie Dodd, 19, student, both of Pennsboro, West Va.

Sunnyside Grange Holds Meeting.

A festival will be held in the Sunnyside Grange hall, four miles south of Oakland, along the State road, on January 25. A $250 radio will be given away at this time. There will be plenty of things to eat, and a good time is promised for those who attend.

At the last meeting on January 9, Miss Benthien, home demonstration agent, was present. The good work she is accomplishing in the county is being appreciated, it was stated. New officers were also installed at this meeting and two new members were received.

Mr. Ross Carney, Hutton grange, attended the meeting, having walked the distance through rain and blinding snow.

All members who have attended irregularly, are urged to come more often, and any progressive farmer who does not belong is requested to send in his application.

COUNSEL TO BE EMPLOYED FOR STATE ROADS PROBE

Full and Complete Investigation of Commission Decided Upon by Committee—Bitter Fight On

STATE HOUSE, Annapolis, Jan. 15—A full and complete investigation of the State Roads Commission scandal and its $376,000 plus shortage, will be made by the Maryland General Assembly through its committee of grand inquest. For this purpose, counsel will be employed by the committee and funds provided for pressing of the inquiry, which tonight brought forth bitter words on the floor of the House.

At the same time a resolution was introduced in the Senate by Senator Levin, of Baltimore City, attacking the constitutionality of the House inquest committee. He pointed out that the article in the constitution which provides for that body shall be a "joint committee." He contends that this means a committee made up of both House and Senate members. His resolution was referred to the committee on rules.

The decision to start an immediate investigation of the roads scandal came prior to the convening of the session tonight, marking the start of the third week of the 1929 session, when the committee met and adopted the resolutions calling for the inquest. The night meeting started at 9:20, despite the fact that it was scheduled to commence at eight o'clock.

Bitter Exchange.

Before this report could be presented to the House, however, Delegate Cobourn, (Dem) Harford county, offered a resolution asking Governor Ritchie to disclose whether or not any state road funds had been used in defraying expenses of celebrations held in connection with road work, which precipitated a fight between himself and Speaker E. Brooke Lee, when he pressed for immediate action, in an effort to keep the order from being referred to the committee of grand inquest. After a long wrangle, in which several other members of the House took part, and which brought charges of unfairness on the part of the chair, and during which Cobourn charged that Lee was using all his strength and influence to muzzle him.

Battle Becomes Heated.

The battle of words waxed warm, when the Speaker referred the resolution to the committee of grand inquest and Delegate Cobourn rose to a point of personal privilege to speak

EARLY ACTION URGED ON ROAD PROGRAM IN COUNTY

Now Is the Time for Delegations to go Before Road Directors

(Piedmont Herald)

To secure the extension of the McMullen Highway to Westernport and the building of hard surfaced roads from Bloomington and Kitzmiller to Oakland, now is the time for action upon the part of the citizen of Allegany and Garrett counties.

The Maryland legislature, now in session, will soon be making up budgets and appropriating money for road building throughout the state during the next two years. If provision is not made for these roads during this session it will be practically impossible to secure their construction for several years.

The proper course to pursue, it seems to us, is for delegations of citizens from Westernport, Luke, Bloomington, Kitzmiller and Oakland, to go before the road directors of the two counties and urge them to appeal to the legislature for funds for these projects. Also much might be accomplished if individuals of those towns would use their influence with the legislators and state officials to have them promote these projects.

The building of these roads would make a highway thru this community connecting central and northern West Virginia with the National highway at Cumberland. It would lessen the driving distance between that city and Oakland by twenty miles, and would make the Deep Creek Lake and adjoining camp sites more easily accessible to this community, Keyser and Cumberland.

To Kitzmiller it would mean better outlets to the Tri-Towns and to Oakland, and to many of the farmers of Garrett and Allegany counties, it would offer new markets and greater opportunities to dispose of their products.

ONE CHRISTMAS BAG, SENT OUT FROM OAKLAND, RED CROSS CHAPTER, FINDS WAY TO OAKLAND MARINE

Was Received at Managua, Nicaragua, Christmas Day by Billy Helbig—His Letter of Thanks

When the Garrett County Chapter American Red Cross, filled its quota of ten Christmas bags to be sent to the men in various branches of the military service at distant posts and forwarded them to the field director of the American National Red Cross at Hampton Roads, Va., the local members of the chapter did not have the slightest idea that one of the bags might be received by one in the service from this county. They may have thought what a strange coninicidence it would be, but never dreamed it would happen.

But recently a letter was received by Mrs. E. Z. Tower, Garrett county chairman, from Billy Helbig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Helbig, of Oakland, who is in the Marine Corps and stationed at Managua, Nicaragua. The letter was written on Christmas day and was as follows:

Dear Mrs. Tower:—Today every Marine in Nicaragua was given a Christmas bag containing many useful gifts, from the Red Cross.

I received my bag about ten o'clock this morning and was real pleased with the pocket knife, pipe and other things that I really needed. With our boxes from home, the Red Cross bags and a good dinner, we all are having a very merry Christmas.

This being my first Christmas away from home and away down here where it is real hot, it is nothing like the Christmases I have been used to. Even though, I am quite happy.

The people here celebrate Christmas eve by shooting fireworks, blowing toy horns, wearing funny masks and parading through the streets like—well, I don't know what they look like.

Thanks again to you and every other member of the Red Cross, and I hope thhat you all have a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Yours sincerely,
BILLY HELBIG.

Mrs. Tower also received two other asknowledgments from the Christmas bags, one being from Managua, Nicaragua, and the other from Granada, Nicaragua. The cards accompanying the bags when they were sent out from Oakland, containing Mrs. Tower's name and address, were placed in the bottom of the bags and there is no telling just how great was the surprise of Billy Helbig when he saw that the bag he received was from Oakland, the place of his nativity.

Research By State To Improve Farms Pays Big Dividends

Work in Wheat Alone Annually Returns to Farmers Half a Million Dollars

AID GIVEN IN OTHER CROPS

"The University of Maryland is nothing more nor less than a correlation of services the State renders the people," said Dr. R. A. Pearsou, President of the University in a recent speech. Realizing this, one of the duties the university undertakes is to carry ou research at the Experiment Station at College Park for the betterment of farms and farming conditions throughout the different sections of the state.

"Money expended for agricultural research in Maryland is paying a big dividend Dr. H. J. Patterson, Director of the Experiment Station said in a recent interview, 'take the item of wheat for instance':

"The experimental work carried ou in wheat by the University of Maryland is of increasing value to the farmer. The Mammoth Red, a variety of wheat developed by the Experiment Station is the best variety being grown throughout the State of Maryland and was first distributed to the farmers in 1922. It is a variety especially hardy in resisting wheat diseases and has shown an increased yield of two bushels an acre over the ordinary varieties in both good and bad years.

"Recent surveys show that this Maryland wheat is being grown on more than 50 per cent of the 420,000 acres of wheat land in the State and is bringing to the wealth of the State an increase of at least $120,000 each year. In this item alone the university has repaid the State many times over the amount expended for the research."

One of the next steps taken by the State university for the betterment of farming was a survey of the "brands" of fertilizers being used in Maryland at that time. When the first inventory was taken in 1923, there were over 200 different brands of fertilizers. It was found that 54 per cent of these were low grade. That year, after a study of the different types the university listed twelve as sufficient to meet the needs of the farmers, and just five years later more than three-quarters of the fertilizers sold in the State were of the higher grade. Farmers found themselves buying the same amount of plant foods but with less bulk.

In this way they were saved more than $100,000 annually in lower costs of freight, saving on bags and labor of handling, all of which had been lowered 5 per cent on the average farmer's fertilizer bill.

Next came experimental work in barley and corn, two of Maryland's important crops and farmer incomes. The Winter Barley experiments are being carried on to develop a new grain which will not have the objectionable barbs of that now being grown. If successful, much will be saved in time and waste of growing and harvesting.

"This experiment must be carried on over a period of eight growing seasons before definite conclusions can be reached. It gives an idea of the necessity of long experiments and is a job not within the scope of the ordinary commercial farmer but necessitating the work of an expert plant breeder."

"I would conservatively estimate that the annual increase in the corn, wheat, forage, vegetable and fruit crops resulting from the Maryland Station's investigations, are greater than the total that the State has expended in agricultural education and research." Said Dr. Patterson in closing his remarks.

From the University of Maryland Egg Laying Contest much interesting material has come to light. "Comparisons of records of the three contests completed and the fourth now in operation show a decided and gradual improvement in the performances of the birds; according to Professor R. H. Waite who is in charge of the contests. "Not only has production increased but breeder interest also shows an improvement, though there has been a tendency on the part of some to hold back from the competition for fear their birds will not show up well.

In the 1927 figures, the Leghorns were found to be the cheapest egg producers having an average of 12.14 cents per dozen.

Experiments have been carried on in the poultry department to determine methods for controlling white diarrhea and much interesting material has been gathered. Test work on a flock of twenty birds is being carried on.

Other points of interest in this study include housing and management. Although facilities are somewhat cramped for most efficient headway right at present, it is hoped that within the next few years a full time caretaker and other needs will be supplied so the work can be carried on on a more effielent basis.

DISTANCE MAY MAKE HEART FONDER-REPEATER MAKES DISTANCE SHORTER

Vacuum Tube Repeaters, Product of Bell System Research and Development Department Has Revolutionized Telephone Communication—May Now Talk Almost Anywhere From Any Telephone

Evolution in the construction of vacuum tube repeater tubes which make long distance telephone calls shorter. Left to right: stem press, stem press and other assembly, mount, tube after sealing on exhaust station, and completed tube. (Bottom, left) Glass sealing tube mount'd into pump. (Right) Operator electric welding the end in the tube.

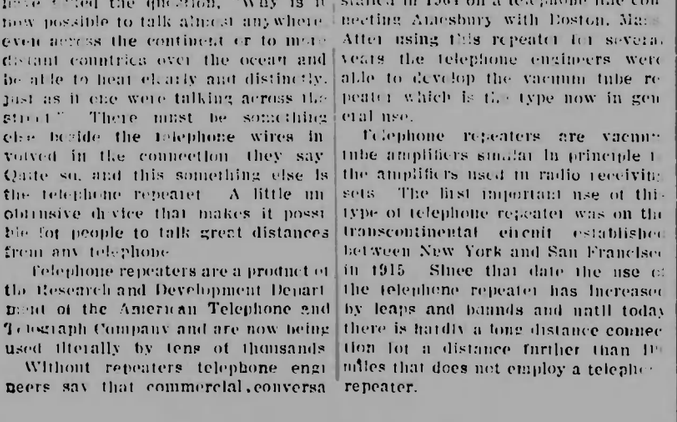
Whether distance makes the heart grow fonder is a mooted question, but the telephone repeater has certainly made long distance shorter. People are talking long distances more and more every day, and many of them have asked the question, "Why is it now possible to talk almost anywhere even across the continent or to more distant countries over the ocean and be able to hear clearly and distinctly, just as if one were talking across the street." There must be something else beside the telephone wires involved in the connection they say. Quite so, and this something else is the telephone repeater. A little unobtrusive device that makes it possible for people to talk great distances from any telephone.

Telephone repeaters are a product of the Research and Development Department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and are now being used literally by tens of thousands.



Without repeaters telephone engineers say that commercial conversations could not be carried on successfully over more than about 50 miles of cable circuit of the type now used by the extensive cable system which serves the eastern half of the United States.

The first telephone repeater was installed in 1904 on a telephone line connecting Amesbury with Boston, Mass. After using this repeater for several years the telephone engineers were able to develop the vacuum tube repeater which is the type now in general use.

Telephone repeaters are vacuum tube amplifiers similar in principle to the amplifiers used in radio receiving sets. The first important use of this type of telephone repeater was on the transcontinental circuit established between New York and San Francisco in 1915. Since that date the use of the telephone repeater has increased by leaps and bounds and until today there is hardly a long distance connection for a distance further than 100 miles that does not employ a telephone repeater.

TELEPHONE PROVES EFFECTIVE AT PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENEC

Individual Receivers and Amplifying System Allow Addresses To Be Translated Into English or Spanish By Interpreter

The Pan-American Conference on Arbitration and Conciliation held at Washington recently at which all of the Pan-American countries were represented, employed a unique but effective communication system whereby the dilleniit question of languages was solved.

Each of the delegates had a small telephone receiver installed at his desk. This receiver was connected with an amplifier and microphone system installed by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company so that an interpreter, Benjamin Cohen, one of the most skillful translators in Washington, was able to interpret from English to Spanish for the benefit of the Spanish delegates when an English speaker was addressing the conference.

He also translated for the benefit of the English speaking people when a Spanish delegate had the floor. Mr. Cohen by the use of this apparatus was able to translate rapidly from one language to another following the speaker closely and in full detail.

Not alone did he translate the two languages used at the conference, but he embellished his translation with current idioms of the English or Spanish In the exact words of the speaker.

Mr. Cohen, a Chilean by birth, was former secretary of the Chilean legation From a lengthy experience with South American affairs he is able to keep abreast of the latest developments in Latin America. This was his second important post at an international conference. He served in a similar capacity, but without the aid of the telephones, at the Pan-American Conference at Havana in 1927. For this service he was given a vote of thanks by the Conference on motion of Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State.

RACES BEFORE HISTORY BEGAN HAD MOTOR CARS

Also Radios and Airplanes, Says Henry Ford.

Henry Ford believes that civilizations so ancient that they are not recorded by any existing history possessed flying machines, automobiles and all other scientific and mechanical equipment of the present age.

This amazing theory of the automobile magnate is expressed in an interview with Ralph Waldo Trine, philosopher and writer, published in the current issue of McClure's Magazine. Ford's views, as taken down by a stenographer, are printed verbatim.

The Detroit industrialist believes that a highly developed moral sense is the only attribute of modern man that has not been possessed by ancient peoples. He fits this belief into his recently expressed theory of incarnation, taking the view that the moral sense has been evolved through many reincarnations and is the factor which increases the stability of each succeeding civilization.

May Visit Planets.

"This globe has been inhabited by intelligent people millions of times," says Ford, "and very ancient people, I believe, were highly developed in the arts and sciences."

"I believe they had all or most of the things which we think are the creations of modern progress, and some things that we haven't yet heard of. I am sure they had the automobile, the radio, the airplane—everything we have, or its equivalent, and perhaps many things that we have yet to discover.

"But apparently they did not have a counterbalancing moral development. They went down with all their otherwise high civilization. Our own physical advancement has had a larger balance of the moral element in it, so that it may be that our civilization will last longer—though we have a long way to go yet."

Ford also advances some startling forecasts of what the future may bring. In the McClure's interview, he asserts:

"I believe the time will come when man will even know what is going on in the other planets, perhaps be able to visit them. The mind is traveling faster than it did. Ideas circulate more freely. We have more mental progress in five years than we formerly did in a century. The distribution and reception of new ideas have been greatly increased."

Preserving Music of Pacific Coast Indians

Every day the halls of the anthropology department of the University of California ring out with the low, plaintive music of the Indian tribes of the Pacific coast. One unacquainted with the proceedings might be led to think that a war dance was in progress, but the fact is that for many years the university management has been engaged in collecting phonographic records on which are preserved the old time songs and dance music and dances of the Indians of the Pacific slope. They have succeeded in recording some gems. For instance, it has heretofore been impossible to get the Indians to render the "Cry Dance" song, which is one sung by professional mourners at funerals, and those who are familiar with it regard it as unlucky to sing a death song when there is no death. The Lost Bear Club's Lament is a sad ballad in a minor key which tells the tale of a bewildered little bear stumbling through the woods searching for its mother. These records are gone over daily by one of the faculty who is endeavoring to fathom the system which was made use of in the composition.

Wood Cups and Bowls Once Highly Prized

Wooden trenchers, commonly called "treen" were in common use during the Middle ages in Great Britain. "Mazers" or cups and bowls were frequently mentioned in wills and inventories. The finer specimens belonged to the richer abbeys—thus, there was the Great mazer at York, the Judas cup at Durham, and at St. Saviour's, Southwark, there was "a mazer with a border and knop of sylver and gilt which was given to the church wardens to drink when they mete." These valuable wooden cups were sometimes ornamented by a rim of silver, but otherwise they were seldom decorated by more than a few low moldings or incised lines. Their value and beauty lay in the graining of the wood, generally maple, and the old turners chose the part of the trunk where it divided off into branches so as to obtain the speckled bird's eye graining. By Tudor times pewter began to take the place of tree, though poorer folk continued to use these wooden trenchers and bowls till much later, especially in the north of England and in Scotland.

The Sahara

The true Sahara is a great desert that stretches, a bare and dead world of its own, all across Africa. A strange world it is, for it has mountains, valleys and plains like the living world, save that nothing grows to cover the bare ribs of the earth, and nothing moves but the great winds, and now and then the wandering Arabs.

The desert is of four sorts, the rock desert, the desert of dry salt lake beds, the desert of flat sand tied down by salt and earths, and the desert of the moving seas of sand.—Eunice Tietjens, in Child Life Magazine.

Weather Prophets

Certain creatures anticipate changes in the weather and indicate their foreknowledge by strange actions. They seem to feel uneasy, and then take necessary precautions. When they foresee bad weather, bees go out very early in the morning, keep near their hives, return suddenly with partial loads of nectar and become easily irritated, attacking those who approach. The garden spider turns its head toward the interior of its hole and strengthens its web with numerous extra threads.

Ducks raise themselves on their toes, make a great outcry and seem to be excited. Roosters crow at evening, or at other unaccustomed times. Oxen raise their muzzles into the air, as if to sniff the wind, and then huddle together. The mule appears sad, the marmot whistles, and the fox and the jackal whine. Ants stop work and retire to their underground galleries. Swallows skim close to the ground and snails come from their holes.

Mouse Fed to Welsh Boy

Peculiar folk medicines and treatments still exist in Wales, and there is a fantastic employment of drugs of animal origin in that country, declared Dr. L. R. Williams at a meeting of the British Medical association at Cardiff, Wales. Goose grease, he said, was still held to be wheezing chests and some farmers' wives still had some worne for cuts, and salt bacon is quite a favorite for boils and whitlows. Doctor Williams added that he was credibly informed that about a year ago, on the advice of a "wise woman," a mouse was roasted alive and the powdered ashes administered in porridge to a small boy who suffered from a child's illness.

Lesson for January 20

CHRIST THE SAVIOR

LESSON TEXT—Luke 15:3-7; Romans 5:6-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—And thou shall call His name Jesus; for it is He that shall save His people from their sins.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Our Savior.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Our Savior.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Saves Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ, the World's Redeemer.

I. The Savior Predicted (Gen. 3:15; Is. 9:6, 7).

In connection with the fall of man and the pronouncement of judgment upon the woman, man and the serpent, and the announcement of the undying enmity which was to exist between the seed of the woman and the seed of the serpent, ultimate victory was predicted of the woman's seed. This enmity has continued all through the ages, even to the present time. On the cross of Calvary the final stroke was made which crushed his head (John 12:31; Heb. 2:14; I John 3:8). This announcement concerning the Conquering One was the first gleam of the glorious gospel of Christ. A great victory was won, but at an infinite cost. The prediction of the Savior became more specific in Isaiah 9:6, 7. The eternal Son of God was "given" to the world, but He was "born" as a child.

II. The Savior Born (Luke 2:11 30, 32).

That which had been predicted was historically fulfilled in the birth of Jesus Christ at Bethlehem. When Jesus was brought into the temple as a child, the Holy Ghost revealed to Simeon that this was the Messiah. He took the child Jesus in his arms and blessed God, declaring that he had now with his eyes seen God's salvation and that He was to be a light to lighten the Gentiles and was to be the glory of Israel. This appearance of the Savior was heralded to the shepherds by the angels as they ascribed to God the highest glory and announced peace on earth and good will to men.

III. The Savior Described.

1. He seeks the lost (Luke 15:3-7).

This seeking of the lost is illustrated by the man leaving the ninety and nine sheep and going after the one which was lost, and his rejoicing over his success in finding it.

2. He died for the lost (John 3:14-17).

As the brazen serpent was lifted up in the wilderness by Moses, so Jesus Christ was lifted up on the cross. God gave Jesus Christ to die, to make an atonement for the sins of the world. All those who believe on Him receive eternal life and therefore escape condemnation. Christ's coming into the world was not to condemn the world, but to bring to it salvation.

3. He knows His own (John 10:14).

As the Good Shepherd who seeks out the lost and gives His life for them, He has a definite knowledge of each one of them. Not only does He know them personally, but they in turn know Him.

4. He keeps His own (John 10:27-29).

Believers are Christ's sheep and because they are His sheep they hear His voice and follow Him. He not only gives unto them eternal life but holds them in His omnipotent hands. They are absolutely secure because no man is able to pluck them out of His hands.

IV. Some Blessings Received Through the Savior.

1. Physical strength (Acts 3:1-11).

The healing of the lame man at the beautiful gate of the temple is a fine example of Christ's ability to heal the body. This man had been lame from birth. Because the life of Jesus Christ was brought into touch with him, he was able immediately to arise—strength came into his feet and ankle bones. Not only did he arise, but he walked and leaped, praising God.

2. Justification (Rom. 5:1-11).

The one who receives Jesus Christ is declared righteous. His guilt is removed, and because he is justified, he has peace with God, the assurance that God loves him, and real joy in God Himself.

3. Christ is the Supreme Example to the believer (Phil. 2:5-10).

Because the Savior became incorporated with the race through the incarnation, He is able to impart life to those with whom He is identified. Furthermore, because He thus imparts life, the believer is able to make Him an example. He is able to express the same spirit of devotion and humility in giving himself in service instead of being served.

Spend Time With God

It is the failure to spend a definite, even though it be short, time each day with God that is the secret of all weakness, variableness, and shallowness in our spiritual experience and service.

Man Alone Able to Think

Of all God's creatures man alone is able to think immortality. What Darwin called "the grand instinct" has survived for countless aeons the shock of bodily death.—Dr. S. P. Cadman.

Bell Laboratories Develop New Larynx

Latest Type With Range of Octave Permits of Increased Range of Speech Tones

The Bell Telephone Laboratories, the research and development branch of the Bell System is constantly engaged in improving the art of communication. By-product developments of telephone communication have resulted in many humanitarian accomplishments. Not the least of these is the artificial larynx which has made it possible for people who have lost their larynges through surgical operations to talk again.

The latest type of artificial larynx developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories has a range of an octave. This permits a variation in the pitch of the speech tones and avoids the tone monotony of the earlier design of larynx.

A person in talking uses an instrument much like a bellows to which a rubber tube with a metal mouthpiece is attached. He places the tube in his mouth, squeezes the bellows, his lips move and a monotone voice is heard. The words are all understandable, the sound comes from the artificial larynx which pours into the mouth like a low melodious whistle. However, it is necessary, laboratory engineers say, to remember to squeeze the bellows when speech is wanted and equally necessary to stop squeezing when the speech is finished.

One of the difficulties for beginners in the use of the artificial larynx comes in the fact that the organs of speech seem too surprised to go thoroughly through the motions of talking. They miss the usual warning vibrations coming up from the throat. It is said, however, that a person may learn in a few minutes out of the apparatus how to make himself understood and may acquire versatility rapidly with practice.

Telephone Repairman Gives Dr. First Aid

Applies Bandages and Antiseptics Then Calls In Physician and Turns Over Case

The value of first aid to the telephone employees has been proven time and time again. Recently Charles W. Roberts, a combination man of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, employed at Clarendon, Va., had occasion to use his knowledge of first aid to good advantage.

As he was driving along one of the main highways of that section he came upon an automobile smash-up in which Dr. J. J. Gilbert, a retired physician of Washington had been painfully injured. Roberts immediately took charge of the injured man applied compresses and iodine, secured from the first aid kit in his car to the cuts about the face and hands carried the patient into a nearby home and treated him for shock. Then feeling that internal injuries might have been sustained, Mr. Roberts called in a doctor and turned the case over to him.

Telephone men practice first aid for the protection of themselves and their fellow workmen, but hardly a day passes that they do not give treatment to other persons who have been injured, but do not have the knowledge or facilities for caring for themselves. So the telephone men step into the breech and supply the want.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company had 454,181 stockholders October 1, which was a gain of 2,601 since the first of the year. Totals of the company state.

The Colonel at Work

There have been many inquiries received by Scoop during the past year as to how the Col. is able to be at so many places just at the right time to get the desired photographs for this column. This can be explained only through the uncanny ability of Scoop and Col. Bell to know just when the proper moment arrives. They have rarely ever failed, and as this work is partly secret we can divulge nothing further.

However a glimpse of Col. Bell at his work would not be amiss. He is pictured in a cozy scene at his office just ready to "take the works." The camera is one of the latest and up-to-date ones on the market and was presented to him by Nimmo, a former Oakland rival of Col. Bell's and who will be remembered only by the city's oldest inhabitants. Col. Bell always dresses in his best when snapping the picture as can be seen from the accompanying photo.

Oratory in the Making

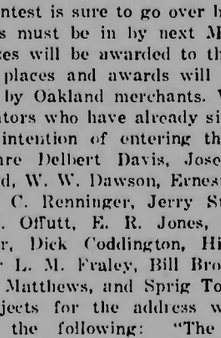
In order to add a little zest to the pastime of oratory, and to make it educational and interesting to a number of citizens, Col. Bell and Scoop are announcing this week an oratorical contest, to be held Friday, January 18, at one o'clock a. m., in the Oakland Opera House, third floor of the Hinebaugh building. It was felt that no other respectable entertainment should be going on at that time.



Local carpenters are hard at work putting in rocking chairs with plush bottoms for the listeners, and stanchions on the stage for those who are going to "sling the bull," and everything will be in fine shape by that time. The scenery will be an outdoor picture, depicting a meadow with contented cows grazing at leisure, and with all these appendages, the contest is sure to go over big. All entries must be in by next Monday.

Prizes will be awarded to the first three places and awards will be donated by Oakland merchants. Would-be orators who have already signified their intention of entering the contest are Delbert Davis, Joseph E. Harned, W. W. Dawson, Ernest Shirer, J. C. Renninger, Jerry Stanton, W. R. Offutt, E. R. Jones, F. A. Thayer, Dick Coddington, Hizzonor Mayor L. M. Fraley, Bill Browning, A. T. Matthews, and Sprig Tower.

Subjects for the address will include the following: "The truth about Nero's fiddling as revealed by Cleopatra," "Washington's Farewell Address, 123 G. street, N. W.;" "If Napoleon had lived in Garrett county," "Pushing to the Front," (or the enlarged stomach) and "The landing of the pioneers on Hoopole ridge," Bill Browning will use for his oration excerpts from the nominating speech of Franklin D. Roosevelt at the Democratic convention. (The applause will be supplied by those present, it is hoped.)

Just a sample of how one of those entered in the contest can express his opinions is shown in the following picture which was taken by the faithful Col., and depicts Mr. Offutt in the middle of a heated debate. The language used will not be printed, according to a ruling made by Archibaldson, head of The Republican censorship committee, but Scoop will vouch for its effectiveness.

THE CHURCH AND THE NEWSPAPER.

Two very potent factors in a community are the church and the press and, working together or at least being in sympathy, and having respect for each other's rights and privileges, they become an immense power for good.

The church, as a seeker of souls, a standard bearer of truth and righteousness, wields a power that is indisputable, paving the way through its Christianizing gospel to a greater civilization and broader brotherhood amoug all people everywhere. Without its precept and influence, deterioration of morals, lessening of faith and lowering of standards and ideals would be inevitable.

The press is a wielder of power greater, perhaps, than any of those behind its stronghold of brain, brawn and inventive genius could dream. As a moulder of public opinion its office is far-reaching, and as a fearless exponent of truth and daily chronicler of events as they occur, it is in a class by itself. For the present day newspaper is a valuable servant of the public and conscientiously tries to give, impartially, the facts gathered through many sources from day to day. Without the press there would be less fear of exposure or publicity with a consequent increase in crime, a lowering of standards of decency and a lessened interest in public affairs, for not even the radio, telegraph, telephone and other inventions can take the place of the public press.

The newspaper is one of the best friends the church has; nowhere is this more apparent than in small communities where religious notices and church events are given wide publicity gratuitously. Even in the matter of regular weekly notices, that are advertisements in a sense, the editor gladly gives space because of the interest they may hold to the reader.

The press and church are powers for good. Each has its scope of endeavor, its field of service and its established rights that the other should respect; through different methods each works toward the betterment of the public. Surely a proper appreciation of and co-operation with one another will bring better results.

WHY SOCIALISM DOESN'T GROW

"Tabulation of the votes cast in the November Presidential election is at last complete," says the Globe, Arizona, Record. "It reveals one rather surprising fact: the Socialist party polled a vote, throughout the nation, of only 300,000.

"Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate last year was probably the ablest man that party has ever named as a standard bearer. He made a strong campaign * * Yet the Socialist party polled its lowest vote since 1904. Why should this be? What has happened, anyhow, to give the Socialist party pernicious anemia?

"Probably it is because the fundamental tenet of Marxian socialism—that the workers form a distinct class of the populations, with aims diametrically opposite to those of the upper classes—is entirely out of line with modern American thought.

"In Europe the worker is 'class conscious.' He feels a solidarity with his brother workers; he feels that the capitalists are forever looking for an opportunity to crush him, and he uses his vote to gain every advantage he can.

"But in this country there is little of this solidarity. The worker is more apt to look on himself as a future employer. He knows that if he has the ability and the determination he will rise; and if he stays a worker, he knows that he will earn more wages than his European brother ever dared dream of.

"It used to be said that Napoleon's army was so successful because every private carried a marshal's baton in his knapsack. The same thing applies to American workers. Each one feels that he may some day be a capitalist. Accordingly, Socialism fails utterly to prosper here. If conditions ever change and opportunity is shut off—that may be another story. But under present conditions Socialism cannot grow."

WEEK END HOLIDAYS

The business men in some states are complaining because they say there are too many legal holidays now that business is interfered with. They contend that it takes some of their employes a day or two to get over a holiday, or they need to have extra time for these occasions to make visits or go on trips, and these business men think it interferes too much with trade and costs working people too much money through loss of wages.

They may have difficulty in persuading their employes of the truth of this contention, as most people welcome holidays, and are glad to knock off from work even if they lose their pay.

However, some of our holidays might be better arranged. If they all came at the week-end period, people could combine them with Sundays for pleasant outings and visits to their home people.

Saturday is a fine day for holidays, since so many people take Saturday afternoon anyway, and if they had the whole day for the holiday the interruption of business would not be much greater.

Wholesale business, everywhere, now suspends Saturday afternoons. Retail stores, except small shops, close Saturday afternoons in most cities of importance now and the practice will probably be extended to all cities, having important stores, in the near future.

Thanksgiving Day and Memorial Day at least might just as well come on a Saturday or a Monday. Some people think that all holidays should be appointed to come Saturday or Monday and something could be said for that plan, though where a holiday celebrates some fixed event of history it might seem inappropriate to take any different date for the observance.

The occasions when a holiday comes on a Saturday or a Monday are welcomed by millions of people who use such dates to plan many pleasant trips and homecomings. Such double holidays as Labor Day brings each year, on account of its coming on Monday, means so much to people that the effort should be made to have more of them observed in that way.—Cumberland Evening Times.

Bulletin on Lime Helpful to Farmers

While there are several different kinds of lime available for agricultural purposes, all of them will give the same results if equivalent amounts of finely pulverized material are used, it is explained by F. W. Oldenburg, specialist in agronomy for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

There may be a decided difference, however, in the number of pounds of finely pulverized material, calculated on the basis of available oxides, which the farmer receives for his dollar. Just how the farmer can figure this out for himself is explained by Mr. Oldenburg in detail in a bulletin recently issued by the State Lime Inspection Service.

The bulletin contains a report of the work done by the State Lime Inspection Service, compiled under the supervision of Dr. L. B. Broughton, acting State chemist, and L. E. Bopst, associate. It is valuable to farmers as showing the analyses of various brands of lime sold in the State during the year from November 1, 1927, to November 1, 1928.

Analyses of the various brands of lime were made from samples collected from dealers' and manufacturers' stocks and from shipments in transit. These analyses are necessary to the farmer who desires to compute the most economical form of lime for him to purchase.

Copies of the bulletin will be furnished free of charge to those who make request to the State Lime Inspection Service, College Park, Md.

UNDERWOOD

A great many here are ill of influenza and we are in hopes that the epidemic will soon be over.

Members of the family of Earl Sims, who have all been ill, are able to be up at this time.

Mrs. Sam Barkman went to Crellin on Tuesday of last week to care for the family of her son, all of the members of which have been ill.

L. C. Nine and daughter Auhurn are both ill at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Dorsey Ashby, Sr., are improving slowly after attacks of influenza.

Dorsey Ashby, Jr., has returned to his work at the Stanley mines, his family being very much improved.

Mr. Frank Graham was calling on Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ashby on Tuesday.

Miss Marion Bloss, who has been ill at her home since the holidays, returned here on Monday. During her absence Miss Auburn Nine had the school in charge.

Mrs. Hester Ferguson and Mr. Thomas L. Ashby are both ill at the home of D. L. Arnold.

O. A. Rinehart, who had the misfortune of having his finger so badly crushed at the Stanley mine some time ago that amputation of the member was necessary, is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Joe O'Haver was in Oakland Monday to see her daughter, Mrs. O. C. Kitzmiller and Mrs. Frank Nair.

Harry Peterson has been ill for a short time as the result of an infected knee.

The little 15-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Bittinger, who was severely burned, is doing nicely. It was feared he would be blind, but he can now see and hopes are entertained for his ultimate recovery.

MT. LAKE PARK.

THE SOWER REPAID IN TIME

We have been taught we should never weary of well doing, and while it is the experience of every one that many seeds that are scattered fall on stony gound and bear no fruit, yet others find their way to fertile soil and in due season repay the sower many fold. If all our suggestions were adopted, there might be grave danger that instead of a 7¼ hat fitting our head, we might be compelled to buy an 8. However, from present indications, we will not have to change the number. Be that as it may, as long as the editor of this paper gives us the opportunity, we intend to keep hitting on all six unless we run out of gas.

Without exception, every one we have heard express himself, has said he hopes that the bird that writes this column will keep up the good work. But he does nothing. Simply looks wise, changes the cud from the left to the right side, squirts a jet of amber at the rock in the road and goes about his business—if any. If Mountain Lake Park is ever going to amount to a tinker's dam (that's not cussin'. If you think it is, look it up.) the citizens of the community, as well as Oakland, will have to do a little constructive thinking and acting. As we look at it, the question of rehabilitating Mountain Lake Park, should be of nearly as much interest to the citizens of Oakland as of the Park. If 10,000 visitors (and that figure is not too optimistic) come to the Park during the summer months and only leave an average of ten dollars per person in Oakland, that means $100,000 new money. Isn't that worth going after? And that is a small average.

We are aware that there are some who have a just cause of complaint about a certain matter that happened a few years ago. But let's forget it. Let us turn our backs on the yesterdays and face the tomorrows. Today is another day. A definite program, an ultimate aim, co-operation, harmony and community spirit will lead to realization.

Let's go.

Mrs. Anna Hay McLain.

When Mrs. Anna Hay McLain departed this life Friday morning at her home in Wheeling, West Virginia, Mountain Lake Park saw the passing of one, who for many years, made this her summer home. Her last summer was spent among the mountains she loved so well.

Mrs. McLain was the widow of the late John G. McLain, who, at the time of his death was a prominent citizen of Wheeling.

The last funeral rites were held in the city in which she lived on the afternoon of the 14th.

Two daughters and two sons survive, Mrs. Charles F. Wilson, of Washington, D. C., Miss Katherine McLain, Dr. W. H. McLain and Dr. C. Bates McLain, the latter three of Wheeling.

Mrs. McLain and Miss Katherine have a host of friends at the Park, the latter spending most of her summer months in working with other members of the Civic Club for Park improvement, in which she is a leading spirit.

Personal Notes.

The lack of personals in this weeks paper is not our fault. Simply nothing doing. Too cold for much social activity. Unless compelled to travel, every one is staying in and busy keeping the home fires burning.

Mrs. K. Y. Hardy is going to Pittsford, N. Y., to visit her daughter.

Mrs. Charles Arthur Oswald has returned from Washington and New York City, where she has been for several weeks visiting her son and daughter.

Mrs. Robert C. Tassie is on the sick list.

Mrs. Bell Pritchard is visiting relatives in Mannington, West Virginia.

The artist who could catch the spiritual beauty which greeted the eye at the Park yesterday morning would go down to immortal fame. The iridescence of the crystals and festoons of hoar frost clinging to the forests and glades made a picture that will not so soon be forgotten. It was a wonderful exhibition of Nature's lavish gift to man.

GORTNER.

Come to church next Sunday when services will be conducted by the Brethren.

Miss Cathleen Miller was a guest of Miss Ida Martin one day last week.

Mrs. Miller, of Red House, is with her daughter, Mrs. Hervey Roth, who is ill with influenza.

Simon Swartzentruber was at Albright, W. Va., Wednesday, where he purchased a horse.

Miss Ida Martin was in Cumberland Wednesday with her mother, who remains a patient in the hospital there.

Miss Grace Filer, of the Lynndale school, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Slabach.

Misses Bertha Lechnor and Carrie Wills spent Sunday afternoon with the Yoders. Mr. Yoder is recovering from an attack of influenza.

Robert Friend, who has been ill at the home of his aunt, Mrs. W. E. Spoerlein for several weeks, has returned to his home at Hoyes.

John Burkholder is at East Millsboro, Pa., nursing relatives relatives who have been sufferers for the influenza.

Miss Grace Filer and Mrs. Carl Swiers spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sisk.

Miss Anna Virginia Slabach has been out of school for a week on account of an attack of mumps.

DIED

A. CLYDE SMITH.

A. Clyde Smith, aged 58 years, 7 months and 13 days, died at his home near Dodge school house, about three miles north of Oakland, on January 13 at 6:00 o'clock p. m. Death was due to influenza followed by pneumonia. Funeral services were held on Tuesday at two o'clock from Bolden's funeral home, Rev. B. T. Trevey, of St. Paul's M. E. church, officiating. Interment was made at Terra Alta, West Va.

The deceased was born at Gladesville, W. Va., but spent the major portion of his life in Garrett county where he was engaged in farming. He was a member of the Board of County Commissioners for two years from 1916 to 1918. Later he engaged in the merchandising business at Deep Creek.

RESOLUTIONS for the PRESENT YEAR

There is no particular reason why good resolutions should be made only once a year. If the bread is burning the good housewife turns off the fire at once, not later. If baby is sick we send for the doctor immediately. And so on through the list of important things.

We are reminded of a conversation with a satisfied housekeeper the other day. She was very happy in her spic-and-span home and we remarked that she seemed to have found the secret of contentment.

"Yes," she replied, "but I have waited long enough for it. When I was a girl our family did not own their own home. We lived first in one part of town, then in another. This went on for 30 years or more, and each time we moved there was an increase in the rent. I remember hearing father say more than once that we would settle down some day in our own home.

"That day never came, and the family finally was broken up. The man I married worked pretty hard for his money and early got into the habit of saving. He figured that the rent money my family had paid out in 30 years would have bought several nice houses. We both decided that we would begin then to turn the rent money into a savings account by buying our own home. "So here we are, and there are our children playing in their own yard. We may never make a fortune, but the house is ours and we are happy.

The resolution to own your own home can be made any time during the year. It can never be made too soon. Don't let it be made too late.

Minus the services of Killen and McComas, Oakland was able to muster together a fair team which extended the visitors to win on Friday night. The Fairmont Y. M. C. Strimer and Shrader were the high scorers for the visitors with five and four goals respectively, while Stanton and Pollock contributed three each for Oakland to lead the local scoring. Oakland led at the end of the first half, 13-11.

Local Men Attend Meeting of Chevrolet Automoblie Dealers At Washington.

Chevrolet Motor Company has established as its 1929 production quota 1,250,000 passenger car and truck units, according to Messrs. Charles U. and H. C. Edwards, who have just returned from Washington, where they were in conference with factory and zone sales executives.

The Messrs. Edwards were enthusiastic in their comment on the meeting which drew into Washington 500 dealers from Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The dealers convened at the Washington Auditorium Monday afternoon, where they witnessed the most unique sales meeting ever sponsored by any company in the industry. Following the meeting there was a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel, featured by an elaborate display of entertainment.

At the afternoon meeting the Messrs. Edwards said, they heard from the lips of M. D. Douglas, Assistant General Sales Manager, the most inspirational sales discussion he has ever heard since he entered the automobile business. Mr. Douglas made the unqualified prediction that not only would Chevrolet build 1,250,000 automobiles during the present year, but that the cars would be sold as quickly as they were produced. Last year, according to the Messrs. Edwards, Chevrolet sustained its position as the world's largest automobile manufacturer with a production of 1,200,000 automobiles.

The Washington gathering which was attended by these local gentlemen is one of a series of 40 such meetings which Chevrolet is conducting throughout the country during the next six weeks. No large center in the country has been overlooked on the itineraries which take three crews of ranking factory executives to every section in a complete coverage of the country.

'MAYTAGERS' HOLD BANQUET AND BUSINESS MEETING

The Club Room of the Blue Bird Inn, on the second floor of the Inn, was opened last night for its initial occasion when A. D. Naylor & Co., entertained the representatives for the Maytag Washing Machine company who sell their product in Garrett county, Maryland, and Hardy and Grant counties, West Virginia, which territory compriese the distributorship of the local dealers.

William N. Tillett, district manager for the Maytag company, was toastmaster, and delivered the principal address of the evening. Mr. Tillett stated that the quota as set by the company for this immediate territory was 155 machines and that the quota was reached and surpassed by a handsome margin. He further stated that John W. Davis, leader in the point of individual sales for this district had sold 90 washing machines during the year of 1928.

Owing to a bad train connection in Cumberland, J. G. Pfeister, divisional supervisor of the Maytag company, was unable to attend the banquet and business meeting and did not reach Oakland until 10:14 last night.

The meeting was featured by an elaborate chicken dinner which was served promptly at 6 o'clock.

Those present were the Messrs. Paul, Arthur and Townshend Naylor, John W. Davis, Willian N. Tillett, Edward L. Teets, and Donald Sincell, who was a guest.

It was stated during the meeting that this district expected to dispose of 285 washing machines during the present year, which would exceed last year's sales by 100 machines.

Messrs. O. J. Glotfelty, Grantsville, and Vance Bensenhaver, Moorefield, West Va., representatives, were unable to reach Oakland for the meeting last night due to illness and road conditions.

Cheap Potatoes Make Good Feed For Cows.

Potatoes, which cannot be marketed at satisfactory prices, may be used successfully as a cheap and succulent dairy feed, it is said by J. A. Conover, specialist in dairying for the University of Maryland Extension Service, provided they are fed with care and not in too large quantities.

While potatoes do not contain much protein they are a good source of carbohydrates and possess the merit of being succulent. Where succulent feed is already being provided in the form of silage, potatoes can be worked into the ration occassionally, thus making the silage last longer.

Certain precautions, however, are necessary if potatoes are to prove beneficial rather than deterimental, it is pointed out. Not more than twenty-five pounds of potatoes per day should be fed to a cow, according to Mr. Conover, since the tubers contain 1.1 per cent of digestible protein and 17.1 per cent of total digestible nutrients, They should be carefully cleaned and should be sliced, the latter factor being important in the feed of any root crops.

Potatoes that have become green from exposure to the light should never be fed as they contain solanin, a deadly poison, which has proved fatal in many cases. Sprouted potatoes, if they are not green, may be used as feed provided the sprouts are first removed.

Potatoes should be fed for best results after milking rather than before, it is said. This is desirable because they have a tendency to result in poor texture butter and are inclined to produce flavor in the milk if fed before milking.

"Sterilized Conscience" Blamed By Local Jurist For Defiance Of 18th Amendment and Volstead Law

Stresses Educational Phase of Enforcement Work And Recommends Jail Sentences

The following is the entry submitted by Judge Albert A. Doub of the local Circuit Court in the $25,000 Durant Contest for the best plan to make the 18th Amendment effective.

The failure of the enforcement of the 18th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, insofar as there has been a failure, is primarily due to the neglect or refusal of officials whose duty it has been to enforce the law—to observe their oaths to support the Constitution. The second and third paragraph of Article VI of the Constitution is as follows:

"This Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all Treaties made, or which shall be made under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any thing in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

"The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State Legislatures, and all executives and judicial officers both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation, to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States."

In disregard of this obligation, many of the officers who have publicly bound themselves to uphold the Constitution have scoffed and sneered at the 18th Amendment and the laws intended for its enforcement. Many of them have gone further and violated these laws and done their best to create a public sentiment unfavorable to their observtance and enforcement.

Blames Officials

Men holding high office in some of the States have publicly proclaimed that the 18th Amendment cannot be successuflly enforced and as a consequence multitudes of minor officials and private citizens, and many of them leaders in business and the professions, who were seeking an excuse for indulging the appetites, have had their conscience sterilized as to their duty under this amendment, and the result has been a depleted morale in office, and brazen violations of the laws and indifference as to observance by masses of the people.

No body of men can create such a trend of sentiment for or against any law as the classes required to take this Constitutional oath, for they include many of the most prominent and forceful citizens in every community—not only senators and representatives in Congress, members of the state legislatures and also federal and state judges, but also mayors, councilmen and alderemen of all cities and magistrates and county officers throughout the land, as well as all the lawyers in America.

The blame for the failure of enforcement and general observance of this law is primarily theirs and therefore it would seem that any plan to enforce the law, to be practicable, must bring home to these officials their plain and sworn duty, not only to vote right and enforce honesty, but personally to observe the law according to the letter and spirit of their obligation under the Sixth Article of the Constitution. Too many leaders of public opinion in exalted stations have betrayed the people who trusted them, and have seduced those they think for in politics into the obsession that the 18th Amendment is not an essentinl part of the Constitution and is not the supreme law of the land. The average prominent business man who in the large cities especially keeps his bottle of brandy secreted in his filing case for the benefit of himself and his associates, continues to do so, not so often because he cannot do without it, but because the political leader whom he accepts as his guide, philosopher and friend has said publicly not that the 18th Amendment is the supreme law to which every patriotic citizen owes personal obedience, but that it is a wicked and damnable infringement of the rights of the citizens for which the Anti-Saloon League is responsible. To meet this situation I make the following suggestions as a plan to make the Eighteenth Amendment effective:

Proposed Methods

Perjury under the enforcement law should be so defined as to include failure to observe the law passed to enforce the Constitution by any officer whose duty it is under his oath to support the Constitution, and the statute should further provide that any public officer who has taken this oath and has been found guilty of wilfully violating the enforcement act while in office is also guilty of perjury as defined in the act and in addition to the other penalties to be imposed, shall be liable to forfeiture of his office, which shall thereupon immediately become vacant, and that as a result of a second conviction he shall be ineligible to hold any office of trust under the laws of the United States or any of the states This oath is taken now without any thought of the solemn obligations it involves, and certainly Congress has the power to provide a punishment for the violation of a duty which the Constitution imposes. No man can be said to support the Constitution who violates a statute passed to enforce the Constitution. This is to simple to discuss, and there can be no question as to the Constitutionality of such a statute. There are so many men and women anxious to take the place of offending officials that their conduct would then be continually under the scrutiny of the public and they would be very careful to walk the chalk line. The prohibition laws would then be no longer a matter for jest, derision and violation to those in high and low places, whose clear duty it is to enforce them. If it be a crime for a private citizen to have liquor in his possession, it is a greater crime for a governor or congressman or other public official who has taken a constitutional oath to uphold the law, and he ought to suffer a greater penalty. This is but elementary justice, and yet public sentiment has been so debauched in some places that often officials have the effrontery to boast of their disregard of the law which they helped to pass, or at least have sworn to uphold and on account of which so many humble citizens have to suffer punishment.

Upon the passage of such a statute the official society of Washington, New York, Boston and Chicago, would soon become as dry as Sahara and the great army of federal and state employes in the Capital and throughout the nation would submit to the prohibition laws. The wet press of the country would then lose its chief arguments against the effectiveness of the Amendment and public opinion would rally rapidly around the Constitution. I may be mistaken in the belief that the adoption of this suggestion will successfully solve the grave problem confronting America, but I do know that it cannot be solved unless something be done along these lines to quicken the conscience of official society and awaken all Americans to the conviction that submission to the supremacy of the Constitution is the first qualification and a necessary qualification for holding office. There can be no respect for law if the public are to continue to believe that the oaths of legislators, senators, congressmen, courts and all state and federal officers are but unnecessary forms and shallow mockery.

Second

My experience has convinced me that the federal district courts and state courts of general jurisdiction in their charges to the grand jury can exercise a tremendous influence on the public sentiment of the community. Therefore I suggest that all judges, federal and state, whose duty it is to charge grand juries, be required by an Act of Congress, in their charge to call special attention to the sixth Article of the Constitution of the United States and the obligation of all, legislative, executive and judicial officers to support the Constitution and to the proposed Act heretofore suggested, and also that they be required to emphasize the supremacy and peculiar sanctity of every provision of the Constitution.

Third

As a part of the plan to develop sentiment in favor of the observance of the law, I suggest that Congress pass a statute by which all schools, public and private, be required to give instruction regularly on all the provisions of the Constitution of the United States and to inculcate in the students of America the conviction that every citizen owes a duty to observe every provision of that Constitution and the laws passed for their enforcement, and that failure to observe the law is a violation of the obligations of good citizenship, so that there may be developed in the young a fixed conviction that the use of and traffic in intoxicating liquors is under the law something harmful and disgraceful to the citizens.

Fourth

Further, let the enforcement act provide that the courts have the right to impose the loss of the right of sufferage perpetually or for a definite period of years in its discretion, upon a second conviction, for the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors. Any man who after such a conviction has then shown his disregard for the Constitution of his country by repeating the offense, ought to forfeit his right to assist in the government of his country by casting a ballot, just as every official who so violates the Constitution which he has sworn to support ought to forfeit his right to take part in the government by surrendering his office.

Fifth

Experience and observation have convinced me that small fines for engaging in the liquor traffic are treated by offenders as a mere license for other offenses, and that only a term of imprisonment can put the fear of the law in the hearts of the morons and greedy criminals who get support or accumulate fortunes by defiantly violating the prohibition act. The small fines now authorized and imposed in many cases cause the public to believe that such violations are merely venial offenses and are not to be regarded as at all serious. Therefore the courts ought to be allowed to punish by a term of imprisonment in all cases.

Sixth

Some of the great states which exercise vast influence throughout the republic refuse to maintain an enforcement act under the concurrent authority contained in the second section of the 18th Amendment. I thereby suggest, if it be thought the foregoing five suggestions are not sufficient, that in such states those officers whose duty it is to run down crime and protect society from crime and criminals, be required by act of Congress to assist in the enforcement of the federal statute and be subject to the duties of federal officers engaged in similar official duties so that offenders may know that the public interests are being guarded by state as well as federal supervision, but of course such a statute ought not to apply to officers of a state which maintains an enforcement act. By this legislation the police of great and small cities and the constables of all the counties would be required to support the federal government and the enforcement of the 18th Amendment would be made vastly more effective in states in which so much has been said and done to make it appear that enforcement is impossible. The passage of such a statute would be allowed by an enforcement act in all the states, I believe and would help to arouse public opinion in favor of the observance and enforcement of the prohibition laws, particularly in such states as New York, Maryland and Connecticut.

Salient Facts About Durant Prize Contest.

Two prizes were offered by W. C. Durant of New York for the "best and most practicable plans for making the 18th Amendment effective," $25,000 for the best of all and $5,000 for the best from a high school—$4,000 to the school and $1,000 to the winning student.

Twenty-three thousand two hundred and thirty plans were received, every state and all colonial possessions participating; 194 high school plans came from 41 states and the District of Columbia.

Contributors included editors, judges, police officers, engineers, federal enforcement officers, ex-governors, college professors, research specialists, hundreds of lawyers, thousands of mothers, etc.

Every contribution was read by an editorial staff of editors, governmental researchers, and social science teachers at least twice, the best ones from ten to twenty times or more.

Every plan was marked for its specific proposals and notably useful facts, diagrams or comments; in all 64,000 proposals were tallied and classified.

Thus besides two winning plans the contest produced the makings of a mosaic or composite best plan for official and citizen use.

The Committee of Awards, on Dec. 20, from 10 A. M., to 8:30 P. M., compared 20 surviving plans, selected two for the prizes, and adjourned without knowing the names and addresses of the winners.

The $25,000 prize went to Major Chester P. Mills, former prohibition administrator from New York City, and the high school prize to the Palo Alto high school. Walter H. Nichols, principal and Malcolm D. Almack the 15 year old junior who wrote the winning high school plan.

Mr. Durant has promised to publish many plans and summaries for the country's use in demanding desirable next steps.

The winning plan contained 32 proposals including local discovery of sources of illegal liquor; local publicity for a plan to suppress all sources; adequate records for showing local public and federal chiefs how far enforcement succeeds and where it fails; stricter supervision of permits for industrial alcohol; stricter laws for governmental officials; non-political interference with enforcement; and presidential leadership.

The winning high school plan urged continuous education of the public in and out of school both as to benefits from real prohibition and defects of enforcement, more and better courts, better trained enforcement officers, continuous research and strong state enforcement.

Simplicity of cooling system is a feature of the new Ford

A COMPLETE water plant is a part of every automobile as it is a part of every modern city.

The purpose of this water plant is to keep the engine cooled to a temperature that will make it efficient in operation. If it were not for this, the cylinder walls would become overheated and the pistons refuse to operate.

The cooling system of the new Ford is particularly interesting because it is so simple and reliable.

When the radiator is full of water, the engine of the new Ford will not overheat under the hardest driving. Yet the water is so regulated that it will not impair engine operation by running too cold in winter.

The cooling surface of the Ford radiator is large, with four rows of tubes set in staggered position so that each receives the full benefit of the incoming air. The fan is of the airplane propeller type and draws air through the radiator at the rapid rate of [illegible] feet per minute at 1000 revolutions per minute of the motor.

The hot water around the cylinder head is drawn to the radiator to be cooled by a centrifugal water pump of new design.

The entire cooling system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little attention.

The radiator should be kept full, of course, and drained once each month so that sediment will not collect and retard the free passage of water. In cold weather, a reliable anti-freeze solution should be added.

As owner and manager of this important water plant you should also see that the water pump and fan shaft are properly lubricated and the packing around the pump shaft kept in adjustment.

Hose connections may also need replacement after long service. For these little adjustments, it pays to call on the Ford dealer.

Ford workmen under close factory supervision [illegible] have been specially trained and equipped to do a thoroughly competent [illegible] job at [illegible] cost.

BED IS THE PLACE FOR THOSE CONTRACTING FLU

Doctor Should Be Called and His Instructions Followed

"If you feel an attack of influenza coming on, go to bed; send for your doctor; follow his instructions and stay in bed until the attack is over," is the adivice of Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, to nll sufferers from "colds" or "grippe" or "influenza" or whatever may be the name by which this season's outbreak is described.

"You may think that you can't take the day, or several days off from your work just now," he continued, "but you will save time in the end, get back to work more quickly and probably prevent serious complications, by going to hed at once, no matter how mild the attack may seem to be . Some of the most serious after effects—pneumonia and weakened hearts, follow neglect of what seems to be 'only an ordinary cold.' "

"In an outbreak such as we are having this winter 'influenza' and 'grippe' are interchangeable titles for the same thing. The former comes from a word signifying 'influence' and was first used by the Italians in connection with an epidemic in 1743, when the outbreak was believed to be caused by an 'influence' of unknown origin. 'Grippe' comes from a French word meaning to attack. Studies that have been made by the U. S. Public Health Service, during great outbreaks have shown that influenza by itself is rarely fatal. It is when it is accompanied by complications that it becomes so serious. On that account, the importance of prompt care cannot be emphasized too strongly.

"The disease is believed to be transmitter from person to person through the secretions from the nose and throat. Some of the precautions that are effective in warding off the 'flu' have been summarized by the U. S. Public Health Service. Here they are:

1. Avoid needless crowds.
2. Take advantage of as much open air and sunshine as you can.
3. Sleep with the windows open; be sure your homes are well ventilated.
4. Avoid people who are coughing, sneezing or snuffling, and do not cough or sneeze yourself without using a handkerchief.
5. Wash your hands immediately before eating and do not put your fingers in your mouth or nose. By shaking hands or handling objects touched by others you may infect yourself by carrying your hand to your mouth or nose.
6. Do not use a napkin, towel, spoon, fork, knife, glass, dish, or cup that has been used by another person unless such articles have either been washed or sterilized. Avoid the common drinking cup.
7. Keep up your general health—first, by using inside and outside plenty of clean water; second, by eating clean, wholesome food; third, by sleeping at least seven hours out of the 24; and fourth, by keeping the bowels regulated.
8. Keep away from houses where there is influenza.
9. Avoid chilling.
10. Avoid overheated rooms, And finally:
11. In case the disease develops, go to bed immediately and remain there until recovery. A physician should be called at once.

COUNSEL TO BE EMPLOYED

on his motion for a suspension of rules to allow immediate consideration of the resolution. It was during this speech that he made his charges and was answered by Mr. Lee, who continually rose to point of order to declare the speaker out of order. The Speaker Protem Tolle upheld all of these contentions and ruled Mr. Cohourn out of order on several occasions when he talked on the scandals and not on the motion of appeal from the chair.

During his battle to have the chair overruled and the resolution asking Governor Ritchie (1) if road funds had been used for celebrations during the past five years, (2) if so when, where, in what amounts and to whom were the disbursements made, (3) were road funds used for celebrations in connection with the opening of Crain highway, opening of Severn River bridge, or lifting of tolls on the Havre De Grace-Perryville bridge and (4) if any such expenditures were made a detailed and itemized statement thereof, authority upon which such payments were made to what account charged and an explanation of relationship of such expenditures to Maryland's good roads system, Mr. Cobourn made the charges of muzzling, said that the democratic party must clean house, and said that the road scandals were the property of the democratic party, and that for the life and existence of the party in the state, a satisfactory explanation must be made to the people, and that the democratic party must "put its house in order." Mr. Cobourn attacked the personnel of the committee on grand inquest as appointed by Mr. Lee, and charged that the whole thing would be made an affair to whitewash all those connected with the administration and others involved.

When it came down to a vote on Mr. Cobourn's appeal from the chair in reference of his resolution to committee, the chair was sustained, many of the Republican members refusing to vote on the ground that the question involved a matter of dissension in the Democratic ranks.

The report of the Grand Inquest committee, which was presented Delegate Francis P. Curtis, Baltimore City Democrat, said that a competent investigation of the affairs of the Maryland State Roads Commission." Charles McHenry Howard, Joseph C. France and Alexander Armstrong ere appointed as counsel for the inquest committee.

Embraced in the resolution was a clause providing for as many meetings of the committee as prove necessary to conduct the investigation, and saying that the committee would take all necessary steps to secure financial support for the vigorous conduct of the counsel appointed and of the committee.

While the House was having this stormy time, which, so far this session seems to be the only kind the lower House can have, the Senate was moving serenely on across the hall, and was adjourned before the house was well under way, the members of the upper body appearing in the lower chamber to watch the proceedings.

Dry Bill Introduced.

The prohibition question, one of the outstanding ones at the sessions of 1922 and 1924, when enforcement bills were defeated, was again brought into the legislative limelight when a bill, sponsored by the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, was introduced in both branches. In the House, Delegate Horace Davis, Democrat, Worcester county, brought forth the measure, and like action was taken in the Senate by Senator George P. B. Englar, Republican, of Carroll county.

One of the most bitter battles of the 1922 session of the Assembly, more fiery than that of the 1924 session, when a like measure was also defeated, was precipitated over a similar measure. The present bill is sponsored by the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland, whose superintendent, George W. Crabbe, has said that it has the backing of other dry organizations of the State.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and the Liberty Defense League has also said that a vigorous fight would be carried on against it.

In the Senate a bill was introduced by Senator Levin to provide for a State debt of $100,000 to furnish the necessary funds for the erection of a training school for Negro insane, imbecile and other defectives.

Administration Measures In

The administration bills asked for $5,000,000 for institutional and departmental construction work, post road and bridge building were also shot into the hopper in the House. The largest of these, of which there were three, provides for $3,300,000 for institutional and departmental work. The next largest, $1,500,000, to be matched by a like sum in Federal aid, is for post road construction and the last for $1,000,000 for the construction of bridges throughout the State.

Delegate Francis A. Michael, Democrat, of Baltimore City, intoduced a bill aimed at the use of the injunction in labor disputes, which would prevent the issuance of an injunction against an offense which by statute is already punishable by fine or imprisonment. Mr. Michael said that in many cases, prosecution under contempt of court proceedings brought forth penalties more severe than those provided under laws covering the same offense when committed in other circumstances.

Several other bills, relating to local laws of Baltimore City and the counties were also introduced in the House and referred to the delegations of those districts.

GOV. PINCHOT'S ADDRESS.

Former Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, before a meeting in Washington, D. C., held under the auspices of the Nationnl United Committee for Law Enforcement on Sunday afternoon, January 13, to celebrate the eighth nnniversary of the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment, said:

We have laws enough, regulations enough, money enough, and men enough to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment—if they had a strong purpose behind them. Only determination is lacking.

There is but one man who can supply the will to enforce on a nation-wide scale. That is the President of the United States.

Enforcement is hamstrung by politics. The President alone is strong enough to break the alliance between corrupt politics and the organized business of bootlegging.

Through its permit system, the Government exercises exclusive jurisdiction over the manufacture, storage, distribution, and sale of alcohol in any form. Here is the heart of the problem. Only the President can dominate it.

The Constitution is under attack at the point of the Eighteenth Amendment. The President has taken oath to "preserve, protect, and defend" it. The laws are disregarded. It is his Constitutional duty to "take Care that the Laws be faithfully executed." Is it unreasonable to expect him to do so?

The President can begin to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act up to the level of other laws by declaring publicly his determination to do so; by announcing that he will refuse to offer an appointment to his Cabinet or to any other oflice to any one who is not a good enough American to obey the Constitution; by giving public notice that so long as he is President violation of the Eighteenth Amendment by any public servant will carry with it immediate dismissal; and by announcing that Federal enforcement will be wholly divorced from politics.

Having thus notified the people that the Government takes the Constitution seriously, let the President proceed to—

Call together in the White House the heads of the Bureau of Prohibition and other Federal enforcement services and notify them in open meeting that they and their subordinates must not only be dry but efficient, and that unless they begin to produce results within three months better men will take their places.

Call together in the White House all United States District Attorneys and give them also notice to show results within three months or get out.

The known failure of enforcement in the City of Washington has immensely encouraged lawlessness throughout the country. Let the President give the Commissioners of the District of Columbia notice to begin cleaning up at once and make and keep the District clean under penalty of dismissal.

Having thus notified the enforcement officials that the President will stand for nothing less than real enforcement, let him set over the enforcement services as his personal representative a coordinating officer with large executive experience and a real interest in law enforcement, and direct him to make these agencies work together, nnd to attack the flow of illegal drink at the source.

Let the President also at various times invite to meet him in the White House, the Governors of the several States, the mayors of the 100 greatest cities, the leaders of the great professions, industries and corporations, and the heads of the churches, the dry organizations, the women's organizations and others, and ask for their help in enforcement and in the arousing of public support for the law.

The methods above suggested for the President require no action by Congress, and add nothing to the cost of enforcement. They are practical, appropriate and within the President's Constitutional duty. Every one of them has already in very similar situations been shown to be effective by the test of actual use.

Although the President can enforce the Eighteenth Amendment with the statute law we have, certain improvements in the law and regulations are doubtless desirable. But these changes, which a President determined to enforce could easily secure, as well as the proposed removal of the Prohibition Bureau to the Department of Justice, are far less important than the firm intention of the President himself that the law shall be enforced.

Still other ways of reaching the situation are open to the President. For example: the free and unlimited importation of liquers by diplomatic representatives is n chief source of the wetness of Washington. If the President, following the far stronger precedent set by the British Government years ago in the matter of slaves, should suggest to all foreign governments that he would regard it as a friendly act if they would instruct their representatives to import no more alcoholic liquors, the attitude of official Washington toward the Eighteenth Amendment would change overnight.

It would be objected that the President is already too heavily burdened to undertake new tasks. The answer is that he has no duty more essential than to defend the Constitution and enforce the Inw. If something else must wait, then let it wait.

But in fact nothing need wait. For practical experience shows that everything here outlined, and much more, can be done without absorbing tive per cent of the President's working time. Once it were known that the President was thoroughly determined to enforce the law, the rest would follow almost as a matter of course.

When a President of the United State makes it his personal business to see that the Eighteenth Amendment is enforced, and sticks to it, it will be enforced. And not until then.

Prerogative of King Solved Big Problem

An ancient royal prerogative, once so oppressive that if a man killed the king's deer he was put to death for it, was revived and put in force for the directly opposite purpose of relieving the English sovereign's subjects of grievous burden.

Early in November, 1927, a herd of more than a hundred false killer whales, the like of which had not been seen in British waters for sixty years, eagerly pursuing a shoal of herring into shallow water in Dornoch firth, on the Sutherland coast of Scotland, were unable to make an offing into deep water. They rolled and lurched this way and that, and when they finally gave up the ghost their carcasses were strewn for thirty miles along the shore and up an estuary near Bonar bridge. The disposal of the huge creatures offered a serious problem to the town. Once before a whale had gone ashore there and it had cost $100 to bury it. Now there were 120 to be got rid of and neither the town nor the local laird saw where they were to get hold of the $10,000 or so to pay for putting them underground. Should the town issue bonds, saddle itself with what, to such a community, amounted to a war debt, merely to remove a nuisance, when so many works of beauty and utility were crying to be undertaken?

In their anxiety the town appealed to the British board of health, and one of its members happily thought of an act of King Edward II, which had been in abeyance for six hundred years, wherein sturgeons and whales thrown ashore were declared to be the property of the sovereign "on account of their superior excellence." Sturgeons went to the king entire, but, as it was difficult to transport an entire whale from the coast to Windsor, the law permitted the sending of the whale's head to the king and its tail to the queen. Neither King George nor Queen Mary felt disposed to insist upon their rights and have Buckingham palace littered up with the gory heads and tails of 120 whales, and the board of trade interpreted the royal wish to be that the bodies should be removed by the king's coast guard.

This Solomon-like judgment was at once put into effect, much to the relief of the people of Bonar bridge, who, as the days passed, were being uncomfortably conscious that none of the whales had brought any ambergris with them

GOVERNOR PRESENTS HIS STATE BUDGET MEASURE

Appropriations Recommended for 1930-1931 Total $53,709,164 —Tax Rate To Remain Same

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 22—Providing for the largest appropriations in the history of the State, Governor Ritchie tonight presented his budget message for the years 1930 and 1931, and accompanying it with the bill, which if adopted by the Legislature, will provide for the enactment of his recommendations as made for state expenses in his message.

Governor Ritchie touched in many of the outstanding features of the budget in his message to the joint session on the opening week of the 1929 meeting, explaining the increase in the amount deemed necessary for operation of the State for the coming two years, and which he fully outlines in his final budget message.

Retirement Fund Heavy.

In the appropriations are sums providing for salary increases for various department heads and for many of the other state officers including teaching branches. One of the principal features of part of this increase which must come from the general fund, much of it being taken care of in special branches where the money does not come from the general fund, is that of the increased amount made necessary for the teachers' retirement act passed by the Legislature of 1927.

It was this act, the Governor said, which made it necessary to maintain the present rate of taxation at 25.74 cents, which he said might otherwise have been reduced. It is estimated that the 21.74 rate will take care of even the increase in the expenditures as outlined in the budget.

The appropriations recommended by the Governor for 1930 total $26,504,765.84, and for 1931, $27,204,398.19. It is estimated that these appropriations may be covered without increase in the tax rate which provided for the last and the current fiscal years.

Big Increase Over 1929

The amount asked for 1930 is $4,325,981 more than asked in the original budget, with supplemental items asking for $312,616, making a net increase over the former budget of $4,013,365. Of this net increase, lateral roads and grade crossing gasoline taxes account for $2,731,502, which was not included in the budget. With this provision, the actual increase in the 1930 budget over 1929 is $1,281,863.84.

Special funds and not the general treasury of the State will stand $324,562 of this boost. The grade crossing and lateral roads gas tax will provide $167,866 and license fees for automobiles will account for $33,790, while fees from students and patients at the University of Maryland is estimated to bring in $97,344.

The largest item of the $957,301 increase which must come out of the general funds of the state is brought about by the teachers' retirement act, which provides for increased pension funds of state teachers going on the retirement list, while increased care for insane patients of the state demand $152,586.

Salary Increases

Salary increases which are included in the Governor's recommendations have little effect on the budget allowance sought by him. Another slight increase is made necessary by space expansion of the State offices in Baltimore, which call for increased rental funds.

Some of the salary increases provided are for Mental Hygiene Commissioner, from $3,600 to $6,000 per year; State Game Warden from $3,600 to $4,800 per year; Director of State Health Department, from $6,000 to $7,500 per year; State Forester, from $4,500 to $4,800 per year; Deputy Insurance Commissioner and Fire Marshal, from $3,300 to $4,500 per year; Superintendent of State Training School for Boys, $3,600 to $4,500 per year! Superintendent Springfield School for the Deaf, $4,000 to $4,500 per year; Superintendent Springfiled State Hospital, from $3,600 to $4,500 per year ($1,000 living expense account withdrawn); Superintendent of Spring Grove State Hospital, $3,600 to $4,500 per year; Superintendent Eastern Shore Hospitnl, $3,600 to $4,500 per year; Superintendent Crownsville State Hospital, $3,600 to $4,500 per year; Superintendent Rosswood Training School, $3,600 to $4,500 principal account; Clerk Commission of Motor Vehicles, $2,00 to $3,300 per yr.

T. B. SEAL SALE REPORT SHOWS $214.13 TO DATE

Is $131.97 Less Than Amount Received in Drive of 1927

The report of the tuberculosis seal sale campaign for this county to date shows that $214.13 has been received by Mrs. C. Milton Sincell, chairman. This is $131.97 less than the total amount turned in for the year 1927, Mrs. Sincell said, but there are still a few stamps which have not been returned. "I hope that either the stamps or the money for them will be sent as soon as possible," she said. "The State association is anxious for us to make our final report."

During the year 1928 $732.17 was actually spent in Garrett county for tuberculosis work, or $386.07 more than was received in the county during the seal sale drive at Christmas, 1927. This year, it is expected that this amount will be increased, regardless of the smaller return within the county during the 1928 campaign.

OAKLAND A. A. TO MEET BERLIN IN RETURN GAME

Scheduled for Tuesday Night—To Play at Fairmont Saturday

The Oakland A. A. basketball team will meet the strong Berlin Collegians in a return game at Naylor's Hall, in Oakland, next Tuesday night, it has been announced. Berlin won the first game of the series at Berlin two weeks ago when the local team, with three regulars out of the line-up, was trounced 61-34.

However, with the regulars back in the game, the Oakland team will attempt to avenge the recent defeat and will be out for a victory. Berlin will present its usual strong lineup with Imhoff, O. Miller, Buckman, Groff, H. Miller, T. Miller and others. This team is easily as good if not better than the team which Oakland defeated at Naylor's Hall last year, 33-29.

There will be a preliminary game at 7:30 between the high school and another local team.

The support the Oakland fans give the team on Tuesday will determine whether or not this will be the last game at home for the season. Admission will be 25 and 50 cents and it is hoped by the management that there will be a large turnout.

Saturday night the Oakland team will journey to Fairmont W. Va., in which city it will meet the Fairmont Y. M. C. A. team in a return game. Fairmont defeated Oakland a few weeks ago 31-24.

Rotary Team Creeps Ahead of Merchant Bowlers.

The Oakland Rotary Club bowling team forged ahead of the Merchants in the second round of the Oakland bowlin league at the Recreation alleys last Thursday when they won two out of three games from the Methodists, while the Knights of Columbus were trimming the Merchants two out of three. This gave the Rotary Club a percentage of .883 and the Merchants and Presbyterians are tied for second place honors.

The Presbyterians took two out of three games from Crellin on Monday night in the only other games of the week. The Postoffice-Lutheran game was postponed.

Tonite the Methodists and Knights of Columbus will meet, while the Merchants and Rotary Club will fight it out for first place honors. This should prove to be the best match of the week.

Frank Smouse, of the Merchants, rolled the high score of the week for one game, when he knocked over 189 is.

STATE ASSEMBLY GETS OVER TWO SCORE BILLS

Two Senate Resolutions Call for Joint Investigation of State Roads Commission Scandal

With Governor Ritchie's budget and more than two score bills introduced in both houses of the General Assembly at Annapolis, a new resolution calling for an investigation of the State Roads Commission brought forward and a faint note of the strife which has marked the earlier deliberations of the session, the Legislature seemed the quietest of any night or day of the 1929 session.

Senators Beck, Democrat, of Kent county, and Levin, Republican, of Baltimore, introduced resolutions calling for an investigation of the roads commission and asked that the joint committee of the House and Senate members be appointed to start it.

The advisability of moving the penitentiary from Baltimore and an inquiry into prison conditions in the State, were also introduced by Senator Levin. Governor Ritchie has already ondinced plans for the construction of a new penitentiary in the country and in his message to the joint session, asked that an appropriation of $270,000 for purchase of land and the construction of the first unit or units to take care of the present overflow be granted.

Bills Introduced

Among the bills proposed in the Senate was one in which a parole commission would have charge and consent in the giving of paroles to convicts. Another was for the abolishment of the Jim Crow law in the state. Along with these were several motor vehicle measures and administration recommendations.

In the House a measure providing for the designation of various highways as boulevards and through streets and providing penalties for violation of these by motorists.

Want Pay Increase

Another fight for the increase in pay for members of the General Assembly was in sight when Delegate Hamilton, Republican, Allegany county, introduced a measure to have a constitutional amendment increasing the pay of members from five to ten dollars per day, presented to the people of the State at the next general election. The bill would increase the pay of the Speaker of the House from three to five dollars a day more than that of the members.

Rotary Names New Committee.

An additonal committee was named at the last weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary Club whose members will have the task of keeping in touch with foreign Rotary Clubs, especially those located in European countries. Letters are being written by members of this committee to Rotary clubs in Spain, France and Germany to ascertain their attitude on questions of public international affairs, and the first subject thnt will be discussed will be the Kellogg Peace Pact.

Mr. Ernest Ray Jones, who was recently elected a member of the local club was initiated nt the meeting on Friday vening. Mr. Charles W. Ream was the master of ceremonies and his address was of more than passing interest and highly commended by those who had the opportunity of hearing it.

The speaker at the meeting tomorrow evening will be Attorney Joseph V. Gibson, a leading lawyer of the Kingwood bar.

LOST PAYROLL OF MINING COMPANY IS RECOVERED

Money Placed Under Store Counter is Missed by Superintendent

Marion county (W. Va.) officers Friday succeeded in locating $1,370 of the $1,400 Agnes Coal Company payroll which was stolen from the store of Patsy Lurich at the Agnes mine on Thursday. The money was found in the home of Lurich, police said, and was in the original package which Dale Reed, superintendent and paymaster hid in the store Thursday while he went out to the coal operation.

Joe Spitto, brother-in-law of Lurich, is held in connection with the theft of the money. Spitto, who resides in the Lurich home, denies that he took the money.

Dale Reed, superintendent of the mine, is a son of Dr. W. D. Reed, former pastor of the Methodist church in Oakland, is well known here. He secured the money at a Fairmont bank on Thursday and when he arrived at the mine left it with Patsy Lurich, proprietor of a store, while he attended to some other duties at the mine. The money was placed in a box and hidden beneath the counter. State police who investigated, were told. Later in the day, when Reed returned to the store for the money, it had disappeared.

The Agnes mine is owned by the W. D. Reed interests in Fairmont.

Communication with the postmaster at Fairmont failed to locate the parents and the matter was turned over to the radio station at that city and in this manner the girls parents were found.

Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh, after being quite ill for more than three weeks as the result of an attack of influenza, is again able to attend to his professional duties.

JOHN CARTER APPOINTED GARRETT'S COUNTY AGENT

Agriculture Instructor Friendsville High School, to Assume Office on February 15th.

John H. Carter, vocational agriculture instructor in Friendsville High school for the past two years, has been appointed and has accepted the position of County Agent for Garrett county, recently vacated by J. L. McGlone, resigned, according to an unofficial announcement made yesterday.

It was stated that Dr. T. B. Symons, director of the Extension Division, University of Maryland, recommended the appointment of Mr. McGlone's successor.

Mr. Carter will assume his new duties about February 15, it has been reported. No successor to Mr. Carter in the school at Friendsville has been named by the County Board of Education.

Mr. Carter will take charge of the affairs of the County Agent with an excellent background of experience. He is a native of Virginia, having been a high school student at Chilhouie. He took the four year course in agriculture at the University of Maryland, graduating in 1926 with the degree of Bachelor of Science, and has been engaged in instructing in vocational agriculture in Friendsville high school for more than two years.

FAILED TO HANG WITH AUTO CHAIN AS NOOSE

Wife Discovers Husband in Time to Prevent Self-Destruction

Hillary Broadwater, 27, coal miner, is reported in a serious condition at his home on Laurel Run, Garrett county, near Lonaconing and five miles from the Gorge's Creek boulevard, as the result of an attempt at suicide early last Friday night. He used automobile tire chains in an attempt to hang himself in his barn after his return from a visit to the vicinity of Grantsville.

Broadwater had made a noose of a chain after fastening it to a rafter in the barn, but finding it was not long enough, extended it with a second chain and then kicked a stool upon which he was standing from under him. When his wife, Ruby Broadwater found him he was nearly dead as a result of strangulation. She in some manner released him from the chain about his neck and assisted him to the house.

Later he revived somewhat and made a second attempt, according to some members of his family, by trying to drive his automobile over a fifteen-foot embankment, but was prevented from doing so by his brother, Leonard Broadwater. He later collapsed completely.

Broadwater is said to have been despondent, dut to ill health, and relatives also stated that he had been drinking. His family consists of his wife and three children.

Interest at High Peak

With the addition of six entries in the oratorical contest, to be held Friday, January 18, at one o'clock, a. m. in the Oakland Opera House, third floor of the Hinebaugh building, the success of the competitive meeting seems assured. Those who have lately signified that they would be one of the winners in the contest include James Kerins, F. E. Rathbun, E. C. Lawrence, Thomas Graser, Maurice "Soup" Davis, and Soldier Halsey. These names are added to the list of Delbert Davis, Joseph E. Harned, W. W. Dawson, Ernest Shirer, J. C. Renninger, Jerry Stanton, W. R. Offutt, E. R. Jones, F. A. Thayer, Dick Coddington, Mayor L. M. Fraley, Bill Browning, A. T. Matthews, and Sprig Tower, who entered a week ago. F. A. Thayer and E. R. Jones withdrew when they discovered that Ernest Shirer and Sprig Tower were entered.

"What chance have we against those two," they wailed. Archibaldson, committee on arrangements, was undecided whether to bar Prof. Rathbun, or reinforce the speakers' platform.

Practices on the speeches that are to be delivered are already being held, as Col. Bell, who scouted around this week, will testify. He garnered four nice snapshots of the demon orators at work in their studies, and they depict a sample of what the real "bull' session is going to be like.

Before an Audience

A trip to Deer Park revealed Soldier Halsey delivering his epistle before a few close friends in order to obtain poise and confidence.

He Has the Hat On

* * *

Ernest Shirer was caught pointing out one of his strong points. His audience was confined to nature and the pasture fields. He can be seen next to a haystack where he was far from the sight of mortals. He expects to overcome this shy aspect on the morning of the performance.

Practice Makes Perfect

* * *

Julius Renninger, Sr., was taking things more easily and was content to do his practicing at his office. His references include several large and ponderous volumes which he expects to have at his side when he arises for his ten minute explosion.

Taking it Calmly

* * *

James Kerins was at somewhat of a disadvantage, having had no experience in this kind or oratory. Impromptu arguments were his specialty but he entered this contest on a bet with Bill Gibson that he would win, at least the booby prize. As he was snapped by the Col. he had all the mechanics of Kerins Brothers garage as an audience and was just at the point of his grand climax when his memory failed him.

He'll Show Them Yet

Judges are Chosen

At a committee meeting on Monday night the judges were chosen with careful consideration. It was felt that they were the best in their line and would weigh each amount of "Hooey" with great accuracy. Those chosen were Doc. George C. Melody, formerly of here, and a well known diagnostician of animals; Carl Frazee, superintendent of the cattle division of the Garrett county Fair; and W. H. Smouse, Garrett county's veteran dealer in cattle. It was hoped that they would know the difference between oratory and "bull".

* * *

Prizes Offered

First prize offered is 10 sacks of cement, to go toward building a modern stable; second prize will be a Winchester rifle so that the winner may learn how to "shoot the bull" a little more smoothly and with less pain—to others. Third prize will be a bushel sack of cattle food to make them contented. Each contestant will be given a package of Bull Durham tobacco and a Horlick's malted milk signboard.

* * *

Come early to the building and don't crowd the stairway. Insurance agents will meet you at each flight of steps. No flowers or fruit will be allowed.

Meat—Exalt the Tough Cuts.

Since meat comprises one-third of America's food bill, we must acknowledge this popularity. The meat bill of every household can be greatly reduced if the tougher cuts or less tender cuts of meat are used more often.

Mock Duck.

One-half lb. steak, 2 inches thick, split for dressing, 1 teasponful salt, 1-8 teaspoonful pepper. Dressing—2 cups toasted bread crumbs, 2 onions (diced), 2 slices bacon (diced and tried out), ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sage, ¼ teaspoon pepper, juice of ¼ lemon, if desired, 1 egg (slightly beaten), ½ cup cold water. Mix the ingredients for the dressing thoroughly; stuff into the steak and tie securely with string; sear until brown on all sides in hot fat in the oven used directly over the flame; placed scraped carrots around the mock duck; cover and cook over a low flame for one hour; open the oven, salt and pepper the meat, add potatoes (if desired) around the mock duck with carrots; cover and continue cooking 1 to 1½ hours, depending on the toughness of the meat.Serve very hot. Strings should be removevd from pie before it is placed on the table.

Eat More.

Two tablespoons butter, 1 lb. chopped beef, 2½ to 3 cups cooked tomatoes, 2 cups celery (diced), 1 cup of broken spaghetti, 3 teaspoons sale, pepper, cracked crumbs, buttered. Place the spaghetti in boiling water; boil 10 minutes; while the spaghetti is boiling, brown the butter in the casserole pan and cook chopped beef in this until slightly brown; add to this the cooked tomatoes, celery,noodles and salt and pepper to taste; bring to the boiling point; cover with buttered crumbs; bake 1 hour in a moderate oven. Serve very hot. This is a delicious dish, containing the proper combination of a well balanced whole meat dish. This combined with fresh salad, a drink such as milk, and possibly a dessert, will please the most delicate appetite.

Swiss Steak With Mushrooms

Three and one-half to 4 lb. round steak, cut 2½ in. thick. flour, 3 tablespoons fat, cold water, 3 tablespoons salt, pepper, 6 tablespoons flour, 1 can mushrooms. Pound as much flour as possible into the steak; heat the fat in the cooking pan or skillet over a medium high flame and brown the meat thoroughly on both sides; cover the pan, turn the heat very low and cook for 1 hour; then remove the cover, sprinkle the meat with salt and pepper; cover and continue to cook 1 to 1½ hours; remove the meat to a warm serving platter; make a paste of flour and cold water; add to the liquid remaining; stir until a smooth thickened gravy is formed; add the drained mushrooms; cook until mushrooms are heated through; water and more seasoning should be added if desired; pour the hot mushroom sauce over the meat. Serve very hot.

Stuffed Pork Crops.

Six pork chops, cut for stuffing, 1½ cups rice, cooked, 2 pimientos, shredded; salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons lard or substitute. Stuff the pork chops with a mixture of well seasoned rice and pimientos. Pin the chops together with toothpicks; sear the chops until a golden brown on both sides in the hot fat in the skillet. When well browned, sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover the skillet, turn the flame very low and continue cooking 45 minutes to one hour. Serve very hot. Use the remaining liquid for gravy or seasoning.

THE HOLY SPIRIT

LESSON TEXT—John 16:7-11; Romans 8:12-17, 26, 27.

GOLDEN TEXT—For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Unseen Helper.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Unseen Helper.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How the Holy Spirit Helps Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Work of the Holy Spirit.

I. The Personality of the Spirit (John 16:7, 8).

Personality is here implied by the use of the personal pronoun. In the original Scriptures personal pronouns are used uniformly in speaking of the Spirit. Then, too, He is called the Comforter. The word "comforter" literally means one called to stand by the side of another as a helper, counselor and guide. While Jesus sojourned in the world He was such to His disciples. He assured them that upon His withdrawal the Holy Spirit would take His place as friend, helper and counsellor. The personality of the Spirit is also proved by the fact that He performs acts only possible to persons. In John 14:26 He performs the function of a teacher. He not only teaches, but He speaks as a person, giving direction to the disciples as in Acts 8:29 and 13:2. His personality is again proved by the fact that men act toward Him as they could act only toward a person. In Isaiah 63:10 the prophet declared that men vexed the Holy Spirit. It would be manifestly improper to speak of vexing an influence; only a person can be vexed. In Matthew 12:31 Jesus speaks of men blaspheming against the Holy Spirit. It would be impossible to blaspheme against an influence. In Ephesians 4:30 Paul speaks of grieving the Spirit. Again, it would be manifestly improper to speak of grieving an influence. Further, in 1 Corinthians 12:11 Paul speaks of the Holy Spirit exercising the function of will. One of the essential characteristics of personality is that of volition. The Holy Spirit is represented as divine. He has the attributes of deity. In Psalm 139:7-9 He is declared to be omnipresent; in 1 Corinthians 2:9-11 omniscient. He also performs the works of God. He is the creator and renewer (Ps. 104:30). He is called God in Acts 5:3-4, and II Corinthians 3:18.

II. How Believers are Related to the Holy Spirit. They are regenerated by Him (John 3:5-8); they are indwelt by Him (1 Cor. 6:19 Gal. 4:6). He also fills (Eph. 5:18 and Acts 4:31). To be filled with the Holy Spirit is the duty of every believer. No one has the right to perform any work for Christ without this filling (Luke 24:48,49; Acts 1:8). Even the temporalities of the church should be in the hands of Spirit-filled men (Acts 6:1-3).

III. What the Holy Spirit Does (John 16:8-11).

1. Convicts the world of sin (v. 8).

The one awful sin of the world is unbelief. The Holy Spirit convicts the people of the world of their error concerning sin and shows their guilt before God.

2. He convicts the world of righteousness (v. 10).

The resurrection and ascension of Christ prove that He is the Righteous One, and that righteousness is only possible as He is accepted as Savior.

3. He convinces the world of judgment.

To be convinced of the reality of judgment is the crying need of the world today. Sin unatoned for shall be punished. The sinner who refuses the righteousness which God provided in Jesus Christ also shall be judged.

4. The Spirit mortifies the deeds of the flesh (Rom. 8:12, 13).

The only way to get the victory over our carnal natures is to give the place of rulership to the Holy Spirit.

5. He leads the believer (v. 14).

The Spirit-filled believer lives the life of the Son of God.

6. He gives assurance to the believer (Rom. 8:15-17).

The Holy Spirit witnesses together with the human spirit to the reality of the new birth.

7. He enables the believer to pray according to the will of God (Rom. 8:26, 27).

While the believer does not know how to pray as he ought, the Holy Spirit helpeth his infirmity. All prayer which the Holy Spirit indites the Heavenly Father answers.

THE KELLOGG TREATY

The ratification of the Kellogg peace treaty by the Senate is heartening and welcome news for the whole country. It cannot fail to have a favorable reaction in other nations. The interpretative clauses in the report of the Foreign Affairs Committee have no limiting effect upon the scope of the treaty beyond that already made clear by notes of other nations and by Mr. Kellogg's own note. The treaty stands a clear and solemn resolve to make an end of war, a public declaration of faith in peace as a world policy.

The treaty must be ranked as one of the major achievements of the Coolidge administration. Mr. Kellogg's persistence has had its deserved reward. As so often in public affairs, patience and a steady hand have prevailed over many obstacles and much subtlety.

In its initial stages the proposal held much danger. The broad language of the renunciation, the novel phraseology used, suggested that more was to be promised than the actualities of the present-day world could permit any self-respecting nation to perform. There was grave peril that the effect of the renunciation would be misunderstood by the optimists of the world and that necessary measures of preparation for self-defense would be opposed or neglected.

Fortunately, this danger has been all but eliminated. England, France and Japan, by their several notes, clarified the meaning of the renunciation; and Mr. Kellogg in his final note broadly exempted all wars of self-defense from its terms. While the sweeping language of the treaty stands, its effect has been limited to accord with the facts of present-day internationalism. The report of the Foreign Affairs Committee does no more than take cognizance of the League of Nations Covenant, it is other nations which have made their reservations. The Senate ratification does no more than take note of these limitations already attached to the treaty.

A large share of the credit for the achievement belong unquestionably to Senator Borah. We refer not so much to his early advocacy of the "outlawry of was" as to his recent handling of the treaty in the Senate. It is an easy matter for a man of Senator Borah's imagination and mentality to put a new idea upon the front page. It is a difficult matter for a man of Borah's independent temperament to lead in a great co-operntive undertaking such as the ratification of a treaty. As between the two achievements there is no question that the latter is of vastly more service to the public. The country is greatly in Senator Borah's debt for the skill, the tact and the broad-minded leadership which made the vote on Tuesday, when the treaty was adopted, possible.

The next duty of the Senate is unmistakable. It is to pass the fifteen-cruiser bill promptly. Senator Borah has made it clear that the bill holds no inconsistency with the treaty. Only a handful of extremists, intent upon willfully misinterpreting the treaty, stand in opposition to the cruisers. Senator Hale and the other supporters of the cruiser bill should press uninterruptedly for an early vote.

Some Figures in Regard to the New Cruiser Bill and Some Questions.

To the Editor of The Republican.

In some curious way the country generally has drifted into a non-understanding of the Cruiser Bill now before Congress. Because the extent of this building proposal is so much less than that at first put before Congress—and the country—a general idea has arisen mistlike and obscured the real issue, that this requirement is only in line with needed progress. Such an idea has been carefully fostered and anyone who looks into the matter can recognize from what sources the fostering comes. But few are willing to take the trouble to look.

What does the Fifteen Cruiser Bill really mean? Take its meaning in terms of money. First, to complete the existing construction program on which we have already spent $72,240,000, and which is the second biggest the United States has ever put on, it will be necessary to spend $153,321,550. And for additional aircraft $14,903,000, totalling $174,225,000. This is for building ships already authorized by former legislation outside the new program. The new program provides for additional aircraft amounting to $19,386,725 in addition to the cost of the ships—totalling nearly half a billion. Maintenance and operation for the cruisers is estimated at $1,247,000 each, which, with $3,179,000—for the aircraft—makes a total of $21,891,500 annualy.

Already the navy is costing the United States about one million a day.

The existing program which was at first referred to, will not be completed until 1932. These are some of the figures. As to the qustions. Is it necessary to take these stupendous sums from the country's treasury? Even if the United States is the richest country in the world do we wish to put so huge a part of its wealth to this purpose? Is it necessary? What could we not do for the development of the country with these sums?

And are not our ideals towards development, better living conditions, and the happiness of our people? Are we not showing by the Kellogg Peace Pact and by our expressions of the desire to outlaw war that we desire peace so that these better things may come for ourselves and all the world, and do we not realize that war is obsolete? Do we dare stand before the world with the Kellogg Peace Pact in one hand and the bill forwarding such a naval construction program in the other?

And in the light of these questions are we still willing to keep to a poppied sleep and not take the trouble to look? These are a few of the questions we need to ask.

LUCY MEACHAM THRUSTON.

15,000 CASES OF INFLUENZA REPORTED IN MARYLYAND

During the Six Weeks From December 2 to January 15

A report on the influenza situation in Maryland prepared by Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, shows that over 15,000 cases of influenza were reported in Maryland during the six weeks beginning early in December and ending the middle of January. Of the total, 9,400 occurred in the counties and 6,000 in Baltimore City.

Comparing this year's outbreak with epidemics of previous years, Dr. Riley said that the last widespread outbreak in Maryland occurred in 1923, when 18,451 cases were reported —15,677 in the counties and 4,774 in Baltimore City. The most favorable years since the great epidemics of 1918, 1919 and 1920, were 1924 and 1925, with 2,156 cases in the State in 1924, of which 1,264 occurred in the counties and 2,125 in 1925, of which 1,295 occurred in the counties. In 1928, 3,771 cases were reported, 1,597 of which were in the counties; in 1927 there were 3,077 cases, 1,487 of which occurred in the counties, and in 1926 there were 6,836 cases—2,946 in the counties and 3,890 in Baltimore City.

On his return from the recent conference on influenza, held in Washington at the call of the Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, Dr. Riley said that observations made by health authorities have shown that an outbreak of influenza, such as has swept the country this winter, usually runs its course in from five to ten weeks. Very often, however, the first outbreak is followed a few weeks later by a second wave with more or less severe symptoms.

"The present outbreak in Maryland," Dr. Riley continued, "began late in November. We can accordingly expect the peak to be reached very soon, but in the meanwhile, every possible precaution should be taken to keep the disease within bounds. The exercise of such precautions now will be our best safeguard against further flare-ups.

"Like highly contagious diseases, influenza is most likely to attack those whose powers of resistance are below par. On that account, emphasis was laid in the recommendations, made by the conference, on the importance of keeping fit by—

"1. Having plenty of sleep and rest (8 to 10 hours every night with windows open, but enough covering to keep warm);

"2. Eating a moderate, mixed diet and drinking plenty of water (6 to 8 glasses daily);

"3. Dressing according to the weather and to one's occupation, wearing clothing which prevents chilling of the body surfaces and which keeps the body dry;

"4. Avoiding people with colds, especially those who are sneezing or coughing;

"5. Keeping out of crowds as much as possible, especially crowds in closed places;

"6. Avoiding the use of common towels, wash basins, glasses, eating utensils and toilet articles;

"7. Washing the hands thoroughly before eating;

"8. Avoiding alcohol and stimulants of all sorts.

"But, if you have a cold, or are feeling badly, or are feverish, it was agreed that the way to avoid a serious illness is to go to bed at once; then send for your doctor and follow his instructions."

Maryland Growers Aided By Inspection

Maryland growers and shippers last season sent to the leading markets of the country 2,329 cars of fruits and vegetables bearing Federal-State Shipping Point Inspection certificates, it is reported by S. B. Shaw, of the Maryland State Department of Markets, who supervised the inspection work in Maryland in cooperation with officials of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Of the total number of cars inspected, 1,397, or approximately sixty per cent met the necessary requirements for classification as U. S. No. 1 grade.

Demands for shipping points inspection were heaviest in the early potato producing sections, where 999 cars were inspected for shippers and growers. Apples provided the next largest number of cars, 595 being inspected during the season. Other products inspected during the season included 406 cars of strawberries, 152 cars of tomatoes, 112 cars of sweet potatoes, 57 cars of peaches and 8 cars of cucumbers.

Shipping point inspection, it is pointed out, provides the shipper of fruits and vegetables with the assurance that his consignment will sell in the market on the basis of its merits. In this respect it acts as a safeguard against undue deterioration in transit resulting from delays and as a protection against unwarranted claims from the consignee. More valuable than this, however, is the assurance furnished the buyer that the quality of the commodity offered by the shipper will be as represented.

Another important benefit of shipping point inspection, it is said, is the fact that it brings to light many deficiencies in production and packing that might affect the sale of the product. That this is a real and tangible benefit is shown by the fact that a number of shippers during the past season requested the service of inspectors in their own packing plants.

Shipping point inspection has been provided in Maryland during the past five years and while the number of cars inspected has varied each year with crop and market conditions, there has been an increasing demand for the service since its inauguration in 1924, it is said.

Plan Certification For Turkey Flocks.

Certification of turkeys for breeding will be the next forward step in the improvement of poultry production in the State, according to announcement from the Maryland State Poultry Association, following its annual meeting at Denton in December when plans were first projected.

The movement, it is said, comes as the result of requests from numerous turkey breeders for inauguration of the work and is an undoubted reflection of the revived interest in turkey production in Maryland during the past few years.

Requirements for certification, it is expected, will be along lines similar to those provided for chickens and will have to do in the main with good breeding, vigor, proper sanitation, etc.

According to W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the University of Maryland Extension Service, a limited number of turkey flocks will be inspected during the next few weeks previous to the breeding season. Next year, it is said, the number of flocks to be inspected and certified should be larger.

While certification of turkeys has been conducted in Idaho and Wyoming and in some provinces of Canada, Maryland will be the first state to inaugurate the work in this immediate section. Those interested in the project feel assured that certification will do as much to improve the turkey industry in the State, by raising the standard of breeding stock, as it has done to improve the chicken industry.

Unless you inform your customers and prospective customers of your wares, you are endeavoring to propel your business without a Sail,

Unless you give some special thought and attention to a particular plan of advertising your wares, you are traveling without a Rudder.

The purpose of advertising is to create a desire in the minds of the public to own what you have to sell to them.

Therefore, use a regular space for advertising, give some special attention to its make-up, and The Republican will arrange it in an attractive manner that will appeal to your customers and hundreds of other people, creating a desire in their minds to own what you have to sell them.

Legislature Is Given A Preliminary Glance

(By the Man in the Street in the Baltimore Observer.)

In a moment of thoughtlessness the other day I started for Annapolis by way of Johnnie Doyle's Short Line railroad and before I got far I was convinced that the rails need a little sandpapering to make the ride a bit less jolty. (I hope Mr. Doyle takes the hint.)

Reaching Annapolis the first thought was to inspect the State House, which was still there, none of Governor Ritchie's appointees or their employees having removed it for the benefit of the junk man.

It was after nightfall and the State House was all lit up and surrounded by a small ocean of automobiles. It was Tuesday evening and the General Assembly of Maryland was about to resume its sessions for the week.

The main corridor and the small corridor on the House side were crowded. The city Democratic hosses were out in force, but not full force. There was Big Boss Joe Kelly, Boss Howard Jackson, Boss Charlie Bichy, Boss Eugene Beer, Boss Joe Ilenft, Boss John Tornollan, Boss Billy Curran, Boss and Senator John Bouse, Boss and Senator John Boone Chambers, Boss and Senator Ambrose Kennedy, and so on, all milling around, not to mention a few county bosses.

The two houses were late in convening, as they say, and the explanation was that Speaker Brooke Lee was holding a meeting of his handpicked Grand Inquest Committee which is not expected to find anything important in the State Roads scandal that we do not already know about.

It soon came out that Charlie Bichy had been spending a more or less unpleasant half hour or so with his Highness, the Prince of Conowingo, which potentate some of the irreverent are now beginning to nickname Albert the Tortoise because of his predilection for contemperating celerity with cunctation, as the late Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania was wont to advise.

Bichy and the Governor, it seems, had discussed the deadlock in the city House delegation whereby the Ritchie-Joe Kelly adherents were at that time unable legally to elect a chairman of that group and had been driven to the unhappy expedient of declaring half to be a majority,with the assent of Speaker Brooke Lee, who prior to that had boldly confessed his own political honesty. The Governor, it appears, stuck to Joe Kelly and Billy Curran and there was no agreement for the future political operations.

When the House finally convened it was revealed that Speaker Lee had persuaded his handpicked Grand Inquest Committee to approve a scheme of window dressing whereby three eminent Baltimore lawyers were to act for the committee in investigating further the toy halloon ascensions, parades, silver service presentations and other activities of that section of the Ritchie political machine legally known as the State Roads Commission.

So far, so good. It looked like Brooke Lee was making great progress in soothing the indignation of the plain people. But then there was Delegate Frederick Lee Cobourn of Harford, boiling like a cauldron of type metal, the Lee in his name not indicating any connection at all with the Lee of Silver Spring who was presiding over the House without the Cobourn vote.

Mr. Cobourn had an order, of purpose most excellent and simple. It merely asked the Governor of the State to give the House the available information about the expenditure of the money of the taxpayers for such ballyhoo as the Crain Highway opening, the Severn River bridge opening and the Havre de Grace bridge emancipation from the burden of toll.

No sooner had the innocent order been read and before the author of it could make a contemplated motion, the Speaker referred it to his handpicked Grand Inquest committee. Mr. Cobourn protested and Dan Joseph came boldly to his assistance. There was an appeal from the ruling of the chairman and the Speaker took the floor to defend himself with a book of rules in one hand. The Speaker read a rule to sustain his action. The others read rules to the contrary. Delegate Tolle of Baltimore county, where Ross Harrison Rider now rules in undisputed sway, was put in the chair. Being a supporter of the Speaker he took care to rap every time Mr. Cohourn might hurt the feelings of the Speaker and thereby cause the administration forces to weep.

In the end the roll was called and the majority that had elected the Speaker, reinforced by several Republicans who did not seem to understand what it was all about, sustained the chair and Speaker Lee returned triumphantly to the rostrum. No more than there was he when Delegate Gray of Baltimore City, arose and protested against the Speaker's childish course in excluding from committee assignments practically all those city Democrats who voted against his elevation to the place he fills without greatly adorning. The Speaker had little patience with him and made no reply or defense of his course, having a party majority behind him, not to mention some wobbly Republicans.

Dan Joseph Does
A Good Day's Work.

Delegate Dan Joseph, a member of the better government group at Annapolis, has, in my opininn, done a very good day's work by calling public attention to the fact that some of the Police Magistrates in Baltimore City have been very slow in making settlements with the State for fines collected, thereby bringing nearly all the delinquents right up to the captain's desk within twenty-four hours.

Of course each delinquent had some sort of excuse but the fact is that there is no excuse. The magistrates are paid their salaries monthly and do not get fees. They collect the fines in cash. They are required by law to settle quarterly though I see no reason why they should not be required to settle before they receive their salaries each month. Mr. Joseph has a bill to make them settle every ten days, but that is too much trouble: payday is the right time.

The fact that police magistrates (some of them) have been thousands of dollars behind at times in settlements for fines has been town talk ever since the early days of the Ritchie administration when things began to run loose financially.

Of course, some will be highly indignant at Dan Joseph, but he had the goods and he did only his duty. It is a pity no one had the courage to take up the matter before. I recall that summer before last Automobile Commissioner Baughman supplied a car and a chauffeur and sent a deputy State auditor to look up the accounts of certain magistrates in Western Maryland in relation to fines in automobile cases. Several days were consumed in the mission but the trip netted some $5,000 or $6,000.

It is such looseness in administration that has led to scandals in the Ritchie regime, and it seems queer to me that the Governor takes so little interest in such matters. In the roads case, when it became public, he said he was much cut up but I have not heard that he is cut up about the procrastination of any magistrates.

Pays a State Visit
After Eight Years.

In the spring of 1920 Governor Ritchie, his face flushed, called at the office of the State Roads Commission in the Garrett Building and attended a meeting of that body. He had just superseded the Harrington Roads Commission with little or no ceremony, having picked a Commission of his very own at the same time that he by Executive decree combined the offices of Chairman of the Commission and Chief Engineer of that same body.

He told reporters something about what he intended to do. He was going to change the bookkeeping system, he was going to bring in an auditor from the State Auditing Department, he was going to see that things were done more to his liking. He was going to do this and he was going to do that—stung by newspaper criticism of his scant consideration of the Harrington Commission.

After attending that one meeting the Governor went away, having apparently set the State Roads house in the sort of order that he preferred. From that time on the Roads Commission was run as the Governor's very own.

Last Monday morning the same Governor went back to the Roads Commission office and attended a meeting—this after more than eight years' absence during which the State Executive had found plenty of time to make many visits to New York City, visits to Boston, Chicago, Kensas City, San Francisco, Houston and many other places in search of support for the Presidential nomination.

At last Monday's meeting the Governor was supposed again to be setting his house in order. This time the State's strong box had been looted while many thousands of the State's dollars had been spent In parades and folderol for this same Governor's glorification. The Governor had thrown out his own Commission and given them a send-off composed of fine words which, of course, butter no parsnips. He had separated the position of Chairman from the position of Chief Engineer and then thrown the members out. Meanwhile the courts had sent some of the State Roads employees to prison and indicted some others while the outgoing Grand Jury, scoring the Governor's hand-picked Auditing Department, recommended further investigation by the incoming Grand Jury.

Hints for Further
Roads Investigation

The September Grand Jury having admitted that it could not complete a thorough inquiry into the State Roads scandal and recommended that the next Grand Jury carry on, it appears that the Nelligan "Advisory" Committee, being still in existence and the House of Delegates having a Grand Inquest Committee hand picked and tuned up by the addition of the Speaker himself, there is a possibility that more may yet come out if that same more cannot be successfully interred by the friends and beneficiaries of the State administration.

Aside from the construction contracts, the legality of which has been called into question by Richard B. Tippett, some investigators might find something of interest by delving into the expenditures for the Crain Highway celebration at Upper Marlboro in 1927. According to the meagre facts that have been allowed to leak out by the administration, not less than $16,000 of the State's money was expended for that shindig without any apparent warrant in budget or other legal instrument. We have it that the Roads Commission books show that the greater part of this total was paid into the hands of two chairmen, one in Baltimore City and the other in Prince George's county. These chairmen or whatever they may be called, are supposed to have used the money to pay the expenses incurred by them in holding the celebration.

Now, in connection with this there is a report that the committee or somebody undertook to present silver services to Governor Ritchie, Chairman Mackall and Robert Crain on that occasion, but that the plan miscarried. The information that reaches me is to the effect that when he heard of it Mr. Crain balked and communicated with the Governor with the result that he did not figure as a receiver of any gift. But I am told that two silver services or sets or something of the sort were ordered and sent to Upper Marlboro under guard of the State police by reason of their great value. But at Marlboro the backers of the scheme lost their nerve and did not make the public presentation that had been planned. So the silver was skidded back to Baltimore for a more auspicious occasion and this was found at a meeting of the Southern Maryland Society. There, I am told, the silver was presented to the Governor and his chief road builder, presumahly as a subscription gift, but I am told that in reality only a few hundred dollars were collected from the enthusiastic multitude. The suspicion seems to be that some of the Crain highway celebration fund was used for these silverware sets, but I do not know that to be the case.

However, the facts can be brought out if the investigation committee will call before it the two chairmen mentioned, one of whom is connected with a Baltimore financial institution while the other is active in race track politics in Prince George's county. There is no doubt that these two men will state the facts when called upon in a proper way.

Plan Suggested for The Roads Inquiry

Now that two agencies for investigation of the State Roads administration are in existence in addition to the Grand Jury it appears that one may get in the way of the other. There is the Governor's Nelligan "Advisory" Committee whose functions are limited to giving advice, and the Ritchie-Brooke Lee Legislative Committee into which Speaker Lee has insisted on projecting himself as a member.

It is my suggestion that the members of each committee attend the meetings of the other committee as spectators. The Nelligan committee has Edwin J. Baetjer as a sort of prosecutor, while the Ritchie-Brooke Lee Legislative Committee has Mr. Baetjer's law partner, Charles McHenry Howard, associated with Joseph C. France and Alexander Armstrong. There are no second class lawyers in this bunch, so that if they are let go to work right and have the time they should be able to get to the bottom of things—a bottom not seemingly yet reached.

When I mention Edwin G. Baetjer and Charles McHenry Howard I recall Major Richard M. Venable, who used to be the head of the firm of Venable, Baetjer and Howard. Months before his death the Major withdrew from practice because of failing health but his name continued at the head of the firm. Said the Major in explanation: "I'm not practicing law now but I left my name on the door to help the boys along." He always referred to his junior partners as "the boys," although they were then quite well grown in physical stature as well as in legal lore.

Robinsin Rules
Lee Out of Order.

It is not surprising that Attorney General Robinson has found that the Brooke Lee procedure in his projected investigation of the State Roads Commission is not in accord with the constitution. Mr. Robinson holds that committees of the two houses of the Legislature must act in concert or as a joint committee. Which sounds all right. Then it appears that the committees should be of equal membership. This should squeeze the Speaker off for I cannot see that he ever belonged on it.

It is peculiar that the Democrats overlooked the irregularity of the Brooke Lee proceeding and the action to set the matter straight had to be taken by a Republican Senator, Mr. Levin.

But maybe it's all right now. We've only been fooling with this road investigation for a year. And scientists say that human life has been prolonged.

Ritchie and Bichy Engage In Veracity Contest

The public may note with some interest that a development of the battle between the factions of Baltimore Democracy is a veracity contest between the Governor and Chares Bichy, the latter being the man against whom the Billy Curran-Wet Blanket forces have directed most of their fire. It relates to a call on the Governor made by Mr. Bichy on Tuesday. The Governor seems to have given it out to his favorite journal that Bichy first sought the interview with the intention of negotiating a surrender to the Curran-Joe Ranft people now marshalled by Greenmount Avenue Joe Kelly. Mr. Bichy did not like the published report and gave it a denial that seems to have made the Governor a bit hot in the collar, although he did not go to the extent of declaring himself cut up about it.

Anyway, peace between factions was not negotiated, even though the Governor saw Bichy and Bichy saw the Governor. The Democrats who fought for a Baltimorean as speaker are still on the warpath and it may be that they will grow in strength.

As for the Governor, I think he has been in veracity contests before but such matters do not worry him. Like the late Theodore Roosevelt, he can make his own "Ananias Club."

Going After the Scalp
Of Commissioner Baughman.

The automobile dealers, I see, are after the scalp of E. Austin Baughman, Automobile Commissioner, but I do ont know how much weight they have with the appointing power, the Governor. Two years ago there was a drive along the same lines led by the late Frank Kelly but it failed at the last minute.

Two years ago and before that the Commissioner had the support of Van Lear Black and Mr. Black is very influential with the Governor through his control of the Wet Blanket papers. Although I see the afternoon sheet lining up for Col. Baughman and this might mean disaster to him if the case was to be settled by the Governor.

Thomas G. Young, who has the backing of the automobile dealers, is said to be a very capable man and if given the post would no doubt make good. Still I have my doubts about the Governor making any more changes than he has to make in his wobbling administration.

Brooke Lee Has
More Trouble at Home

Taking note of papers published in Montgomery county it is evident that Brooke Lee, politician and Speaker of the House, is having more and more trouble over there. The Independent having given publicity to the undisputed fact that the County Commissioners used part of the money raised by jail and court house bond issues for other public purposes, the Maryland News, the Lee paper, used up no less than seven columns of its space in making an explanation. There is no denial that the money was diverted, but the defense is that it has been or will be paid back.

I take no sides in such a momentous matter for Montgomery county, but the mere fact that the County Treasurer has received word from headquarters to close his records against the Independent editor indicates that the county boss feels that he has been severely hurt. It may be that the Lee control of Montgomery county is slipping. Certainly some of the Democratic people over there appear to think that the combination of county boss with real estate development and road building may not work out to the advantage of the party in the next local election, which is to take place in 1930.

GOVERNOR PRESENTS HIS STATE BUDGET MEASURE

Two other offices, that of State Auditor and Parole Commissioner, which asked increases in salary, were refused by the executive, although $7,560 was added to the aggregate salary of assistants in the auditor's office. He also recommended an increase from $4,500 to $6,000 per year in the salary of the chairman of the State Roads Commission. He also asks that the $3,600 salary for an auditor for the Roads Commission funds be increased, although the figure sought had not yet been determined.

A decrease of $117,496 over figures for the previous two years are made in the 1930-31 budget for the Conservation Deportment, due to the dropping of the $75,000 fund for purchase of oyster shells for reshelling barren rocks in the Chesapeake Bay.

MT. LAKE PARK.

"The men who try to do something and fail are infinitely better than those who try to do nothing and succeed."

We don't know who it was said that, but he said a mouthful.

One of our county officials in talking with the writer the other day said something about as trite. He remarked that some of his friends called him a crank. His response was that when the family bus failed to start the "old crank" sometimes came in quite handy to get action.

That's another mouthful.

It would appear that we have arrived at the point in our civic progress when we need the services of some one, who, by reason of his desire to get forward, and is not afraid to voice his sentiments and his criticism, is sometimes designated as a "crank."

We need men and women who will try to do something for the betterment of our community, even though they fail to accomplish all they set out to do. We need a bunch of go-getters—some sort of action that will pull us out of the mud.

And, by the way, that reminds us that some of the sidewalks of the Park are in a deplorable condition. They are a sea of mud, not only in the winter, but during the summer months as well. If there is anything in this wide world that makes a fellow cuss a blue streak it is to think he is choosing a good spot on which to set his foot and then feel an icy stream of muddy water shoot up his pant's leg.

We presume there is an ordinance or law on record of this community requiring property owners to keep up the sidewalks in front of and along their property. If there is not, there should be. It is a darn poor advertisement for the Park to have some of the women in the summer go out for a walk or call and ruin their best pair of shoes and silk stockings. (We were about to include dresses, but, frankly, the walks are not quite that deep in mud.)

We personally know that Jake Echard, road supervisor, tried to induce certain of the property owners to repair their walks, but got no response. Their excuse was, we presume, that they did not want to spend any more money fixing their property.

"What fools we mortals be."

Don't they know that if they permit their property and surroundings to run down it will soon depreciate in value to the vanishing point? The Community itself is spending every cent it collects for the benefit of the Community.

We are not criticising our officials in this respect. But we do say that if they have the power so to do, the persons owning property abutting the main sidewalks, at least, should be made to put them in a passable condition.

Now, that's out of our system!

Personal and General Notes.

Freezing as it fell, the rain Tuesday night certainly emphasized the admonition that "the wicked stand in in slippery places." We did not note many of our citizens falling.

Miss Nell Walker, of Canton, Ohio, and Mrs. Margaret Berghaus, Fairmont, are guests of Court Inn for a few days.

Mrs. Utterback, Mr. J. A. Enlow and Miss Enlow are again circulating among their friends after being confined to their home by illnes for several days.

Resident of the Park, some twenty years ago, Mr. John Taylor, a B. & O. Railway conductor, died at his home in Fairmont, West Va. last Saturday. The funeral services were held in that city on Tuesday. Among those attending were Mrs. Lish, Mrs. Ford nnd Mr. Floyd White. Surviving are Mrs. Laura Tnylor, wife, and three children. Mrs. Taylor is the daughter of Mrs. B. F. Friend.

An improvement which may mean much in the church life of the Park has been started by the construction of a basement under the M. E. church under the direction, we understand, of the Ladies' Aid society of that church. It will be concreted and when completed will be used for church and other community social events.

This is a movement looking in the right direction, and we trust is the beginning of the establishment of a Civic Social Center for the Park.

Card of Thanks.

VOLUME 52. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, JANUARY 31, 1929. NUMBER 50.

COMMITTEE TO BEGIN ON STATE ROAD PROBE TODAY

Will Start By Receiving Information Gathered By the Nelligan Advisory Commission

State House, Annapolis, Md., Jan. 30.—The Nelligan Commission, appointed by Governor Ritchie last June, when the State Roads Commission scandal first broke, to make an investigation of the Commission, will be called to meet with the joint legislative inquiry body here tomorrow afternoon. The decision to call this body was reached this afternoon at a meeting of the joint House-Senate Committee, at which counsel for it were present.

The Nelligan body will be asked by the legislators to give them all information which it has so far gathered, and to outline its plans for further investigation.

A move by Senator Harry O. Levin, Baltimore city Republican, to have the Governor call off the Nelligan Commission's work, and to have it sit in an advisory capacity with the legislative body, was lost in the meeting, being voted down 15 to 1, its author being the only man to vote for it.

Parran Replaces Mitchell

At the same time it was brought out that Senator Walter J. Mitchell, Democrat, Charles county, had pressed his intention to resign from the Senate grand inquest committee, and that Senator John Parran, Calvert county Republican, had been appointed in his place.

Senator Mitchell resigned because of the attack made on him in the House by J. Allison Wilmer, Republican floor leader, that he was interested, and had been benefitted by state road contracts. Monday night when he resigned, he was given a vote of confidence by the Senate. In his notice, asking to be relieved of his duties on the committee, he talked 45 minutes to the members.

Speech Termed Smoke Screen

This morning Delegate Wilmer, furnishing the only break in the otherwise quiet session, and the only mention of the state roads scandal in

L. Fitzwater, attendance officer of the county. Peerless and Strawberry Hill were tied for the highest percentage with 99.5; Kitzmiller graded had a percentage of 96.2, and Accident high had 96.1.

Other high percentages in the one-teacher schools in their respective districts included Painter, District No. 1, 97.3; McCabe, District No. 2, 97; Keyser Ridge, District No. 3, 97.1; Myers, District No. 4, 98; Rich Hill, District No. 5, 97.9; Pine Swamp, District No. 6, 98.7; Lynndale, District No. 7, 95.2; Swan Meadow, District No. 8, 96.8; Caton, District No. 9, 96.3; Wilson, District No. 10, 97.8; Warnick-Jacobs, District No. 11, 93.9; Lageer, District No. 12, 91.7; Peerless, District No. 13, 99.5; Promised Land, District No. 14, 89.4; Merrill, District No. 15, 96.7.

Oakland Defeated by Davis-Elkins College, 61-24

With "Hippo" Poscover, former D. and E. star, now coach at Terra Alta High school, "Buck" Killen and "Pudge" Parsons, also of Terra Alta, in the lineup, the Oakland A. A. was defeated by Davis and Elkins college at Elkins last Thursday night, 61-24. The game didn't get under way until after nine o'clock, due to bad roads.

Last year's champions of the West Virginia Conference exhibited a wonderful passing attack and made baskets almost at will. Peters, a center of six feet, five and one-half inches, was high scorer with eight goals and seven out of nine fouls. Poscover was high point man for Oakland with five field goals and one foul.

The Fairmont and Berlin games, to have been played on Saturday and Tuesday nights, were cancelled.

SCOUTS TO CANVASS CITY FOR CLOTHES FOR NEEDY

"Community Good Turn" Will Be Done Anniversary Week

That a canvass of the town of Oakland, for the purpose of collecting all kinds of wearing apparel, to be turned over to Miss Rhesa King, public health nurse, for distribution wherever needed, would be made by the boy scouts during Anniversary week for their community good turn, was the decision of the local troop at its meeting last Friday.

This canvass will be made on the morning of Saturday, February 9, the second day of Anniversary week, when scouts all over the world will mobilize to do a good turn for their particular communities. At this time also, some food, purchased hy donations from all members of the troop, will be turned over to Miss King for distribution where needed.

The canvass will be in charge of Patrol Leaders Richard Stemple, Richard Davis, Forrest Warnick, and Elvin Iman, and it is urged that all citizens have some clothing that somebody would be glad to get, and which would be useful to them.

Merit Badges Passed

At a meeting of the Court of Honor Monday night Harley Dawson passes a merit badge test on woodcarving and Charles Davis passed two on firemanship and swimming.

Donald Moore, a first class scout, who withdrew from the troop for a short time, has returned to the troop, making a total of 31 present at the last meeting.

WILLIAM-JAMES HOTEL CAPACITY TO BE DOUBLED

Sixteen Bedrooms, Ten Private Baths, Dining Room and Dance Hall Are To Be Added at Once

Plans have been drawn and specifications adopted for the building at once of an addition to the William-James Hotel which will double the capacity of the present structure by adding eight bedrooms with five private baths on each of the second and third floors.

The ground floor of the hotel will as a consequence be remodeled and greatly enlarged. The lobby and office will be 16x73 feet with a new and well apointed dining hall 28x54 feet.

In addition to these two rooms a dance hall of considerable proprtions will be added and the present front porch will be extended to include the proposed new addition upon the south end of which there will be erected a sun parlor.

While the contract for the erection of the new addition has not yet been awarded by Mr. James Towler, proprietor of the hotel, he expects to have the work completed by June 1.

The fixtures and furniture to be installed will be of the highest class and modern in every respect, Mr. Towler stated.

Home Furnishing to be Project of Homemakers' Clubs

Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, returned Sunday from the annual University of Maryland Extension Service conference, held January 22 to 26. In a group meeting Miss Benthien presented methods for the year's project, House Furnishing.

Garrett county Homemakers' clubs will carry on a county-wide as well as a State project, which is "House Furnishing," during 1929. The first problem will be presented at the February meetings of the various clubs. The topic for presentation and discussions will be "Arrangement of Furniture."

Red Cross Representative Present at Tuesday Meeting.

Mrs. H. Margaret Whitcomb, of Washington, D. C., was the guest at a meeting of the Garrett County Chapter, American Red Cross, held in the Court House on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Whitcomb is field representative of the Red Cross in Maryland and Delaware and spent Monday and Tuesday in the county looking over the local field.

Activities of the Red Cross were discussed at the meeting, a number of Oakland women being present.

Mrs. E. Z. Tower, chairman, has received four more acknowledgements from the recipients of Christmas bags sent out prior to the holidays by the local chapter. The recipients of the bags expressed their appreciation, Mrs. Tower said.

THIEVES ROB POSTOFFICE AT BAYARD; $500 STOLEN

Break Open Safe and Escape with Cash and Money Order Blanks; Local Talent Blamed

Local talent is blamed for the looting of the Bayard, W. Va., postoffice, just across the Potomac River from Garrett county, early Saturday morning, when robbers cracked the safe and escaped with more than $500 and some money order blanks.

Grant county authorities have several clues, which are expected to lead to the arrest of the burglars, but no suspects have yet been arrested.

Bloodhounds, taken to Bayard from Fairmont, followed a trail to a local house four times in succession, but the occupants, well known at Bayard, denied any knowledge of the robbery. They will be kept under surveillance, however, pending the arrival of postal inspectors.

Forcing the lower sash of a window the thieves entered the building and then pried open the door of the house with a pick, taken from a near-by coal shed. Investigators declared that the thieves apparently were familiar with the neighborhood and knew where to obtain tools with which to break open the window and door.

Blew Safe Open

The combination knob of the safe was battered off by the burglars who used a knuckle-pin taken from a scrap heap at the Western Maryland Railway toolhouse, near the postoffice. Dynamite or nitro-glycerine was used to blast open the safe door.

The thieves, after looting the safe, rifled the desks and searched the office thoroughly before leaving. The robbery which apparently was committed early Saturday morning, was not discovered until several hours later. Sheriff Kimble, who took charge of the investigation, reported that the pick and other tools used by the robbers, were left in the postoffice. He declared that the robbery appeared to have been the work of local men and stated that arrests in the case will follow in a few days. Several petty robberies have been reported here in recent days, all apparently the work of the same gang.

R. W. Morton and John Lyons, local miners, were arrested Tuesday and held at Keyser, pending a hearing. Sheriff J. A. Kimble arrested the men, after bloodhounds, brought here from Fairmont, followed a trail from the postoffice to the room occupied by the miners for four times. No trace of the loot has been found by investigators.

Merchants Regain First Place in League from Rotary Club.

The Merchants regained first place in the Oakland Bowling league last Thursday night by taking two games out of three from the Oakland Rotary club team, which had ousted them the week before. The Methodists took three from the Knights of Columbus in the other match of the evening.

J. Echard, a member of the Methodist team, rolled the highest individual score of the league for a single game when he knocked over 190 pins. The whole Methodist team also scored the highest total amount for all three games when the five members knocked down 1956 pins.

The Merchants took three from Crellin in the only match played on Monday night. The Postoffice-Rotary games were postponed. Tonight the Knights of Columbus will meet the Presbyterians and the Methodists will roll against the Lutherans.

City Basketball League to Start Next Tuesday

In an effort to create a little interest in basketball among the younger people of Oakland and vicinity, a city league will be started next Tuesday night, February 5, the first games being played between the Hill Tops and the Boy Scouts, and East Oakland versus the Scout second team.

The league will be run in two divisions, the larger boys composing the first division and the smaller boys the second. In the first division will be found the Rinky-Dinks, High School, Scouts, Mt. Lake, Lutherans, Catholics, and the Hill Tops. In the second division, there will be the Sure Shots, East Oakland, the Scout second team, and possibly a Grammar school team.

Admission to these games will be 15 and 25 cents and will be played in Naylor's hall, Third street, Oakland. The first game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

CENSUS REPORT REVEALS 8,378 UNDER AGE OF 19

Check-up on Boys and Girls In County Shows That 4,920 Children Are Attending School

There are 8,378 children in the county under the age of 19 years, an official report of the census, taken by the State Board of Education, reveals. Four thousand, nine hundred twenty of these children were in public and non-public schools on November 1. This leaves practically 3,458 children who are under or above the school attendance age requirement, which ranges between 6 and 14 years.

These figures were given out by John L. Fitzwater, attendance officer, who compiled the reports of the school teachers in this county. This census is taken every two years through an order by the State Board of Education, and through the assistance of the teaching staff, the figures are accurate and complete in every detail.

Other figures compiled show that there are 90 crippled children in the county; ten under school age; nine over school age; and 57 not being taken care of in hospitals or institutions.

Forty-seven children in the county under the age of 19, are mentally defective, the report states. Three of these are under school age; four are over school age, and 23 not being taken care of in institutions.

Nine colored children under 19 years of age are in the county; three under and two over school age. The other four are in school.

BIPLANE WORKING MODEL ON EXHIBIT BY BUILDER

Bernard Gonder, Local Scout, Maker of 4 Workable Models

A working model of a De Havalland Biplane, one of the makes used by the United States during the World War, is being exhibited by its owner and builder, Bernard Gonder, Jr., a 16 year old boy, in the display window of W. A. Gonder's store. This model has a wing spread of 36 inches and the body is 24 inches long, the whole thing weighing about seven ounces.

Approximately $7 worth of parts were purchased by the maker, including a ball-bearing propellor shaft, and 150 feet of pure para rubber. The machine will, on a still day, take off and land after flying at least 75 feet through the air.

This airplane on exhibit is only one of four which have been made by Bernard since he passed his merit badge in scouting on aviation some time ago.

At the present time there is some talk among the scouts of Oakland Troop No. 1, about holding an airplane meet at the Fair Grounds in June. During the winter and spring months, instruction will be given by Bernard as to the methods of building and flying, and when the meet is held, all scouts who have made models, will enter them in competition. Further plans for this will be made at a later date.

Arrest of Petty Thieves Expected Soon.

County authorities and an official of the Monongahela West Penn Public Service company have been working on several clues during the past week in an attempt to solve the mystery of several local robberies which have been occurring recently.

The West Penn company had about 600 pounds of copper wire stolen from its store house near town, and Treacy's garage and Helbig's mill have been entered and a small amount of cash taken in each case.

Arrests are expected to follow shortly. "Local talent" is suspected of committing the crimes.

Dr. N. I. Broadwater Heads Medical Society

Dr. N. I. Broadwater, Oakland, was elected president of the Allegany-Garrett county Medical association at the monthly meeting of the Association at the Algonquin hotel, Cumberland, Friday night. Dr. Broadwater succeeds Dr. E. B. Claybrook, of Cumberland.

Dr. L. E. Daugherty, Cumberland, was re-elected vice-president. Dr. Howard L. Tolson, Cumberland, was re-elected secretary and Dr. Linne H. Corson was re-elected treasurer.

Dr. J. M. Hundley, Jr., Baltimore, was the principal speaker, talking on a professional subject.

BAND AUXILIARY MEETS; MEMBERS TO RAISE FUNDS

Will Conduct Food Sale Saturday and Card Party February 7

Decision to hold a food sale on Saturday, February 2, beginning at 10 o'clock, at Fraley's store; and a card party, to be held Thursday, February 7, in the Knights of Pythias hall, was made at a meeting of the Auxiliary of the Gilbert-Brown Boys' Band of Oakland, held Tuesday night. It is hoped that the people will support both events.

The meeting Tuesday night followed the weekly practice of the boys and after the members of the auxiliary had assembled two selections were rendered by the band. Rev. W. B. Brock talked on the value of music in a community; Rev. C. A. Shilke, who was a recent delegate to the International Boys' Work Council at Washington, spoke on the value of music to the boys themselves. R. R. Gilbert, director, expressed his thanks for the addresses and the cooperation he had received from the Auxiliary and the Oakland citizens.

F. E. Rathbun, superintendent of schools, spoke very complimentary to the Auxiliary and to Mr. Gilbert and Russell Brown and others who had given much of their time in the work of training the boys.

Nineteen were present at the meeting and $30 was donated toward band expenses.

1,315 HUNTING PERMITS ARE GRANTED IN COUNTY

Licenses Bring $1,983 to State Department—Season on Wild Fowl Closes This Evening

One thousand three hundred fifteen hunting licenses, totaling $1,983, were issued from the offices of the clerk of the Circuit court, during the past season, according to E. Z. Tower, clerk. The highest number was issued during November when 863 county resident licenses were given out; three state-wide permits, and 20 non-resident. These figures are compiled from the totals for the months of June, 1928, to January 30, 1929, inclusive.

This number is thought to be a little in excess of the number issued last year. The prices for licenses are as follows: county, $1.25; non-residents, $15.50; state-wide, $5.25.

1,289 to County Residents

Twelve hundred eighty-nine of the licenses issued were granted to county residents, and brought a total of $1,611.25 into the State department; three state-wide licenses were given out, totalling $15.75; and twenty-three non-resident licenses were granted for a total of $356.50.

Following is the number of licenses granted to county residents showing that the majority of them are obtained when the rabbit season is open: June, 13; July, 10; September, 68; October, 288; November, 863; December, 46; and January, 1.

The hunting season for wild fowl closes at sunset today, under State and Federal laws, and anyone found hunting wild fowl between January 31 and October 30, 1929, will be prosecuted. There is now nothing left for the hunter and trapper except fur bearing animals.

Bills Affecting Garrett County are Introduced.

A bill aimed to except Allegany, Washington and Garrett counties, comprising the Fourth Judicial Circuit, from the operation of the 1927 Act of the General Assembly increasing the compensation of the Associate Judges of the circuit, was contained in a measure introduced in the House last Thursday; also at the same time Delegates Arthur H. Green and Albert Markley introduced another bill proposing to amend the law concerning condemnation proceedings for rights-of-way for gas companies and pipe lines.

In a twelve minute session of the House of Delegates on Tuesday, Delegate Green of Garrett county, introduced a bill authorizing and requiring the County Commissioners of Garrett county to levy annually the sum of $150 for the purpose of repairing streets and sidewalks in the village of Swanton.

The Garrett county delegation reported favorably the bill introduced by Delegate Markley to pay election supervisors of Garrett county their salaries only upon years when elections are held.

JAMES ELLIOTT IS BADLY BURNED BY GAS EXPLOSION

Can of Solvent Lets Go at His Store Tuesday—Serious Fire Averted by Quick Action.

James Elliott, proprietor of the Seiberling tire store in Oakland, was severely burned about his face and hands Tuesday morning about nine o'clock when a large can of rubber solvent exploded in his place of business located on Liberty street. The force of the explosion was so great that Mr. Elliott was blown from the room and down a cellarway. His clothing was set on fire and some of the store fixtures were slightly damaged.

At the moment of the explosion Mr. Elliott was engaged in thawing a frozen water pipe with a blowtorch when the chemical ignited. Although his clothing was a mass of flames the unfortunate man retained sufficient presence of mind to emerge from the basement of the building and ran to the street when he fell and rolled in the snow, thus practically putting the fire out. Immediately afterward he walked to the office of Dr. Hinebaugh, assisted by someone who met him on the way and who at once sensed his condition, where he received medical and surgical aid and was then taken to his home at Mountain Lake Park by his brother, Carroll A. Elliott, where the injured man is resting as comfortably as could be expected considering the severity of his injuries, his hands having been burned very deep while his face was also badly burned, especially about his mouth and nose.

Quick Action Averts Serious Fire

The quick action and bravery of James Lewis, employed at the plumbing shop of A. D. Naylor & Co., who heard the cry of fire and noticed the smoke issuing from the tire store, rushed in and picking up the flaming can of liquid carried it to the street. When he reached the outside of the building his gloves and coat were on fire but he suffered no injury as a consequence.

The fire department was immediately called and as quickly responded, and with a chemical apparatus extinguished the flames in the building as well as those in the street caused by the spreading of the liquid.

FARMERS ON THE WATCH FOR WILD MAN TO APPEAR

Grantsville People Waiting for Pennsylvanian With Shotguns

The "wild man" of Pennsylvania, who has been exploited in a number of newspapers during the past week, has caused no little furore among the farmers of Garrett and Allegany counties during the past few days.

Waiting and watching for this wild man's appearance and barricading their homes along with preparing for his appearance with loaded shotguns and rifles at night, they are taking no chances with this seven-foot almost superman who has left his home in Pennsylvania and is wandering aimlessly about with a knapsack and two guns, sleeping out of doors the coldest nights by the side of a camp fire.

Farmers from Addison, Pa., to this side of the Garrett county line are undoubtedly alarmed as every precaution has been taken to prevent an attack or molestation of property in any way. News of his appearance came last week when he stole several small pigs from a Pennsylvania farmer, making his getaway in full view of the farmer with the pigs under his arm and hurdling fences out of sight. The news has spread rapidly that he was last seen in Addison Thursday night and was headed in the direction of Grantsville.

Edward Durst of near Grantsville, saw him near his premises on Friday night and with this news farmers of Garrett county await his appearance with guns.

Thus far the wild man has caused no violence and has attempted to shoot no one, but is apparently only in quest of food and shelter, which he gets without charge any place he is able without being caught.

Reports were given out that this same man fought his way to freedom after being captured by five Pennsylvania State officers near Uniontown, Pa., early last week. This statement however, has not been verified. He is said to be a man of unusual strength despite the fact that he is tall and slim, very wiry and of the colored comics "Slim Jim" type.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

(The Observer, Baltimore)

Reports that come from Annapolis trouble me. No, it's not about ex-Mayor Jackson and Charlie Bichy messing up the program of Billy Curran and Joe Ranft—not at all. It's about the taming of Speaker Brooke Lee.

Certainly all my readers pay some attention to the daily papers and then turn to The Observer to see what they missed or mussed. So they have read about the panning the Speaker got on Wednesday when a resolution was offered by Delegate Ford asking that the real estate operations of the Speaker in connection with the road building in Montgomery county be investigated.

Of course the Speaker took the floor to fight against investigation and a great majority, including most of the Republicans, voted with the Speaker, so that only eleven stood by the proposition. But to me that's neither here nor there. I come to the defense of Speaker Lee. Let me put the case as I see it.

The Lees can be counted on as big spenders in politics. In the year 1911 the elder Lee when he was running for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination, put in circulation large bales of money. He did the same thing in 1915 when he ran in the primaries against Harrington. Of course he let go of this money for educational purposes, the voters of that period being in great need of enlightenment about the sins and shortcomings of the opposition.

These two years were good times among the Democratic politicians. Now, there was still another year. That was 1916, when the elder Lee, then in the U. S. Senate without opposition in his own party, had to do battle for the nomination with both David J. Lewis and Wm. Cabell Bruce. He shelled out that year, too. However, having now retired from active politics, the elder Lee has stepped shelling out.

But the younger Lee, the present Speaker of the House, has large ambitions and he has started early. He has already held the office of State Comptroller and might still be holding it, no doubt, but for a case of something better than he now has. Maybe it's the U. S. Senatorship, or as many think, the Governorship, now that it has been demonstrated that one man can get that prize three times in succession.

Now the Lees have held a large block of land on the borders of the District of Columbia and Speaker Lee has added greatly to this in the course of his speculative building operations. If the Lee real estate program goes well a great deal of money should come to the Lees and particularly Brooke Lee, the Speaker.

Everyone knows that last year was a poor one in the real estate business. So that Speaker Lee surely did not make as much as he had a right to expect. He is the boss of Montgomery county. If he gets what he is said to be getting—the cooperation of the County Commissioners in road building and other improvements around his property he will make money that much faster. The more money he thus makes the more he will be able to spend in politics.

So I am just giving the Legislators a hint. If they will lay off the Speaker he will get along better in his real estate operations and make money. If he makes money he will have it to spend when he becomes a State-wide candidate? Can't everyone see? So why kill the big goose that is contemplating the laying of a golden egg or maybe several golden eggs? I ask the legislators and politicians to think it over. If they think it over maybe they won't wear out the young life of the Speaker by their taunting tactics.

Indeed, when I read of what they have been doing to the Speaker at Annapolis I am led to think of the dance hall proprietor on the old frontier who posted a notice reading:

"Please don't shoot the piano player; he's doing his best."

Of course some members will retort: "But look what he has done to us." A good retort, but the fact is that the Speaker doesn't know any better. He is still fairly young.

Jackson & Bichy
Doing Very Well

The week's developments in the fight among Baltimore Democrats show that Howard Jackson and Charlie Bichy have great strength. They battle against a strong combination which is supposed to have the backing of the Governor with all the offices at his command. Despite the handicap they have held in line fifteen of the thirty-two Democratic members of the City delegation in the House and prevented the Curran-Ranft element from getting the chairmanship of the delegation.

The Republicans have assumed a hands-off attitude since Mayor Broening held a conference at the City Hall on Tuesday. I am told that quite a number of Republicans attended this meeting and the opinion was that the city Republicans might, by continuing to adhere to the Jackson-Bichy faction, endanger the passage of legislation greatly desired by the city administration. Be that as it may, the fact is that the Republicans on Tuesday night went into a meeting with the Jackson-Bichy Democrats but voted for one of their own members as chairman of the delegation.

As a result the city delegation in the House is still without a chairman even though Brooke Lee and the Curran-Ranft people combined to have recorded on the journal a note to the effect that eighteen is a majority of thirty-six, a new thing in mathematics. At that time the Curran-Ranft people mustered a total of eighteen votes—now they have only seventeen.

The latest report is that Greenmount Avenue Joe Kelly is still striving to bring about a compromise and that he has been sending many messages. He has been to Annapolis a great deal and standing around in the lobby is usually the center of a group of admiring Tenth Warders.

Havre de Grace Bridge
Subject of a Mess

There is a great deal of snickering over another mess the State administration has gotten itself into and this, too, has to do with the roads department.

It will be recalled by those who are given to reading about hullabaloos that the tolls on the Havre de Grace State bridge were abolished by the Governor's edict on September 20 last and there was a to-do about it, including the ceremonial burning of the toll house and the discharge of toll takers and all that. Recently in making some confessions relating to the roads administration the Governor admitted that he had authorized the expenditure of $1,600 for this hullabaloo just as he had without any known color of law appropriated $16,000 of the highway money for his fandango at Marlboro and more than $5,000 for a dress parade at the opening of the Severn River bridge.

So the Havre de Grace bridge has been free of tolls since September 20 last but an examination of the statute under which the bridge was acquired shows that the tolls were specifically imposed and that it was further provided that when enough money should thus be collected to redeem the bonds issued on the bridge and also pay the interest thereon these maximum tolls should cease and that there should be collected a lower toll of twenty cents on each vehicle crossing the bridge, this money to be used for maintenance of the structure.

But the administration, seizing the law making power a few weeks before the election took off all the toll and made the bridge absolutely free. Now the matter has given the administration a bad week and to crawl out of the hole this same administration has had Senator Ensor of Harford, introduce a bill abolishing all the tolls as of September 20 last.

This incident in itself, by which the State's revenues were decreased, only shows that there is still much to be uncovered in the roads administration in connection with its operation as a political machine to keep a certain clique in office indefinitely.

That Unenlightening
Audit of Roads Funds

Despite the fact that the special auditors employed by the Governor and paid for out of highways funds have presented a bulky document to the Governor, few persons have had the privilege of inspecting it. So far as I can learn after talking with some of those who saw it, there is no enlightenment to be had in regard to the thousands of dollars spent on the ballyhoo at Upper Marlboro in connection with the opening of the more or less famour Crain highway. Ever since Richard B. Tippett insisted on letting out the facts we have known that not less than $16,000 was spent on that one day spectacle. But all the available information has been that most of the money was paid over in lump sums to two individuals and by them disbursed. As these two gentlemen are not suspected of pocketing any money the question before the house is the use that was actually made of it. We know that part went for programs, that part went for music and so on. But as it was the money of the taxpayers that was spent without warrant of law and in bold defiance of the budget system, the taxpayers have a right to know the destination of every cent.

It is all right for the auditors to tell who stole money and it is all right for the authorities to prosecute the thieves, but money that was flagrantly wasted should be accounted for. In my humble opinion it does not answer the question to say that the Governor approved the expenditure just as he approved similar expenditur for the ballyhoo at the opening of the Severn River bridge and the abolishing of tolls on the Havre de Grace bridge. If the Governor can at a stroke of the pen open the State's strong box what mightn't he be able to do next? If he can use the roads money for ballyhoo why can't he use some of it to help pay Johnnie Rascob's campaign deficit, I would like to know.

Debate at Annapolis
May Lead to Some Light

Now that Delegate Wilmer, the Republican floor leader, has broken loose and let the administration know what he thinks of the proposed legislative inquiry into the roads department, there is prospect of something being done even though the committee to take charge of the investigation is more or less packed. Mr. Wilmer lets it be known that one of the members of the committee, Senator Mitchell of Charles, an adherent of the Brooke Lee group of Democrats, has been more or less interested in road contracts, while the Democrats have retorted that a certain Republican politician in Baltimore City got big favors in the way of gifts or loans from the roads department. All this helps to let in the light and in the meanwhile Lawyer Richard B. Tippett says he is ready to help the Nelligan committee in finding out something about the letting of contracts.

My view is that if some of the members of the Legislature will get real mad there will be real action. And if there is real action we shall hear a deal about what was really done with some of the hullabaloo money, appropriated apparently to help along a chronic office-seeker.

Dan Joseph Continues
Annoying the Jaypees

Matador Dan Joseph has been continuing his activities as collector of over-due fines held by magistrates, and he has found that thousands of dollars are due from these officials in the counties. Mention of that fact was made in these columns last week. Of course the Governor cannot possibly have a personal acquaintance with all the men he appoints to these places. He takes them on faith from the county leaders. So it is not surprising that many of them, though probably honest, are slow in settling their accounts. There should be a better system in getting this money into the State Treasury, everyone can now see. The pity is that it required a serious ruckus in the Democratic party to bring out the facts. And now that some facts are coming out it must be evident to the average citizen that the State government still needs a deal of mending.

Weller Preparing
For the Next Battle

Former Senator Weller and Mrs. Weller have gone on a trip to the Caribbean and Central America and will be away about six weeks, I am told. When he returns Mr. Weller may be expected to take off his coat and plunge into th political game as I understand that he considers the situation very favorable.

There appears to be in the Republican party just now no one to match wits with the ex-Senator in a fight for control of the State Central Committee and there is no doubt that he is still strong in the counties.

As for Mayor Broening he has not yet developed any city leader to do battle with the Weller forces. I see no one developing. So that with Weller again ready to battle the G. O. P. should deserve more newspaper speace.

Baughman Lucky
To Be Retained.

Having sufficient worry to keep him occupied for months, the Governor took time by the forelock in announcing his intention of reappointing E. Austin Baughman to the Automobile post. This will disappoint many and especially the backers of Thomas G. Young of this city.

Mr. Young may well feel gratified at the strong indorsement already received and under the circumstances he will be in line two years hence if the State is again captured by the Democratic party.

While Mr. Baughman is to be congratulated on his great luck he has had my sympathy ever since I have beheld the dinky headquarters the State built for him out Guilford Avenue way. If the department is worth anything it is worth a better looking building—certainly one as good looking as John M. Dennis' cow stable.

Honest Committees
Named by Speaker

In his loud confession of honesty made at the opening session of the House Speaker Lee asserted that his opponents knew of his honesty and that he would name honest committees. Very good. But two years ago he named the committees and they were practically the same as those he named this year except that he has now stricken off the names of those Democratic members who refused to vote for his reelection. Now the question arises as to whether the committees he named two years ago were honest. If they were, why did he change them, I would like to know.

In any case I am deeply gratified to see that the Speaker has confessed himself to be honest in political affairs. I never heard that any one ever questioned his honesty in other matters.

Lesson for February 3

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

LESSON TEXT—II Tim. 3:14-17; Ps. 19:7-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Bible.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Bible.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Read the Bible?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the Bible Is For.

I. The Scriptures Are Divinely Inspired (II Tim. 3:16).

The first thing to be settled concerning the Canonical Scriptures their inspiration and authority. In the Scriptures God is at "sundry times and in divers manners" speaking to men (Heb. 1:1). Just in this passage declares them to be "God breathed," meaning that the utterances of Holy Writ were God's breath in men's mouths. The Holy Scriptures do not merely contain the Word of God, but are in reality the message of God to men.

The main cause of the moral breakdown of society is that men have been robbed of their faith in the Bible as the authoritative message from God.

II. The Value of the Scriptures (II Tim. 3:14-17).

1. Able to make wise unto salvation (v. 15).

Salvation is in Christ alone. It is secured through faith in His finished work on the cross. True wisdom leads to Christ crucified, since there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved (Acts 4:12), and without the shedding of blood there is no remission (Heb. 9:22).

2. Discipline of life (vv. 16, 17).

In the "doctrine" is set forth the necessary standard of conduct. The only place to find the teaching of God is in His Holy Word. It not only sets forth a standard of life, but it reproves and confutes error. The way to deal with error is not by denunciation but with a positive presentation of truth. The Word corrects (sets straight) the dislocations of personal and social conduct), instructs in righteousness, and equips for service.

III. The Nature and Effects of God's Law (Ps. 19:7-11).

1. Perfect.

It is God's law; converts and restores the soul; turns man back to holiness and to God.

2. Sure.

It is absolutely dependable. God changes, but God's Word endures forever. It makes wise the simple. Not only does it make wise unto salvation, but wise regarding the legitimate things of this world.

3. Right.

The precepts and judgments of the Lord are expressions of absolute righteousness. They fill the believer with rejoicing.

4. Pure.

There is in it no mixture of error. It makes no compromise with that which is untrue. Because of this it enlightens the eyes.

5. True.

The Word affects the life. It cleanses its from within and from without.

6. True and Righteous.

The decisions of God's Word are true, without exception. The judgments of God's Word are unimpeachable. Because of these qualities God's Word is more to be desired than the choicest gold. Obedience thereto brings great reward.

IV. The Prayer of the Believer (Ps. 19:12-14).

The law brought face to face with God's Word is seen as sinful. The soul cries out for

1. Cleansing (v. 12).

The perfect laws reveal the imperfections of the life. The Word of God reveals sins of which the individual may be ignorant (Isa. 6:5).

2. Those kept from presumptuous sin (v. 13).

Presumptuous, arrogant sins are peculiarly dangerous. In the Mosaic economy no sacrifice was provided for such sins.

3. Freedom from the dominion of such sins (v. 13).

How awful is the slavery of those who are in bondage to presumptuous sins.

4. That the words of the mouth and meditation of the heart be kept acceptable in God's sight. From how many dangers the believer would be freed if the words and meditations of the heart were kept in line with the Holy Scriptures.

Let It Rather Be Healed

Lift up the hands that hang down and the feeble knees; and make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; but let it rather be healed.—Heb. 12:12, 13.

Hopelessness of Hypocrisy

For what is the hope of the hypocrite, though he hath gained, when God taketh away his soul? Will God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?—Job 27:8, 9.

BITTINGER.

This one thought may ever sweeten,
Even life's most bitter cup,
You, in truth, are never beaten,
Save when you, yourself give up.

Mrs. Charles B. Wiley was called to her parental home, last Sunday, by the serious illness of her father, Mr. William Brenneman, at his home in the Meadow Mountain settlement.

Constable Andrew Shartzer and school attendance officer John L. Fitzwater, of Oakland, were in this community one day last week on official business.

Miss Ruth Brenneman, who has been confined to her home since Christmas, by an attack of measles, was able to return to her studies at the Grantsville High school last Monday.

Simon Brenneman is now employed in erecting a saw mill, near Grantsville, for the Back Creek Lumber company.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Buckle spent last Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Beitel, at their home near Jennings.

For some days past, the ground in this section has been covered by a thick covering of ice, affording the best sledding of the season and delighting the young folks with the opportunity for coasting.

Clarence White and son, Lester, of Jennings passed through this village last Sunday afternoon.

Rev. E. E. Campbell was doing some pastoral work in the Meadow Mountain congregation last week.

This calendar was made by Archbaldson of prehistoric fame, and it goes to show the Spelling progress of the ages. Sun up; Saturday, count up; Sunday, rest up, maybe Monday, line up; Tuesday, speed up; Wednesday, gallop; Thursday, blow up."

Contestants In Argument

As far as could be ascertained at a late hour Wednesday, two contestants in the oratorical contest, which started last Friday in the Oakland Opera house, third and fourth floors of the Hinebaugh building, at 1 o'clock a. m., were still in a hot argument, which had been in progress ever since Saturday morning.

George Giesman, believing in the old adage that "the last shall be the first," entered at the last minute and began his outburst on the State road scandal in the Democratic household, continued with a view into the expenses connected with "road opening" celebrations in Maryland, and closed with a few remarks on the gifts of silverware and a yacht which Governor Ritchie is accused by the House of having obtained thru scarcity of cement and asphalt.

Bill Browning, altho out of order, rose to his feet time after time to exclaim that every time George opened his mouth he saw a tea pot of oil, and this started the argument, which is still believed to be at full tilt. Col. Bell suggested that the announcement of the prize winners be postponed until April Fool's day. His suggestion was adopted.

When the audience departed Saturday evening Col. Bell caught Mr. Giesman in a characteristic pose as he threw sentence after sentence into Bill Browning's ears.

Free meals are being given to the two by Oakland's restaurants as a publicity stunt, to see which one will last the longer. Neither show any signs of weakness.

Started Very Orderly

The contest started very orderly, and aside from the orations being extremely long winded and filled with "hooey," politeness reigned supreme. Walter Dawson "gave up" following Jerry Stanton's smooth flow, and he presented him an olive branch as a token of compromise.

Out Talked

Large Audience Attends

The crowd was tremendous as exemplified by John Forman, Guy Yutzy, Charles Sprague, Andrew Gonder, Henry Lauer and Wade Hinebaugh, and they enjoyed the contest, staged thru Scoop and The Republican, as can be seen from the accompanying photo of John Forman, who was snapped just as Joseph Harned came to the only humorous part of his whole oration.

Tickling The Funnybone

The only accident to mar the occasion happened during the general melt on Saturday morning when it was seen that nothing could stop the argument over teapots and road scandals. One of the plush-bottomed packers was turned over the head of Richard Mayer on the track and he was seen to be rushed to the office of Dr. Leon Instituted by G. A. Fraley, of the Garrett National, whose services had not been attended to. Those of Oakland's physicians are now in shape to be photographed.

Cheese—A Healthful Food

Cheese should be a part of every diet. It is an extremely healthful food, containing more of the life, growth and strength essentials than perhaps any other single food, milk excepted.

Baked Potatoes and Cheese

Six large baked potatoes, ½ lb. Pimento or American cheese, grated, 1-3 cup hot milk, 2 teaspoons salt, teaspoon paprika.

Cut potatoes in half lengthwise and scoop out the centers. Mash thoroughly. Add cheese to hot milk and beat with egg beater until smooth. Mix with the potatoes, add seasoning and whip until light and creamy. Re-fill the potato shells, return to a hot oven and bake until brown on top.

Potatoes O'Brien

Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups milk, 1 cup American cheese, grated; salt, ½ small onion, ½ small green pepper, 1 pimento, diced; 3 or 4 medium sized boiled potatoes.

Melt butter, stir in flour, add milk. Cook 2 minutes, add cheese, stir until cheese is melted, season to taste. Add onion, green pepper and pimento. Place layer of diced potatoes in buttered baking dish, then a layer of sauce, repeating alternately, putting sauce on top. Bake 20 minutes.

Potato Cheese Puff

One half cup milk, ½ lb. pimento cheese, grated; 2 eggs, 3 cups mashed potatoes, salt, pepper and paprika to taste.

Heat milk in a double boiler, add cheese and beat until smooth, then add to the mashed potatoes. Season the mixture, and add the egg yolks which have been beaten very lightly. Last of all, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs, and pour the mixture into a buttered baking dish. Place in a hot oven and bake until firm and brown.

Fruit Salad Delight

Place a slice of pineapple on lettuce leaf. On this a half pear is placed, with the rounding side up, and a garniture of cream cheese moistened with French dressing, or cream cheese whipped to a stiff paste. This salad may be further garnished with halves of kumquats.

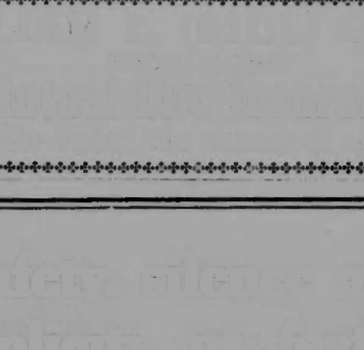
Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system

ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

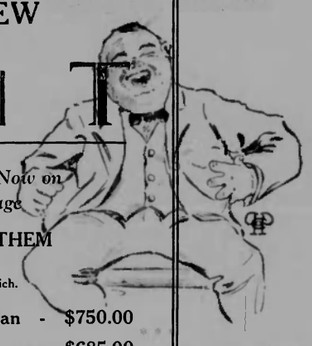
The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture. A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.



A further improvement in braking performance is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in steady, uniform contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent in operation.

Another feature of the Ford brakes is the ease of adjustment.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."



The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

SHALL THE MINORITY RULE?

Undoubtedly a vast majority of the American people is in favor of keeping the United States, in the words of Washington, in "a reasonably posture of defense." Failure to do this is an invitation to trouble—provocative rather than preventive of war. Our regular army is insignificant compared with the military forces maintained by other powers with less to defend, notably soviet Russia, for which most of our professional pacifists show a tender side. Americans of pronounced alien sympathies oppose any form of military training for youth which is a necessary substitute for a large professional military establishment.

Despite this overwhelming national sentiment in favor of an adequate navy, the minority opposed to this is evidently well organized and heavily financed. It is inducing people opposed to national defense to bombard Congress with letters and telegrams opposing the carrying out of President Coolidge's recommendation for the authorization of fifteen cruisers. These cruisers, when completed, because ships become obsolescent, will only maintain our navy at its present strength. What these pacifists seek to bring about is, therefore, an actual reduction in American naval strength, while other powers are increasing their naval armaments. They would be satisfied with nothing short of bringing the American navy to parity with that of soviet Russia, while keeping the American army at one-tenth the strength of that maintained by the Moscow government.

Why should not those who represent majority sentiment on this question take the time to communicate their views to members of the House and Senate representing their several districts and states? Why leave all the agitation to pacifists who make no concealment of being out of sympathy with the fundamentals of our form of government, and who accompany their demands for the disarming of this country with constant criticism of the character and motives of the American government? For these are the people, in large part, who habitually take the foreign side of any international controversy in which this country becomes involved. They are the chronic critics of American institutions. When you couple the fact that so many of these agitators never have a good word to say for the American government, with the fact that they wish to disarm the United States, it is possible to have some idea of their motives in trying to make this country defenseless. It is clearly true that their agitation is not in the interests of peace, because they know that the United States harbors no designs of aggressive war, and will cease to be a power for peace when our inability to defend ourselves has made our representations in behalf of peace seem only an expression of self interest.

The surest prescription for war is for the United States to disarm in the face of an armed world, not all of it with a will to peace by any means. The opponents of reasonable preparedness are the real war breeders in this country. Undoubtedly some of this protest against keeping our navy abreast with that of foreign powers is of alien inspiration. Those Americans who really believe in this country, care for it and wish to save it from invasion or insurrection, should make themselves heard, and not permit the organized enemies of national defense to create a false appearance of majority support.

CRIMINAL PUNISHMENT

Following the example of New York state the legislatures of other states have either enacted laws or expect to enact them, which will result in a greater severity of punishment for the habitual criminal. The Baumes law, as it is known in New York, provides that a party found guilty of a felony for the fourth time must be sentenced to prison for life. Other states, following this law, but where almost any crime is a felony, have made their laws ridiculous in operation as in the case in Michigan where a woman found guilty for the fourth time of violating the prohibition law, was given a life sentence. No matter whether a criminal is known as an "habitual" or not, punishment should fit the crime.

A measure has been presented to the Pennsylvania legislature patterned in a general way after the New York statute, but providing always for an appeal to a higher court and giving the judge some discretion . It is also provided that when a criminal is convicted the second time he receives double the sentence for first conviction, three times the sentence for the third, four times for the fourth and so on.

Good motives back of the enactment of certain laws do not always make good laws. We need more drastic sentences for those who have become professionals in the commission of crimes, but in all cases the punishment should fit the degree of the criminal act.

PURE AIR FOR THE SICK

Science has improved on nature in the fight to save the life of King George of England. London air in midwinter, even without its large soot content, is raw and cold and not very healthful for anyone suffering from respiratory illness. Yet the King is breathing warm, pure air and is receiving the beneficial effects of sun baths, both supplied by modern science.

The air is drawn from pipes in the palace garden. It is first washed in a constant shower of icy water, containing a germicide. Then it is dried by a process of condensation and is warmed over steam-heated plates to the required temperature. Next it is given the correct humidity by the addition of steam. Ozone is added as needed. This correctly constituted air is pumped directly into the sick room of the monarch.

The sunlight, of course, is supplied by ultra-violet rays.

Perhaps, in time, all hospitals will supply patients with perfect air and sunshine. If, also, the smoke nuisance in cities is overcome, people on the streets will get more sunlight and better air than city-dwellers anywhere.

AMERICAN INDIVIDUALISM.

President - elect Herbert Hoover in Nation's Business makes out a strong case for American individualism as contrasted with the social philosophies of other countries of the world.

"Five or six great social philiosophies," he says, "are at struggles in the world for ascendancy. There is the Individualism of America. There is the Individualism of the more democratic states of Europe with the careful reservations of castes and classes.

"There are Communism, Socialism, Syndicalism, Capitalism and finally there is Autocracy—whether by birth, by possession, militarism or divine right of kings.

"Our individualism differs from all others because it embraces those great ideals: that while we build our society upon the attainment of the individual, we shall safeguard to every individual an equality of opportunity to take that position in the community to which his intelligence, character, ability and ambition entiles him; that we keep the social solution free from frozen strata of classes; that we shall stimulate effort of each individual to achievement; that through an enlarging sense of responsibility and understanding we shall assist him to his attainment.

"We in America have had too much experience to fool ourselves into pretending that all men are equal in ability, in character, in intelligence, in ambition. That was part of the claptrap of the French Revolution. We have grown to understand that all we can hope to assure to the individual through government is liberty, justice, intellectual welfare, equality of opportunity and stimulation of service.

"The pioneers of our American Individualism had the good sense not to reward Washington and Jefferson and Hamilton with hereditary dukedome and fixtures in landed estates as Great Britain rewarded Marlborough and Nelson. Otherwise our American fields of opportunity would have been clogged with long generations inheriting their fathers' privileges without their fathers' capacities."

Today, with the snow falling gently, has been an ideal winter day, is the expression one hears on almost every hand. The mercury is registering 20 above zero at this noon hour.

County Commissioner George D. Browning, who has been ill at his home on Liberty street for several weeks as a result of an attack of influenza followed by pneumonia, is now very much improved and was able to receive visitors on Monday. The news of his recovery and restoration to health will be gratifying to his long list of friends throughout the county and elsewhere.

COMMITTEE TO BEGIN ON STATE ROAD PROBE TODAY

that body for two days, described the Senator's speech as a plea for sympathy and a smoke screen for his son, J. Maxwell Mitchell, who he charged held a state roads subsidy at the present.

Mr. Wilmer also declared that he had made no statement which he could not prove, and that if anyone could prove the slightest misstatement, he would publicly apologize to the senator and to his family.

He declared that H. S. Swan, head of a contracting company which he said received $1,000,000 worth of road contract extensions illegally, was not a Republican as said by Senator Mitchell, but a man who worked for the election of Mitchell to the Senate.

Says Son Has Road Contract

After the session Mr. Wilmer said that Senator Mitchell had benefitted in the profits of the Swan company, and that the court action against the State Roads Commission and that company in 1926 was brought because of illegal contract letting. He also charged that the automobile company owned by J. Maxwell Mitchell, son of the senator, had the contract for furnishing gasoline and oil to all state roads trucks and automobiles in Charles county. He said he understood the gas was furnished at retail prices.

Nelligan Commission Praised

The Nelligan Commission was praised for the work it had done in its investigation of the roads commission scandal so far, by all members of the grand inquest committee at its meeting this afternoon. Its members, Jonathan K. Voshell, John J. Nelligan, George M. Shriver, and Edwin G. Baetjer, were given the complete confidence of the committee members on the report of the hearing of the Tippett charges yesterday in Baltimore.

However, Senator Levin asked that this committee be asked to halt its investigation and sit with the legislative body. He said that this stand was taken because of the inability of the Nelligan committee to force presence of witnesses, to place them under oath and to prosecute them for perjury.

Only Body Not Attacked

E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the House in opposing this move, declared that the Nelligan commission was the only one in the state "in this era of mud-slinging" which has not been attacked, and which has the full confidence of the people, while the legislative committee on the floor of the House and by both parties, Republican and Democratic insurgents, has been attacked as a packed one, for the purpose of white-washing the state administration.

He declared that the administration wanted, and asked, for a "complete and competent" investigation, and that the working of both bodies could bring this to a quicker conclusion, and that the investing of powers on the Nelligan body to force attendance of witnesses could be delegated to it without taking any power from the grand inquest body.

He was supported in this stand by Senator Beck, chairman of the committee and by Delegate Paul Berman, Republican, Baltimore city.

Alexander Armstrong, former Republican attorney-general and candidate for governor, one of the counsel for the joint committee, declared that the legislators could issue an attachment for any witness, forcing him to attend the Nelligan meetings and make him liable for perjury.

Mr. Lee's stand was supported by the vote when the House members of the legislative committe, coupled with three of the senators, voted for the rejection of the Levin resolution.

To Meet With Commission

Following this, it was voted to ask the Nelligan Commission members to meet with the legislative body tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Lee, in outlining his plans for the investigation of the State Roads Commission affairs, said that the Nelligan Commission, Herbert R. O'Conor, state's attorney of Baltimore, who conducted the grand jury probe of the fraud charges, Haskins & Sells auditors, who made the audit of the roads finances, would be summoned to appear, along with the others who might have any information bearing on the subject.

Superintendent of Mountain Lake Park Says Place in Not Sold Nor Near Sold—Real, Broad Gauge Boosters Needed.

To the Editor of The Republican:

Dear Sir:

I am told the Park is sold. I should like to know who is responsible for so stating through your paper. It is not sold nor near sold. I am continually dealing with different groups to come to the Park, trying to build up the program to larger proportions. The 1929 program is already larger than it has been for years. The Park is a wonderful place and I love it. I wish I had more time to give to it than I have. Whenever it is sold, if it ever is, I will tell you. Incorrect news is poor news.

I am reviving our auto map for next summer and will add Oakland to it. The last one, which I did not make, left Oakland off. We should all advertise the whole mountain top. What helps one helps all. I would be happy to see cottages built all around Deep Creek. Five thousand more people spending their summers in Garrett county would greatly help the whole of Western Maryland. And they can be brought there with publicity. Climate, water and sun we have for a successful summer resort, but more real, broad gauge boosters are needed.

Sincerely,
FRANK E. BAKER.

DIED.

RECORD FOR MARRIAGES IN JANUARY IS BROKEN

Sixty Applications Already Granted on Monday Afternoon

January's marriage license record of last year was broken on Monday when the total number thus far this month had reached 60. This was due to an unusual rush for permits on Saturday and Monday when 10 and 8 licenses respectively were issued on those two days.

A total of 26 marriage licenses were issued during the past week ending Monday noon from the Clerk's office, and with three more days in the month, this number was expected to be increased by at least 10. The greatest year for January was in 1925, according to the records, when 76 permits were granted. Fifty-nine were granted in January 1928. Three licenses issued were marked "don't publish" while one applicant was refused a license.

Feed The Birds!

Losses of birds—game, song and insectivorous—and game animals in winter can be prevented by systematic feeding and an appeal to the public of Maryland to contribute its part in saving the remnants of wild life at this time, is made by the State Game Division. While it is now mid-winter, it is not too late to check up on the bird and game life of your section and to intensify and extend facilities for feeding and caring for birds and game animals.

Feeding stations should be established wherever birds can be located, in exposed places which the wind will sweep free of snow or in well-sheltered places where snow will not cover and hide the feed.

Bundles of unthrashed grain supply food in ideal form as they can be tied to bushes or trees or placed in sheltered places. Brush heaps furnish excellent feeding stations for birds.

Bob-white quail, ruffed grouse and ring-necked pheasants, properly fed, will survive the winter and furnish brood stock to our covers for the coming season. They will eat and enjoy practically all kinds of grain and will come near farm buildings to secure it. Wheat, barley, millet, corn, oats and chick grain will furnish excellent diet for these birds.

Food should not be placed in large quantities, but should be furnished in small quantities at frequent intervals. If food is placed in certain localities, the birds will soon learn to come to that section to feed at the dinner table! Careful watch should be kept for vermin near all feeding stations, especially for weasels, cats, owls and hawks and they should be killed.

To those who are not able to furnish feed and will apply to the District Game Warden of their county, feed will be furnished gratis by this Department.

"Not in business for his health"

YOU hear that expression so often that you're apt to enter all stores with the idea of being on your guard against overcharges.

That's bad. If the man you deal with is that sort, you try to find another; usually you do. He loses in the end.

Your interests come first here. You get the kind of material you want; always at a fair price. We look first at what you get from a sale; what we get comes second. Nothing queer about it; we simply recognize that your confidence in us will take care of what we get out of it.

Our Certain-teed Grey Open Edge Gypsum Board is without doubt the best plaster board you could secure either for an entirely new house or for recovering old walls or turning the attic into a bright and cheery room. Get our prices before you buy. They are surprisingly low.

Washington county had the highest number of outbreaks with 154, Dorchester following with 75.

SAVING THE BABIES OF MARYLAND MY MARYLAND

More Survived the Perils of Infancy in 1928 than Ever Before

That more babies survived the perils of infancy in 1928, in proportion to the number born during the year in the counties of Maryland than at any time since such records have been kept by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, is shown by a report prepared by that Bureau.

Commenting on the figures, Dr. J. H. M. Knox, Jr., Chief of the State Bureau of Child Hygiene, said: "There were 16,012 births recorded in the counties in 1928, of which 12,711 were white and 3,301 colored, with 1,236 infant deaths, 806 white and 430 colored. This gives us an infant death 'rate' of 77. By that we mean the ratio of deaths under one year to every thousand live births.

"When we say that we have a rate of 77, we mean that out of every 1,000 births there were 77 deaths of babies a year old, leaving 923 survivors out of each thousand born during the year. In 1927, out of every thousand born there were 81 deaths, leaving 919 survivors, and in 1926 there were 92 deaths out of every thousand, leaving 908 survivors. In each instance, these are the rates for white and colored combined. The rate for the white babies separately, is much less than that for the colored babies. In 1928, the rates in the counties were 63 out of each thousand live births for the white babies and over twice that—130—for the colored.

"One of the principal reasons for keeping the records of births and deaths is because they enable us to see what and where our gains and losses are each year, and because they give us definite facts upon which to base our plans for conserving health and preventing disease. If we analyze the records of sickness and death among the children under one year old in the counties last year, we find that the total deaths can be traced to a few main causes. The largest number out of the total of 1,236, were due to prematurity, to injuries at birth, or to an inherent weakness. There were 585 in this group. The respiratory diseases—including pneumonia, bronchitis, influenza, and whooping cough—carried off 257; the digestive diseases, mainly diarrheal, were responsible for 246; and the remaining 148 were caused by infectious and other diseases not included in those mentioned above. Of the total, over half—619—died before they were a month old.

"It is the study of this last group—the deaths of these babies who lived only a few days or two or three weeks—that shows us where special efforts in saving infant life must be concentrated. Our experiences in Maryland coincide with those throughout the country. Wherever carefully planned work has been done, there has been a marked reduction in deaths from the digestive diseases, some little improvement in the deaths due to weakness, prematurity and similar causes. It is obvious that very little can be done in cutting down the deaths in this group unless the work is started months before the baby's arrival—by giving the mother-to-be the very best possible care. The great advantage of that plan is that two lives are safeguarded—the life of the mother as well as of the baby."

The Oakland Grammar School will hold a card party on Saturday, February 2, Miss Marion Leary, principal, announced. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the milk fund.

THEY HAD PASSED THE CRISIS

© by D. J. Walsh.

OLIVE TOWNSEND'S black eyes registered a look of irritation on seeing the group of women standing outside the door of her apartment, evidently waiting for her. She had no time to talk. She must give her little son his dinner and hurry back to her husband at the sanitarium.

"Well, Mrs. Townsend," one of the women said as Olive reached the landing, "we thought you were never coming home."

"Why?" Olive inquired, with a feeling that something dreadful had happened.

"Your child fell off a shed this morning and just about killed himself," the woman informed her in a tone, which told Olive that she held her responsible. "I carried him across the street to the hospital hours ago," she continued.

Without another word Olive ran down the stairs and across the street to the hospital, her heart thumping madly against her ribs.

"Dirk must not hear of this," she told herself, her heart swelling with love and pity for her husband.

As she followed the nurse down a long corridor to where her son lay, she prayed that God would spare his life. Fearful of what awaited her, yet steeling herself against the ordeal, she tiptoed into the room, redolent of medicinal odors.

"Gerald, dear!" Olive whispered, on catching sight of her son lying so motionless upon the little, white bed. Tenderly she patted the small, brown hand that lay outside the coverlet. She made a pretty picture as she knelt beside the bed, her dainty head with its wealth of black hair pressed against the manly little fellow's cheek. Her blue dress lent a bit of color to the room.

A faint smile played about the corners of her child's mouth as he recognized his mother.

"I'm all right," he murmured bravely, a tear trickling down his cheek and splashing on the pillow.

"Madam," an interne said, looking in at the door, "Doctor Saunders left word for you to stay until he sees you."

As Olive waited, her thoughts swept her back to her husband. He had been unusually irritable that morning. The doctor at the sanitarium had telephoned her at her office early. She had asked for leave and hurried out to be with him.

From out of the stillness she heard her husband's voice repeat the story of the "Last Pass." It was the memory of that shock, which he had received while serving as captain of a company of infantry during the World war, that was undermining his health.

"We were resting in a house in a French village in the Champaigne sector. I was watching the major and lieutenant play a game of craps when a huge German 'G. I. Can' exploded. I was stunned by the concussion of the shell; the others were killed. When I regained consciousness, I saw the major with his right arm extended over the table, his fingers half-cupped, like this, Olive." And he would show her that not unfamiliar gesture. "Scattered about the table were paper francs, the 'works'; and near his hand were two dice, one showed a '5,' the other a '2'—a natural. It was his 'Last Pass.' I tell you, dear."

She saw his big frame racked with sobs; saw herself, her heart so filled with pity for him that it ached with a physical ache, smooth back the light brown hair from his damp forehead.

When the psychiatrist had said, "There is a chance that a shock might correct your husband's condition," she had taken heart. That was nine months ago. She had long since given up that hope.

Her thoughts were interrupted by the not unpleasant voice of Doctor Saunders.

"Mrs. Townsend," he said, "your boy is very ill. If parents would give their children the attention they should, accidents like this could be avoided."

Olive did not try to defend herself. Those women who had been waiting for her at her door, the doctor, all seemed to think she had neglected her son. If only she dare lay bare her soul to the neighbors and sue for righteous judgment.' Tell them that the hours spent away from her child were spent at the sanitarium with her husband of whom they knew nothing. But she could not. The fear of the taint of insanity made her afraid.

She watched the doctor's skillful hands dress the wounds on her son's body.

"He will get well?" she ventured.

"I can't tell. He is injured internally," he answered her.

A nurse glided noiselessly into the room and handed Olive a telegram. A neighbor had brought it to the hospital for her. It was from the sanitarium.

She held the yellow slip with trembling hands. Horrible thoughts hurtling through her mind. "I must go," she said.

"You can't!" the doctor told her. "Your presence here when the crisis comes may tip the scale in which your child's life is held in the balance."

"But I must! He'll be all right! See—he's sleeping now,' she pleaded.

Then in a voice that sounded far away, her son said, "Mother."

"Mother is here," she whispered, and dropped into the chair again.

After a while the doctor left the room.

Olive tiptoed to the door and looked down the corridor. A nurse was standing at the farther end reading a chart.

She walked back to the bed, adjusted the counterpane, smoothed back her son's hair. And then she was gone.

Olive found her husband pacing the floor, muttering to himself. "I can't stand it another day. It haunts me. You know, Olive, it was his 'Last pass.'"

She pulled his head down on her shoulder and smoothed back his hair. And then something snapped inside Olive. Tears trickled down her cheeks, wetting her lips. Big, salty tears they were.

Dirk raised his head and stared at his wife, a puzzled expression on his face, while Olive blurted out the news of Gerald's accident.

"Will he die?" he queried in a steady voice.

"He is dangerously ill," Olive told him.

For a moment neither spoke. Dirk was the first to break the silence.

"We must go back together," he told her.

"No! Please, Dirk," she begged, fearful of the consequences.

But he insisted and she dare not oppose him.

When they reached the hospital, doctor and nurse were bending over the almost lifeless form of their son. An ominous silence filled the room. Olive slipped her arm about her husband's waist. He was trembling as with ague. She knew the sign. He would be flying into a rage in a minute. She patted his hand to comfort him.

Finally, after what seemed an age to the unnerved woman, the little fellow drew a long breath, opened his eyes. "Daddy," he smiled.

"Yes, son," Dirk answered him, in a husky voice.

And Olive, looking into her husband's eyes with all the love of being, realized that husband and had passed the crisis.

Trees For Roadside Planting Furnished Free by State Forestry Department.

The State Department of Forestry offers to furnish this spring a sufficient number of trees for planting five miles of improved, public highway.

Seven species of trees are available—willow oak, white ash, green ash, honey locust, tulip poplar, larch and cypress. This list offers a sufficient variety to meet a wide range of conditions. The trees will be distributed to responsible organizations or individuals, for planting not less than one-quarter mile nor over one mile, on both sides of the highway. There must be sufficient space to plant the trees within the right-of-way of the highway and far enough from the center of the roadway to meet road requirements.

Applications will be filled in the order received, but preference will be given to the locations that are best adapted for tree planting and where the greatest public benefit will be secured. The Forestry Department will examine locations where plantings are proposed to determine their adaptability. Where planting is practicable a definite plan will then be prepared and submitted to the parties interested.

Full particulars and application forms will be sent upon request to the State Department of Forestry, 1411 Fidelity Building, Baltimore, Md.

Moral For Too Ardent Reformers Is Seen In The Ousting of Afghan King

King Amanullah of Afghanistan, ousted from his throne and country with his short-skirted queen by revolting tribesmen who didn't like his new fangled western notions, has the sympathy of American editors although they appreciate, as the King himself probably does now, that he attempted too much speed as a reformer.

"He was a forceful ruler, in birth and breeding a fit chieftain of the warlike Pathans," attests the Philadelphia Record. "Had he been content to exemplify their primitive ideals, he might have held his throne indefinitely subject only to the normal hazards of assassination and tribal rebellion. But it was his misfortune to become a crusader for progress in a most unpromising region, and to discover the unchanging truth that the wise man does not put new wine into old bottles.*So in the end he abdicted and removed himself and his unveiled queen and her short skirts from the inhospitable capital. He meant well. But his fate furnished fresh evidence too far ahead of public opinion only makes trouble for himself and others."

"The King made one vital mistake," according to the New York Evening Post, "in attempting to force his European reforms down the throats of his subjects. He forgot that, unlike him, they had not paid visits to the Western world. It is a victory not only for tradition but also for national individuality and for the picturesque, which the Afghans have won. The retention of their customs might prove a boon to tourists, except for the unfortunate fact that a tourist trade is one of the Western innovations which they still refuse to adopt."

"One spot on the globe," explains the Indianapolis Star, "still provides a fine field for the imagination. While this fact may seem somewhat insignificant in a materialistic age, it is a matter for some gratification that stark reality has not taken romance entirely out of the lives of our conservative brethren in a distant corner of another continent. The Afghans have rallied to the cause of bigger and better imaginations. Tradition still is respected and the customs of centuries are not to yield to the fashion plates of Paris, Fifth Avenue or any other modern style factory.*The male population insisted that the imagination should still have some play. Of course, they may have been moved somewhat by visions of the mounting hills for silk stockings, rouge and lipstick. An any rate, style reform has been indefinitely postponed."

"The fundamental error Amanullah made," advises the Nashville Banner, "was in supposing that his subjects could be induced to run before they learned to walk, in the paths of Western ideas and ideals. His efforts at reform had every commendable phase except for the all-important fact that they were ill-timed and injudicious. He has doubtless set back the clock many years in Afghanistan and certainly offers the world one more striking commentary on the frequent futility of good intentions unsupported by power to put them into definite effect. In the Shinwaris, too, he was dealing with a people in whom the spirit of liberty burns high and bright, even though it finds ways of expression that are both queer and deplorable to our minds."

One explanation, which comes from the Kalamazoo Gazette is that, he placed a ridiculously high value on the importance of externals—on matters of dress and tonsorial fashion—and thus aroused the wrath of subjects who might otherwise have taken more kindly to the really worthwhile items on his program of reform. As it is, Amanullah has played into the hands of reaction. Although it was the last thing in the world he wished to do, he has stimulated all of the religious and social prejudices of his country and has given new strength to the 'old guard' of Afghanistan. His place in history will be among the many zealous reformers whose ambition led them to bite off more than they could chew."

"Now it will be wondered," suggests the Baltimore Sun, "whether or not these internal disturbances will lead to any changes in the attitude of Russia and England. Afghanistan has been reorganized as an independent kingdom, but in recent years both of these powers have steadily competed for her friendship. The situation is reported to be 'obscure' and doubtless it is. But it is in obscurity that many new developments are born. All that can be said now is that an ambitious experiment seems very definitely to have come to an end, in revolt and confusion, and that Amanullah has probably shown himself a wise man in deciding to leave."

"While the British mildly disclaim the blame or credit for upsetting Amanullah's throne which Europe is inclined to impute, they regard his downfall with complete equanimity, although they may desire to have Afghanistan settle down again now that he has abdicted. Too much revolution on the border taight not be a good thing for India," suggests the Springfield Republican.

"We cannot help wishing Amanullah had offered something like more liberty and let the change of style wait on enlightment", states the Milwaukee Journal pointing out that the Afghans "are not a feeble, spineless people, to be wrung from the standards of centuries by the whim of a king flattered by Europe's courts." The San Francisco Chronicle draws the conclusion from the incident that "the Afghans do not want to be improved;" that they "spurn new-fangled ways and means."

The deposed ruled is named by the Columbus Evening Dispatch as one who is "entitled to write his name in the shining book of the world's martyrs." The Dispatch also says of the royal runaway: "However righteous his cause may have been, the wisdom of his tactics is open to serious question. If there is a Nobel booby prize this year for diplomacy it belongs to Amanullah."

Years ago, the Chevrolet Motor Company designed and built its first experimental six-cylinder motor. This far-sighted step was taken because Chevrolet engineers knew that the six-cylinder motor is inherently the most perfectly balanced motor—the ideal power plant to meet the growing public demand for greater reserve power, faster get-away and, above all—smooth, quiet performance.

During the last four years, over a hundred six-cylinder motors were built by Chevrolet engineers and tested on the General Motors Proving Ground. Day and night, through winter's cold and summer's heat, the incessant testing went on—until the present motor was developed and finally pronounced correct.

At the same time other Chevrolet engineers were perfecting other parts of the chassis. And another great automotive organization—the Fisher Body Corporation—was devoting its gigantic resources to the creation of the finest, sturdiest and most beautiful bodies ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

As a result, the Outstanding Chevrolet offers an order of well-balanced excellence—a combination of performance, comfort, beauty and handling ease that is truly remarkable—with a fuel-economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

MT. LAKE PARK.

WHAT HAVE YOU, AND HOW?

This column is not being written just in order to put in the time during the winter evenings. There is a definite object in view. Whether that object can be accomplished remains to be seen. Certainly it can not be by simply the spoken or written word. We can talk until we are black in the face and write until we have pen paralysis, and yet, unless the citizens of this community awaken to the fact that improvements must be made and certain abuses corrected before this Park can amount to a whoopee, all will have been in vain.

For instance, how would you answer the following letter which has been received from a prospective visitor from the east?

"Dear Sir:—As I have heard so much about Mountain Lake Park, I have almost decided to spend part of my vacation there, but not knowing just what is there though maybe I had better get some information and was wondering if you could give me some.

"I would like to know what is about there for amusement * * * "

For obvious reasons the writer's name cannot be used. But we have the letter. Now, what would you say in reply?

Of course, we can answer that there are moving picture theatres in Oakland. That part is all right. We don't mind boosting Oakland—as long as we don't have much to offer ourselves. We can reply that there is a swimming pool at Deer Park. That's not so good. We are not crazy about boosting Deer Park, because that place does not have a single advantage over us. It does seem to have a quality that we lack—energy and the desire to keep things in ship shape—attractive to the eye. But we can overcome that. We suppose you realize that the expenditure of a little thought and money can make a dandy outdoor swimming pool at the lake? But it will have to be made attractive and kept clean and sanitary.

We can reply that there are three or four good tennis courts—these by the grace and hard work of the ladies of the Civic Club. It is reasonable to presume, judging from the lack of interest in other directions, that if it were not for the Club we would not have those. In strolling about the Park the other day, we cut up through the Association grounds and we did notice two courts up there. At least they had been courts. The only way we can describe them in their present condition, is to quote an old friend of ours from the South when he said, in speaking of a certain man's farm, "It looks like a chicken pen in a free nigger's back yard." They either ought to be torn down or fixed up.

It goes without saying that we would be as proud as a peacock strutting our stuff if we could truthfully reply:

That we were operating under an up-to-date charter, with a full complement of officers, good police and fire protection.

That we had good side walks, well repaired roads and beautiful lawns.

That we had good out-door bathing, under attractive and sanitary surroundings.

That we had moving pictures two or three times a week, with an occasional good vaudeville..

That we had a Civic Center, with provisions for receptions and social gatherings, together with a small, but well selected library.

All this in ADDITION to our strictly religious programs.

But as we can't reply, we are asking in all seriousness that some one of you suggest how to answer that letter.

Canning Crops School at U. of M. Planned

Canners and growers of canning crops from all sections of the State are expected to attend the annual canning crops school to be held at the University of Maryland, February 19 to 21.

According to F. W. Geise, professor of vegetable culture at the University of Maryland, who is arranging the program, questionaires are now being mailed to leading canners and growers in an effort to discover the most pressing problems confronting the industry. These problems will be discussed at the school.

Last year, according to Mr. Geise, a similar school proved most helpful, affording the canners, their field men and the growers an opportunity to exchange ideas and to acquaint themselves with the latest developments in the industry. It likewise served to give the research men and extension specialists at the university a chance to get a closer and more intimate view of the canners' and growers' problems.

One interesting feature of the school will be a demonstration of the different makes of spraying and dusting machines particularly designed for controlling the Mexican bean beetle. Owing to the rapid spread of this pest in the State last year and its probable reapperance in larger numbers the coming season, this demonstration is expected to attract much attention and interest.

The school is being held under the auspices of the College of Agriculture, the Extension Service and the Tri-State Packers' Association.

STATE FOREST WEALTH IS FAR FROM BEING REALIZED

Maryland Each Year Is Cutting More Than Is Produced

Maryland each year is cutting 7,233,000 cubic feet more timber than is being produced in the woodlands of the State, is importing nine-tenths of its lumber at a cost of $28,000,000, is paying a freight bill on imported lumber of $4,000,000 a year and meanwhile is permitting 180,000 acres of non-agricultural land to lie idle and is making very little effort to increase the productivity of the land now in timber, according to F. W. Besley, State Forester, in a booklet recently issued by the State Department of Forestry.

The situation could be rectified, it is declared by Mr. Besley, if an intensive system of forest management were developed. Timber production on the present area of forest land in the State could be increased to 156,887,000 cubic feet, or approximately 144 per cent. Annual timber production would then almost equal consumption and place the State on practically a self-supporting basis.

The suggested remedies for present conditions offered by Mr. Besley would include an adequate system of protecting forested areas against destruction by fire, the planting of at least half of the 180,000 acres of idle land in the State and the employment of management methods that would increase the productivity of lands now in forest.

Ice Causes Several Wrecks.

Several automobile smash-ups occurred over the week-end on the State highway leading from Oakland to Accident and on the National Highway between Keyser's Ridge and Frostbaurg, due to the slippery condition of the roads. Ice covered a large area of the thoroughfares and caused unsuspecting motorists' cars to skid. The machines were damaged in many cases to a considerable extent, but no one was reported to have been seriously injured.

MACKALL CHARGED WITH IRREGULARITIES IN ROADS

Said To Have Known Stealing Was Going On But Took No Action To Stop It.

State House, Annapolis, Md., Feb. 4.—Charging that John N. Mackall, former chairman and chief engineer of the State Roads Commission, had committed nearly every possible act of irregularity in connection with his office, William Purnell Hall, Baltimore attorney, today read into the record of the legislative committee investigating the roads scandal, an alleged statement of Thomas A. Butler, now serving a prison sentence in connection with the scandal.

He was followed by Thomas L. Ewers, another of the men indicted in connection with the irregularities, who refused to testify before the investigaton until after he had been sentenced on his plea of guilty to the indictment against him. Ewers is to be recalled before the committee following the passing of sentence, as is Butler, if Hall's request to the committee is accepted by it. Mr. Hall's appearance before the committee was prompted by his statement that he would "take the lid off" the state roads scandal and implicate persons higher than Mr. Mackall. When he appeared today, Mr. Hall, in reply to questions by Charles McHenry Howard, counsel for the legislative inquiry, said that he had no information of his own, and that all he knew of the roads case came from Butler's statement and what Ewers had told him.

Makes Charges Against Mackall

It was then he read Butler's statement, charging Mr. Mackall had let contracts to friends without bids, had

CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDED MONDAY; NO ONE INJURED

Menear's Milk Truck and State Road Inspector's Car Meet

A Pontiac coupe, driven by Henry Saline, State Roads inspector, and the Ford milk truck of the Menear dairy, driven by Otto Menear, collided at the corner of Third and Green streets, in Oakland, Monday morning. The impact caused the truck to overturn and it was badly damaged. The coupe was damaged to some extent, the radiator being crumpled up and other less serious damages to the car resulted. Fortunately no one was injured.

Menear, a high school youth, was traveling south on Third street, when Mr. Saline approached the thoroughfare on Center street, traveling east. According to the statement of young Menear frost had accumulated on the windshield of his truck and he was thus unable to see the car approaching on Center street, which latter car had the right of way.

Menear was pinned beneath the steering wheel of the truck when it overturned and suffered only a slight cut under his left eye and minor bruises.

Approximately $125 damage to the two cars resulted.

State Policeman Thomas E. Currie, who investigated the wreck, placed young Menear under arrest on a charge of reckless driving and for this offense he was fined $5 and costs by Justice Gonder.

APPLICATION FOR TREES MADE BY LOCAL SCOUTS

Offer of Maryland State Department of Forestry Accepted

Application for a sufficient number of trees for planting one mile of improved public highway has been made to the State Department of Forestry by Oakland Troop, No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, following the offer to distribute trees to responsible organizations or individuals by that department.

Should this application be favorably considered, the planting of the trees will take place some time in the coming spring. The highway selected for beautification by members of the troop is the Oakland-Accident road, starting at the north edge of Oakland and continuing for a distance of one mile northward.

The species of trees to be planted will be chosen by a member of the Forestry Department who will examine the location and choose the trees best adapted to this section, estimate the cost and supervise the planting.

Trees will be planted in the road right-of-way, not less than 40 and not more than 60 feet apart, depending upon the species sleeted.

Property owners whose lines abut on the highway proposed to be beautified include Harry Helbig, J. M. Falkenstein, Mrs. Belle Cropp, Mrs. J. T. Mitchell, George Wilt, Mrs. J. W. Haney, T. W. Casteel, H. C. Hostetler, Walter DeBerry, Stephen Casteel, Ambrose Mattingly, Albert Kahl, Mrs. Arthur Naylor, John Ault, Horace R. DeWitt, Cecil Smith, H. W. Kahl, L. Bowman, Charles Merrill, E. S. Evans, Benj. Koch and T. O. White.

The labor necessary for the planting of the trees will be supplied by members of the local scout troop who will also build guard stakes around trees and see that they are properly cared for. Trees will be furnished from the College Park nursery.

The application for this roadside tree planting was made by the scoutmaster, following a suggestion made by the publisher of The Republican.

Still Hunt for "Wild Man" in Vicinity of Ohiopyle, Pa.

Excitement again stirred residents of Ohiopyle, Pa., Sunday when woodsmen, emerging from a day's travel, reported that four miles south of the town they had come upon the remains of a fire, around which were scattered the cleaned bones of a chicken and its feathers.

Thoughts immediately centered upon Hillary Winburn, the missing "wild man," who disappeared from his home December 6 and who caused a furore among the farmers of Garrett and Allegany counties during the past week or two.

The fire was an old one, but tracks in the snow were plainly visible and they were traced to a high cliff about 500 yards away. From this point the footprints disappeared entirely. It is not believed now that the stranger who died recently in the Somerset hospital was or is the original Ohiopyle "wild man."

SCOUTS ARE "PREPARED" FOR ANNIVERSARY WEEK

Program Will Begin Tomorrow Night When Members of Troop Rededicate Themselves

"Be Prepared," the motto of all Boy Scouts, can also be the motto for Boy Scout Anniversary Week program, which begins tomorrow night at the Scout Hall, Oakland, and in every other Scout Hall in the United States.

The opening day of Anniversary Week will mark the observance of the 19th birthday of the Boy Scout movement in this country and on that evening, February 8, more than 800,000 Scouts and their leaders, 32 of whom will belong to Oakland Troop, No. 1, will rededicate themselves to the principles of the Scout oath and the Scout law. The boys will then be guests of the Maryland Theatre management, following a short business session.

To Collect Clothing

Saturday morning a canvass of the town of Oakland, for the purpose of collecting all kinds of wearing apparel, to be turned over to Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse, for distribution where needed, will be made by the Scouts. Clothes, shoes, etc., should be in fairly good condition. This canvass will be in keeping with the anniversary program when Scouts all over the world will mobilize to do a good turn for their particular communities.

Sunday morning the boys will go in a body to attend services at St. Paul's Paul's M. E. church. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be spent in doing good turns for the schools which the Scouts attend, for their parents at home and for anyone who needs service.

Enrolled as Tenderfoot.

Carl Hinebaugh, who two weeks wanted to be enrolled as a Scout, has passed all of his necessary tests prior to his becoming a member, and is now enrolled as a Tenderfoot. Richard Glotfelty has also expressed his desire to become a Scout and his name was entered on the roll. When all requirements shall have been passed the addition of these two names will bring the troop total to 32.

Tie Game Recorded in Oakland Bowling League.

For the first time in the history of the Oakland Bowling League, two teams were tied at the end of a game played Thursday night, both the Presbyterian and the Knights of Columbus having a total of 521 pins. To break the tie each man rolled one ball and the Presbyterians came off victorious, making it two out of three games for the evening.

The Methodists also took two out of three from the Lutherans last Thursday evening. The Presbyterians forged ahead of all contenders for first place honors on Monday night when they trimmed the Merchants three straight games, while the Knights of Columbus were winning two out of three from the Lutherans.

The standing of the first four teams shows the Presbyterians leading; Rotary Club, second; Merchants, third; Methodists, fourth.

Tonight the Methodists will meet the Postoffice and the Rotary Club will meet Crellin.

FIRE DEPARTMENT MAKES REPORT TO TOWN COUNCIL

Activities of Volunteer Firemen Given In Detail to Council—Routine Matters Considered

A complete report of the activities of the Oakland Volunteer Fire department since its organization July 20, 1926, to December 31, 1928, inclusive, was made by officers of the department before the monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town Council, held Monday night in the Council chamber.

"The report was very gratifying indeed," Mayor L. M. Fraley said. The members of the council congratulated the organization on its valuable and important work, which is being done constantly in Oakland and surrounding communities.

The report showed that $2,963.29 had been collected from various sources; that expenditures for trucks, equipment and general running expenses had amounted to $2,490.07, showing a balance of $473.22. The expenditures were gone over in detail with the council, and a report of all fires was also made.

A plan whereby the town will make a regular appropriation for fire matters, is being worked out at the present time, according to W. W. Dawson, treasurer of the fire department. A purchasing committee was appointed at the meeting of the organization on Monday, and until the new plan is worked out, the members must approve all bills, in addition to the Mayor and Town Council.

Routine business occupied the remainder of the Council meeting. The next meeting will be held on Monday, March 4.

BROTHERHOOD HEARS TALK ON ENFORCEMENT OF LAW

J. C. Renninger Opens Forum Discussion at Meeting Tuesday

About 30 were present at the last meeting of St. Mark's Brotherhood, held Tuesday evening in the Lutheran church, and heard Mr. J. C. Renninger, State's Attorney, lead an open forum discussion on the enforcement of law, which created quite a bit of interest.

A committee to draft amendments to our present enforcement laws, to be submitted to the Annapolis representatives, was appointed. Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor, asked for aid in promoting the Lenten program of the church, and two committees were appointed. The first committee, of increasing church attendance, included C. C. Reckard, J. C. Renninger, F. G. Stahl, Alva Gortner, H. C. Sincell, and the Brotherhood president, Guy O. Yutzy.

The second committee, for enrollment of new members, included Bert Welch, W. H. Hinebaugh, W. E. Yutzy, Henry Lauer, A. R. Martin.

The Cogley Brothers' string band ably entertained the group. The singing was led by Wade Hinebaugh and Bill Gibson.

T. C. Hinebaugh, H. W. Kahl, Robert Stewart, Carlton Bowser and George Yutzy were appointed to arrange for the April program. Refreshments were served.

GROUNDHOG'S LODGE OF SANG RUN REPORTS SIX MORE WEEKS OF WINTER WEATHER FOR GARRETT

Positive Assurance Given That Hibernating Animal Saw His Shadow and Returned Home

Sang Run, Md., near Wolf Den, February R. P., (Republican Press) —Old Sol played his usual mid-winter trick on Brother Groundhog, alias Woodchuck, alias Marmot Monax, at this thriving village today, luring the hibernating animal from his retreat but not for an indefinite stay, it was revealed by the prophets of the Submerging Ground Hog Lodge of this vicinity.

The prophets of the lodge, in a seance at the headquarters here, reported that a visit to the winter home of the oldest groundhog in Canaan valley resulted in the observation that the ground hog left his hole at 11:21. He sat up on his haunches and viewed his brethren of the slumbering lodge with a sleepy glassy stare, which displayed neither recognition nor displeasure. Finally, after five minutes of mental telepathic exchanges of fraternal greetings and fellicitations, Brother Groundhog resumed his hibernation.

A prophet in full regalia leaped upon a horse, raced to a hill top and "wig-wagged" the news to "headquarters" where the treasureless treasurer and defender of the faith and official prognosticator, secluded themselves in the sanctum sanctorum of the lodge.

From this mysterious room the following bulletin was dispatched to The Republican Press:

"The groundhog of Garrett county emerged from his hole today, remained out five minutes, saw his shadow and regretfully returned to his hibernation, not to emerge again until six weeks hence. Warning is hereby made that cold weather will visit this section for a like period."

If it doesn't people will believe in the groundhog's uncanny ability just the same. The almanacs also predict a variety of bad weather, cold periods, rough blustery winds, sleet and snow all during February. If this all comes to pass, the sagacity of the groundhog will be well sustained.

JUDGMENT IS RENDERED IN FAVOR OF PLAINTIFF

Verdict For $1,350 Given in Favor of Finance Corporation.

By agreement a verdict for $1350 was rendered in favor of The Merchants Finance Corporation, Cumberland, plaintiffs, against Alvey Martin, Oakland, at the short session of court held yesterday in Oakland.

The suit involved a number of notes secured by conditional automobile sales, according to E. R. Jones, attorney, who represented Mr. Martin W. E. Walsh, R. F. McMullen, Cumberland, and Renninger and Offutt, Oakland, were the attorneys for the Finance Corporation.

The verdict is looked upon a victory for the defendant by those who heard the trial of the case.

The matter was heard by Judge A. A. Doub and the jury was composed of members of the December panel who were held over by the Court for this particular case.

STATE AND FEDERAL FUNDS FOR GARRETT HIGHWAYS

Apportionment For Post and Lateral Roads Announced by State Roads Commission

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county was recently in receipt of a communication from the State Roads Commission informing the local officials that State and Federal roads funds had been apportioned to the various counties and hat the shares from these funds for Garrett county would be as follows:

For post roads, financed by the State and Federal governments, $66,649. For lateral roads, financed by the State and county, $79,350.

These sums are identical with the amounts apportioned last year for use in this county in extending roads then under construction or for the building of new projects.

"Better to Give Than To Have It Taken Forcibly"

"It is better to give than to have it taken forcibly," Henry McComas, Jr., said, upon his return Tuesday night from Rowlesburg, West Va., where he had gone to referee a basketball game.

After paying two dollars to have a restaurant keep open in order to have some place to wait for train No. 4, and after having paid an additional two dollars for a car to drive him from Rowlesburg to M. & K. Junction, where he could board the train, things were still rather uncertain, for he was accosted by two burly negroes, who had just "unboarded a west bound freight train.

"Got a cigarette, buddy?" and after "Hen" politely handed them a fag, "Well, we'll just keep these."

"How about some change?" was the next question, and after "Hen" showed them some small change, "Well, we might just as well keep this, too."

"It's tough to be stranded in a place like this," one said.

And needless to say, Henry was fully in accord with them.

GEO. D. BROWNING MADE PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD

Elected at Reorganization Meeting of County Commissioners Held Monday Morning.

At the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners, which convened at the board room in the Court House Monday morning, Mr. George D. Browning was elected president of the body, succeeding County Commissioner D. E. Orendorf, who expressed his desire to be relieved of the duties incumbent upon the presiding officer of the body.

Mr. Browning was elected to the position by the votes of Mr. Orendorf and Commissioner Harvey Gortner following a conference prior to the arrival at the board room of Mr. Browning whose recent illness prevented his earlier arrival.

The meeting Monday was the first one held during the present year. The January meeting could not be held owing to the illness of Commissioner Gortner at his home in Grantsville and absence from the county of Commissioner Orendorf who was detained at Huntington on account of the extreme illness of Mrs. Orendorf.

During the present session of the board road supervisors have been appointed; also constables have been selected, a full list being now in course of preparation at the office of the Commissioners for publication in The Republican next week. A mass of routine work, which had accumulated since the December session of the board has also been disposed of.

What 59 years have taught us about making gasoline

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was a pioneer in refining gasoline. Since the first automobile was built "Standard" has been—both in quantity and quality—the leader in the refining and supplying of this necessary motor fuel.

This company has spent millions of dollars in research work and in the development of new and better processes of making gasoline. What has been the result? Just this—that you can depend on finding in every gallon of "Standard" Gasoline these qualities:

Easy Starting—even in coldest weather.

Quick Acceleration—a necessary thing in traffic.

Power, Steady and Reliable—for hill climbing and long hard runs.

Mileage Efficiency—proved over and over by road tests in every type of car.

Safety to Motor—a fuel that cannot possibly injure your engine.

Complete Combustion—a fuel that burns cleanly, leaving practically no carbon, and burns completely, leaving no "loose ends" to seep down and dilute the motor oil in the crank case.

Uniformity—you can set your carburetor on "Standard" and forget it, for every gallon is like every other gallon wherever you buy it.

Availability—"Standard" Gasoline has the further advantage of being easily obtained, as our red "Standard" pumps are conveniently located throughout the length and breadth of this state.

This rare combination of qualities makes "Standard" the best all-'round gasoline on the market. The fact that it outsells any other brand of gasoline in this state by more than 2 to 1, is evidence of its superior qualities.

Use "Standard" Gasoline and you will get unvarying fuel satisfaction.

There is no truly "anti-knock" motor fuel being sold, except at a premium price. The best known "anti-knock" fuel is ESSO, the Giant Power Fuel. It is acknowledged by engineers to be in a class by itself—a genuine "anti-knock" fuel, specially made for use in high compression motors, and in motors that are carbonized from long usage.

ESSO costs more to make and has to be sold at a small premium over "Standard" Gasoline, but ESSO gives an extra engine performance never before experienced. On sale only at the Silver ESSO Pumps with the ESSO Globes.

Lesson for February 10

REPENTANCE AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:32-39; Luke 15:11-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, and believe in the gospel.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Was Sorry.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Was Sorry.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Turning From Sin to God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Way to Forgiveness.

I. Jesus Is Lord and Christ (Acts 2:32-36).

In order to induce repentance and faith, Jesus must be presented as both Lord and Christ. The presentation of Jesus as even the unusual son of Joseph and Mary will not convict of sin. One reason for the vanishing sense of sin is the failure of ministers and Sunday School teachers to declare the Lordship and Messiahship of Jesus of Nazareth. Peter proved Jesus to be Lord and Christ by

1. The miracles which He wrought (Acts 2:22).

He performed before the very eyes of the people such mighty deeds as to demonstrate His Lordship.

2. His resurrection from the dead (Acts 2:24-32).

By His resurrection He was declared to be the Son of God with power (Rom. 1:4). His resurrection was attested to by many witnesses.

3. The outpouring of the Spirit (Acts 2:15-21).

Peter declared that the coming of the Spirit on Pentecost was the fulfillment of Joel's prophecy.

II. Repent and Believe the Gospel (Acts 2:37-39).

Peter's gospel message convicted the Jews of their sins. When they cried out, he commanded them to repent and be baptized. The evidence of their faith in Christ was manifested in their conviction of sin, and their penitence was shown in their confession of Christ in baptism.

III. The Forgiving God (Luke 15:11-24).

The center of things in this parable is not the prodigal son, nor his brother, but the "certain man who had two sons." This narrative is a most picturesque and dramatic portrayal of the history of man from his fall to his reconciliation with God.

1. The son's insubordination (v. 12).

He became tired of the restraints of home. His desire for freedom moved him wilfully to choose to leave home—to throw off the constraint of his father's rule. Sin is the desire to indulge selfish purposes, free from the restraint of rightful authority.

At the request of the son, the father "divided unto them his living." Man is a free being. God has committed unto man his own destiny.

2. The son's departure (v. 13).

Having made the fateful decision, he immediately sought the fulfillment of his cherished purpose. The son could not now endure the presence of his father, so he gathered all together and hastened away. When the sinner casts off allegiance to God, he takes all that he has with him.

3. The son's degeneration (vv. 13, 14).

He had a good time while his money lasted, but the end came quickly. From plenty in his father's house to destitution in a far country was a short journey.

4. The son's degradation (vv. 15, 16).

His money exhausted, he was driven to hire himself to a citizen to feed swine. It is ever so. Those who will not serve God are made slaves to the devil to do his bidding (Rom. 6:16). In his shame and disgrace he could not get necessary food.

5. The son's restoration (vv. 17-24).

(1) He came to himself (v. 17). Reflection made him conscious that though he had wronged his father and ruined himself, he was still his father's son.

(2) His resolution (v. 18).

Memory's picture of his home, where even the hired servants had a superabundance, moved him to make a decision to leave the far country and go home.

(3) His confession (vv. 18, 19).

He acknowledged that his sin was against heaven and his father, that he had forfeited his right to be called a son, and begged to be given a place as a hired servant.

(4) His action (v. 20).

Resolution does not avail unless accompanied with action. When the confession is genuine, action will follow.

(5) His reception by his father (vv. 20-24).

So anxious was he for him that he ran to meet him and fell upon his neck and kissed him.

Why Judge Thy Brother?

Why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ. For it is written, As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.—Rom. 14:10, 11.

Pledge of God's Pardon

Sunrise, says the philosopher, is a splendid pledge to me that God pardons.—The American Magazine.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

"Don't Believe Everything"

Hoover Prosperity

Dave Walter has been seen carrying a new dinner bucket.

* * *

Breaking a Habit

Archibaldson is of the opinion that when a plumber dies, his wife should take no chances. She should bury his tools with him.

* * *

All Kinds of Appreciation

Since the oratorical contest came off in such a highly successful manner, Scoop has thought it just about time he express his appreciation to the many people of this vicinity who have shown their high sense of humor and excellent sportsmanship in passing off lightly anything which may have been said in these columns.

When the column first appeared in August 1927, it was Scoop's hope that he could write something each week that would be read by The Republican's readers with enjoyment. Since that time many names of local personages have appeared, connected with things that happened and things that never will or never could take place. Practically everybody, Scoop is delighted to say, has enjoyed what has been said, even those whose names were mentioned from time to time, and to date only three could be listed who felt they were being insulted, or what have you?

Scoop was much surprised to find that several people who read this column believed all the things said in it, even to holding oratorical contests, wild parties in the court house, etc.

Hereafter the things will have to be so outlandish that nobody could believe them, and hereafter Scoop will favor the three mentioned above with nothing but silence and plenty of that. Ten years from now they will be entreating Scoop to mention their first, last and middle names in his column. That's ego for you in a first degree form.

Now, "on with the dance!"

"Wild Man of Gobler's Knob"

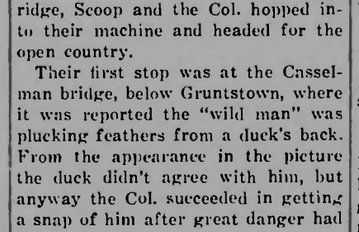
When it was first learned that the "wild man" of Pennsylvania was suspected of transgressing on property of Garrett countians in the vicinity of Grantsville, Scoop and Col. Bell thot of the glory of being able to publish the first official photo through the pages of The Republican. So, one dark and stormy night when the thermometer stood 20 below on Keyser's ridge, Scoop and the Col. hopped into their machine and headed for the open country.

Their first stop was at the Casselman bridge, below Gruntstown, where it was reported the "wild man" was plucking feathers from a duck's back. From the appearance in the picture the duck didn't agree with him, but anyway the Col. succeeded in getting a snap of him after great danger had been overcome.

Ready for Dr. Davis?

* * *



Col. Bell thot it wise to get a few more pictures while in that end of the county and they are printed below.

* * *

Charley Is Prepared

When Charley Bender was notified of the nearness of the "wild man" he immediately called on the nearest hardware store and bought a hunter's full regalia and is now ready for the giant when he approaches his chicken coop.

"Armed to The Teeth"

Scared to Death?

While travelling westward on main street, Col. Bell spied Gideon Gnagey standing in front of the National hotel, reading about the wild man's depredations in that vicinity. If he had turned up at that moment "Gid" would have given up the ghost.

Anxious Moments

* * *

A Call For Help

In passing Dan Dorsey's filling station and garage excitement reigned supreme. Dan had just seen the wild man peeking through one of his windows and he is seen in the accompanying photo calling for Bill Keller to come down and bring the posse.

Line Is Busy

* * *

After studying the photo of the wild man of Gobler's knob, Col. Bell decided he didn't blame the Grantsville people and that they were welcome to keep him in that section of the county for an indefinite period.

Sled Riding

Scoop suggests that the next time any crowd of young folks go sled riding, that they ascertain first whether or not there is enough snow on which to coast. It is rumored that the boys got big hearted and pulled the girls down the hill —once—and no brakes were needed.

Argument Over Calendar

Mary Ann Small, the type and ad setter in the back room, wanted to know how Archibaldson got that way, putting up a calendar like the one appearing last week. She says Archibaldson never included a clean-up day on his calendar; that it was always muss-up.

LINCOLN

The greatest dramatization of the character of Abraham Lincoln was done by an Englishman, John Drinkwater. Lincoln was one of the greatest Americans, but his greatness is such that it transcends nationality. He belongs to mankind. The nobility of his life is summarized in his executive act in emancipating the black slaves of America, and that was more than national. It affected the human race and was beyond boundaries of time and space in its significance.

Lincoln's dramatic life, tracing a golden thread of courage from the station of the unlettered child of poverty to the pedestal of the chief citizen of the world, is a challenge to humanity of all ages, rather than a mere national epic. It is inspiration to the boy of the Congo, even as it is to the youngster of Maine or California. Lincoln belongs to humankind, and his deathless sentences, spoken before the American audiences, have echoed around and around the earth, in every language and dialect under heaven.

It is so with the supremely great of all nations. Their great service to their fellow men makes them the possession of all peoples. Beethoven, whose wonderful music has inspired the men and women of all nations, is ours almost as much as he is Germany's. Leonardo de Vinci painted his pictures and wrought his statuary in the Italian peninsula, and Edison invented the electric light in the United States, but no boundary lines can or should confine such genius. These great men are the common property and the common pride of all peoples.

There is no national jealousy concerning genius. Pasteur and Fabre and the Curies have been hailed as kindred by all scientists of every nation, though they worked in France. Their discoveries are as potent for good in Haiti as in Paris. Here is the true internationalism—the internationalism of genuine human greatness.

DEFICIT BECOMES SURPLUS

A treasury surplus is usually looked upon by Washington as something advantageous, although to most laymen it is a thing which requires some explanation. Last summer President Coolidge was informed by the Director of the Bureau of the Budget that there would probably be a deficit in the expenditures over the current receipts of something like $100,000,000. This was a bookkeeping estimate, and now it is believed not only that the forecast "deficit" will be wiped out, but also that the receipts this fiscal year will be so large as to return to the Treasury a surplus of something like $143,000,000. In brief this is the message now sent to the country thru the agency of the semi annual business meeting of the Government addressed by President Coolidge.

Such a radical change in the estimates, made within a brief period of a few months, results from the fact that the business of the country has been more prosperous than was at first believed possible. The returns from income taxes during the next five months will be in excess of previous anticipations. The Treasury will collect returns on March 15 and again on June 15, both of which will be included in the receipts of the Government's current fiscal year. These returns will be based upon the incomes of persons and businesses of the county during the calendar year 1928. Therefore the enhanced prosperity of the country rather than any fundamental change in the estimates of the Bureau of the Budget wipes out the previously expected deficit and substitutes for it a comfortable surplus.

President Coolidge is perfectly correct, however, in warning Congress that, despite this more optimistic showing of the Treasury, there must be no extravagance in the appropriations now under consideration. The Congress could yet authorize expenditures which would wipe away the anticipated surplus and leave a "depleted Treasury for the incoming administration. The United States is still deeply concerned in the problem of retiring the inheritances of 1928.

MT. LAKE PARK.

A CASE FOR REJOICING.

A letter from Superintendent Baker published in last Thursday's issue of The Republican carries the cheering news that he is constantly dealing with different groups to come to the Park, trying to build up the program to larger proportions and that the 1929 program is already larger than it has been for years.

Every citizen here, whether permanent or summer resident, will rejoice.

The letter goes on to state that the Park is not sold nor nearly sold. Such information as the paper published was obtained from correspondence read by the writer, which stated that a deal was pending.

However, whether the Park changes ownership or not, is not so important to residents.

The chief concern is whether the policy and plans for the future will make for a bigger and better resort—one in keeping with the natural beauty of the surroundings.

And this cannot be brought about by the activity of the Park Association itself. Of course it wields a great influence, but the responsibility is not alone on its shoulders.

The other property owners must realize that they must join wholeheartedly in any plan or movement for betterment of conditions. They must realize, as Drummond said, "property has its duties as well as its rights."

Superintendent Baker further says that "five thousand people spending their summers in Garrett county would greatly help the whole of Western Maryland. And they can be brought here with publicity. Climate, water and sun we have for a successful summer resort, but more real, broad-gauge boosters are needed."

All will readily agree with the sentiments thus expressed by Mr. Baker.

But we would go further and say that under a proper policy of betterment, it is entirely possible to have not only five thousand, but ten thousand people spend their summers with us and with proper means of entertainment their stay can be prolonged until late in the fall.

We have in mind a number of "broad-gauge boosters" but they must be encouraged by some show of activity and energy on our part, not only looking to a successful season of a few weeks' duration in mid-summer, but in the early summer and fall months of the year.

It is true that the majority of property owners, including the Association, are primarily interested in summer success, but let us again quote "property has its duties as well as its rights."

We cannot agree with some that we should let well enough alone. No one, with any ambition at all, is satisfied to stand still, or, worse, go backward.

We again insist that the matters we have mentioned in this series of articles in this column, or at least some of them, should be done both by us as property owners, and by the Association if we are to join the procession of successful, wide-awake communities.

Mark Twain said, "it requires twenty years to get an idea fixed in the human mind.

We don't want to wait that long for better conditions at the Park, nor do we expect to, but the point is that even if improvements are slow in coming, we should not forgo the duty of advocating what we believe to be the best interests of all concerned.

Here's to the success of Superintendent Baker in all his efforts.

Personals

Mr. McClelland Clayton, who has been confined to his home by illness, is able to be about again.

An ice sled, propelled by a large sail was seen on the lake Sunday.

No services were held at the M. E. church last Sunday due to the excavation for the new basement. Services will be held next Sunday unless prevented by the continued cold weather.

A sister of Mrs. John Brenneman, of the Park, Mrs. Bruce Durst, died at her home in Hutton Friday night. Her husband died last spring, and Mrs. Durst removed from Garrett county to her late home, where she had been a resident for 25 years. She was burried Monday in Underwood cemetery, the Rev. Fultz, U. B. minister, Loch Lynn, officiating.

We learn with regret the death of Mrs. Mary Richie Post, who died at her home in Uniontown, Pa. Mrs. Post was a summer resident of the Park for many years, taking great pride in the up-keep and beautifying of her home. She will be greatly missed by her host of friends.

Cutting of ice is still in progress at the lake.

Mr. Robert Tassie and family will move from the Park about the first of April. Mr. Tassie has not only made an excellent farm superintendent, but both he and Mrs. Tassie have those qualities which have endeared them to their host of friends. We regret their departure.

Mrs. Bussell and Miss Gracie Hutchinson have been ill at their apartments in Parkersburg, West Va.

The building used by Mr. Scott White as a shoe repair shop in Loch Lynn has been removed to Crellin, where it will be used as a barber shop.

A friend of ours remarked the other day, when his attention was called to the fact that the ground hog certainly saw his shadow, "wouldn't we have d--- fine weather if it was made by a ground hog?" While we don't believe much in signs, yet, if this cold snap continues we will have a sneaking idea that perhaps the old hog did have something to do with it.

Mrs. Knease is spending the winter in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Council of Loch Lynn met Monday evening, with a full membership present. Business necessary for the closing of the fiscal year was transacted, as well as preparing for the coming election which will be held the first Monday in March.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Shaffer, of Loch Lynn, February 1st.

Mrs. Mary Wrightsman has moved to rooms over the I. O. O. F. hall.

Oakland Grammar School P.-T. A. Meeting.

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Oakland Grammar school held its regular meeting in the school building Thursday evening, January 31.

An unusually large number of parents and teachers were present.

After the meeting was called to order by its newly elected president, Mrs. W. W. Grant, a little play, entitled "Thrift," was put on by the children under the direction of Miss Marion Leary, the principal of the school.

Some business matters were discussed and the meeting was then turned over to Walter Dawson, chairman of the program committee.

The speakers of the evening were Mrs. Grant, who delivered her "inaugural address"; Rev. Shilke, who spoke on "The Child Education Problem."

The Oakland Quartet was scheduled but Mr. Dawson said, "They showed up missing," so Reeves Blandford rendered three solos with Col. Wm. Gibson at the piano.

Mr. Gibson also entertained with a number of piano selections, which was greatly enjoyed.

The officers of the association are very appreciative of this outside help and hope that the boys may soon consent to give their services of entertaining at future meetings.

George D. Sprague, manager of the local creamery, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary club, held last Friday evening. He spoke on the milk drying process, equipment for the production of which has just recently been installed here.

If there are indications of a back to the farm movement it is probably because something has happened which is making the farm more attractive. Probably the radio is having much to do with changing the minds of many people about farm life. Farmers are not a bit unlike other human beings. They want to keep in touch with life and affairs. Telephones, roads, radios, newspapers delivered daily—all these things are bound to result in a general turn of favor toward the farm.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Baltimore Observer)

It's getting too rich to look at, much less to write about, that roads scandal. The Governor and his special "advisory" committee revealing under Legislative pressure the official version of the use of the State's money for gifts to be handed to public officials and others. Score one for Delegate Cobourn, who wasn't an insider.

Then Senator Coad asks for the audit made of road stealings by that same "Advisory" committee. One for Coad, who wasn't in the contracting business.

Next Delegate Wilmer wants to have an accounting of the more than a million dollars' worth of supplies sent the Roads Commission by the Federal Government out of the war surplus. Mark one for Wilmer.

Three good, sensible moves and not one made by a member of the Ritchie crowd. So we see the Ritchie State roads political machine wabbling and we wonder whether Howard Bruce, suddenly shedding his toga as Democratic National Committeeman and putting on a fresh business man's halo can save it and put it in satisfactory shape for 1930.

Silver Service Scheme
Opens Public Eyes

Somehow this silver service stuff appeals to the public imagination and interest. The "Advisory" committee must have known about it all along but kept still for the good of the administration.

The bright young chairman of the Crain highway celebation committee thinks it a fine idea to hand out some silverware. So he hies himself to a first class silversmith and orders something for the Governor, something for his friend, Bob Crain, something for Chairman Johnnie Mackall, something for Republican Mayor Broening (whose administration was to chip in) and then a few small'a pieces of silverware for the girls who were to take part in the Ritchie glorification.

After this special silverware was all engraved and fixed up Bob Crain hears of it. He hits the ceiling. Seizing a telephone he calls up the Governor and bawls out the whole business. There is no doubht that Crain, man of the world, was hot in the collar over such an exhibition of silliness. He tells the Governor he will not participate in it. And hearing Crain so express himself the pedal extremities of the Governor grow cold and he comes to the conclusion that the free silver stunt would be bad form. He is running the celebration and so his word goes. He vetoes the free silver.

But the silversmiths. They have filled the order in good faith. The nice pretty engraving has been done and these pieces are no longer salable. Nobody wants to buy a punch bowl or any other thingamajig all engraved and fixed for somebody else. The dealer will not sidestep. The best he can do is to allow on the bill a deduction for the price of the gifts as silver and not as silverware. So the State, through its roads fund, has to pay for this folly. It isn't the fault of the silversmiths and it isn't the fault of Mayor Broening.

A fine stunt has been spoiled by the scruples of Bob Crain, who scared the Governor into a veto. But here are the silver sets in the hands of the makers. Something must be done. The set intended for Chairman Mackall is gotten "out of hock" a few weeks later and presented to him as a gift from the Southern Maryland Society, of which at that time he was President. Bob Crain makes the presentation speech, not thoroughly understanding the program. The State pays for the silver out of the roads funds. Later when an investigation is under way Chairman Mackall reimburses the State. Later some five mysterious men reimburse Mr. Mackall. The latter gets his silverware. The silversmiths have in hand silver marked for the late Mr. Crain, for the Governor, for the Mayor. Won't their friends please come to the front and help the silversmiths out? Otherwise silversmiths will be unwilling to fix up such gifts without having all the cash in hand.

I have an idea. Let the silverware be paid for by a special appropriation by the present Legislature. Then let it be delivered as a gift to the Baltimore Museum of Art. It can there be exhibited as specimens of Maryland craftmanship and as testimonials to the asininity of men drunk with power.

Long, Long Road
To the Full Facts

Now that the Governor and his members of the Legislature have decided that what is known as the "Advisory" Committee is to be continued in operation and clothed with real inquisitorial power, the chairman of the body, Mr. Nelligan, is quoted as saying that there is a long road ahead. He ought to know.

To get at the full facts that committee or the Legislative committee dominated by Speaker Brooke Lee will have to dig through many details and these will be the details of the operation of a vast machine which built roads, expended millions of dollars and operated as the most important unit of the Governor's political organization—an outfit that decked its engineers with Ritchie buttons, took in Republican contractors to help the cause along and put on full steam for unlimited rule in Maryland.

If any committee is to find out what was done it will have to go into every county in the State, from Garrett to Worcester, and see what there is in the charge that even the filling stations were brought into politics. They will have to see about the procuring of rights of way and ascertain whether these jobs were let at cost plus prices to Ritchie machine politicians. They will have to find out what became of all the war material and how much (if any) was parcelled out among the Governor's friends. And they will ascertain why and how it was that one contractor got six five-ton tractors at $500 a piece and then forgot to pay for them until his name and his debt was printed in the papers.

Certainly Mr. Nelligan is right in saying that there is a long road ahead and if it can be made long enough it will stretch out to the beginning of 1931. Then it will be up to all good citizens to get behind Ritchie for a fourth term so that he can push this investigation to the very end.

Tippett Complains
Of Freezing Temperature

Lawyer Richard B. Tippett, who built a very hot fire under the Governor last summer and directed public attention to the fact that the looting of the road fund was conducted on a very large scale and this at a time when the Governor and his friends were trying to soft pedal it for political purposes, had a new session with the Nelligan "advisory" committee on Tuesday but he doesn't appear to have gotten any warmer reception than he got earlier and which reception he referred to as "freezing."

Mr. Tippett wants to go into the contracts where if there was stealing at all, there was big stealing. Lawyer Edwin G. Baetjer was there for the Nelligan committee but from the published reports I take it that he felt somewhat as counsel for the defense. I hope it doesn't work out that way. Let the contractors employ counsel for the defense if they are under fire. Mr. Tippett expresses the view that there is much yet to be revealed and I am confident he means what he says.

All along it has been apparent that Mr. Tippett's help was not badly wanted. The Governor has appeared to have as much desire for help from Mr. Tippett as he would have for the help of an undertaker. Consequently there has been a feeling that the Governor has been trying to hide something even at this late day when his political sun has sunk below the horizon.

If the Nelligan committee will take up and follow the Tippett hints and tips, I look for interesting things. We may find out why it was that certain contractors appeared to have such a strong swing with the Roads Commission. We may find out whether the State lost money by the way things were done. We may find out whether contracts were let without the commission passing on them.

Speaker Lee Now Zealous
For An Investigation

The most interesting sight at Annapolis is Speaker Brooke Lee. One minute he is on the rostrum making a ruling to help the Governor out of the mess and the next he has given up the chair and run to the floor to defend himself or his patron saint, the Governor. He leaves nothing or little to Democratic Floor Leader Lindsay, a quiet, capable fellow who, however, apparently gets no pleasure out of shoveling mud for Ritchie and Lee. Lindsay may want to go to the State Senate next time and the best way to go there is to keep his record straight. He's not in the road contracting business, nor is he getting any State or county roads built thru his real estate.

Without Lee there is next to no one to defend the Governor in his plight. G. O. P. Floor Leader Wilmer makes the welkin ring with his denunciation of the State Roads machine and its favoritism. The men who by their votes put Lee in the chair sit there silent and gloomy.

The fiery Cobourn, of Harford, flays the Governor for his inaction and the humiliation his administration has brought on Maryland. There is no one to answer except Lee who, by boldly throwing himself into the breach is apparently paving the way to his own political destruction.

In the Senate the Governor lacks champions just as he does in the House. There the presiding officer, Mr. McIntosh, wants to be nominated for Governor. Therefore he sees nothing to be gained by imitating the Lee stunt and taking the floor. To date there is no champion of the Governor even though several of the City Senators are coddling the Executive and playing along with him to get the small jobs he has to give out for the next two years.

Col. John Philip Hill
Making Headway

The testimony taken by or on behalf of Col. John Philip Hill's contest for Congress is no longer a laughing matter and it may be a big factor in electing a Republican Governor next year. The testimony shows that the election was marked by considerable disregard of law and I would not be surprised to see such a case made out as will result in the unseating of the returned Democratic member, Mr. Palmisano. The testimony to date shows too many persons registering from the Palmisano domicile and it reminds one of the days before 1895.

I well recall that in 1895 when Governor Frank Brown was shown that at least two members of the Board of Election Supervisors were asleep at the switch he found a way of getting them out of office and on his new board he put Charles J. Bonaparte.

In those days there was a live Reform League in Baltimore manned by independents with the sort of guts that seem to be sadly lacking in Baltimore City today.

No doubt the testimony taken will be brought to the attention of U. S. Attorney Woodcock who ere this must have become convinced that all is not gold that glitters. Of course the matter has been brought before the State prosecuting official, Mr. O'Conor, but I do not think it should be wished on him as it might prove embarrassing. A Democrat does not like to prosecute Democrats for election frauds, but Republicans do not usually sicken at such tasks. Of course, politics has nothing to do with the enforcement of the law—it never did in Maryland—but I do think this case should go to the United State Court as it affects a Federal election. Besides that agents of the Department of Justice have been here making observations and if they are smart they must have found out something.

Speaker is Threatening
Editors Who Criticize

Speaker Lee, again loudly proclaiming his honesty, evidently wants to use the power of the Legislature, acting through a committee, to hush press criticism, as he says: "There are some newspaper editors who have some information or they would not be making the charges appearing in certain publications recently."

I do not know who Lee refers to as I have not seen any charges in relation to the roads mess made by editors. I have noted many questions that have been asked and I have asked some myself. Today I have not heard that the Governor wants any information about the roads scandal. On the contrary I do know that this same Governor remarked to the writer of these lines within the first two years of his administration that: "In my opinion the man in the street, as you call him, doesn't care what is done with his money after he has once paid his taxes."

Brooke Lee appears to be very close to the Governor. So I suggest that he induce the latter to interview any editors who have been making charges about the roads or other matters in his administration. It's an old trick to threaten an editor with an inquisitorial committee. Brooke Lee should know better.

The Salad Bowl Points the Way to Healthful Eating.

Salads, properly prepared, fulfill a definite health purpose is generally agreed by food authorities. The leafy greens, fresh fruits and vegetables which make up the average salad, contain not only valuable mineral salts, but a liberal supply of the precious vitamins so essential to health.

But to be more beneficial and most appetizing, salads must be carefully thought out—they must be planned to include the right combinations of foods.

Fourteen Salad Points.

The fourteen salad combinations which we are listing are both appetizing and healthful and should help to solve the problem of the right salad for the right occasion.

1. Lettuce, with any fruit, vegetable, meat or fish.
2. Meat or fish with celery, onion or green pepper.
3. Cabbage with celery, green peppers and raw carrots.
4. Cabbage with nuts, celery and apple.
5. Pineapple, cream cheese and Maraschino cherries.
6. Grapefruit, dates, nuts and marshmallows.
7. White or tokay grapes and pecans.
8. Cooked spinach and hard boiled eggs.
9. Oranges or apples with Bermuda onion.
10. Flaked fish with celery and hard boiled egg.
11. Apples and nuts, raisins or dates.
12. Tomato, celery and cucumber.
13. Bananas and cherries, stuffed with nuts.
14. Watercress or Romaine with any fruit.

Two-Mirue Salad.

One and one-half cups pickled beets (diced), 1 small onion (chopped fine), 1½ cups cucumber (diced), 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, vinegar, lettuce, Thousand Island dressing.

Thin Thousand Island dressing with vinegar to taste and pour over the vegetables that have been lightly mixed together. Add salt and pepper to taste, serve on lettuce.

Ham Luncheon Salad.

One cup cold boiled ham (cut in cubes), ½ cup celery (cut fine), ½ cup green pepper (cut fine), lettuce, ½ cup dill pickle (cut in pieces), 1 cup peas (fresh or canned), 1 teaspoon minced onion, mayonnaise or relish spread. Season with salt and pepper, mix with mayonnaise or relish spread and serve cold on lettuce leaves. Garnish with bits of tomato, pickled beets or sliced hard boiled eggs.

Salad Japanese.

"Not in business for his health"

YOU hear that expression so often that you're apt to enter all stores with the idea of being on your guard against overcharges.

That's bad. If the man you deal with is that sort, you try to find another; usually you do. He loses in the end.

Your interests come first here. You get the kind of material you want; always at a fair price. We look first at what you get from a sale; what we get comes second. Nothing queer about it; we simply recognize that your confidence in us will take care of what we get out of it.

Our Certain-teed Grey Open Edge Gypsum Board is without doubt the best plaster board you could secure either for an entirely new house or for recovering old walls or turning the attic into a bright and cheery room. Get our prices before you buy. They are surprisingly low.

MACKALL CHARGED WITH IRREGULARITIES IN ROADS

let contracts to friends who were not low bidders, had done other things of an irregular nature and that he had lied in statements regarding the actions of Butler and Charles L. Robins, and had perjured himself in sending them to the penitentiary instead of "standing a little embarrassment himself."

The statmenet also charged that Mr. Mackall had taken supplies and labor which the state had paid for and used them for his private use, had given jobs to relatives, and had known the stealing was going on in the Commission office before it had been disclosed and that he had taken no steps to put a stop to it.

In all, the statement which Mr. Hall said had been made to him by Butler contained 43 separate instances where Mr. Mackall had been implicated in irregularities.

W. W. Brown, former member of the Roads Commission, who resigned following the publication of the Haskin & Sells report of its audit, was also said in the statement to have received an automobile for state use, paid for by the state, but that it was placed in his own private service, although he paid the expenses of up-keep. It also charged that R. Bennett Darnall, another member of the Commission received two machines from the state, and that he traded in his own machine on the purchase price of one the state having paid the balance.

Ewers Balks When Questioned

Following the reading of this statement, which Mr. Hall said was typewritten and handed to him by Butler when he called at the Maryland penitentiary to see him at the former roads employee's request, Ewers was placed on the stand. He answered a question as to his name and occupation and then balked at the next question, "where were you employed as a mechanic?" He was connected with the Glenburnie garage of the State Roads Commission.

Mr. Hall said that Ewers had been originally indicted by the Baltimore grand jury because he had testified against Frank Woods, another man connected with the roads shortage, and that he wanted to run no more "risk" before being sentenced. During this statement, Hall was interrupted by Charles P. Curtis, vice-chairman of the committee, who asked if the charge was directed against Herbert R. O'Connor, state's attorney.

Mr. Hall made a heated retort that he was "indicting the grand jury and not Mr. O'Connor, who had only done his duty."

The committee waived the right to question as to Ewer's testimony, and Hall agreed to have him appear as soon after passing of sentence as was convenient for the committee.

With the exception of this afternoon of what was termed by both Mr. Hall and counsel for the committee as "hearsay" testimony, the legislature had a quiet day. The Senate had few bills presented, although more than a score were dumped into the House hopper.

The committee adjourned until next Tuesday afternoon at 3:30, at which time Charles C. Croggins, auditor of the Haskins and Sells firm which made the audit of the finances of the State Roads Commission, will be asked to appear before it.

Lines of Public Opinion As Congress Battles over Navy

While Congress battles over the 15-cruiser construction program for the navy, newspaper comment reflects views throughout the country quite as conflicting and as positive as those voiced at the Capitol by advocates and opponents of a larger navy. Special attention has been attracted by the position of Senator Borah, who opposes appropriations for new ships pending a more definite understanding among nations as to the freedom of the seas.

"Until sea law is restated so as to guarantee the rights of the United States either as a belligerent or as a "neutral," says the Washington Star (Ind.) of Senator Borah's attitude, "elementary common sense requires that our navy be kept powerful enough to safeguard them. The time to emasculate the American fleet will come when our status on the high seas is so definitely fixed by international law that cold steel will never have to be invoked to protect it." Observing general debate on a naval race with England, the Star continues "Would not the genuine commencement of a 15-cruiser building program, even if later it had to be abandoned, be an object lesson hound to command British respect? Would it not incline London in the direction of that 'freedom of the seas' which Senator Borah justly espouses?"

"Borah's plain speaking about the necessity of our outbuilding England, if we cannot settle the sea-law issue," in the opinion of the New York Evening Post (Ind.), "showed the sincerity of his belief in adequate armament, but the 15 cruisers are merely 'catching up' with our minimum needs. We should have them as quickly as they can be built. Then we should go on and discuss the 'freedom of the seas.'"

* * *

With the additional cruisers, according to the Providence Bulletin (Ind.), "the United States will have not only an adequate guarantee of defense on the high seas, but will also be in an improved position when the next suggestion is made for another conference on the limitation of naval armaments." Maintaining that "progress and prosperity for nations are worth while only when founded on strength and enduring qualities," the Charlotte News (Dem.) remarks as to the protection offered by the Kellogg peace pact that "experience teaches that nations, like men, often stray from the paths of peace and good will."

In arguing for the existing need, the Chicago Daily Tribune (Rep.), says: "The United States is committed to nearly every policy which is dangerous for an unprotected country. Such attempts require a navy strong enough to command respect. It is not the navy which is provocative. It is the peaceable activity which enters the dangerously competitive field." The Manchester Union (Ind. Rep.), holds that "the proposed cruisers are needed on the score of reasonable preparation for the national defense, and that view has taken a firm hold on the public mind."

Agreement that "until there is a better understanding regarding the rights of nations upon the seas, the United States should not let its naval power decay" is indicated by the San Bernardino Sun (Rep.), and the Waterloo Tribune (Ind.) states that "our pacifiists are the only people in the world who think war is done for", with the added view: "They would have us impotent. Childlike faith!"

On the other hand the Charleston Evening Post (Ind. Dem.) contends: "It should not be necessary either to lay down the keels or even to authorize the designing of cruisers in order to impress the British with our determination to match them in maritime strength. If we need the cruisers we ought to build them and if we do not need them we ought not to consider even designing them."

"Desultory and rather bombastic debate" on the bill is seen by the Roanoke World-News (Ind. Dem.), with, however, the statements that it was "illuminated by Senator Borah's address" and that "with characteristic independence he announced his opposition to the plan of the Coolidge administration to spend more than a quarter of a billion of dollars on additional war vessels, until further efforts had been made to obtain international agreements that would make such ships unnecessary." The Louisville Courier-Journal (Ind.) thinks that "the efforts to reduce the number of 10,000-ton cruisers from 15 to 10 are decidedly opportune," and that "such a compromise would * * * offer a program less inconsistent with the Kellogg peace pact."

Charging the attempt by sponsors of the bill "to excite national suspicion and fear by trotting out the old spook of a powerful and undefined enemy," the Detroit News (Ind.) demands that they "be made to tell us exactly who this enemy is." The Great Falls Tribune (Dem.) contends that if the bill passes "they will have reduced the Kellogg anti-war treaty to the status of nothing more than a half-hearted gesture of good will."

"If we are going to continue to view the international problem of war as analogous to that of the early pioneer surrounded by lawless savages, then we are going to keep on having just that kind of a world," avers the Houston Chronicle (Dem.). The Lincoln State Journal (Ind. Rep.) emphasizes the cost of the new ships and comments: "With local expenses climbing, roads to be built, an expensive school system and a banking problem, the cruiser bill can scarcely arouse much enthusiasm in Nebraska."

In the course of an analysis of the Borah position, the New York Times (Ind.) states: "When he got down from generalities to details, he realized that there are and must be certain limitations on 'the freedom of the seas.' His strong assertion of neutral rights was qualified by the statement that the neutral flag should make neutral goods, "except when ships are carrying munitions of war or are attempting to run a blockade, which must not be a paper blockade.' There we come upon the very core of the difficulty. Neutrals must admit that they can be stopped by belligerent vessels for carrying contraband, but who is to define contraband?"

Statements in support of the need of the additional cruisers are made by a number of papers,including the San Antonio Express (Ind. Dem.), Philadelphia Record (Ind. Dem.), and South Bend Tribune (Ind. Rep.). The last mentioned finds assurance in the practical unanimity of the vote on the Kellogg treaty, and continues: "That is a plain fact which ought to be considered apart from the cruiser bill."

"The reasonableness and moderation of the cruiser bill are beyond question," asserts the New York Herald-Tribune (Rep.), while the Chicago Daiily News (Ind.), concludes: "Our arguments and sacrifices for a lighter burden of sea armaments having failed, we must build against a disquieting margin of insecurity. Our desire for fewer fighting ships remains. The next move in the right direction is not America's."

AUDITOR DOUBTS "HIGHER UPS" INVOLVED

Croggon Tells Legislative Group That He Went "To Bottom" In His Probe of Scandal

Annapolis, Feb. 13—Everyone suspected by him has been presented to the grand jury in connection with peculations from the State Roads Commission and his auditing investigation disclosed nothing that would lead him to believe any persons "higher up" than those already arrested are involved, C. C. Croggon, Baltimore partner of Haskins & Sells, today told the Legislature's grand inquest committe.

The examination of the commission's accounts by his firm "ran down right to the bottom" and the report which was predicated on this investigation and made public in December revealed all irregularities that exist, aside from the awarding of contracts, Mr. Croggon added.

In reply to a question from Speaker E. Brooke Lee as to whether he believed any persons "higher up" than those already arrested were involved in th epeculations, Mr. Croggon replied:

"I did not intend to go into rumors about men higher up. But if you get some one familiar with fraud to read our report, to look over the various itemized statements in it, they will he able to pick off at once the men involved.

A moment's study of that report will indicate who was in collusion and there is nobody involved any higher up than the boys who got the money."

Celebration Facts Given.

Speaker Lee presented to the committee data in expenditures for public celebrations, furnished by the State Roads Commission, as requested in a resolution adopted in the House several weeks ago.

This data showed expenditures of $200 for flowers, $150 for a publicity man and $2,215 for silver had been made in connection with the Crain Highway opening celebration. The bill for the flowers included five bunches of American Beauty roses at $30 each [illegible] the licensing and taxing of dogs in Garrett county and the appointment of four constables to collect this tax.

Another Garrett county measure would give the county road engineer of Garrett county the sole right to drain roads of the county and to provide penalties for unauthorized drainage.

WALTERS CASE UP AGAIN AT HAGERSTOWN, FEB. 25

Prohibition Officer H. R. Stotler's Slayer Gets New Trial

The new trial of Reginald E. Walters, charged with the murder of Hunter R. Stotler, prohibition agent, will open in the Hagerstown court on Monday, February 25. In all likelihood Judges Frank G. Wagaman and Albert A. Doub will preside.

Definite Agreement to try Walters in this county again was reached at a conference this morning between State's Attorney Harper Ballentine and Attorneys E. R. Roulette and A. S. Mason, who will appear for Walters.

Stotler, before his death, was chief of prohibition agents for Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties and was very well known around Oakland and vicinity, as he had been cleaning out many sections of the county.

Walters is alleged to have shot Stotler on a lonely mountain road near Boonsboro on the night of July 26, 1927. He was convicted of first degree murder by a jury at the following November term of court and sentenced to life imprisonment. An appeal was filed and recently the Court of Appeals granted him a new trial.

It is understood that Walters will again base his defense on alleged illicit relations between Stotler and Mrs. Walters. The State will again attempt to show that Walters sought Stotler's job as chief dry agent for the Cumberland area and framed the murder to make it appear as if they were ambushed by moonshiners.

When all the necessary tests have been passed they will be enrolled as Tenderfoot scouts. This will bring the total enrollment to 38.

Last Friday night the boys stood at attention and rededicated themselves to the principles of scouting and repeated the oath and law. This was part of a program performed by scouts all over the world. The boys were then guests of Bernard I. Gonder at the Maryland Theatre. Saturday the town was canvassed for old clothes for the needy, and these were turned over to Miss King, public health nurse, on Wednesday, for distribution where needed. The troop wishes to thank those who contributed.

Twenty-six of the boys turned out to morning church service at the Methodist church on Sunday. The remainder of the week was spent in doing good turns at home, on the street and in school. The nineteenth annual celebration will be brought to a close tonight.

Miss Ruth Newman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Newman, Oakland, who is attending the West Virginia Business college, Fairmont, made the highest record for the month in the typewriting department and was awarded an advanced certificate from the Royal Typewriter company for writing 75 words a minute for 15 minutes with only two errors.

Model Bakery Is Not Sold, Henry Lauer Says

"The rumor that the Oakland Model Bakery has been sold to Phillip Contic, employe of the Kingwood Baking company, is absolutely untrue and without foundation," Henry Lauer, proprietor, said this morning.

This statement was made in refutation of an announcement appearing last week in the Kingwood Preston County Journal that Mr. Contic would assume charge here on February 17.

"There were some negotiations in progress for the sale of the Bakery," Mr. Lauer said, "but Mr. Contic was unable to comply with the conditions of the proposed contract in any way. The rumor was started and gained headway when Mr. Contic visited a number of my customers and gave them to understand that the deal already had been closed."

HARRY STEWART IS BEING HELD ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Pleads Guilty to Charge Preferred by Second Wife—Had Married a Third One in 1925

Harry Waw Stewart, Cleveland, O., is being held in the county jail in default of $1,000 bond, fixed by E. I. West, justice of the peace, following a plea of guilty of the defendant on the charge of bigamy. The charge was brought by his second wife.

The defendant, a construction steel worker, of Cleveland, was married to Helen Rodgers, Friendsville, on January 10, 1925, the marriage records at the court house show, and at the time he already had two wives. Rev. D. M. Funk performed the ceremony, and Mr. Stewart's address was given as Douglas, Arizona.

The second wife, Mrs. Mary Stewart, Cleveland, knew nothing of this third marriage until recently and she immediately took steps to have him apprehended. The defendant was brought here by W. D. Casteel, sheriff, no requisition papers being necessary, Mr. Stewart having stated to authorities that he would come willingly.

When the plaintiff and defendant met in Justice West's office on Monday morning, they talked together like old friends, Mr. West stated. The plaintiff, however, wanted her husband punished for his act. When the record from the court house was displayed and the charge read the defendant was asked, "guilty or not guilty?" "Why, I am guilty, of course," he stated.

The bond was then fixed at $1,000, and in default of payment he was placed in the county jail until the June Term Grand Jury.

When only the State's attorney and the Justice remained in the office, Mr. Renninger said, "Did you ever see such geniality between the defendant and plaintiff on a case of this kind?" and Mr. West replied, "No, almost anybody else would have had to be separated to keep from scratching each other's eyes out."

The December term, 1926, Circuit Court for Garrett county, indicted and found guilty a Hugh Maxwell Stewart, on the same charge, and he was sentenced to serve four months in the county jail.

Presbyterians Continue to Hold Lead in Bowling Race

The standing of the leading teams in the Oakland bowling league remained practically unchanged after this week's play, the Presbyterians retaining first place and the Rotary Club and Merchants in tie for second place honors. The Presbyterians to date have won twelve games and lost three.

The Postoffice quint won three from the Methodists and the Rotary Club won three from Crellin during last Thursday night's play. The Postoffice also took two out of three from Crellin in a postponed match played the same night.

The Presbyterians took three from the Rotary Club on Monday furthering their hold on first place, while the Knights of Columbus-Postoffice match was postponed.

Tonight the Methodists and Crellin will meet in the first match and the Merchants and Lutherans in the final tilt of the evening.

Mr. Peter Bowser, of near Thayerville, spent Monday here on business.

CHILD WELFARE CLINICS TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

One at Loch Lynn, Tuesday, and One at Oakland on Thursday

Two child welfare clinics or conferences will be held in this county next week, Miss Rhesa M. King, county health nurse, announced yesterday.

The first will be held at Loch Lynn on Tuesday, February 19, in the Aid hall, and the second in Oakland on Tuesday, February 21, at the office of the health nurse in the Court house.

Dr. Charlotte Gardner, Cumberland, will have charge of the conferences. She will be assisted at Loch Lynn by members of the Mt. Lake-Loch Lynn Home Nursing class which Miss King has been instructing for the past ten weeks.

"The conferences will be for children up to seven years of age," Miss King stated, "and will be absolutely free. Children brought to these conferences will be given an examination and where necessary advice will be given the proper care and treatment."

These conferences have been held monthly as a general rule, but no meetings were held in December and January, due to illness in the community.

OAKLAND HIGH TO PLAY BIGGEST GAME OF SEASON

Will Meet Green Street High School, Cumberland, on Friday

The biggest game of the season as far as Oakland High school is concerned will be played tomorrow evening in Naylor's hall, Oakland, when the local quint meets Green Street High school, Cumberland.

The Green Street team has won thirteen consecutive games to date, and Oakland is hoping to end this. The support of the citizens is requested. There will be a preliminary game at 7:30.

Thomas High school nosed out the local high school team last Friday night, 23-21, after a hard fought contest. Sanders, Stemple and Graves were the scorers for Oakland, while Suder, Bissett and H. DeVore led the Thomas team. Oakland scored six field goals and nine fouls while Thomas scored eight field goals and seven fouls.

Oakland High, with a garrison finish last Saturday night, defeated the Lutherans, in one of the city league games, 28-25. The Lutherans led up until the last minute of play, but field goals by Sanders and Maroney gave the team a three point margin.

Fire Company Receives $50 Check From B. & O. R. R.

A check for $50 was received by the Oakland Volunteer Fire department from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company during the present week. This came in response to a letter to the railroad company explaining the local fire company's action when sparks from burning leaves, ignited by B. & O. trackmen, set fire to the home of Mrs. Mary Bussell, at Mt. Lake Park. The fire was beyond control of the B. & O. track employes when the roof of the building caught fire and the Oakland department called.

D. Armstrong, of Brooklyn.—New York Star.

TWO ARE INJURED BY HIT AND RUN DRIVER SUNDAY

Misses Molly and Missouri Hamill, Mt. Lake Park, Discovered Lying By Side of Road

Miss Molly Hamill was very seriously injured and her sister, Miss Missouri Hamill, was badly bruised when they were struck by an automobile at the top of Columbia hill, corner of Oakland avenue and G. street, Mt. Lake Park, Sunday evening about 7:30 o'clock, as they were on their way to attend church services. The driver of the car did not stop.

The two aged ladies were discovered lying at the side of the road by Lester Winters, high school youth, who summoned Mr. Ed. Friend and with the help of others, they were taken to their home at the foot of Columbia hill where Dr. H. W. McComas was called.

Miss Molly Hamill is suffering from severe cuts on the back of her head, and a broken rib. She was unconscious when found and it was feared at first that her injuries were fatal, but she is now resting as well as can be expected. Miss Missouri Hamill had no bones broken, but received painful scratches and bruises.

The two had left their home, according to Miss Mollie Hamill, and were on their way to atend the M. E. church. She remembers reaching the top of the hill and attempting to cross the street, but beyond that she cannot reeall anything. She is uncertain whether she fell or was hit by a passing automobile, but evidence points conclusively that her accident was the result of a hit-and-run driver. Hats, combs and other belongings were strewn along the road for a distance of 30 or more feet and a pair of Miss Hamill's glasses was found about fifty feet from where the two were picked up.

Those investigating were not sure whether the car came from the direction of Oakland or from the Mt. Lake railroad station. Either way, Mr. Friend said, would have resulted in striking Miss Molly Hamill on the left side, because the driver was headed in the direction of the M. E. church. An attempt is being made to find the driver of the car.

APPEARANCE OF "GUN TOTER" IN OAKLAND CAUSES CONSTERNATION, BUT IT'S FOR HIS OWN SAFETY

Strecker Operator, Near Swanton, Receives Threatening Blackhand Note

"Am I dreaming or is this Chicago?" Bill Gibson was heard to remark yesterday morning as a medium sized man passed his place of business with a holster strapped on the outside of his overcoat, and inside the holster a revolver. "Naw, somebody's let these Saturday night movies go to his head," remarked another. And still another, "If he just had chaps and a ten gallon hat he'd pass for a cowboy of the Bar None ranch."

None of these suggestions quite hit the spot. It was a fact that a man was totin' a gun but when somebody asked him what all the racket was about and why was he carrying a death messenger, he replied, "I'm after a few wildcats."

The whole story goes back to a few days ago when James Stickley, telegraph operator at Streckers, near Swanton, received a blackhand letter demanding, it is said, $1,000, or thereabouts.

Mr. Stickley is about 35 years of age and has been at Swanton two years. He is a World War veteran and evidently believes in preparedness for his appearance yesterday on the streets of Oakland is the same as it has been since receiving the threatening letter—that of being "ready on the firing line."

The threatening letter and all the necessary information have been turned over to the county authorities for investigation, it is said.

While the investigation is under way, the contents of the note are not being broadcast. But in the meantime Stickley will continue to carry his "unconcealed" weapon. In the eyes of the law, that is permissable if a man thinks his life is in danger.

Does the gasoline you buy have these qualities?

It should, if you are a careful buyer...

All gasoline (unless dyed) looks pretty much alike, but there are certain qualities that make one gasoline better than any other.

"Standard" Gasoline is the best "buy" on the market today, for "Standard" has these outstanding qualities:

Easy Starting—even in coldest weather.
Quick Acceleration—necessary in traffic.
Power, Steady and Reliable—for hill climbing and long, hard runs.
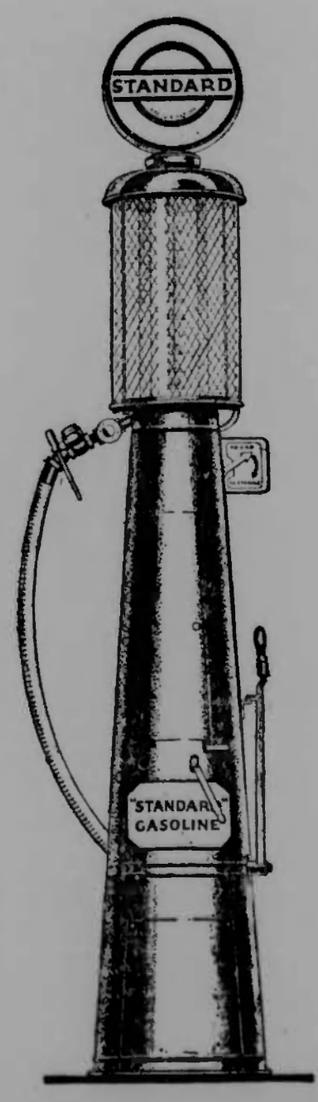
Mileage Efficiency—proved over and over by road tests in every type of car.
Safety to Motor—a fuel that cannot possibly injure your engine.
Complete Combustion—a fuel that burns cleanly, leaving practically no carbon, and burns completely, leaving no "loose ends" to seep down and dilute the motor oil in the crank ease.
Uniformity—you can set your carburetor on "Standard" and forget it, for every gallon is like every other gallon wherever you may buy it.
Availability—"Standard" Gasoline has the further advantage of being easily obtained, as our red "Standard" pumps are conveniently located throughout the length and breadth of this state.



The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has had 59 years of experience in refining petroleum. It has a staff of over 300 men engaged solely in research work for the betterment of its products.

So, you can safely depend on "Standard" Gasoline being kept at top quality. If new methods develop further improvements in gasoline, "Standard" will have them.

Buy "Standard," the dependable quality gasoline.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY

There is no truly "anti-knock" motor fuel being sold, except at a premium price. The best known "anti-knock" fuel is ESSO, the Giant Power Fuel. It is acknowledged by engineers to be in a class by itself—a genuine "anti-knock" fuel, specially made for use in high compression motors, and in motors that are carbonized from long usage. ESSO costs more to make, and has to be sold at a small premium over "Standard" Gasoline, but ESSO gives an extra engine performance never before experienced. On sale only at the Silver ESSO Pumps with the ESSO Globes

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer, Baltimore)

Criticize the Governor as one may, the observer who sees the whole thing is amazed not so much at what has been brought out as the result of a third term but by the fact that the Governor has been able to persuade such prominent men as George M. Shriver, J. J. Nelligan, and Jonathan K. Voshell to help wash his dirty linen. It is doubtful that any other Governor would have been able to get these men to come to his rescue, for it is to his rescue that they have come by undertaking to serve as an "advisory" committee and battle with Richard B. Tippett and his witnesses.

With the Legislative committee at Annapolis it is different. All those serving there as investigators, with the exception of the attorneys, are members of the Legislature and their service on a committee is merely the usual thing.

Of course it is too early to forecast the reports but judging by the tone of the first report of the Nelligan committee which praised the Roads Chairman and criticized the associate members of the Commission, nothing scathing or sensational may be expected.

There has been much comment on the attitude of Counsel Edwin G. Baetjer as reported in the papers. Some seem to think that he feels that as counsel to the committee he should act as a sort of buffer. And then there's Mr. Voshell who startled the spectators by innocently asking: "What's an outlaw contractor?" Everybody else except Mr. Voshell seemed to know very well what an outlaw contractor was—and as explained by Delegate Wilmer—a contractor who did not stand in with the powers that be or that were at the time.

The striking thing about events at Annapolis was the statement made on Tuesday by State's Attorney O'Conor. This was to the effect that some of the worst features of the roads scandal had not been ventilated, and that he was going ahead.

This was notice that the State's Attorney would not be hampered by advice or instructions from the Governor.

It is not yet forgotten that in the early days of the roads investigation the Governor frequently called the State's Attorney for consultation. I understand that the State's Attorney elected to go his own way regardless of the Governor's proffered advice.

Road Scandal Mixes
Political Situation.

The investigation of the roads scandal is bringing out so much stuff that the situation as regards the next nomination for Governor by the Democrats is becoming more and more confused and the same may be said in a way regarding the Republicans, now that one of Mayor Broening's friends and advisers seems to be mixed in.

Candidates who a year ago were feeling optimistic are now more or less in the dumps as they fear that if they are not themselves injured the chances of the party have been greatly lessened. Today the situation is even worse than it was in the closing days of the Frank Brown administration when there was actually no scandal at all, but the party was dominated by ruthless bossism that played fast and loose with candidates.

As I see it now there can be nothing like a line-up among the Democrats until the road scandal is through with, and this may be quite a time. The candidate who wants to get ahead will do well just now to lay in the tall grass, as the late Frank Kelly used to say. There is no telling who is to be splashed with the administration mud, now so plentiful.

Niggardly Rewards
For a Chief Booster

The Butler statement read at the Annapolis roads hearing on Wednesday by Wm. Purnell Hall, taken together with the explanation of former Roads Chairman Mackall and Chairman Harold E. West of the Public Service Commission in regard to alleged gifts, convinces me that the Ritchie administration was niggardly.

Butler says in substance that Mackall, as Roads Chairman, gave West, then the leading political writer on the Wet Blanket, a flivver and a truck. Mackall and West agree that the flivver was decrepit and that the sum of $75, current money, was paid therefor. They also agree that the truck was loaned, that it, too, was enfeebled and this enfeeblement was so serious that the truck remained on the West plantation for three years, being unable to leave by its own strength—and was finally taken away by a helper truck sent to its relief by the roads chairman.

I take it that Messrs. Mackall and West, being friends and agreeing with each other, are stating the facts, and that Butler, not having been able to watch both ends of the Roads Commission at the same time did not get all the necessary facts. That's that.

But let us look at it. There was Mr. West, one of the best writers as well as one of the best reporters the town has ever seen, being at the time mentioned not an acquisition but a holdover on the Wet Blanket from the palmy days of the Abells. Here was West as close to Ritchie as one pea is close to another in the same pod. Here was West riding to and from his Anne Arundel plantation in the Governor's State car on occasions when the Governor came to or left town at the right hour. Here was West pushed to the front to write laudatory stories about Ritchie in preparation for this second term campaign and in his second term campaign, taking the place for the time being of the regular hack political writer.

Here was West visiting the Roads Commission office frequently and always being kind to the chairman and his administration. Here he was toiling for the none too liberal Wet Blanket day by day and doing his best for Ritchie and Mackall at the same time.

And what does he get? He gets a limping flivver for $75 cash in hand and the loan of a motor truck which couldn't move unless it was pulled or pushed.

It reminds me of another political writer on the Wet Blanket who, likewise, did his darndest to help the Governor along politically by cooking up his stuff and then the Governor became so grateful that he gave this reporter a pair of gold cuff links with real gold in them.

Of course it is true that later along the Governor made Mr. West a member of the Public Service Commission and then promoted him to the chairmanship but this was not a reward for anything. This was because the Governor needed the West services where they could be the most effective.

But I contend that if the Wet Blanket reporter was to be let have a car for $75 it should have been at least a Fierce-Sparrow and the truck should have been one in good seaworthy condition. I think the Chairman of the Public Service Commission now has a good damage claim against the Roads Commission or against somebody.

Tippett Holds On Like a Bulldog

Of course, many grafters are barking at the heels of Richard B. Tippett because he insists on bringing out more of the details of the operations of the Governor's State roads machine in the effort to perpetuate the reign of the prevailing clique of politicians. They bark and bark. But Tippett holds on. He is not scared away from the main points and he insists on producing the goods. No wonder that those who profited by the Marlboro celebration do not undertake to give him a silver service for his pains.

Some of them wonder what Tippett is getting out of it, for grafters cannot understand how a man can be brought to do anything in the public or any interest without getting something good out of it.

As I see it the cold fact is that what Tippett is doing under great difficulties should have been done by the machinery of the State government which the Governor could have easily put in motion. He had command of the city detective force to make investigations but he did nothing. He had the State police but they did nothing.

Mr. Tippett will get no thanks from the Governor. Neither will Deputy State Auditor Dan Carroll. Nor will anyone else who helped to uncover the mess. And some editors who ought to lend a helping hand, devote their attention to the Panama canal to Russia and the situation in Afghanistan. There is a deal of house cleaning to be done in Maryland.

That Government Material
Still a Mystery

There is still much mystery about that $2,800,000 of road building equipment given to the Roads Commission by the Federal Government. The books giving the record have not been found. Maybe they have been lost. Maybe they have been loaned to a wet blanket reporter as were an automobile and a truck. The retired Roads Chairman Mr. Mackall, does not know what became of much of the stuff. Mr. Tippett uncovers a few truck loads handled as graft. But that is not a drop in the bucket.

Mr. Mackall says the stuff was turned over to the purchasing agent—now dead. It was only a trifle. It was merely $2,800,00. It was handed over to the purchasing agent to handle as he pleased and the chairman and the other members of the commission did not bother about it. Easy come, easy go.

Smoozing Graham
For Some Purpose

I see that the simpler section of the Wet Blanket is now smoozing City Comptroller R. Walter Graham and telling about how available he may be as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor in 1931. It made some people open their eyes, this extra kind mention of Mr. Graham who in the eyes of the independent, pious, wise and munificent editor of that publication was such an undesirable candidate in 1927 when he really was desirous of making the race. There is no explanation of this sudden change of front but as it was made in the political columns of the paper the sophisticated can easily guess what is up. Mr. Graham is no longer a Spring chicken and I take it that he can guess the puzzle without having to scratch his head violently.

To me the thing is very simple. But even should all this smoozing of Mr. Graham be sincere, what then? Suppose Mr. Graham took it seriously and undertook to be a candidate. What then? How could he prevent the Wet Blankets from indorsing him? And if he could not, then his gander would be cooked. For everyone knows that the Wet Blankets put the grand hoodoo on Billy Curran. They are now backing Ritchie to his grand finish. So I predict that Mr. Graham will avoid the Hellenic gift toters.

Latest Dry Bill
Goes Down In Defeat

Of course the wets and the near wets rejoice over the defeat of the dry enforcement bill in the House. So do the bootleggers who feared double jeopardy. And those who still back Governor Ritchie will rejoice that he does not have to decide whether to veto or not to veto, for had the bill been passed by the House it could hardly have been stopped in the Senate.

But it must be remembered that the Legislature now sitting cannot be fairly considered representative of the present day sentiment. Nearly all the members were elected more than two years ago. The fact that members of the House now hold over and no longer closely represent the people is due to the fewer elections amendment and the way it was framed. A fewer elections proposition could have been adopted with elections only every two years and the election of a full House of Delegates every 2 years could have been retained. But the bosses of the then dominant party cold not see it that way because under the plan of a legislative election every two years it would have been necessary to elect one house at the same time that the State voted for a President. And Maryland now inclines toward the Republican ticket in national elections.

More Dirty Linen
in Hill-Palmisano Case

The Hill-Palmisano contested election case drags along with some spicy testimony coming out showing how things were done down in the Third Ward where Congresman Palmisano lives, moves and has his personal and political being. The evidence brought out shows beyond question that some queer things were done and it must have been annoying to have all this stuff come out. Also it must have proven more than annoying to Billy Curran who is close to Palmisano and who has been his political sponsor.

Most annoying, no doubt, was the testimony that Palmisano's own brother-in-law living in Hagerstown, who was down on the books as having voted in the Third ward last November, did not leave Hagerstown on that day.

If Palmisano loses his seat—or rather, does not get it—a big crimp will be put in the Curran leadership in East Baltimore.

Governor Destroyed
As a Political Figure

There is no difference of opinion among the more intelligent electorate regarding the future of Governor Ritchie. There are, of course, some die hards who still hope he can come back but the well informed all now admit that he is done for—that he dug his own political grave by his dillydallying policy in regards to the roads scandal.

When he first learned of it—late as that surely was—it is urged that he should have made a clean sweep of the Roads Commission and opened the doors to the facts instead of trying to pussyfoot it all until after the State election. The excuse that the Governor gives for his delays do not go down with the public and there is no longer a defense for him. So complete has been the Governor's political downfall that even his enemies are beginning to express sorrow for his plight.

Despite all this it is evident that the Governor still clings to a hope that he can come back and hold on to his office for four more years. Perhaps that delusion is due to the assurance of a few office holders who know they will be out in the cold after the departure of Ritchie from Annapolis.

Anti-Betting Bill
To Be Battered Around

An anti-race track bill has appeared at Annapolis and I suppose it will be a subject of short discussion. The current Legislature, I take it, having been elected with Governor Ritchie's 60,000 majority, is pro-race track to a considerable degree. By race track I mean betting on the ponies and losing your money.

I see nobody capable of pushing the bill anywhere. So I take it that with the administration forces against it and the newspapers also, it will get nowhere. It may be different two years hence now that the champion of the tracks, Governor Ritchie, is on the toboggan.

Further if a bill could be passed at this session the Governor would certainly feel bound to veto it. He owes his political life largely to the race tracks. It was due to his promise to help along all State-aid pari-mutuel bill that brought the race track support in 1919 and got him over by a narrow margin.

G. O. P. Drys Suggested
For the Governorship

Suggested for the G. O. P. nomination for the Governorship next year if the drys have control of tthe situation are U. S. District Attorney Woodcock and ex-Senator David A. Robb, the latter of Allegany. Some think that Mr. Robb will not want to go through the worry and annoyances of a campaign. Mr. Woodcock is held in high regard by the drys as well as by others. His record as a prosecuting officer is good and I am told that at the Department in Washington he is rated as one of the best in the United States. Which is saying a great deal.

There are some who suggest that Mr Robb should become the candidate for Attorney General.

Coad Would Prohibit
The Second Term

Comes Senator Coad to the front with a proposed constitutional amendment to prevent a Governor from succeeding himself in office. The measure is a good one, I think, now that the State's unwritten law has been twice overridden at the behest of an aspiring politician with the aid of a vast machine. The Senator from St. Mary's points out that his amendment could not be adopted by the voters in time to prevent Governor Ritchie from getting a fourth term. But the Senator need not worry about that.

The GREATER HUDSON

and Motordom calls for LARGEST HUDSON output of all time

Already in response to the public's demand, production of the Greater Hudson has been increased, and then increased again — by far the largest schedule Hudson ever found necessary.

In their own words, by their marked and recorded ballots, motorists by tens of thousands are telling us the Greater Hudson is truly the greatest of all time.

Voting in every Hudson salesroom in the country, these enthusiastic multitudes have piled up the most convincing endorsement in Hudson history. Perhaps even more important, they have bought these beautiful new Hudsons in such numbers that we must make thousands more of them to insure prompt delivery.

Every experience and suggestion of the world's largest 6-cylinder ownership is incorporated in the 64 improvements of the Greater Hudson.

As co-authors of these creations the 1,000,000 Super-Six owners are naturally first to want to see, inspect and drive them. It is particularly interesting to observe their special satisfaction in the numerous body improvements. In comment, these important developments in body design and appointment, fully equal the more dramatic qualities of the more than 80-mile-an-hour performance.

They definitely set Hudson apart from like-priced cars, just as Hudson performance stands alone among all cars.

Come, see and drive the Greater Hudson. We believe one ride will make it the car of your choice.

A NEW ERA IN POLITICS

One of the strong arguments in support of Hoover's candidacy last year was that he was engineer-minded rather than politically-minded. Back of this was probably the thought that what this country—the entire world, for that matter—needs during the coming years is not a petty job of political tinkering hut a big job of social, financial and industrial engineering.

Those who feel that way about the nation's needs will find some hope in the story from Washington to the effect that President-elect Hoover will inaugurate in his administration "a big scale engineering era which will bear fruit in mammoth constructive projects for inland waterway development, flood control, electric power development, irrigation and related purposes."

There is opportunity for vast improvement in reconstruction of our political practices and the relation of government to business. Some light will be thrown on what is ahead of us when the members of the Cabinet are made known and the first message to Congress becomes public.

Hoover's difficulty will not be lack of vision or constructive purpose on his part but rather in adjusting relations with a habit-bound and politically-minded legislative branch of government, most members of which are already thinking about the new administration in terms of jobs for politicians who are key men in the party organization. And no President can ignore practical politics when he has to work with a Congress made up of practical politicians in order to carry out his administrative policies. So he has not only to find competent men who are satisfactory to members of Congress, especially Senators, and to influential members of the party organization and others who helped win the election.

Every President enters the White House deeply in debt—politically. But there is also the greater debt to his country. Often it is difficult to pay both debts. As a practical man, as an engineer who wants to carry out his plans, Hoover will attempt to adjust relations with Congress. There will be compromises, of course. Sometimes that's the only way to accomplish anything at all. The clash comes when a determined President reaches a point beyond which his public obligation and his self-respect will not permit him to go. Then the only alternative is to go over the heads of the politicians and appeal to the public.

Like Cleveland, Roosevelt and Wilson, Hoover has a mind of his own. In inaugurating an engineering era government and in dealing with old habits of political thought his difficulties will be increased, but there is hope in the fact that the new, scientific and engineering era of business itself will make it easier to mobilize enlightened public sentiment back of a determined President every time he is right.

Business government is making more rapid strides in evolution and progress than political government. There are new concepts of the right relation between capital and labor, with new ideas about the dependence of prosperity on its wider diffusion. With this kind of economic pressure on the old politics it may well be that is entering upon an engineering era in government we are entering as well upon a new era in politics.

If that's what Hoover's new era means, more power to him!

Possible Explosion Prevented

What might have resulted in a gas explosion was avoided one day last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stevenson, of Mt. Lake Park, when R. R. Gilbert, manager of the local office of the C. & A. Gas company, responded to a telephone call and cut off the pressure.

To keep himself from falling from a high chair, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson took hold of an overhanging gas light. The pipe broke at the ceiling, allowing a quantity of gas to escape. As there was a coal fire in the other room, Mr. Gilbert was called. He directed that the outside doors he opened and in a few minutes he arrived and repaired the break. Mrs. Stevenson stated that in her excitement she couldn't find where to turn off the gas.

Dead From Poisoning

Miss Leota Gnagey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gnagey, of Port Allegany, Pa., met a tragic death in St. John's Hospital, Pittsburgh, where she was in training as a nurse. She died from the effects of poison tablets taken in mistake for aspirin. Immediately after taking the tablets, Miss Gnagey realized they were not aspirin. Looking at the bottle again, she found that she had taken mercurial tablets. She notified the authorities in charge and the doctors started working immediately, and everything possible was done to save her life, but their efforts were of no avail.

Miss Gnagey spent most of her life in Port Allegany, attending the public schools there and upon the completion of her junior year in high school was admitted to St. John's Training School for Nurses in Pittsburgh, from which institution she would have graduated next June. In addition to her hospital training she took a special course in Duquesne University.

Miss Gnagey had the commendation of the entire force of the hospital for her very efficient service, pleasing personality and splendid character. She was beloved by all with whom she came in contact. She was twenty-one years of age and is survived by her parents and the following named sisters and brothers: Mrs. Catherine Besser, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Genevieve Mellinger, Bradford; Elmer Gnagey, Warren, and Harry Gnagey, Jr., of Port Allegany.

Taking a Rest

Since Lincoln's birthday was on Tuesday, Washington's on the 22nd, Scoop's on Thursday, the 14th, the groundhog's on the 2nd and all other great specimens of humanity sometime during this month; and since the boss editor has notified Scoop that there isn't much room this week, he has decided to declare a holiday by not thinking this week.

* * *

Which Side is This Side?

Scoop does want to know which side of the Postoffice is "this side," as was stated in last week's edition of our worthy competitor aeross the way when he said a man "fell on this side of the postoffice." What if Berne Teter read that at his home on Alder street?

Big Game Trapper

The crocheted pitchfork goes to Lester Bittinger as the champion big game hunter. He saw bear tracks about two miles from Oakland, placed some honey in a barrel that had nails driven into it from all sides and angles, and when he went to look for his prey, rumor hath it that he found a dead ground mole—anyway, that's what Col. Bell says.

The passing of Lincoln's birthday reminds us that the oratorical contest did not uncover any local ability much greater than his.

To My Valentine

Bill Gibson and Carlton McComas exchanged valentines this morning just as an incentive to revive the old, old custom of sentiment and sentimentality. Whether this will have any effect on the world during the next ten years remains to be seen. They both presented themselves to Scoop at different times, demanding publication of the messages and requesting apologies from each other. Now is it any wonder they want satisfaction?

What "Bill" Received

"You hammer the piano 'till it fairly groans and cries; why not get an anvil if you want exercise? To my Valentine."

Carlton's Revelation

"When they gave you your position, as a third rate counter clerk; they made a good selection, all other jobs mean work."

They didn't have any words before they fell out.

MT. LAKE PARK.

DO WE WANT SKIM MILK?

The United States is at peace with all the world. And yet the Congress has just authorized the expenditure of a great sum of money for the building of many cruisers, work to be begun at once.

All the leading nations are perfecting defensive armament, including ships of the air as well as of the sea.

Formulae for the manufacture of destructive gasses are held in readiness in the secret archives of the several governments. Why?

Since the civilized nations are at peace with each other, what is the reason for so much activity in the direction of war?

The answer is obvious: "In time of peace, prepare for war!"

What is true internationally in governmental affairs applies to individuals, municipalities and states. Business is highly competitive, and the person or municipality failing to take stock of the present and prepare for the future can be likened unto the man that builded his house upon the sands.

He is not ready for business when it arrives.

Now, what place has all this in a column in The Republican devoted to the news happenings and other matters pertaining to Mountain Lake Park?

Simply this: At this time of the year when leisure is the thing we have the most of in this community, we should do some concrete thinking and planning how best we can prepare for the influx of visitors we have the right to expect to visit this mountain top this coming summer.

Now is the beginning of the New Year for Mountain Lake Park—the time for mass resolutions, for the citizens to determine whether a start shall be made to make this the Resort Desirable or whether we are content to stand by and permit other communities which are bidding for the summer trade to skim the cream.

Numerous bills are being introduced in the State Legislature asking for aid so that the several municipalities can improve their water systems, their paving, their sewerage. All this not alone for their own comfort and convenience, but that the visitor within their gates may be attracted by these improvements and be induced to come again.

Nature has done its part—has provided us with a setting unsurpassed in beauty, in healthful climate and abundant pure water. It would seem that it is up to us to take advantage of the opportunity which is ours.

Combined Ages of Three Sisters 295 Years.

Miss Ellen Harn, who lives in Kenesaw, Nebraska, celebrated her one hundredth birthday recently when the whole community turned out en masse to do her honor.

This event is of unusual interest to the people of Mountain Lake Park, as Miss Harn is a sister of Mrs. Margaret Jane Grove, who will be 97 years of age next April. She is the mother of Mrs. M. C. Clayton, of the Park and is spending the winter with another daughter, Mrs. Charles E. Manley, in Fairmont. The other surviving sister is Mrs. Corilla Shearer, 98 years of age, who is spending the winter at the Park with her niece, Mrs. Clayton.

The three sisters have always been devoted and are rounding out their long lives marked with many beautiful deeds, quite happily.

The newspapers of Kenesaw gave glowing accounts of the celebration in honor of Miss Harn. It was held in the Methodist Hall between the hours of two and four o'clock on the afternoon of January 18. The hall was beautifully decorated and Miss Harn, in a comfortable, easy chair, received the congratulations of practically the whole town. She seemed especially interested in the four hundred school children who passed in review, singing "America, the Beautiful," and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Miss Harn was born in the State of Maryland and spent forty years of her life in teaching school in this State, in Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Massachusetts, Ohio, West Virginia and Nebraska.

Upon the occasion of her century anniversary she received radio and other messages of congratulation from California, Colorado, Kansas, South Dakota, Maryland and West Virginia.

At the reception a sextette composed of ladies sang "Maryland, My Maryland.' in honor of her native State, and "Those Evening Bells" to indicate the beauty of her declining years. A birthday cake surmounted by one hundred candles graced the center of the banquet table.

Miss Harn now resides on a small farm adjoining the town of Kenesaw. She planted every tree and shrub on the place and attended them with care. One of her most cherished possessions is a gorgeous lilac which, when a small plant, was taken from Miss Harn's ancestral home in Frederick county, Maryland, and transplanted in Nebraska soil.

Mrs. E. C. Foache's class of the U. B. Sunday school, entertained their mothers at the Aid Hall Friday evening. A very pleasing program was rendered, after which refreshments were served.

Dick, the son of Mr. Charles E. Hardesty, is the proud possessor of a new pony.

Work on the new basement of the M. E. church has progressed so far that services were held last Sunday and will be held at the usual hour this coming Sunday.

Mr. Ernest Moon, of Pierce, West Va., was visiting his mother and brother last Sunday.

The Misses Hamill, who were injured last Sunday evening, supposedly by a hit and run driver, are on their way to recovery.

No doubt his parents will be pleasantly surprised to know that Mr. Elmus Ream, a student at Bridgewater College, Virginia, seems to be on the honor roll of the school. We learn that his grades this past semester were from "good" to "very high," meaning that he made from 85 to 96 in all his studies. He was also elected vice-president of the literary society of the college.

We are also pleased to note from a Charleston, West Va., paper that Dr. Luther Nine, a native of Garrett county, from near Underwood, is in charge of the First U. B. church of Charleston, and that he had 1500 in his congregation last Sunday.

A citizens' meeting will be held at the Loch Lynn Council Chamber on Monday evening, February 18, for the purpose of nominating the officers of the town for the coming year. Let every qualified voter be present.

Inquiries are beginning to come in for cottages for the coming season. Negotiations are also pending for the purchase of lots.

CONSTANTLY STRIVING FOR IMPROVEMENT IN YOUR SERVICE

In the last year or so the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company has spent thousands of dollars for greater reliability and improvement of the several services it undertakes to render. In only a few instances did these improvements mean an increase in revenue.

This is one type of service for which the public utility receives little credit as it functions ordinarily so satisfactorily the people little realize the efforts put forth and expenditures made for further improvement.

We welcome suggestions regarding our business for only in this manner can we be certain how we are performing our task.

AVERAGE MARYLANDER LIVES BEYOND ALLOTMENT

Have A Good Chance of Living To Ripe Old Ages.

That Marylanders have a good chance to round out and exceed the scriptural allotment of three score years and ten is indicated by the records of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, which show that over half of the deaths in the counties in 1928 occurred in the two most widely separated age groups, the oldest and the youngest citizens. Of the total of 9,777 deaths reported in the counties (Baltimore City deaths are not included in this total), 5,026 occurred in those two age groups. Of the 5,026, there were 3,789 among adults of 65 years and older, and 1,237 among babies under a year old. Half of the deaths of the youngest citizens—619—occurred among babies less than a month old.

The 3,789 deaths among persons 65 years old or older, constituted the largest number in any age group. Over one-fifth—2,182—occurred in the group from 45 to 64 years old; the next largest number—1,873—being recorded in the group from 15 to 44 years old. The smallest number of deaths in any age group was 308 among the girls and boys from 5 to 14 years old.

Analyzing the totals, Dr. John Collinson, Chief of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, said that of the total, 9,777 deaths, 7,412 occurred in the white population and 2,356 in the colored. The death rate in each group—that is the proportion of deaths to each one thousand of the population—was 12 per thousand for white and colored together; 11 per thousand for the white population separately and 20 for the colored population.

"Heart disease," Dr. Collinson continued, "with 1,699 deaths—1,026 of which occurred in the group of persons 65 years old and older—was the leading cause of death in both white and colored populations. There were 1,365 deaths in the white population at all ages from that cause, and 333 in the colored. Chronic Bright's disease, with 1,095 deaths, 857 white and 238 colored, had second place; apoplexy with 821 deaths, 686 white and 238 colored, was third; tuberculosis, with 797 deaths, 495 white and 301 colored, was fourth; the pneumonias—brocho and lobar—with a total of 719 deaths, 515 white and 204 colored, came next, and cancer with 701 deaths, 613 white and 88 colored, had sixth place.

"There were 289 deaths from diarrhea and enteritis among children under two years old; a total of 143 at all ages from diabetes; 153 from influenza; 52 from typhoid fever; 15 from infantile paralysis, and 168 lost their lives in automobile accidents. June with 684 deaths had the smallest number reported in any one month, and March with 969 deaths, the largest number."

"Not in business for his health"

YOU hear that expression so often that you're apt to enter all stores with the idea of being on your guard against overcharges.

That's bad. If the man you deal with is that sort, you try to find another; usually you do. He loses in the end.

Your interests come first here. You get the kind of material you want; always at a fair price. We look first at what you get from a sale; what we get comes second. Nothing queer about it; we simply recognize that your confidence in us will take care of what we get out of it.

Our Certain-teed Grey Open Edge Gypsum Board is without doubt the best plaster board you could secure either for an entirely new house or for recovering old walls or turning the attic into a bright and cheery room. Get our prices before you buy. They are surprisingly low.

There are many reasons for the ease of steering the new Ford

THE new Ford is exceptionally easy to steer because of the well-proportioned weight of the car, the steel-spoke wheels, the co-ordinated design of springs and shock absorbers, the size and design of the steering wheel, and the simple mechanical construction of the steering gear.

The Ford steering gear is of the worm and sector type used on high-priced cars and is three-quarter irreversible.

In simple, non-technical language, this means that the car responds easily and quickly to the steering wheel, yet there is no danger of the wheel being jerked from the hands of the driver by ruts or bumps in the road. A light touch guides the car, yet you always have that necessary feel-of-the-road so essential to good driving.

Strength of materials and careful workmanship give unusual stability to the Ford steering gear and housing.

The steering worm, for instance, is splined to the steering worm shaft and is stronger, of course, than if a single key were used to hold the shaft and worm together. The steering worm sector is forged and machined in the same piece with its shaft.

The housing of the steering gear mechanism is made of three steel forgings, electrically welded together. This housing is then electrically welded to the steering column. Such a one-piece steel unit is naturally much sturdier than if several parts were used and bolted or riveted together.

Throughout, the new Ford steering mechanism is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no attention.

The only thing for you to do is to have the front steering spindles, spindle connecting rods, and drag link lubricated every 500 miles and the steering gear lubricated every 2000 miles.

For this work, you will find it best to consult the Ford dealer. He has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

McRobie, as one of their heirs at law, and the undivided one-half interest in and to the parcel of twenty-five acres of "Bank Territory," mentioned and described in paragraph one of this bill and "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 1," the said Thomas R. McRobie, departed this life, intestate, on the 30th day of October, 1928, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law his two daughters as set forth in paragraph three of the bill; that said real estate is not susceptible of partition in kind without material loss and injury to the parties entitled to interests therein, and in order to make a division of said interests it will be necessary that said real estate be sold and the proceeds thereof distributed according to law; that it would be for the benefit and advantage of the parties to this cause that the said real estate be sold and the proceeds thereof, so far as the interests of said infants are concerned, be invested in some more productive fund and the balance distributed to the other plaintiffs and defendants; that the said Joseph Bonnelli, Anna Cox and Bonner Cox are residents of Garrett County; Lulu McRobie, William A. McRobie, Edith Fay McRobie and Esther Louise McRobie reside in the State of Pennsylvania, and the place of residence of the remaining defendants, Agnes Bonnelli, Lena McRobie, James McRobie, Russell McRobie, Nettie Daniels, Joseph Daniels and Clyde McRobie is to your complainants unknown.

The bill then prays for a decree for the sale of the real estate and for the distribution of the proceeds therefrom, for general relief, for the writ of subpoena against the resident defendants and the order of publication against the non-resident defendants.

It is thereupon, this 13th day of February, 1929, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive week before the 16th day of March, 1929, give notice to the said absent defendants, Lulu McRobie, Agnes Bonnelli, Nettie Daniels, Joseph Daniels and Clyde McRobie, adult non-resident defendants, and William A. McRobie, Edith Fay McRobie, Esther Louise McRobie, Lena McRobie, James McRobie and Russell McRobie, infant non-resident defendants, of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor on or before the 1st day of April next, or they may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title and interest in and to the property mentioned in this bill.

LOCATE ELECTRIC SAW MILL NEAR GRANTSVILLE

Back Creek Lumber Company to Operate Large Industry at Little Crossings, Is Report

The Back Creek Lumber Co., composed of Uniontown capitalists, has completed plans for the location of a large sawmill along the Jennings railroad near the point where it intersects with the National Highway, one-half mile east of Grantsville.

The operations, according to plans, will be the most extensive that have been conducted in this vicinity for many years. A large modern mill will be set along the railroad tracks just a few hundred yards south of the highway. It will be equipped with electric motors and electricity will constitute the entire supply of power at the mill. This will be the first electrically operated sawmill in this vicinity.

Logs from thirty miles around will be brought in by truck and rail. It is estimated that it will require at least eight years to manufacture all the available raw material.

The establishment of this operation at Grantsville will put a lot of money into local circulation for a period of years, and will be a great boon to the business interests not only of the town of Grantsville, but of Salisbury and Meyersdale as well.

A lot of farmers and other land owners with saw timber on their lands, within a radius of 25 miles of the mill, will derive a nice revenue from their timber, while a large number of loggers and millmen will have steady employment at good wages, all of which will benefit the entire business communities of Grantsville and neighboring towns.

Messrs. Bailey and Schmittle, two experie lumbermen of Uniontown be the principals in the Back Creek I ne name under Garrett county high schools stood nineteenth in the State with a percentage at 91.0. At this time last year the attendance was 92.2 percent, but this year's figures for December are below the average for all high schools, which was placed at 92.2. The four counties below Garrett county in high school attendance were Caroline, Charles, Washington and Kent.

TWO MEN FOUND GUILTY OF DISTURBING WORSHIP

George and Lewis Fazenbaker Each Fined $25 and Costs—Other Arrests During Week

Two brothers, George and Lewis Fazenbaker, of near Bittinger, were found guilty of disturbing a religious meeting by Justice W. A. Gonder yesterday afternoon and a fine of $25 and costs for each of the men was the verdict of the court. They were lodged in the county jail until the fine is paid or until they have served a period in prison.

The disturbance of the meeting in progress in a school house near Bittinger occurred on November 19, 1927, but the men were not arrested until last Saturday and Sunday, both of them having been successful in evading the officers when they went to serve the warrants charging them with the offense. George Fazenbaker was caught on Saturday and his brother Lewis on Sanday while both were asleep at their home. Deputy Sheriff Griffith and Constable Andrew Shartzer made the arrests.

At the trial the evidence tended to show that most of the disturbance occurred outside the building when one of the men is alleged to have endeavored to fight Albert Hetrick, a constable of the district, who had arrested him sometime prior to that date, but no charge was preferred against them on this account.

Both the Fazenbakers are said to have received House of Correction sentences several years ago.

Jacob and Frank Bolyard, of Steiding, were arrested Saturday, charged with assault and battery. Jacob, the son of Frank, has given bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance at a preliminary hearing to be accorded him later.

HER VISIT TO ALBERT'S MOTHER

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

AS THE rusty, mud-splashed old car climbed farther and farther up the hill road, Marietta Wells looked wonderingly at the young man beside her. He had never told her enough about his home to lead her to expect anything like this approach to it.

Jolting greatly, the car panted up sharp inclines, reeled down abrupt descents, toppled about amazing curves where the brilliant autumn foliage flirted against Marietta's warm young cheeks. She hung to the cover braces and pressed down her feet hard in order to keep her place. Her hair shook down, her hat jarred loose. Her head threatened to roll from her neck. But she laughed through her pretty white teeth.

Albert Page did not laugh. He was having all he could do to steer the old car to its destination. His handsome face was one brilliant glow, and his blue eyes had the large pupilled look that comes from mental as well as physical strain.

Suddenly they came out of the woods, and Marietta heard her lover give a sigh of relief as he quickened speed along a fairly level stretch of road. One more steep turn and they paused before a house.

It was a farmhouse, low, weather-worn, ugly, the kind of house that is all utility, that is made for the purpose of shelter, and steps when it has performed that service. A few geraniums, which the frost had nipped, stuck in the narrow dooryard. A white hen which was roaming about picked at the dry stalks. A dog lay asleep on the drooping porch and a cat, sitting on the window sill within, looked out at the arrivals.

Albert sprang out on his side and Marietta followed from her side of the car. Her young limbs felt cramped and still vibratory.

At that instant a woman came out of a small tumble-down woodshed with an armful of wood. She was small, hump-backed and at first Marietta could not see much of her face because it was concealed by an old gray sunbonnet.

"Here's mother!" Albert exclaimed.

The woman dropped the wood and pushed back the sunbonnet. Her eyes went from her son's face to the face of the girl whom he had brought home. She held out her hand.

"I expect this is Marietta," she said.

"Yes," Marietta flushed. She had worked all her life, but she noticed that Albert's mother's hand was as hard as leather.

acridity in the woman's voice. "It ain't like what my father's farm was, either." She left her chair and coming to the window, stood looking part of the time from the window, part of the time at the wondering face of the young girl. "I married Jonas Page and come here to live the winter I was eighteen. We were so much in love that we couldn't wait any longer for each other. He said we'd stay with the old folks that winter, but in the spring we'd go by ourselves. But in February his father had a stroke—" She moved her hard hands. "We've been here ever since."

Marietta made a half sound.

"You see, you can't ever tell what's going to happen," Mrs. Page went on. "But I've always said that no other woman should go through with what I have here in this place. The place, the whole of life, ain't worth it. You love my boy, but love won't stay by you long once you get here. Don't I know? And then—" again that strange movement—"Albert is one of the easy kind, like his father. He ain't got no git-up-and git to him. I did have, before I lost it. You look as if you had, too. But you'll lose it, too, like I did, once you get set down here in this stone patch."

Suddenly she grew vehement.

"Stones! I hate 'em. But sometime I s'pose they'll bury me under 'em. I don't care how soon. But don't do as I did. Don't you let Albert do as his pa did. Save yourself first, and save Albert if you can. But save yourself anyway. There's my words to you."

She became silent, staring out of the window with fading eyes. Marietta looked at her. All the girl's young imagination was kindled by the picture of that other girl who was now this dreary woman, old before her time. So must she become if she did what Albert wanted her to. She saw a repetition of this woman's tragedy impending in her own life. Love would go—that intangible, priceless thing hope would go, courage, all the good things that set her aflame now. She would grow gray, sodden—and at last be buried under stones.

She leaned forward and took one of Mrs. Page's hands.

"Look at me!" she commanded. Then passionately. "I believe I'm going to be strong enough to save Albert, you, all of us. He's got to make me a home of his own if he wants to marry. He'll do it," confidently, "and then together we'll get you and his father away from here. You shall have a—a sunset at least."

The old woman who was Albert's mother looked down into the face of the girl who was Albert's sweetheart. Her tired face began slightly to glow.

"You'll do it?" she gasped.

Marietta flung up her head.

"Sure, I'll do it!" she cried.

27,000 KILLED!

Twenty-seven thousand people were killed by autos in the United States during the year just closed. These deaths occurred in more than 800,000 auto accidents.

It is estimated that the economic cost will run close to $850,000,000.

The National Safetly Council points out that the economic cost, staggering as it is, after all is the least important factor.

The real cost lies in human suffering, misery, broken homes and broken hearts. Such costs are immeasurable.

Grief and suffering will carry on long after cash costs have been fully paid and receipted for. Tragedy cuts deep into the human heart. Time may—or may not—heal the wounds.

Those who live to regret and mourn are the victims, too. Their burden is made even heavier with the knowledge that carelessness is responsible for most automobile calamities.

Until the American people awaken to a sense of individual responsibility in this most vital national problem, there can be no real reduction in this ever enlarging death list.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

There seems to be much confusion in the public mind about the State roads case. I would be glad to pass up this tiresome subject and give my readers something new but from day to day some daily papers are giving their readers the impression that the investigation is about to peter out and that there is nothing or little more to be developed, while at Annapolis Speaker Brooke Lee seems to be doing his best to discredit or silence those who are bold enough to point out the derelictions of the Ritchie understrappers.

Last week State's Attorney O'Conor appeared before the Lee committee and said he would lay before the Grand Jury information from which that body may conclude that many contracts have been "illegally and criminally handled."

This is strong language and if it is backed up by testimony will upset Brooke Lee's apologetic contention that no higher-up is involved. Higher-ups could not award contracts even though the Roads Commission was loosely administered.

So all this apparent effort of some of the "investigators" to do some whitewashing before the Grand Jury has received the information in the hands of Mr. O'Conor is mere buncombe. It is handed for political purposes and for the benefit of men who have had their hands directly or indirectly in the State Treasury and do not want to surrender their privilege.

Hullabaloo Report Is Dragged Out at Last

As a result of the strenuous efforts of Delegate Cobourn the report of the State Roads Commission on the wasting of public funds celebrations is coming out in sections.

At Marlboro, where the biggest celebration was held to boost the Governor's Presidential candidacy, those in charge were liberal. The Governor by his own admission had authorized the expenditure of $16,000. But somehow they got so enthusiastic they did not stop at that figure. They went up to $19,000 but there is nothing to tell what the Governor is going to do about the overrunning of his okay. The fact probably is that the Governor just told them to go ahead and does not actually know what he really authorized them to do.

So they went ahead and they bough sandwiches, wrist watches, orchids, $4,000 worth of programs with a fine laudatory sketch of the Governor written by Dr. Frank R. Kent, boosts for Messrs. Magruder, Mackall and Thomas, toy balloonse, grub for the soldiers, advertising in the Wet Blanket et al, flags, $112 worth of photographs, coffee pots, folding clocks, tea pots, sugar dishes, military brushes, silver bowls, silver flower baskets, silver pitcher and tray, silver waiter, special silver bowl and waiter, and many other articles too numerous to mention.

It was a great day at Marlboro, apparently, some $12,000 greater to the taxpayers than the day the same group opened the Severn River bridge with the same sort of hullabaloo. The great and the near great had been invited by personal card from the Governor. The program alone, it appears, cost no less than $4,000.

No taxpayer can look at the reports submitted without realizing that the State administration was really going some. It was the heyday of the Ritchie regime and there was apparently no thought of the fall that was eventually to come. In those days citizens who suggested the putting on of brakes were laughed at.

Committee May Hold On Indefinitely

Judging by the little the Legislative Committee has done in the roads ındal with half the life of the Legıture already past, that body may g on all Summer if it can be al- d to sit when there is no Legise. Thus it might be used hy the eal bosses who created it to the tongues of those who have alking about what really hap- It might be used as a factor year's State campaign which dy in the making with most would-be candidates shaking boots.

Brooke Lee's Committee Has a Job Cut Out

Since the verbal assault on Witness Butler before the Governor's own committee in Baltimore last week by LawyerBaetjer the public has seemingly lost much of its interest in the doings of that hody. On Tuesday the session was held in the chamber of the Supreme Bench and not enough persons were interested to fill the seats in this small room. The impression had gotten around that this was a sort of administration defense proceeding so engineered as to bring out nothing damaging against any higherups. On top of this was a report going the round to the effect that the Governor had been visiting one of the members of the committee at night.

So public eyes are now turned toward Annapolis where Brooke Lee's hand-picked committee is holding occasional sessions and where it is hoped by the more optomistic that one of the three lawyers or some nonunion member of the minority party will be able to drag out some new facts despite the efforts of Lee to soft pedal everything that may hurt a higher-up.

The Brooke Lee committee has heard the State's Attorney of Baltimore City, Governor's Chairman Nelligan, Auditor Croggon, Wm. Purnell Hall and so on, but has to date drawn out nothing particularly new.

A sub-committee headed by Delegate Joseph, has made some headway in regard to the Government property turned over to the State Roads Commission after the war. Mr. Joseph seems to have stirred up this matter without orders from the committee just as Delegate Cobourn, an anti-Lee member of the House, dragged out the Marlboro report after a fiery speech on the floor in which he suggested the impeachment of the Governor.

At this writing it appears that the Lee committee will do little and it is evident what sort of a report Lee wants to help him in his campaign for political honors. He is already being boosted as the man who is helping the State administration out of a hole.

State Roads Office Still in a Mess

The office of the State Roads Commission is still in such a condition or lack of condition that two more months may be required to get it in proper working order.

From time to time discharges are being made, said to be for the good of the service, and already a new auditor has been installed. The disorder there is said to have extended to almost every section even though the stealings by employees were confined chiefly to the main office and nearby territory.

The disregard of statutes which has distiuguished the Executive Department in some matters evidently went right on down through the State roads and contributed to the looseness the new Commission is finding there.

Baetjer Appears to Be Crown Counsel

Twice since the Governor's own committee has removed its hearings to the Court House I have peeked in to get a line on the proceedings and I must confess they jarred me. Mr. Baetjer, named by the Governor as counsel, or assistant or what not to the committee of which J. J. Nelligan is chairman, seemed to be acting as a sort of crown counsel to keep the scandal away from higherups. I regret this very much as I have had such a high regard for Mr. Baetjer's legal ability and analytical mind. I had thought he was sitting there to delve deeply into the facts and not to argue with the witness. It was painful to hear him lay down a proposition about bidding on road work—a proposition that was the very reverse of the usual practice.

It must have been very trying to Witness Butler to try to get his testimony in under such conditions and I suppose Lawyer Tippett realized his difficulties.

And there was Chairman Nelligan, too, with a remark tending to show that he did not think the witness knew what he was talking about when explaining the way contracts were awarded. And it came out that the examination of contract prices and overruns made by the Nelligan committee and reported in December covered only two years.

Brooke Lee's Committee Now Hot in the Collar

I am told by an outsider that some of the members of Spenker Brooke Lee's State Roads investigating committee nre very much wrought up as a result of the testimony of Wm. Purnell Hall last week. They did not like the replies to some of the questions that were asked and some of them became incensed over Hall's refusal to surrender the Butler statement to the committee chairman even though he finally agreed to give it to the committee's counsel, Lawyers Howard and Armstrong.

During the Hall hearing the old Senate chamber, in which the committee met, was crowded with spectators, and it was plain that the spectators sympathized with Hall, who had been dragged to Annapolis, some probably thought, to keep him quiet about the roads scandal.

It was Speaker Lee who had demanded through the papers that Hall be summoned but once there he was not questioned at all by the Speaker.

Now I hear that Hall is to be called again and that some of the committee may try to get him into such a jam that he can be cited for contempt. In such case the proceedings should be worth observing.

Governor Moves To Oust Milbourne

At last the Governor has moved to oust State Auditor Milbourne by framing a bill to reorganize the office and require that the incumbent be a certified public accountant. This is another case of locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen, a policy conspicuous in the roads case. The Governor knew that Milbourne was not an accountant when he first named him at the insistence of Brooke Lee who is so vitally interested in getting places on the State payroll for his followers.

At the Lee demand the Governor pushes Milbourne up and at the public outcry after the roads stealings he takes him down. It is no fault of Milbourne that the Governor named him in the first place. It is the fault of the Governor and Brooke Lee, who have been running the State machine.

I hear some of Milbourne's subordinates are so sore over the Governor's move that they threaten to make public some of the irregularities they found in State offices and about which the public has not yet been told. So won't that be nice?

By the way, I understand that under the new bill the Governor's own office will be audited. Not a bad idea. Should have been done l ar ago.

Mr. Coblentz Denies Announcing Candidacy

Emory L. Coblentz gives notice through the columns of his home town paper, the Middletown Register, that there is no foundation for a published story to the effect that he has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor next year. I was certain that Mr. Coblentz had made no such announcement at this early date though the field is now open to everyone through the breakdown of the Ritchie candidacy.

Mr. Coblentz is not inclined to rush in and I take it for granted that he will not announce himself until he is assured of formidable support. He is not the sort of man to chase a rainbow.

Furthermore I note that the Frederick Citizen, the Ritchie machine paper of Frederick County, has now deserted Mr. Coblentz for the time being and begun to boost Speaker Brooke Lee. The editor of the Citizen has become somewhat bewitched by the doings of the Speaker in the roads inquiry and has come to the conclusion that Lee is the logical candidate for Governor next year. Indeed the Citizen seems enthusiastic on the subject but we have not heard of any such enthusiasm elsewhere. In fact some seem to think the intimation of the Lee candidacy a huge joke inasmuch as the Speaker of the House is closely allied with the Governor. The latter is now in impaired political standing and I cannot see that anyone who is close to him can make the grade next year. Many voters are opposed to another loose leaf administration, I am convinced, judging by what I hear.

The Women Politicians Get Small Places

Some of our intelligent editors have become very much excited on hearing that some of the places on the Legislative payroll at Annapolis have been given to women and particularly women from Baltimore City.

I fail to get excited. Women have been on the Legislative payroll ever since typewriters came into general use and now that women are voting it would be a good thing to have more of them on the payroll. Probably some of the men should hnve political jobs but the Ninteenth Amendment changed things around a bit.

The men politicians would like to keep all the jobs for themselves. They are selfish. I say let the women have a lookin. And my guess is that not one of the women on the Legislative payroll is a bootlegger or n bookmaker.

Those New Jobs Proposed for the Counties

An alert lady correspondent calls my attention to the Bouchelle bill which provides for 25 clerks and nssitant clerks in the counties to issue automobile licenses. The clerks would get $2,500 a year and the assistants $1,800. I do not know who is to elect these clerks unless it be the locnl clerks of courts aided and abated by their bosses. There are some who think there is too much inconvenience in having to deal with a centralized automobile office while others in the counties assert that they have had no trouble or delay. It is apparent that the Bouchelle bill would at least provide some new jobs for the county politicians.

No M. N. G. for Hoover Inauguration

The Governor, it is reported, has decided that the Maryland National Guard shall not be sent to Washington to march in the Hoover inaugural parade next month. Of course the Hoover supporters are grinning about it and taking it to mean that the Governor is still very sore over the loss of the State by Al Smith and Senator Bruce last November.

FUTILITY

We waste much of our lives in futile effort. If we could get some of the obviously futile things catalogued we might be able to recognize them and steer away from them as a mariner avoids shoal waters.

It is futile, of course, to argue with the boss. He can win the argument at any point by retorting, "You're fired!"

To argue with a woman is also futile. After all a fellow has got to be a gentleman. And there might arise a question of the lady's knowledge of the subject at issue. In that case, anything you might say would surely be ungallant, so you'd have to keep still.

It is futile, as almost everybody knows, to argue about religion. Religious beliefs are in a realm that is only partly governed by reason. The conclusion has been pre-judged by the holder of a religious tenet. You can't change his belief, and he will resent your trying to change it. The bloodiest wars and the cruelest murders have been instigated by arguments over religious beliefs.

It is also futile to argue about politics, in the generally accepted meaning of the word politics in America. When we speak of arguing about politics, we mean arguing about the personalities of leaders and members of the different parties. We call it arguing politics when we indulge in long and hot discussions of Andrew Mellon's tax refunds, and the whiskers of Mr. Hughes. As a matter of fact these things have no bearing whatever upon the science of politics, which is a very interesting study and a pleasant thing to argue about, but these side issues pass for politics in our country and time. Arguing about them is the height of futility.

AND STILL A QUESTION

The old, old question, "What is a gentleman?" has been revived and is being discussed in and out of print with almost as much interest as if it had to do with a cabinet appointment.

The Forum was so taken by the idea of ascertaining the current American opinion as to what a gentleman is that it offered a prize for the best definition of one. This was the winner:

> A gentleman is one who is actuated by a high sense of honor and truth, who observes with scrupulous regard the rights and feelings of others, and who is characterized by refinement in his dress, manners, acts and words.
>
> A gentleman is a man who has an innate sense of honesty, fairness, gentleness and chivalry, all of which he brings into practice in his everyday life.
>
> A gentleman is a man of self-control who practices honesty as a principal and not as a policy; who considers decency in his behavior toward his fellow men a privilege and not a duty; and whose respect for womankind is predicated upon conviction and not convention.
>
> A gentleman is one who appreciates and respects the sensibilities of others; one who controls his emotions and passions so as not to injure the feeling of his fellow man.

Perhaps all will agree that it is a fairly good definition, though it is a little lengthy. And as one re-reads these assembled attributes and turns them over in his mind, he is likely to arrive at the conclusion that a gentleman is a "rnre Avis." There have been no end of of definitions as to what constitutes a gentleman, the definitions changing with the changes of time and always being strongly colored by individual viewpoint and opinion. One esthetic "gentleman" who flouished in the gay nineties defined a gentleman as one who takes a bath every day. But esthetic estimates such as this are superficial and do not go to the merits of the case. A well known woman has declared that no gentleman was ever found in circles where the term was shortened to "gent."

To be a gentleman day in and day ut is no easy proposition. The mass- ne section of the population, with ce n-plenty from the other see- has been working at the job for es. No doubt hut that progress made, but no speed laws violated. "Anyhow," says , "it seems that an easy way to begin to be a 'gentleman' would be to take a bath every morning and the rest of the day do unto others as he would have others do unto him."

Presbyterians Remain In Lead In Oakland Bowling League

The Presbyterians and Rotary Club continued to hold first and second places, respectively, in the Oakland Bowling League during the past week's play, these two teams having remained idle while their competitors won and lost games.

Last Thursday, Crellin won two out of three from the Methodists, while the Merchants took the same number from the Lutheran five. The Merchants continued their winning steral again on Monday night by taking two out of three games from the Postoffice. Crellin also continued in the win column by taking three straight from the Knights of Columbus.

Tonight the Methodists will meet the Presbyterians and the Rotary Club will attempt to keep up its record by downing the Lutherans.

57 MARRIAGE MARKETS LISTED IN 29 STATES

Study of Marriage Law Administration Shows Neglect

The Russell Sage Foundation of New York, reported on Sunday, February 10, that a study of marriage law administration in 30 states has revealed the existence of 57 "marriage market towns" in 29 states.

The report states that these towns constitute the most conspicuous tho not the most serious result of the "general neglect of marriage laws in this country."

The communities so styled have more than twice as large a marriage rate as that of their state, or draw more than half their marriage candidates from outside license districts.

"We are so little inclined to advertise these places," says the foundation, " that we are suppressing their names throughout this report." It is therefore not known whether or not Oakland's name is included in the list, out the fact remains that Oakland is extremely well known in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and within its own state.

Extra Fees Charged

In one such town the report says that social workers were told by the justice of the peace that his regular fee was $3 but if the principals wanted their marriage kept out of the papers he charged $3 extra.

Runners for the justices were found who went so far in soliciting business as to board moving automobiles if they thought the occupants looked as tho they might get married if properly approached.

In another town two justices of the peace advertised in street cars running from a nearby city, displaying cards reading "sweetheart: be ready at four o'clock—we'll go for a short ride, and justices —— and —— will tie the knot."

Fee Splitting Discovered

In a third town ministers rather than justices were found to be profiting, splitting of fees with taxi drivers who brought them couples to marry having been charged against several.

Certified Potatoes Are Still Available

For early potato growers, who will shortly be face to face with spring planting operations, there are still available limited quantities of certified seed, produced in Maryland last fall and certified by the Maryland Seed Certification Board, it is announced by Dr. R. A. Jehle, plant pathologist for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

There were thirty-nine Maryland growers who produced in all 21,521 bushels of certified potatoes last season, according to Dr. Jehle, and while much of the crop has already been sold there are limited quantities in some sections which commercial producers can depend upon for quality.

Maryland certified potato seed is just as good as any other certified seed on the market and is better than some produced in other states, it is assered. Every lot of Maryland certified seed came from fields that were inspected at least twice during the growing period. After being dug, each lot was inspected once more and a fourth inspection is necessary before the potatoes are actually certified and tagged. The tag showing certification contains the variety, name and grade of the potatoes and the name and address of the producer.

Of the 21,521 bushels grown for certifiention last year, 17,936 bushels were of the Irish Cobbler variety, the remaining quantity being divided between Jersey Redskin, Russet Rural, Green Mountain, Mill's Prize and a few other minor varieties.

Avaliable sources of certified seed potatoes in Worcester, Somerset, Wicomico, Garrett and Anne Arundel counties can be learned through the respective county agents.

Lower Cost Barns In State Desirable

The fact that Maryland farmers have $134,000,000 tied up in farm buildings and could not replace them at the present time at anything like that sum, should emphasize the importance of economical barn construction as a factor in the overhead costs on the average farm, according to R. W. Carpenter, farm engineering specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

In the dairy sections of the State many barns are being erected at an average cost of as much as $500 per cow whereas construction costs should be much lower, it is pointed out.

Economical barn construction does not mean the use of inferior materials or the erection of an inadequate or weak structure. One of the chief reasons for high cost barn construction cited by Mr. Carpenter is the use of too much high priced lumber and labor as the result of poor planning. The old-time expensive timber frame method of construction is still common in many sections of the State where the newer and less costly braced rafter type of barn has not yet come into prominence.

The advantages of the braced rafter type of construction over the older methods are to be found mainly in a saving of labor and in the use of less costly timber. Building a barn of braced rafter construction, three men can accomplish the same work in less time than an entire crew working on the other type. No timber larger than two by eight inch beams are necessary, and this is an important element in reducing costs.

County agents will be able to assist farmers in securing desirable plans for economical barn construction.

THE HOMEMAKERS CORNER

BY MISS ELSIE BENTHIEN
Home Demonstration Agent

Every woman can beeome skillful in pastry making. All that is required is a set of good rules and the determination to follow them carefully.

Plain Pastry

Chill ½ cup shortening and 1½ cups flour. Add ½ teaspoon salt and cut the shortening into the flour with knives, or work it in lightly with the finger tips. Use just enough ice water to make the particles adhere together. Turn on a floured board and roll very thin, handling as little as possible.

Raised Pastry

Sift together 1½ cups pastry flour, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon baking powder. Work in 1-3 cup shortening with the finger tips. Add 3 or 4 tablespoons of cold water to make a stiff dough. Roll very thin, making the circle about 1 inch larger than the pie tin to be used.

Orange Pie

Three eggs, ½ lemon, ¼ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon orange juice, 1 orange, 1 tablespoon butter. 3 tablespoons powdered sugar, pastry.

Whip the yolks of the eggs with the sugar, add the juice and rind of orange, the juice and rind of the lemon, and the butter. Mix thoroughly and place in a pastry-lined pan to bake. When done cover with a meringue made of the egg whites, powdered sugar and the orange juice.

Lemon Pie

Two cups sugar, 1 tablespoon milk, ½ cup butter, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 3 eggs, beaten separately 1 lemon—grate the rind.

Cream sugar and butter. Add gradually rind of lemon, yolk of eggs, milk, the cornstarch, the beaten egg whites and the lemon juice. Pour in the pie crust, which has not been baked, and bake 35 to 40 minutes. This does not take a meringue. When baked, the top will be a dark brown. This makes one large pie or two small ones.

Sour Cream Pie

One cup sour cream, ½ cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup raisins, 2 egg whites, 6 tablespoons sugar. Pastry.

Combine the cream and the half cup sugar; add the egg yolks well beaten, the spices, the salt, and the raisins chopped finely. Line a small pie plate with pastry and fill with the mixture. Bake in a hot oven until the custard mixture is set. Remove from oven and spread with a meringue made of the whites of eggs stiffly beaten and the six tablespoons of sugar added. Brown in a slow oven.

The Republican has been advised by one of its readers that the advertisement of a real estate agency appearing in this paper last week and for a week or two previously, will bear investigation before a fee is paid pending the sale of property. The letter exhibited to The Republican requires a fee of $10 before the property sought to be sold can be listed on the records of the realtor. Further investigation on the part of a farm paper is to the effect that in rare instances is a sale made by the ageney. The initial payment of $10 seems to be the only matter in which the foreign agency is interested. We therefore advise our readers to investigate and then keep their money in the local banks.

Doctors seem to have unnecessarily alarmed the country about the "flu," says an exchange. "There is a lot of sickness, to be sure, but it is more of the grippe variety than the more serious influenza of the World War days. It is reasonably explained by the sudden and many changes of weather we have had this winter. Though many people seem to take considerable pride in claiming they recently had the "flu," the great majority of cases, continues the exchange, were nothing more than colds, or grippe at the worst. A prominent Washington physician explains that "those who have influenza are literally knocked off their feet." So this automatically eliminates those who voluntarily go to bed or remain indoors because they think they have the flu. As the Massachusetts health commission explains, "If the hired help comes home and is ill, she has a cold. If the mistress of the house is ill, she has the grippe. But if the lord and master of the household is ill, why that's influenza."

CHRISTIAN GROWTH

LESSON TEXT—John 1:40-42; Matt. 16:15-18; John 21:15-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Growing Like Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Growing Like Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Growing Up—To What?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Conditions of Christian Growth.

I. Following Jesus (John 1:40).

As a result of the testimony of John the Baptist, that Jesus was the Lamb of God (v. 36), Andrew followed Jesus. The proof that he really believed is that he followed Christ. This is the first essential in the Christian life.

II. Leading Others to Christ (v. 41)

As soon as Andrew had found and become acquainted with Christ, he brought his brother Peter to Christ. Christian growth can only be truly realized in the giving of oneself to the winning of souls. The one who has received the gospel, the good news, cannot help but proclaim it.

III. Confessing Jesus as the Messiah, the Son of God (Matt. 16:15-18).

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard His wonderful words and seen His mighty works. Various opinions were extant about Him. It was now necessary for them to have a definite conception of Him. Examination came after the period of school life. As the Master Teacher, Jesus knew what it meant to the disciples to have a right conception of Himself. He knew the trying ordeal through which they would be called upon to pass as the time of his crucifixion drew near. Only as they perceived His deity would they be strong in the hour of trial. In answer to Jesus' pointed, personal question, Peter confessed to the absolute deity and Messiahship of Jesus. This conception of Christ is essential to salvation (John 20:31).

No one lacking it will ever be interested in the winning of souls. Besides, the denial of His deity is the supreme lie (1 John 2:22).

1. What Peter confessed (v. 16).

"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." It therefore involved His Messiahship and deity. This is the burning question of today. Those who have the right conception of Christ's person and mission have no trouble in the realm of science, philosophy or ethics.

2. Christ's commendation (v. 17).

He pronounced him blessed. The evidence that Peter was blessed was that he was in spiritual touch with the heavenly Father. His conception of Christ was not revealed by flesh and blood.

3. Peter's blessing (v. 18).

Christ declared that he should become a foundation stone in His church. Christ Himself is the chief cornerstone on which the church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter, and on this rock is laid the foundation of apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). All believers are living stones of this house (1 Peter 2:5).

IV. Peter's Restoration (John 21:15-19).

Peter grievously sinned in denying the Lord, but he made confession, shedding bitter tears over his sin and folly. The Lord tenderly dealt with His erring disciple and restored him in his restoration, Jesus brought to Peter's mind the essential qualification for his ministry. Love is the preeminent gift for Christian service. To impress upon his mind this fact He three times asked the question, "Lovest thou me?" He not only asked the question three times to show the supreme qualification for service to Him but to show that there are three classes of persons demanding His service, and that these classes need special care as well as food adapted to their state.

1. Those beginning the Christian life, babes in Christ, "Feed my lambs." The word "feed" means more than instruction. It applies to the surroundings, influences and examples.

2. The mature ones, "Feed my sheep."

This seems to mean "shepherd my sheep." The mature class of believers not only need food, but discipline. They need correction and guidance.

3. The aged Christians, "Feed My Sheep."

The word "feed" here is much the same as in the first case. This is a service greatly needed today. In many places the old people are greatly neglected. All provision is made for the young people. Love is the supreme need in service to the old folks.

The Humble Person

When men are cast down, then thou shalt say, There is lifting up; and he shall save the humble person. He shall deliver the island of the innocent; and it is delivered by the pureness of thine hands.—Job 22:29, 30.

Living and Giving

Abundant life always means overflow. The Christian life that is not overflowing is spiritually sick. It is dwarfed instead of being full grown. It is carnal, not spiritual.

Historic Fort McHenry Restored to Original Condition

BECOMES NATIONAL SHRINE FOR FUTNRE INSPIRATION

New Status of Fort McHenry Is Brought About Through Congressional Activities

By DUNCAN CAMERON

After several generations of disuse as a fortress, historic Fort McHenry has been restored to the condition in which it stood when Francis Scott Key wrote the "Star Spangled Banner" under the shadow of its flag.

Through this restoration the famouse milestone of American history enters an area of perpetual dedication as a national shrine—a central point from which the future may take inspiration from heroic deeds of the past.

The new status of Fort McHenry as a national shrine has been brought about through congressional action which provided for setting the property apart and appropriated funds for adequate restoration. With this work now completed, the Star Spangled Banner has a permanent home at the birthplace of the national anthem.

Dates Back to 1776.

Fort McHenry has played a stirring part in the history of the United States. The first attempt at establishing defensive construction at this point came in March, 1776, when the people of Baltimore heard the alarming news that the British warship Otter was in Chesapeake Bay. The initial fortifications were extremely primitive, consisting of earthworks and a few cannon. Close approach of an invading ship was barred by placing a massive boom across the narrow channel.

In those days Baltimore was a straggling village of a hundred homes or less. The town was beginning to grow, and its importance as a commercial port brought rapid expansion after the Revolutionary War. With business development came added attractiveness for invading forces and the young city soon recognized that its capture would be one of the first objectives of the enemy in time of war.

The need for defensive measures became emphasized in 1794 when there was prospect of a war with France. To meet the possible emergency the earthworks of 1776 were repaired and enlarged under the direction of Major J. J. Ulrich Rivardi, a refugee from the terror of the French Revolution. This engineer designed and built the bastion fort with upper and lower batteries as a more complete form of fortification. Rivardi had been an artillery officer in France and his work was based on long study and experience.

Fort Became Important

The first important part in history played by the new fort came with the War of 1812. At that time British activities sought to cripple American trade with France and the West Indies. The British Navy was ruler of the seas and vessels of the war fleet hovered along the American coast and seized merchant ships which ventured abroad in pursuit of trade. Men were forcibly taken from American ships and impressed into service on the vessels of the besieging flotilla. The capture of seamen extended even to ships of the United States Navy, beginning with the sloop of war "Baltimore" and spreading to various other craft of the newly organized battle fleet.

The feeling aroused by this outside aggression became so vigorous throughout the United States, that war became inevitable, and its declaration took place June 18, 1812. The situation was dramatic. With a treasury that was practically bankrupt, and with small armament, the American Republic undertook armed conflict with the most powerful nation in existence. Against the trained army and navy of Great Britain the national defense could muster but seven ships and 5,000 soldiers.

Baltimore and Fort McHenry assumed important roles in the conflict from the outset. Ship-building was an active feature of the city's commercial life, and there was an immediate stimulus to the construction and arming of ships for supplementing the naval establishment. Within four months from the outbreak of hostilities the shipyards of Baltimore had sent 42 privateersmen against the enemy. Some of these vessels went to the very coast of England and seized British shipping as a measure of reprisal for similar activities directed towards American craft. The first six months of the War saw these privateersmen capturing more than 250 English vessels, with many guns and merchandise vauled at many million dollars.

Enemy Wanted Baltimore

The Baltimore activities made the city a shining target for enemy attentions, and there was concentrated effort to cripple the port and its population. A blockade of the Chesapeake Bay was undertaken by the British forces in 1813. Headquarters were established by the invaders on Tangier Island and at Point Lookout. In April the hostile fleet appeared at the mouth of the Patapsco River near Baltimore, and the people of the city realized that their community was in serious peril.

The responsibility for meeting the threatened attack fell upon the shoulders of Baltimore itself, then the third largest city in the United States. The national government lacked funds for the construction of adequate defense works and the necessary money had to be provided through local enterprise. To meet this situation the Baltimore city council appropriated $20,000 for fortifications, while public spirited citizens subscribed a fund of half a million dollars for use in strengthening the defenses surrounding the city.

This financial activity was backed up by an order which called for the services of every able-bodied citizen of the community. Men and boys responded with wheelbarrows and earthworks were thrown up in every direction with little delay.

Fort McHenry was strengthened by the addition of heavy guns taken from the French frigate Poursuivante. This vessel had come to a local shipyard for repairs after her fight with the British frigate Hercules, and had been interned as a war-time precaution.

Attack Postponed

The value of these guns was recognized by the British commander, and caused alteration in the plans for an immediate attack on Baltimore and Fort McHenry. As an alternative measure Admiral Cockburn and his fleet sailed past Baltimore and captured Havre de Grace, Georgetown and Fredericktown.

On the eighth of August fifteen enemy vessels reappeared at the mouth of the Patapsco and took positions for attacking the city of Baltimore. By this time the entrenchments surrounding the city had been completed and forty additional guns were in position. The prompt manning of the Fort by soldiers who showed discipline and courage caused further postponement of the contemplated attack. In this situation the invading fleet dropped down the Bay and assumed entire control of the marine situation from Annapolis toward the Susquehanna. In November the most of the fleet left for Bermuda, for repairs, returning in the spring of 1814 with reinforcements.

In the meantime Baltimore had equipped 26 gunboats and barges, officered and manned by local seafaring men. Commanded by Commodore Joshua Barney, the home fleet was ordered to break the British blockade of the Chesapeake Bay. Several small naval encounters were followed by British victory which enabled the invading troops to reach and capture the city of Washington, where they burned the capitol and other Federal structures.

Encouraged by their success at the seat of government the British forces boasted that Baltimore would soon be in their hands. Establishing a rendezvous near the mouth of the Potomac, the fleet prepared for concentrated attack on the Meryland metropolis. Troops were landed at North Point on September 12 to begin their march against Baltimore. At the same moment the fleet moved up the river for the hombardment of Fort McHenry. The plan was that the outer denfenses of the city should be taken by storm and that the soldiers should join the fleet near the Fort for the final assault on the city itself.

Baltimore was in a state of intense patriotic excitement, and its people were determined to resist the invasion with the utmost vigor. Valiant troops repelled the British advance from North Point, forcing the invaders to return to their ships. The bombardment of Fort McHenry, already begun, contined throughout the day of September 13.

The suspension of firing by the invading fleet played a dramatic part in the inspiration which produced the "Star Spangled Banner." At this time Francis Scott Key was aboard an American vessel in the harbor. His presence on the ship was due to an expedition which he had undertaken in behalf of Dr. Beanes, a leading Maryland physician. Beanes was in the hands of the enemy, as a result of his capture at the head of a body of citizens who had resisted British soldiers.

Key and Beanes were warm personal friends. Visiting the British flag-ship, Key succeeded in procuring the release of the physician on the strength of care and attention bestowed on wounded British soldiers.

Admiral Cockrane, however, refused to permit Key and Beanes to return to Baltimore, and held them under guard while the bombardment was in progress.

Key Watched Bombardment.

The vessel upon which the two Americans were held was sustained at a point at which the flag of Fort McHenry was plainly visible. Key remained on deck throughout the bombardment, watching the fall of every shell from the enemy guns. As long as the firing continued he knew that the fort was withstanding the attack. The thing he dreaded was a suspension of cannonading which might signify that the Fort was in the hands of the foe.

For this reason Key was panic-stricken when the guns stopped shortly after midnight. There was no way for him to know that the suspension was temporary, and he was convinced that the garrison had surrendered. Resumption of the bombardment a short time later brought him a sense of relief which was emphasized when the dawn's early light revealed that the flag was still there—and that Fort McHenry had not been captured. His inspiration for the nation's anthem came from that experience, augmented by the withdrawal of the unsuccessful attackers soon after daylight.

Fort McHenry served through the Mexican and Civil Wars and was used for garrisoin purposes in the Spanish-American conflict. During the World War the reservation held a large army hospital. Its usefulness as a fortification passed with the advent of long-range guns and it now remains as a national shrine to honor the city of Baltimore—the only large city on the Atlantic coast over which an enemy flag has never been raised.

Underground Prison Cells

In the restoration work, the excavators uncovered underground prisons which were used during the Civil War. Each of the three cells in the guardhouse was protected by a grated door with bars more than an inch thick. These doors are still in position.

The underground passage known as the sallyport served as an entrance to a narrow cave-like room 30 feet long and eight feet high. Originally these were intended for the storage of powder, but there is evidence that they were used also for the confinement of prisoners of war. It is known that Confederate soldiers were locked in these "casements" after the battle of Gettysburg.

Scoop is going to add them to his list of three names in Oakland who desire silence.

Sojourn At Annapolis

Col. Bell was ordered to Annapolis last week by Scoop, so that he could get the lowdown on the Garrett assemblymen, and see if they were doing anything or whether the legislature reporters were just filling up the paper with notable bills about more dogs to tax and more constables to collect them; money for 52nd st., Oakland, and Main street in the town of Swanton, as well as for the streets of Sang Run, Hoyes, Bittinger, etc.

The Col. effected his entrance into the assembly room by use of one of Scoop's identification cards and after quizzing the Governor about silver donations and road celebrations turned his attention to the Garrett delegation. He was just in time to catch Arthur Green on his feet arguing for $150 for the town of Swanton so that a "White Way" could be built and maintained along Main street. His eloquence was surpassed only once before when he put thru a bill requiring the fire whistle in Oakland to be tested ten days before each and every fire.

He Won Out

More And Larger Dogs

Arthur Lawton and Albert Markley were then focused in front of the camera as they discussed the dog tax and the efficiency of the collectors. Mr. Markley argued that there should be more and larger dogs in the county with more constables appointed to "try" and collect the tax. Mr. Lawton wanted, not more dogs, but only the survival of the fittest. They compromised by turning over the quantity question to the "Dog Limitation Conference," to be held on Bear hill, the latter part of the month, and then railroaded a bill through the assembly calling for the appointment of four more constables. "Betty" Dawson, better known as Andalusia, one of the Gold Dust Twins of Harned's Drug store, says that he has signified his intentions not to be a candidate for one of the positions. Below may be a picture of the delegates, showing them at their confining labors.

Word has come to Scoop's ears that a known "Peeping Tom" has been active on the high spots of Oakland during the past few days—or nights, and that he almost got shot in the fracas. Gas Hound Purchased

Upon the Colonel's return to Oakland he was sent to get a picture of Wilbur Davis, one of the local gas men in more ways than one. Wilbur, who is the "track walker" for the gas line, has had his head filled with thoughts of vacuum tubes and B batteries for some time and since it interferes with his work, he has purchased a "gas hound."

This gas hound travels by Wilbur's side during working hours and locates all leaks along the main line by his sense of smell. He notifies his master by beating his tail upon the ground until static is set up. Wilbur is now solving some important radio mysteries, that may result in a system whereby he may not even have to go out with the hound.

A lot of people have asked Scoop if Joe Gonder was one of those who requested silence and a lot of that, just two weeks ago. But that is far from the truth. Joe just hasn't been doing anything during the past few weeks that might cause his picture to be published.

Carlton McComas and Bill Gibson are working on a masterpiece entitled "Retaliation," which was to have been published this week; but either rusty brains or laziness interfered. It ought to be good since it is going to be about Scoop. Maybe they will come to life and get it in next week. Scoop welcomes all communications.

CONDUCT OF THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES IS CRITICISED

adoption of the unfavorable report, but one vote was cast against it, and that was Senator Coad's own.

Interrupted by committee meetings, the Senate took a recess until five o'clock, and it was more than a half an hour later that the meeting really began. Then that body passed all of Senator Edward J. Colgan's measures providing for Senate confirmation of gubernatorial appointments to high state positions.

Would Abolish Death Penalty

The House in the meantime had seen the introduction of a bill to abolish the death penalty in the state, and one to provide for the elapse of 48 hours between the application and granting of a marriage license. These measures were introduced by Delegates Berman, Fine, Beuchelt, Ford, all of Baltimore city, and Delegate Henry L. Conway, also of Baltimore City respectively.

Inheritance Tax Bill

Another measure dropped into the House hopper, would provide a state tax on inheritances. The bill, offered by J. Milton Paterson, Allegany, provides a sliding scale from one percent on estates under $50,000 to 15 percent above $5,000,000, was sent to the committee of Ways and Means for action.

All of the city administration bills, identical with those offered in the senate yesterday, were presented to the House today. The offering of the bills provided the first unanimous action of the city delegation, heretofore split by the "regulars" and "insurgents."

Senate to Confirm Appoints

Senator Colgan's measures provides for the concurrence of the Senate in gubernatorial appointments of insurance commissioner, state board of education, state tax commission, state auditor, public service commission, bank commissioner, conservator and commissioner of state employment and registration. The term of the insurance commissioner, state auditor and bank commissioner is reduced from four to two years under the bills.

The House Ways and Means committee this afternoon heard opponents of the three bills regarding changes in the state compensation law. These bills provide for an increase in the minimum to be paid injured persons, inclusion of occupational diseases as grounds for compensation and insurance of employes only through the state agency. Another hearing of opponents of the measures is set for next Wednesday, with the proponents having the final say on Thursday.

Fish and Game Committee Meets

The Fish and Game Committee of the Senate also met tonight to discuss the various measures relating to fish and game throughout the State now before the Legislature. Representatives of the State Conservation Commission and the Attorney General's office were present to give their outline of the measures.

The Finance Committee of the Senate and the Ways and Means Committee of the House also met again tonight to hear discussions of the proposed tax revision measure pending in both houses. The bill was proposed by the State Tax Revision Commission appointed to make a study of the tax system throughout the State.

Last night the measure was attacked as a "breeder of litigation" at the first public hearing conducted in regard to its provisions.

MT. LAKE PARK.

WHY WE ARE HAPPY

Mr. Edison has made the pronouncement that he knows no one who is happy. A great many people do not agree with him believing, perhaps, that the word "happy" has been confused with the word "contented."

For instance, we were, for the moment, happy when we noticed that the Association had begun to put in operation a clean-up plan along the front of the Park by removing the brush and alders which have been growing profusely since the beginning of time. That operation alone will go a long way toward adding beauty and value to the property of not only the Association but the individual property owner also. We know it (the Association) will not be contented to stop with that improvement.

Then again we are happy that J. A. Enlow, Wiley Welling, Charlie Martin and Frank Arnold, all young men of tender years, have volunteered to trim up the trees and cut the weeds along the boardwalk to the postoffice and railway station. We also know that other citizens will not permit them to do all the work.

So you see there is a great deal of difference between being happy and being contented.

On the other hand, we did not radiate happiness when we had to plow through the mud the other evening to make a call on Neighbor Oswald, and you can rest assured we will not be contented until some move is made to improve the condition of the sidewalks, especially in the main part of the Park.

Superintendent Baker's Visit.

As a robin is said to be a sure harbinger that spring is just around the corner, so there are certain signs that point to the fact that the coming season at Mountain Lake Park is going to be better than we have had for several years past. For one thing, Superintendent Baker was here the other day with another party of United Presbyterians looking over the ground.

We are not in his confidence, consequently we do not know just what the visit portends. But this we do know: the visit was not made at this time of the year just to view the scenery or to enjoy the bracing air of midwinter. Then again, we understand an optimistic and foresighted gentleman has invested his good money in a garage property with the intention of starting operations in the very early spring. This will certainly be a great convenience to car owners and we predict for the new owner a good business.

Cooperation.

Now let's all pull together and work for a better and bigger Park. We should not be content to let well enough alone. We know there are some advocating that policy. But that won't do. Even if we can't accomplish this season all of the bigger things we have been advocating, yet we can make the community attractive to the visitor and fix things so he can travel around in comfort.

This being Lent, we thought we would give up complaining this week. We may cease altogether, altnough we still have subjects enough on file to last until mid-summer.

Personal and General Items.

Inquiries are still coming in with regard to the renting or buying of property and asking about the hotels and boarding houses. Not many, of course, but enough to make things look a little encouraging.

There are other matters pending, of which we are not permitted to mention.

And, by gosh, a petting party with the thermometer hugging zero. Yes, even zero was in on the party.

Floyd White, who was injured several weeks ago by slipping on the ice is able to be out.

Mrs. MacClellan Clayton, who has been quite ill for the past several days is better.

Superintendent Baker was at the Park for a few hours Monday.

Rev. Middaugh, having been called to Deer Park to preach next Sunday morning, no church services will be held, but he will preach at the usual hour Sunday evening.

A good deal of petty thieving is going on around the Park several houses having been entered. The authorities have the matter well in hand.

At the citizens' meeting held in Loch Lynn Monday evening, more than fifty per cent of the citizens were present. The following ticket was nominated to the following offices, to be voted for at the coming election, to be held March 4: Mayor, C. W. Shipley; councilmen, A. L. Biggs and E. C. Hutchinson; clerk, Mrs. C. E. Hardesty; tax collector and treasurer, E. E. Kesner.

Captain B. L. Hardesty was visiting friends at Hutton several days last week.

Mrs. John Brenneman and daughter are home from Cumberland, where the latter has been very ill, the result of a severe operation.

GRANTSVILLE.

Ford Car Stolen.

Last Wednesday evening about 7:30 o'clock the Ford coupe owned by Mr. C. A. Bender was stolen from in front of the National Hotel on the National Highway and driven from that point down an alley and then eastward, for the evident purpose of making it appear that the car was being taken in that direction as shown by the tracks made by the wheels of the car. About 2:30 the following morning a telephone call to a Uniontown (Pa.) garage from a point a short distance east of that town requesting the services of a wrecking car was received, the message stating that a wreck had taken place when a car had collided with a telephone pole. A State trooper accompanied the garage man and after an investigation placed the driver of the car and a companion under arrest, charging them with driving a vehicle without proper authority. Later it developed that the wrecked car was the property of Mr. Bender and the men are now being held in the Uniontown jail for action on the part of the Maryland authorities. The identity of the occupants of the car has not been learned, both of the parties evidently being of foreign birth.

ACCUSE BUTLER OF FALSE CHARGE AGAINST MACKALL

Alleged To Have Tried to Implicate Roads Official in Scandal To Protect Himself.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 27.—Charging that Thomas A. Butler, convicted former agent of the State Roads Commission had sought to implicate John N. Mackall, former chairman of the roads body and others, so that when he got caught he would have a club over their heads, Edwin J. Baetjer, counsel for the Nelligan Commission, today continued his fire on charges made by Butler against Mackall and others in the roads body.

Bills Altered by Butler

Baetjer was re-opening the examination he subjected the former purchasing agent to yesterday, when he brought in three bills of the Southern Maryland Society, which were paid with state roads funds. The bills were altered and paid from state roads funds, as Butler admitted had been his practice during the time he was paying for personal articles for himself from roads money, and he said he had been told to do so by Mr. Mackall.

Mr. Baetjer hammered away on the fact that these bills were the only ones which were left in the Commission files where they would be found, while all of Butler's were hidden, declaring that Butler had the motive for so doing, when Mackall did not. He also brought in $380 check drawn to James Woods, another of the convicted roads employes, after auditors had started examinations of the accounts.

Wanted Others Convicted

Baetjer called attention to testimony given by Butler at court trials, in which he was quoted as having said that he wanted others convicted with him, in that he was being made the goat, and it was to be made to appear that he alone got money on irregularities. Butler answered that he confessed and turned state's evidence to protect himself.

Richard B. Tippett, attorney for Butler, who has made various charges against the conduct of affairs of the Roads Commission, was indirectly accused of accepting stolen money, part of the roads funds, for his services as counsel for Butler and Charles Robins, convicted former purchasing agent.

Senator Naylor Starts Move to Have 3-Mile Gap in Northwestern Turnpike Paved

A step to satisfy the desire of Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio residents by closing the only gap—a stretch of little more than three miles—in the United States Highway route No. 50, was launched in the Senate on last Thursday.

Senator Alonzo D. Naylor, Garrett county, introduced a bill for a $15,000 loan to aid completion of this piece of road in Garrett county, and also for construction of a bridge on the route across the Potomac between the foot of Backbone mountain in Maryland, and Gormania, West Va.

The route, known as the Northwestern Turnpike extended, which runs from Washington across Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio, to Cincinnati, will be a completely paved highway as soon as the three-mile gap and bridge in Garrett county can be completed.

MANY ATTEND PYTHIAN'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Dr. H. W. McComas and Rev. W. B. Brock Are Principal Speakers

More than 225 members of Garrett Lodge No. 113, Knights of Pythias, their wives and friends, attended the 65th anniversary celebration of the founding of the order, held last Friday evening at Castle hall, Oakland. This number also included members and friends of the Pythian lodge at Terra Alta.

The features of the evening were the addresses made by Dr. Henry W. McComas, the only living charter member of Garrett lodge, and by Rev. Walter B. Brock. Dr. McComas' talk was chiefly of the Pythian order, while Reverend Brock confined his thoughts to George Washington. The meeting, in addition to the anniversary celebration, was also known as Ladies' night and the celebration of George Washington's birthday.

Col. Nelson W. Russeler, supreme representative of this domain, gave those present an insight into the membership, financial condition, etc., of the order. He was introduced by State's Attorney J. C. Renninger.

Musical entertainment was furnished by Gilbert's orchestra, the local Hawaiians, the Four Horsemen quartet, and a solo by Jesse J. Ashby. Mr. Caruthers and Frank Pugh, of Terra Alta visitors, also rendered several vocal selections. Refreshments were served at the close of the celebration.

The lodge will meet tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock promptly, those in charge stated. After a short business session the members will go to Terra Alta, where they will visit the lodge there and put on the third rank. At a later date, the Terra Alta lodge will be guests of the local chapter.

WILL SELECT CANDIDATES AT MEETING OF CITIZENS

Probably to Hold Meeting March 7—Annual Municipal Election on Monday, March 11

A citizens' meeting to select candidates for the annual municipal election to be held on Monday, March 11, will probably be held on the Thursday preceding that date, March 7, Mayor L. M. Fraley announced yesterday.

All citizens interested in municipal affairs are urged to be present at the meeting. The meeting will be primarily for the purpose of naming a ticket to be voted for, or if it transpires at the proposed meeting that two or more tickets are desired, then such will be the action of those attending.

No one has signified his intention of becoming a candidate thus far, Mayor Fraley said, but he intimated that there would be within the next week. Three persons are to be chosen for members of the Town Council and one person for Town Treasurer, the councilmen to serve for two years and the treasurer for one year.

The polls for the election will be open at eight o'clock a. m., in accordance with the town charter, and will remain open until the hour of 6 o'clock p. m.

The retiring councilmen will be Delbert Davis, Samual B. Aronhalt, and William Whorton.

GARRETT COUNTY FIRST IN FOREST FIRES IN 1928

101 Blazes Reported, Resulting in Loss of $9,034.80—Prince George also Lists 101

Garrett county and Prince George's county led in the number of forest fire outbreaks among the counties of the state during the year 1928, causing a damage of $9,034.80, according to a tabulation sent out in the News Letter, a publication issued by the Maryland State Department of Forestry. Each county reported 101 fires.

Garrett county led in the number of acres burned, with 5,513 reported. The expense connected with these fires totalled $1,258.55. During the year 634 fires occurred in the entire state, burning 32,000 acres, at a damage of $257,500. The cost of suppression amounted to $7,720.

The causes of such increase over last year were due to the long fire season and to the fact that the district foresters have through their contacts with the forest wardens, discovered and reported many fires that otherwise would not have been known, the article stated.

The fires burned over 1.5 percent of the total woodland area of the State. Allegany county reported 81 fires and stood third, with Anne Arundel next with 67. There were 33 false alarms throughout the state, 14 of them being in Garrett county.

Causes of Fires

The tabulation shows under the causes of forest fires, that Garrett had 6 fires from railroads; 2 from campers; 21 from smoking; 6 from burning brush; 34 from incendiary; 4 from lumbering; 4 from miscellaneous causes, and 24 unknown.

WALTERS IS AGAIN FOUND GUILTY STOTLER MURDER

Convicted In First Degree Without Recommendation for Mercy

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 27.—Reginald E. Walters, former prohibition "under cover" man, was found guilty by a jury tonight of murder in the first degree, without recommendations, in the slaying of Hunter R. Stotler, prohibition agent, in July, 1927. The verdict carries either the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Second Conviction

The trial was the second in which Walters sought acquital in the slaying of Stotler. At the previous trial he was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment, but later was granted a new trial by the Court of Appeals.

When the jury foreman announced the verdict tonight, Mrs. Walters, wife of the convicted man, who had testified at the trial, fainted and slipped from the chair to the floor. She was soon revived. Walters in the meantime attempted to shout something upon hearing the verdict, but was prevented by deputy sheriffs who hustled him from the courtroom.

ONE NEW MEMBER NAMED ON BOARD OF ELECTIONS

Two Members Of Old Board, Hinebaugh and Naylor, Retained—Browning New Member

Governor Albert C. Ritchie transmitted to the State Senate last Thursday night his list of appointments, comprising more than three thousand names, for the various offices in the counties and Baltimore City for the following two years.

All of the appointments, so far as can be learned, have been confirmed by the Upper House.

The appointments of Justices of the Peace for this county were all made and include the officers now holding these positions.

The only big surprise insofar as the local Democrats are concerned, was the appointment of J. Frank Browning, of Oakland, to succeed Mr. Frederick P. Miller as a member of the Board of Supervisors of Elections. The latter was supported by a majority of the local committee, so it is said. At least one member of the committee went to Annapolis to further Mr. Miller's interests, but influences in Allegany county as well as in Garrett county were too strong and Mr. Browning was named as a member of the Board.

A fight against the reappointment of Mr. Hinebaugh was also made but without effect, as he and E. G. Naylor, members of the present board and very efficient officers, were reappointed.

COURT OF HONOR AWARDS MERIT BADGES TO SCOUTS

Members of the Court of Honor present were Harland L. Jones, chairman; H. A. Loraditch, James A. Towler, D. R. Sincell, W. W. Dawson, and George Hanst, Scoutmaster. The next meeting will be held on March 25.

Five New Tenderfoot Scouts

Five boys were enrolled as Tenderfoot Scouts at the regular meeting of the Troop last Friday. Roger Maroney, James Treacy, Walter Dawson, Stuart Hamill and David Walter, all passed their required tests and will now be allowed to wear the Tenderfoot badge and the official uniform of the Boy Scouts of America. James Treacy and David Walter attended their first meeting last Friday and passed their tests that same evening. With the latter two enrolled, the troop now numbers 42. An interesting program is being planned for the meeting tomorrow night.

Parole for George D. Strawser Granted by Governor

Parole for George D. Strawser, sentenced by the Circuit Court for Garrett county to fifteen months in the house of correction for false pretenses, was among the 18 recommended to Governor Ritchie yesterday by the parole commissioner, Annapolis. The parole was granted.

Strawser had about four more months to serve. Upon his release, which becomes effective next Wednesday, he will go to Pennsylvania.

ARTICLES WILL BE GIVEN AWAY ON DAIRY SPECIAL

Six Prizes to be Awarded by B. and O. Better Dairy Sire Train Here on April 21

The Better Dairy Sire special train of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, run in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, University of Maryland extension service, will be in Oakland Wednesday afternoon, April 21, according to an announcement made by John H. Carter, county agent.

The special train will carry exhibits and there will be special speakers on various subjects covering dairy cattle and dairying.

Articles to be Awarded

In connection with the special, which will be on the Baltimore and Ohio siding in rear of the station all Wednesday afternoon, and in addition to the regular program and the sale of purebred bulls on the train, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad is planning to give away six articles of dairy equipment as follows: two 60-pound type Chatillon scales, one 5-gallon milk or cream can, one 14-quart Fishmouth milk pail, one Horne milk strainer, and one Lonsdowne milking stool.

In giving away these articles, Mr. Carter said, the following procedure would be adhered to: any bona fide farmer owning a cow is eligible to draw for the gift articles. Each farmer registered is given a number, a duplicate of which is placed in a box, and at the conclusion of the program a drawing is staged and each of the six farmers holding the corresponding numbers drawn from the box receives one of the six gift articles.

The equipment will be on exhibit at D. M. Dixon and Son's store about April 1.

Pomona Grange To Meet At Hutton On March 7

A tentative program for the meeting of Pomona Grange, to be held at the Hutton Grange hall on the afternoon of March 7, has been announced by Miss Elsie Benthien, home demonstration agent, who has this work in charge.

The program will consist of a reading by Miss Alice Sanders, short talks by Carl Sanders and B. C. Scott, recitation by Maxine Paulie. Rev. C. A. Shilke, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, will deliver the main address. There will also be group singing, it was stated. The afternoon program will stare at two o'clock.

Church Loyalty Services.

The Church Loyalty Services sponsored by the churches of Oakland are meeting with marked success. All the churches report a fine increase in attendance at both morning and evening services. All organizations of the churches feel the impulse of the united effort. Sunday schools and young people's meetings are reporting increased attendance and interest.

One man was heard to say: "There is a new interest in church activities since the Church Loyalty Services came along." Another remarked: "More people are attending church in Oakland today than for years."

All of the churches are planning for still larger attendance Sunday and each will have an interesting program.

Sunshine Minstrel to Be Shown at Maryland Tonight

After showing at Terra Alta and Kingwood on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, the Sunshine Minstrel, under the auspices of the K. of P. lodge of Terra Alta, will be shown at the Maryland theatre, Oakland, tonight. The minstrel is said to have gone over big in the two West Virginia towns.

The cast has been under the direction of D. E. Caruthers, and the members of the cast are drawn from local talent in Terra Alta.

TO COMBINE BOYS'-GIRLS' DECLAMATION CONTESTS

To Make Changes in Boys' Contest—To Be Held at Friendsville Latter Part of April

That the Boys' County-Wide Declamation contest and the Girls' County-wide Declamation contest among the high schools of Garrett county would be held the same night this year, and that there would be a change made in the kind of contest for boys, was announced yesterday by P. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools.

Instead of the contestants selecting and practicing their declamations as has been the case heretofore in the boys' contest, a list of eight subjects has been chosen and any one of them may be given to the entrants when their turn comes to speak. The contestants must then give an impromptu five minute talk on the subject designated.

That the contest would probably be held in Friendsville High school building was also announced by Mr. Rathbun, the exact time to be made known later. It was thought, however, that it would be held the latter part of April. No judges have been selected as yet for the contest.

Topics Are Listed

The list of eight topics for the boys' contest was selected by Delbert Davis, cashier of the First National Bank, Oakland, its sponsor, from a list of 34 submitted by various high school principals. The subjects include the following:

1. What is the Dawes Plan? How has it affected our interests?
2. Should Germany continue to make reparation for the World War?
3. What is the true meaning of Americanization?
4. What are the benefits of the Elective System in high schools?
5. What is the Kellogg Peace Pact?
6. How can the foreigner be best trained to form a correct conception of our laws?
7. What are the fundamental elements of greatness in the Constitution of the United States?
8. Effect of American Economic Leadership on International Relationship.

The Girls' contest, sponsored by G. A. Fraley, cashier of the Garrett National Bank, Oakland, will be the same as in years past, except the time limit will be shortened. The duration of the declamations in both contests will not be more than five minutes.

To Hold Local Contests

Local contests will be held in the various high schools in the county to determine the principal and alternate speakers for the occasion. Last year in the Boys' contest, Clark Walker, Kitzmiller, won first; Thomas Gonder, Oakland, second; and Le Verne East, Friendsville, third. The contest was held at Grantsville.

Miss Dorothy Stevenson, Oakland, won the girls' contest last year; Miss Mabel Beachy, Friendsville, second; and Miss Alverta Dillon, Accident, third. The contest was held at Oakland.

Prizes to be awarded in each case from the two Oakland banks will consist of $25, $15, and $10, the money to be used to purchase books for the school libraries.

College President Praises Broom Wielding of Local Court House Janitor

A sample of what other people think of the neat appearance of the Court House and its surroundings may be learned for a letter written by James E. Allen, president of Davis and Elkins college, Elkins, West Va., to Prof. F. E. Rathbun, after he had made a short visit here. Professor Rathbun was not in at the time but the letter states:

"I was paid for climbing the steps by seeing your beautiful courthouse kept in excellent condition. I enjoyed the conversation with the janitor. I wish all our school janitors over the state could see his building. A court house is a very difficult institution to keeep clean, but he has solved that problem. You may tell him for me that I think his picture ought to be hung on the wall when his days are numbered."

Radio reception from England by means of short waves, is said to be best between 4 and 6 p. m., Eastern standard time.

New York Doctor Receives French Call

Theatrical Magnate, Ill, Telephones Personal Physician To Come At Once

Operator passing European call from New York transatlantic office.

Telephoning for a doctor is not new. But probably the longest telephone call ever made for a doctor was that which came a short time ago to Dr. Richard Hoffman, of New York, from Harry H. Frazee, Broadway theatrical producer and former owner of the Boston - American League baseball team. Mr. Frezee, gravely ill in France, telephoned to America by the transatlantic radio telephone service for his son and his personal physician to come to him at once. They were on a steamer leaving New York the next day for a French port.

Transatlantic telephone calls, according to officials of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, may now be made to all points in England, Scotland, Wales, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, France, Spain and Switzerland, and to the principal cities in Norway, Sweden, Austria and Hungary, and to the Free City of Danzig.

Safe Expert Opens Door By Telephone

Though 50 Miles Away Man Directs Movement of Tumblers Over Wire

There may be nothing new under the sun, but a young woman employed in an office in a western state certainly used the telephone to a good advantage when she lost the combination to the office safe. Remembering that there was a safe expert in a town about 50 miles away she placed a telephone call asking him to come to her assistance.

The expert, remembering the slogan "Don't travel-talk" instructed the girl to place the telephone transmitter next to the safe door and turn the dial. He then directed her by the sound of the tumblers how to operate the dial. By following his instructions the young woman was able to open the safe door. The entire time consumed in the transaction, including the placing of the long distance call, was less than five minutes.

TELEPHONE BRIEFS

That people are finding new uses for the telephone is very evident. During 1928 there was a daily average of 76,000,000 telephone calls in the United States, which was an increase of 3,500,000 over the average day for 1927. Of course, the number of telephones increased greatly, but the use of the telephone increased even more rapidly.

The United States is not only the most outstanding country in the world, but it has the most efficient and the best developed telephone system. Last year 1500 miles of telephone cable were added to the long distance plant, which was by far the largest amount ever placed in a single year. There are now more than 67,000,000 miles of telephone wire in this country of which less than 8 per cent is open wire.

During 1928 a contract was made between the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Postal Telegraph Company whereby the many developments of the Bell Telephone System research experts were made available to the telegraph companies. The majority of these developments have to do with increasing the message sending capacity of a given group of circuits and in eliminating duplicate pole lines by the joint use of facilities.

Advances in the art of communication carried on during 1928 by the Bell Telephone Laboratories, the research and development branch of the Bell Telephone System, resulted in the development of a deep-sea, long distance cable by the use of which the spoken word may be transmitted across the Atlantic. The Laboratories also developed a new set of magnetic alloys called "perminvar," which are found to be very valuable for use in the continuous loading of telephone circuits and which bring about improved transmission.

MINISTER RELATES HOW CHAIN STORES OPERATE

Says Churches and Community Betterment Projects Would Starve Depending on Them

No definite reply has ever been made to the charge of The Interstate Grocer that the chain stores do little or nothing toward contributing toward community development, altho F. H. Massamn of the National Tea Company, speaking for the chain stores at the National Canners' Association convention at Chicago last week, made a faint-hearted attempt to defend the chain stores by saying that all independent merchants do not contribute.

How interwoven the success of the local merchant is with that of the community in which he does business is being shown in Louisville where the Department of Commerce is making an extensive investigation into the causes of numerous grocery failures. It has already been shown that the failure of these independent grocers affect a wide variety of other businesses. The fact that the failure of these merchants was the cause of such wide-spread damage to other lines of business was one of the chief causes of the investigation.

By inverse reasoning, if the failure of such a merchant is the cause of a great deal of damage in the community, it can reasonably be presumed that his success will likewise be reflected in the growth and success of the community. That the success of the local merchant has become the concern of other lines of business and occupations is shown by the fact that bankers, labor union leaders, real estate men and others are coming to the front and actively co-operating in moves to help the small merchant.

Minister Tells His Story

It was The Interstate Grocer that first weighed the value of the home-town merchant to his community in comparison with the chain store and pointed out that the local merchant was literally the backbone of the community and that if he was driven out of business, his going would be marked by disaster to every individual in the community.

How necessary the local merchant is to the upbuilding of the community is shown in a letter written by a Methodist minister to his church publication. This letter shows plainly that if local charities, churches and other institutions that go to make up a desirable town in which a man may live and rear children should have to depend upon the gifts of the chain store, they would speedily starve to death. Here is what this preacher has to say:

"I am a pastor in the Mid-West. I face a two-fold problem in this section. In the center of an agricultural territory I am dependent for financial support on a community which hardly ever thinks except in terms of coal mining. When the mines run the community is prosperous. When they shut down it is not.

Chains Bring Lowered Morale

"And the prosperity of the community is reflected in the work of the church. Just now it is the lack of prosperity that is thus reflected. And the results are well-nigh disastrous.

"Into this community of which I speak there have come three chain stores. These stores have brought low prices and a lowered morale among the business men of the community. Their offerings cover the field of groceries, general merchandise, notions, clothing (men's and women's) fruits and meats. During times of prosperity our merchants give liberal credit to their customers, and now they watch these customers spend their ready cash at the chain store, while the old accounts remain unpaid.

"Now, the crux of the situation as far as the church is concerned came rather forcibly to my attention in the last few weeks. In spite of our stringency we are boldly proposing to put up a new church building. Overcrowded conditions make this imperative.

All He Got Was Polite Letter

"So we turned to our most liberal givers, who, not surprisingly, were the substantial merchants, business and professional men of the town, and presented the matter to them. The response was sincere and in many cases sacrificial. But in every case there was the facing squarely of the situation created by the chain store.

"This fact suggested to me that I write to the management of these stores which had precipitated the situation in the community and suggest that they show their interest in our religious enterprise by making an actual contribution to our work, equal to the average at least. I quote herewith a paragraph from the reply of one of their executives:

" 'I am sponsoring several projects of magnitude either of a philanthropic or semi-philanthropic nature. It is therefore necessary that we conserve our funds very carefully in order to carry our own projects to completion. For this reason, I am finding it necessary to decline financial assistance to many worthy causes with which I am in entire sympathy.' "

Local Dealers Bear the Burden

"As a matter of fact," continues this preacher, "this paragraph explains several things to me. Out of my experiences as a pastor I have found that a great share of the financial burden of the church, benevolent and local, has been borne in the past by our local business men. Today these same business men are watching the money honestly owed to them by their debtors being spent at the chain store.

"And this money is thereupon diverted away from the community into channels which are naively designated 'our own projects.' I know that in this community the chain store is costing us each year as a church the difference between $700 and $1,200 in world service money, and perhaps the difference between an adequate church building program just now."

This is just a fair sample of the "salve" that is handed out to local communities that try to pry loose some change from the chain store magnates in aid of community upbuilding. A polite—exceedingly polite—letter of regret—heartily in sympathy with the cause, etc.—but forced to decline owing to other calls which cannot be ignored.

What Is Total Chain Damage?

A local merchant who refused to do his part toward the upbuilding of his community, would soon be spotted and would suffer accordingly, but there is no way of ascertaining whether the "philanthropic" excuses of the chain store magnates are real or simply excuses to avoid having to donate any money to charity.

The statement of this minister that the advent of the chain stores in his town is costing his church from $700 to $1,200 a year in diminished revenue raises the question as to how much the chains are costing altogether in that town.

The Interstate Grocer has always contended that the local merchants spend far more toward civic movements than the difference in prices between what they charge for their goods and what the chain store charges. It is becoming more evident every day that the consumers in chasing the ignis fatuus of a few pennies saved in the chain stores are losing the dollars donated to the upbuilding of the community by the local dealers whose business has been reduced or lost altogether to the chain stores.

BITTINGER.

The question is not, did you win the game,
But it is, did you play it fair?
If you did, you will live in the halls of fame;
If you didn't you won't, so there.

Mrs. Ed. Raley spent Monday of last week at the home of Mrs. Alice Buckle.

After a visit of several days at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Norman Bittinger, near Salisbury, Pa., Jacob Fazenbaker returned to his home here a few days ago.

Mrs. Floyd Bittinger, of the Dry Run Settlement, was shopping in this village one day last week.

Jonas Knox, of near Rock Lodge, passed through this settlement very recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ault and family, of Accident, were guests at the Perry H. Broadwater home some days ago.

Leona Brenneman, the ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brenneman, of the Amish Settlement, near here, was taken to The Wenzell hospital in Meyersdale on Tuesday afternoon of last week, when it was thought she would be obliged to be operated upon for appendicitis, but it was found not necessary to operate and the child was brought home again on Friday.

The mercury reached the zero point on Wednesday morning of last week, in this section, and remained in that neighborhood for a couple days.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Resh, of near Jennings, were business callers in this village on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Asa J. Orendorf was confined to his home a part of last week, by an attack of grippe, but is better at this writing.

The regular monthly meeting of the Community Homemakers club, was held at the home of Mrs. C. C. Beachy last Thursday afternoon. Notwithstanding the deep snow and stormy weather, twelve members were present and some visitors, all of whom enjoyed the meeting and the refreshments served by Mrs. Beachy. In the adsence of Miss Benthien the meeting was very ably conducted by Mrs. Beachy, the president of the club.

Miss Myrtle Custer, of Jennings, spent a part of last week visiting friends in this community.

Eugene James Raley, aged thirteen years and seventeen days, son of Clarence Raley, died very suddenly at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Clarence Stephens, near this place, last Friday afternoon.

The lad began complaining of a severe headache on Thursday, and he grew rapidly worse. In spite of repeaded efforts no doctor could be gotten to see the patient, as the roads were blocked by snow drifts. At two thirty Friday afternoon death ensued. Funeral services were held from the Lutheran church in this village on Monday, Rev. E. E. Campbell officiating.

The carrier on the mail route between this village and Grantsville, was forced to carry the mail with horses and sled the past few days, for the first time this winter, the snow fall of last week having so completely blocked the roads that travel by any other means was impossible.

Some camp owners in this neighborhood cleaned up their equipment last week and hauled their sap pails out in the grove, ready for tapping the trees, but a sudden change in the weather and a fall of about a foot of snow covered up the pails and persuaded the sugar makers to be a bit more patient.

Clarence Raley, of Finzell, was called to this neighborhood last Friday by the sudden death of his son, Eugene, as noted above.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beitzell and daughter Ruth, spent an afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beitzell, on Negro Mountain, one day last week.

GLADES.

Eugene James Raley died very suddenly at the home of his aunt, Mrs. C. C. Stephens. He is survived by his father, step-mother, seven brothers, and seven sisters, aunts and uncles and a host of other relatives and friends. He was aged 13 years and 17 days. Interment was made in the Bittinger cemetery.

Mr. Homer Beachy made a very pleasant trip to Hagerstown over the week-end.

Misses Ruth and Sue Raley, Mr. C. C. Stephen, Canton, Ohio, returned to this place Saturday to attend the funeral of the formers' brother, Eugene Raley.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

Here we are, at a period in Maryland history when Democratic candidates for Governor should be as plentiful as September mosquitos on the Choptank swamps, but there's nobody active—nobody breaking their necks getting the nomination.

It's all because the old Demoertic party with its 60,000 majority in 1926 is headed for the rocks. And just because it is so headed the Republicans are perking up. Men in that party who, after the election of 1926 almost thought the organization had been wrecked, are talking about the excellent prospects for next year. There are Republican would-be candidates almost everywhere.

The adherents of the Ritchie machine, now wabbling all over the highway, have one great hope and that is that they will be able to steer the "investigations" of the roads scandal in such a way that the party will be saved from annihilation next year. On the Annapolis committee sits Brooke Lee, who eats, drinks and thinks in political terms. He is the one politician who hopes to get something out of the roads scandal. His evident purpose is to soft pedal it and get Democratic party thanks for so doing.

But the spectacle observed from the outside is a remarkable one. Instead of one committee making an official into the robbing of the taxpayers, there are two. One, handpicked by the Governor, sits in Baltimore. The other, handpicked by the Governor's followers, sits in Annapolis.

The Annapolis committee summons members and witnesses of the Baltimore City committee. The Annapolis committee undertakes to investigate the Baltimore investigation. Meanwhile two Grand Juries have dipped into the mess and the State's Attorney of Baltimore City is called upon to tell the Annapolis committee about that.

Ritchie and Jackson
Deal Is Reported

The other day I heard a report to the effect that Governor Ritchie had approached ex-Mayor Jackson in hope of an alliance and that such an alliance had been made. But I cannot believe it for, say what one may, it is not at all likely that Jackson is stupid enough to tie himself to a lost cause. Ritchie is on the way out and most people seem to think he could not be elected dog catcher in Maryland in the face of his record in handling or mishandling the road scandal. Jackson is hoping to come back and has never been in such a mess as is Ritchie.

Of course it is possible that neither Ritchie nor Jackson is making any war just now when the appointments are pending and everyone wants to get as much as possible. But I cannot see an alliance. It may be that some of Jackson's opponents seeing the status of Ritchie would like to have it reported that such an alliance has been effected.

It is true that the Governor has grown cold on the Curran-Ennis combine. He has been cold on Ennis for months, evidently having reached the conclusion that that would-be leader can never pass the would-be stage. I take it that the Governor has had no open break with Ennis only because he does not want to displease Frank A. Furst, who is devoted to his secretary.

A great shock must have come to Bill Curran when the governor named a new judge of the Juvenile Court without even letting him know what was in prospect.

It appears that the women politicians for once took the Juvenile Court matter in hand and prevailed on the Governor to supplant Judge T. J. C. Williams. There were women candidates for the place, it seems, among them Mrs. Helen Sherry, prominent in one group of women lawyers while the other group of women attorneys failed to back her.

Miss Lavina Engle, the alert manager of the League of Women Voters, backed Thomas J. Shryock Waxter, who was one of the darkest of the many dark horses in these parts. And so Waxter quickly went over while city politicians of all shades of opinion gasped.

Some undertook to charge that Miss Engle had committed the unpardonable offense of indorsing a Republican, but I am assured that Mr. Waxter, still a young man, is registered as a Democrat even though his father was an active Republican.

Miss Engle tells me that Mr. Waxter has been taking great interest in social work for several years and that she is confident that he will make good. And, of course, all know that the Juvenile Court of Baltimore City, like some other governmental institutions hereabouts, needs a bit of reformation.

Another Sop Thrown To Ritchie Opponent

The action of the Governor in giving the State Insurance Commissionership to Harrison Rider, Democratic boss of Baltimore County, is being likened to some other things done by Mr. Ritchie in the latter days of his reign.

No one ever heard of Mr. Rider as an insurance expert but many have heard of him as a very successful horse trader and live stock dealer. He is president of the Board of County Commissioners of Baltimore county.

When the Governor first named Carville D. Benson to the same insurance job many saw in it the taking of an opponent into camp, as Benson had been a severe critic of Mr. Ritchie up to that time. Then the Governor gave an important appointment to another severe critic when he named S. K. Dennis to be the Chief Judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore city. By so doing many thought he had shelved Dennis as a candidate for the Governorship in 1930.

Everyone who knows about politics is aware that Mr. Rider has been free in his criticism of the Ritchie administration. It is well known that a little over three years ago when the Governor was organizing his spontaneous petitioners in behalf of his third term and the late Carville Benson was called on to do the work in Baltimore county, Mr. Rider bucked and killed the scheme so dead that there was no third term petitioning at all from Baltimore county.

So it seems that if one is to be handed a good office by the Governor the first essential is to give the state executive a good cussing out.

Attitude of Auditor Not Admired By Some

It is evident that some of those who have heard Auditor Croggon, the chief of the force of private accountants engaged by the Governor to supersede the State's own men in examining the roads accounts, have not been pleased with the superior attitude assumed by that gentleman in testifying at Anapolis. To question afteer question the auditor replied by referring to his printed report—a document which tells very little and leaves out a great deal. Of course, the members of the committee and their counsel could very well read the report themselves. They did not need to summon Mr. Croggon to do that for them. The only conclusion they could reach was that Mr. Croggon's knowledge was limited to the facts as stated in the report and that this information was limited by the official instructions he received.

To date there has been a lot of mud and mist and fog and haze about these investigations. No one has seemed to be energetic in getting all facts. The Annapolis committee seems to be stalling and avoiding the calling of essential witnesses. For instance, there is the case of Eddie Thomas, the young friend of John Mackall, who bought a great lot of silverware. He presented a written report but the committee would not adopt the suggestion that he be called and questioned. There was the instance of W. Hampton Magruder, Prince George's county, who seems to have handled the barbecue and sandwich money. He presents a report without vouchers and he is not called for examination.

The original vouchers presented to the State Roads office by Eddie Thomas have disappeared and we hear nothing of any effort to find the cause of their disappearance. We don't hear what became of Mr. Magruder's vouchers. Maybe it doesn't matter—they were for only $7,000 or $8,000, a small matter.

We have not heard where the authority was obtained to spend public money appropriated for roads on such luxuries as silver punch bowls.

We have not yet been told why it is that a high official can ignore the law without being cited for trial when the little fellows have to march to court. We have not found out why it is that high officials can disregard the State budget while their employees cannot.

Governor Makes
His Appointments

The biennial appointments of the Governor have been made and there is practically nothing remaining except the designation of the police magistrates and People's Court justices for Baltimore city. To please someone the Governor has dumped the associate and the assistant judges of the Traffic court. We assume the Governor owed some political debts that he saw fit to pay in this manner.

The police court places can still be held over the heads of members of the Legislature until the close of the session. It is the usual practice.

There are some other appointments to be made after the Legislature adjourns, among them some of the most important places which have been legislatively juggled out of the hands of the Senate Committee on Executive nominations.

Norris Now Leading County Republicans

In recent months there has been a shift in the line-up of Republicans in Baltimore county with the result that a majority of the members of the State Central Committee are now cooperating with George R. Norris, of Dundalk in his efforts to build up a better organization.

In the last few years the party organization in Baltimore county has been very much enfeebled due in part to annexation as well as other causes. It has been a long time since the Republicans had representation on the Board of County Commissioners of that county.

I hear that Mr. Norris, who is a comparatively young man, is very active in his efforts to build up the party and to put a strong local ticket in the field next year when a full county and State slate will be named.

Public School Association
Now to the Fore

Some good citizens are deploring the fact that there is evidently a loss of civic pride in Baltimore city and that in many ways everybody's business is becoming nobody's business. It is mentioned with regret that there is no longer such an organization as the Reform League which a generation ago did much good work.

Under these admitted circumstances it will be pleasing to many that the Public School association is taking a hand in some public affairs and it is now engaged in going to court in an effort to require the Mayor to comply with that section of the city charter which makes it plain that a city official cannot hold more than one municipal office at one and the same time.

There should be an organization of some kind to deal with such problems—problems that cannot well be left to individual effort and expense. I am glad to see that the Public School Association is very much alive—without discussing the merits of the case which have to be decided in court.

New Lexington Market
Is Again Proposed

Comes another proposal for the reconstruction of Lexington Market. It seems reasonable and desirable, but my best guess is that it will not get through. The chief reason is that there are here in Baltimore so many citizens who want things to stay as they are and who fear any change. There are thousands of them—wedded to their idols and offended when anyone points to their error.

They are satisfied with Lexington Market as it is, just as they are happiest when all other things are as is We are a very conservative people with the oldest daily paper in the town playing upon and capitalizing a conservatism that is at times discouraging.

War in Montgomeery
Goes on Fiercely

There are no signs of an armistice in the war between the different elements of the Montgomery County Democracy. It is plain that the opponents of Brooke Lee are out to get his scalp and they are making systematic preparations.

The head of the anti-Lee movement is Albert M. Bouic, of Roekville, a lawyer with a wide acquaintance and a thorough knowledge of political conditions. The anti-Lee sentiment is strongest in the upper section of the county where the Republican vote is lightest. In the lower or suburban end of the county it is asserted there are many Republicans who are allied with the Lee people in local affairs and who are registered as Democrats so as to be able to help Lee in the primary election in return for favors to be obtained from the county government.

Of course, the fighting will not become fierce till next year and then I hope to be able to journey over to Montgomery county to see the slaughter. No doubt the money shed will be greater than the bloodshed. And it will not be two-dollar bills this time, either.

Urges Adapted Seed in Growing Alfalfa

While alfalfa is a highly valuable crop in Maryland and its increased production is recommended particularly in the dairy sections, many farmers have encountered difficulties in growing it successfully, one outstanding reason being the use of unadapted seed, it is said by Maryland Extension Service.

Farmers who are planning to sow alfalfa this spring should make sure of getting adapted seed of the right type, according to Mr. Oldenhurg, and then if proper cultural methods are followed the chances of failure will be greatly redueed.

There are two general types of alfalfa, Mr. Oldenburg explains. One is the varigated, of which the Grimm and the Ontarion varigated are the most widely grown varieties. The other type is the common alfalfa of which there are many regional strains.

The common alfalfa has been found the best type for Maryland conditions. Knowing the type of seed he is purchasing, however, is not sufficient to assure the Maryland farmer that he is securing suitable seed must know where the seed was grown. Seed of the common alfalfa grown in Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Montana and possible Utah should prove suitable to Maryland conditions, although Utah seed has not been sufficiently tried out in the State to assure its entire satisfaction. Generally speaking, however, common alfalfa seed from these sections is known as adapted seed which means that it is suited to Maryland conditions.

If the farmer desired to be sure of getting seed he should secure what is known as seed of verified origin.. Such seed has been inspected by the United States Department of Agriculture and its origin certified. If a farmer purchases seed of verified origin, he has the Department of Agriculture's assurance that it was produced in the State or region designated.

Verification, however, relates only to the origin of the seed and is not an assurance of variety, purity, germination, quality, grade or other factors, it is said.

Sweet Clover Grazing Most Profitable For Dairymen

On soils that contain lime the most productive grazing crop known today is sweet clover, according to the experts in forage crops in the United States Department of Agriculture. They point out that a good stand of second-season sweet clover can carry two head of cows per acre from early spring until midsummer while cases are known where four head did not keep it down. Get the stock in early, they advise, when the clover is 6 inches high, and put cattle enough on to keep it from blossoming; with only one cow to an acre the clover gets old too fast.

For continuous grazing, they point out, two fields of sweet clover are necessary, one that has just passed its first winter and one starting its first season's growth. Turn cattle on the older field in the spring and keep them there until July 15-30 By this time the sweet clover will bloom and get too woody to be palatable and the clover on the new field should be 6 to 8 inches high. The new clover will carry only about half the stock the old field carried, and allowance must be made for that by having double the acreage or by having other pasture. All excess acreage in the fall is not a bad thing, as any field not needed for grazing the next season can be turned under the next spring for corn with great benefit to the corn.

After grazing stops on the older field the clover will make considerable growth and this can be plowed under in the fall with great benefit to any succeeding crop. There is less danger from bloat with sweet clover than with other clovers, but eases have been known, and the usual precautions should be taken.

Hatchability of Eggs An Inherited Characteristic

Forty per cent or 800,000,000 of the 2,000,000,000 eggs incubated annually fail to produce live chicks, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Such a low rate of hatching ability causes heavy losses to the industry annually. Solution of the problem is one of the important undertakings of the poultry specialists at present.

With many factors, such as breeding, feeding and management, have an important bearing on the hatchability of the eggs produced, heridity is also a factor. It is now known that some hens lay eggs of a higher hatchability than others and that this characteristic can be transmitted from sire to daughter as well as from mother to daughter. In fact, the studies already made by department poultrymen indicate that strains which will produce eggs with a very high hatching power may be developed by trap nesting, pedigree hatching, and selection of hens producing a high percentage of livable chicks.

At the department's poultry experiment farm at Beltsville, Md., breeding work is being conducted to develop strains of high hatching ability. Some progress has already been made. Records of one hen with an average of 90 per cent hatched eggs show that she has transmitted this characteristic in a large degree to her progeny. She has two daughters and seven granddaughters with records of hatchability ranging from 78 to 95 per cent, or an average of 86 per cent hatchability.

Department poultrymen are of the opinion that such records as these will prove of interest to the poultry breeder or commercial poultryman because they are evidence that a pedigree, showing number of eggs alone and no evidence of their hatchability, is greatly lacking in completeness.

Farm Efficiency Promoted by Tractor

A more efficient use of man labor on Maryland farms is seen by R. W. Carpenter, specialist in farm engineering for University of Maryland Extension Service, in the increased number of tractors now employed by farmers in the State.

In 1920, Mr. Carpenter points out, there were 2,500 tractors on Maryland farms and 174,000 horses and mules. In 1925 the number of tractors had increased to 4,000 and the number of horses and mules had dropped to 148,000. In other words, says Mr. Carpenter, the loss of 26,000 horses and mules was more than offset by the increased number of tractors if each tractor is given a rating of twenty horse power.

The increased use of the tractor simply means that farmers are discovering the necessity of employing their own labor and that of their hired help more efficiency, it is explained. If a man undertakes to do work that can be done by a horse or mule his earning power will be in proportion to his efficiency as compared with that of the animal. In ordinary tillage operations, a man is about one seventh as efficient as a horse or mule and his labor on such tasks would be worth about fifteen cents per day. This is about equivalent to the wage of the Chinese Coolie working on his little patch of ground.

If a man undertakes to compete with the modern machine he is at a still greater disadvantage and his earning power drops to about ten cents per day. On the other hand, it has been illustrated that high priced American labor equipped with proper machinery can produce rice so cheaply that it can be transported across the Pacific and sold at a profit in the Chinese market in competition with the native product. This simply means that while an American may receive thirty-five times as much in wages as a Chinese Coolie, his efficiency has been multiplied 140 times by the use of the proper machinery.

Despite the progress toward greater efficiency of man labor on Maryland farms, there are still tremendous opportunities in many lines. The tractor is not the only farm implement concerned. In fact, if a farmer has a preference for horses, he can go far toward getting tractor results by the use of larger teams. These implements are still common throughout the States whereas the riding cultivator will accomplish the same work in less time and at practically one fourth the cost.

INAUGURATION DAY

The day when a president of the United States is inaugurated is one which naturally lends itself to public display. If we did things after the manner of the old world, it would be a day characterized with the most regal splendors.

From time immemorial the coronations of kings and emperors have been festivities of the most unlimited magnificence. The effort seemed to be to impress the people of these monarchs, and to give suggestions of the enormous wealth they controlled, and the vast reserve of military force that protected their thrones. The main idea often seemed to be to overawe the people, and say to malcontents that they would not better start any revolutionary movements against such majestic potentates.

Our inauguration days have had a different motive. Most of our presidents have wanted to have them simply observed. Thomas Jefferson, according to the old story, rode up to the capitol grounds on his horse, tied the beast to the fence, and walked in to take the oath. Most presidents would do the thing with equal simplicity if they could, for such men do not care anything for displays of magnificence.

But the people do not like to pass over such events with little notice, and the Washington folk naturally like to see crowds coming into their city to spend money and have a good time. So there always will be impressive parades and brilliant social events for this occasion. But the affair will always be democratic, something which arises from the spontaneous desire of the people to celebrate, not from any purpose of the presidents to impress the multitude.

The cheers of the crowd must be heartening to a new president, giving him the feeling that he does not carry these tremendous burdens alone, but that the people stand behind him, and are backing him up in every useful plan that he makes.

CLOSING THE MARYLAND GAP

Northern West Virginia is watching with interest the bill in the Maryland legislature which provides for the construction of three miles of road and joint construction with West Virginia of a bridge, all on the Northwestern Turnpike between Gormania nnd Mount Storm. The measure was introduced a week ago and is said to have every prospect of enactment in a short time.

With the improvement of that small stretch and a small link now being improved in Preston county near the Maryland line, the last work will be done to complete the Northwestern Turnpike from Parkersburg to Winchester and Washington.

There is some agitation in Maryland to have the bridge built at Bayard instead of at Gormania, but as this would require West Virginia to build an additional five miles of road where by the Gormania road nothing would have to be done in the way of additional road improvement by this state, it is not thought likely that the Bayard route will be given serious considerntion.

The completion of the Turnpike, as it effects Morgantown, would be to lessen the distance from this city to the national capital by about 30 miles. In addition it would make it possible to avoid all of the mountains along the National Pike and would avoid Frostburg, Cumberland, Frederick and other points along the mountainous route. The distance would be less, the normal grade less and the mountains eliminated. This would make a more generally satisfactory route to Washington, Virginia and points south. Morgantown New Dominion.

Some of the Things Behind the Cruiser Bill

To the Editor of The Republican:

"[illegible] bestirred itself for some part of the work authorized,' editorial in a leading paper of seaboard city the day after bill was signed by th must have been per- that city had been bestirring itself for some time. And he must have been in touch with the fact that the representatives of the city's interests had been helping to put over one of the most effectual pieces of lobbying ever put through in Washington.

For the cruiser bill is an expression of the shipbuilders aspirations for contracts. A powerful economic group has been quite open in its demand for the building of steel ships. This too when the navy itself has demonstrnted that such ships are practieally obsolete. Yet the overtaxed citizen must see $17,000,000 each allotted for five ships, any one of which could be instantly destroyed by a bomb from a passing airplane.

It is only the urge of the shipbuilders that could have put through so feverish and unjustified a building program. And the editor need not be afraid that his city might lose part of the spoils. Plans for such division have been long and definitely made.

Yet there remain one or two questions: Is such feverish haste justified by the world situation? With a Disarmament Conference at hand why place contracts for cruisers that may be scrapped? The country at large may be slow in asking, yet the answer will have to be made. When it is, it will be seen that the most powerful thing behind the bill was not the matter of national defense, but of private interests. L. M. F.

Handbook on the Control of Communicable Diseases

A small handbook giving the signs and symptoms, chief sources of infection, modes of transmission, and other information in regard to the more common communicable diseases —among them diphtheria, measles, mumps, scarlet fever, smallpox, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, and whooping cough—has been published by the State Department of Health. The book is of convenient size and shape and can be readily carried in the pocket. It was prepared especially for the use of health officers, physicians, public health nurses, and teachrs. In addition to other items, the period of incubation—that is the length of time which elapses between exposure to one of the catching diseases and the appearance of the first symptoms of the disease—and also the length of time, during which children or others who have been ill with any of the diseases described, or who have been exposed to them, must be excluded from school, are stated for each disease. A copy of the handbook may be obtained by writing to Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, 2411 N. Charles St., Baltimore City.

DIED

MRS. ELIZABETH HINEBAUGH

Mrs. Elizabeth Glotfelty Hinebaugh, aged nearly eighty-nine years, died at her home in Oakland Monday evening following a brief illness, heart failure and extreme age being the cause of death. Mrs. Hinebaugh was the widow of the late William Hinebaugh, well known in his day as a leader in educational matters and as a churchman of high standing. For many years he was county superintendent of education in this county. Mrs. Hinebaugh was the daughter of William and Esther Glotfelty, having been born on a farm near Salisbury, Pa., and with her parents moved to what is now Garrett county eighty-three years ago where they took up their residence on the farm now occupied by William Glotfelty east of Accident. She was married to her late husband more than seventy years ago, and to this union were born a number of children, of whom the following survive: Mrs. Etta Boyer, of Fairmont, W. Va.; James O. Hinebaugh, Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh, Wade H. Hinebaugh and Arthur Y. Hinebaugh, Oakland, and Mrs. John G. Robinson, of Gettysburg, Pa. The deceased children are William G., Lucinda and Esther. She is also survived by a large number of grandchildren, thirty great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon in St. Mark's Lutheran church by the Rev. Charles A. Shilke, pastor, and interment will be made at Accident where lie the other members of the family who preceded her. Mrs. Hinebaugh was a member of the Lutheran church from early childhood and until her last illness was a regular attendant upon the services when conditions of the weather would permit. She took an active interest in the affairs of her community and was devoted to the welfare of her family and friends.

IVA HANEY

Iva Haney, [illegible] Reed Haney, Morgantown, W. Va., and daughter of Mr and Mrs. James S. Deore, of near Oakland, died at her home early Tuesday morning. Death was due to scarlet fever.

A six-year old daughter, Annis, contracted scarlet fever about 10 days ago and three days later Mrs. Haney took sick. The only other child, Mary Linn, aged 15 months, has so far escaped.

Mr. and Mrs. Haney had lived in Morgantown only a few months, having moved there from Oakland last November. She is survived by her parents, three brothers and three sisters: Earl, Cumberland; James, student in the army aviation school, Bolling Field, D. C.; Charles, at home; Mrs. Elmer Hostetler, Johnstown, Pa.; Miss Dora Dodge, Fairchance, Pa., and Miss Virginia Dodge, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Haney for three years was a teacher in the schools of Garrett county before her marriage. She was a graduate of Oakland High school.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. The body was placed in the mausoleum at East Oak Grove cemetery and will be taken later to Addison, Pa.

MRS. BARBARA MERRILL

Mrs. Barbara Merrill, 93 years old, widow of the late Orphans' Court Judge Elias Merrill of Garrett county, died Sunday morning at the home of her son, James Merrill, Oldtown road, near Cumberland. She is also survived by four other children: Mrs. Chambers DeWitt and Mrs. Ida Warnick, Westernport; John Merrill, Lonaconing, and Charles Merrill, of Garrett county.

EDWIN M. MICKEY

Edwin M. Mickey, of Gormania, W. Va., brother of Harry Mickey, Crellin, died very suddenly at his home in Gormania Sunday night. He had recently apparently recovered from an attack of influenza and was able to be out, having attended services in the Presbyterian church there Sunday night at which time he made an address to the young people of the congregation and then went to his room apparently in good health. The following morning he did not appear at his usual hour and when the door leading into his room was opened he was found dead in his bed.

Mr. Mickey was born in Pennsylvania about 58 years ago, but moved to the Gorman section with his parents shortly afterward. He was agent for the Westrn Maryland railroad at Gorman for a number of years, but for the past twenty-five years was connected in a clerical capacity with the J. G. Hoffman & Sons' Company at their Gormania tannery. His wife died a number of years ago. One son, Walter Mickey, of Los Angeles, Cal., one sister, Mrs. Bertie Taylor, Mona, W. Va., two brothers, Harry, of Crellin and George, of Elkins, survive him. He was a member of the Gormania Presbyterian church and belonged to Oakland Lodge, No. 192, A., F. & A. Masons, having joined the latter organization nearly twenty-five years ago, members of which will probably have charge of the burial services to be conducted Sunday morning at Bayard, following a service to be conducted Sunday morning at ten o'clock at his late home.

GEORGE LEE.

George Lee, 55 years old, of near Deer Park, died Tuesday night at the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, following an operation for acute appendicitis performed the day preceding. The deceased was a farmer and resided on the Senator Naylor farm near Broadford. He is survived by his wife and six children. Mr. Albert L. Lee, of Oakland, is a brother. Mr. Lee was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

DR. HENRY MORRIS.

Dr. Henry Morris, physician, died at his home in Philadelphia on last Friday. He was aged 73 years. Dr. Morris was the great-grandson of Robert Morris, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and was the author of several books on medicine. For many years he was gynecologist at Jefferson hospital in Philadelphia. Dr. Morris was at one time associate owner and manager of Brookside Inn and Cottages.

Presbyterians and Lutherans Win Majority of Games

The Presbyterians had one of the highest number of games to their credit at the close of the week's bowling contests on Monday, having won two out of three from the Met[illegible]s last Thursday and two out of three from the Postoffice on Monday. These victories strengthened the Presbyterian's hold on first place.

The Lutherans also went on a scoring rampage and defeated the Rotary club two out of three games last Thursday and won the same number from Crellin on Monday night. In the three games against Crellin they scored 601, 624, 626, for a total for the three games of 1901.

The Merchants and Methodists will meet in the first game this evening while the Rotary club and Knights of Columbus will meet for the final match.

NEW RUBBER COMPOUND WEAR-PROOFS SEIBERLING

"Affinite" Compound Adds 35% Greater Wear Says Dealer

A new standard of service, miles ahead of previous tire performance, has been set by the new Seiberling Special Service tire. The most gruelling road tests have only served to prove this tire the high mark of achievement for 1929 in the rubber tire industry, according to J. S. Elliott, of the Oakland Tire Service, local distributor of the Seiberling Tires.

"The first thing to be said about this remarkable tire," Mr. Eliott explained, "is that it is the result of design, not of accident. The tire, 10% wider and 35% deeper in tread, gives 40% greater traction than any previous Seiberling tire.

"But that isn't all. A new rubber compound—'Affinite'—developed by the Seiberling Rubber company, gives the Seiberling Special Service tires 35% greater wear. The achievement is Frank A. Seiberling's answer to the challenge of the new 1929 car models. The 1929 car will start 27% faster, travel 28% farther, maintain top speed, if necessary, hour after hour, and stop 20% more quickly. This means a terrific strain on the rubber equipment.

"Not satisfied to rest upon the revolutionary improvements which the company has made year after year in tire manufacture, the research department of the Seiberling Rubber company has developed a new combination of crude materials which, when mixed with rubber and vulcanized, results in a finished tread stock stronger, tougher and more enduring than ever before, without sacrifice to elasticity. The new compound is best understood when it is realized that in abrasion—or the process of wear—millions of molecules are whirled off the tires in the gruelling test of the road. The usual, less firmly knit compound vulcanized in ordinary tires, meant that abrasion would more quickly destroy the tire by disintegrating the molecules.

"The new compound developed by the Seiberling Rubber Co. causes the closest possible affinity between the molecules, hence the name 'affinite.' It gives remarkable new wearing qualities to Seiberling tires.

"Exhaustive tests, in which sections of tread stocks were held against a friction wheel under even tension and pressure, showed that the new tread stock wore down 35% less rapidly than the best tread stock heretofore used. Thus the abrasion was 35% less and the wearing qualities of the new Seiberling Special Service tires 35% greater.

"In addition to these new improvements, Seiberling users are still given the benefit of the Seiberling nation-wide tire protection plan, under which mileage costs have been greatly reduced. Five thousand dealers on every highway and by-way of the country stand ready to repair any Seiberling tire at once and without charge in the event of any road accident. If the damage is beyond repair, a new tire will be supplied at one-twelfth of the original cost, should the accident occur during the first month of use, two-twelfths if duing the second month, etc."

Outlawing Poverty.

To The Editor of The Republican:

Outlawing war? It has been done. Outlawing poverty? Isn't poverty a thing of the past in this country? Are we not the richest people in the world? Where does poverty dwell? —Everywhere.

That 86 per cent of the Americans are poor is reported to have been stated hy no less an authority than Secretary of Labor Davis. "I wish indeed that the popular European impression were a true one, but no foreign impression of us has ever been more false," he wrte in a letter to an editor of a Welch paper. "The people of the European countries would feel more kindly toward America if they knew the truth in regard to it," he continues. "They have been deceived by appearances, which are for removed from realities. It may be that we are on the way to solving the problem of poverty in America. I hope we are—"And here we are face to face with our next great problem, one with which thinkers have been wrestling for many years, one too directly associated with peace. For poverty means class war inside a country itself.

We are realizing how big a thing is peace, as well as how blessed. How to keep it secure questions of international law, of freedom of the seas, of commerce must be taken up. We are gaining a deepening understanding of how these broad matters interrelate themselves with the shoulder to shoulder ones of brotherhood with fellow men as well as with nations. We gain a vision of the necessity of civilization's ability to offer to every man the chance of earning a livelihood under worthy conditions, elevating, as best we can with a solid foundation builded on health and education, all classes, and then poverty will have no place to dwell.

SEVEN MARRIAGE PERMITS ARE ISSUED DURING WEEK

Last Week's Increase Offset by Small Number This Week

Last week's increase in the number of marriage licenses issued was offset this week when only seven applications were granted at the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court. This brings the total for the month to 48, or nine less than for the same month last year. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with an average of three marriages each day, would tie last year's record.

Three licenses issued were marked "don't publish," while one application was refused a license.

A TRIBUTE

Dear brother and sister you've left us,
You've left us with an aching heart.
But we know it has been God's will,
That we at this time should part.

We know that you have left us,
And are gone to be with the blest.
To sing and rejoice with the angels
In the blessed mansion of rest.

Your troubles here are all ended,
You'll have no sorrow nor pain;
While it has been our loss
Yet we know it has been Heaven's gain.

As time passes on and we serve Him,
The God of those gone before,
We'll trust in that promise He gave us
To meet and part no more.

Mrs. J. Mahlon Speicher.

WHAT HOME FOLKS ARE DOING IN RELIEF WORK

"Service" Organizations Helping Unfortunates on Health Road

Because of the interest of the "service" Organizations—the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs, the Masonic fraternity, the Elks, the Knights of Columbus, the various guilds and leagues—in crippled children, hundreds of crippled children throughout the United States are having medical and surgical attention and care that otherwise would not have been possible. Among them is a lovely baby girl up in Western Maryland who came into the world with club feet, but whose little feet are being straightened so that when she learns to walk, she won't have to hobble, but will be just like other children.

One snowy day last month, in response to an urgent message, one of the public health nurses in the western part of the State drove her little car up the six miles of mountain road that led to the home from which the call had come. The young mother and father, the four months' old baby, the grandfather and some other kinfolk were waiting to see her. They told her that they had heard that the doctor from one of the big hospitals in Baltimore City had told the men at the club meeting in the town down in the valley, about the wonderful things that could be done and were being done for the crippled children. He even had said that they could straighten a baby's club feet so that the child could learn to walk and run like other children. Was that true?

They showed her the baby's feet. Was there any way for them to be straightened? Could she help them to take the baby to see the doctor? She would do it gladly, she told them. Then she arranged for the father and mother and baby to meet her at the health office down in the valley a few days later, when she was planning to bring two other crippled children down to the clinic at the hospital in Baltimore.

They all made the trip safely; the baby's legs were put in casts; the father and mother were told how to take care of her and now every two weeks they take her back to the hospital for the doctor to see her or for the casts to be changed. And they are all looking forward to the time when the casts will be taken off and the little legs and feet be straight.

"We all know in a general way about the things that are being done for the crippled children," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, said in telling the story which came to his attention through an "all-in-the-day's-work" report of the public health nurse, "but an experience like this makes us realize more vividly the possibilities of the care that is available."

A Maryland man, J. V. Muller, of Easton, has completed a home-manufactured radio television apparatus with which he has had remarkable success.

Lesson for March 3

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Eph. 1:22, 23; 4:4-6, 11-16.

GOLDEN TEXT—So we, who are many, are one body in Christ.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Serving God in Our Church.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Serving God in Our Church.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Meaning of Church Membership.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Nature and Function of the Christian Church.

I. What It Is.

It is the body of redeemed men and women, Jews and Gentiles, called out from the world, regenerated and united to Jesus Christ as head, and to each other by the Holy Spirit.

1. It was unknown in the Old Testament time (Eph. 3:5, 6).

There were saved people in that time, but people occupying the peculiar position as members of Christ's body only could enjoy such relation after the crucifixion, and coming of the Holy Spirit.

2. Predicted by Christ (Matt. 16:18).

Shortly before Christ's going to the cross, the church was spoken of as still in the future.

3. It began at Pentecost (Acts 2).

That which Christ predicted as to the church began to be historically fulfilled on the Day of Pentecost.

II. Christ Is the Head of the Church (Eph. 1:22, 23).

Christ is to the church what the head is to the human body.

III. The Unity of the Church (Eph. 4:4-6).

1. One body (v. 4).

United with Christ by faith, all believers are members of one body, of which He is the head.

2. One Spirit (v. 4).

The Holy Spirit is the agent in regeneration, and is the life uniting believers to Christ and to one another.

3. One hope (v. 4).

The hope of completed redemption at the coming of the Lord.

4. One Lord.

The one ruler of the church is Christ Himself (v. 5).

5. One faith.

Those who are under the control of the one Lord will more and more come into the unity of doctrinal beliefs.

6. One baptism (v. 5).

This is the baptism of the Holy Spirit, which is that sovereign act of the Spirit which unites believers to Jesus Christ as head and to each other as members of His body.

7. One God and Father of all.

He is the Creator and sustainer of the universe.

IV. The Ministry of the Church (Eph. 4:11-16).

1. The ministry of certain officials (v. 11).

Gifts were bestowed upon the church for its growth.

(1) Apostles. These were appointed by Christ to superintend the preaching of the gospel in all the world, and to create an authoritative body of teaching.

(2) Prophets. These ministers were given for the expounding of the Scriptures, the body of authoritative teaching (1 Cor. 14:3).

(3) Evangelists. These seem to have been traveling missionaries to gather in the members constituting the body of Christ.

(4) Pastors and teachers. The pastor was a shepherd and teacher—two functions inherent in the one office.

2. Object of the ministry of the church (v. 12).

(1) "Perfecting of the saints."

Here is meant the mending of that which had been rent—the adjusting of something dislocated.

(2) "For the work of the ministry" (v. 12).

The perfecting of the saints has as its object their qualification to render a spiritual service.

(3) Edifying of the body of Christ.

Edify means to build up the church, the body of Christ.

3. The duration of the church's ministry (v. 13).

This ministry to continue till:

(1) We come into the unity of the faith.

(2) Till we come into the knowledge of the Son of God.

(3) A perfect man, which is the measure of the stature of Christ.

4. The blessed issue of the ministry of the church (vv. 14-16).

(1) Not tossed to and fro and carried about by every wind of doctrine.

(2) Speaking the truth in love.

Already Existent

The Christian ideal, when once it is clearly apprehended, becomes already existent.—The Times (London).

The Praise of Men

Among the chief rulers also many believed on Him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess Him lest they should be put out of the synagogue; for they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.—John 12:42, 43.

When God Is Closest

God is closest to earth when His dwelling place is a consecrated human heart, a dedicated human intellect.—E. W. Donald.

EXTRA WRONG FONTS

By Scoop

Only One Nut Needed

Archibaldson, the pressman, says that it takes 1,500 nuts to hold an automobile together but it takes only one to spread it all over the landscape.

* * *

It's On the Way

Cot McComas and "Bill" Gibson wish to announce that their masterpiece entitled "retaliation," is on the way. Writer's cramp and brain paralysis have interfered, but Scoop knows it is going to be good. They are two weeks late on it now—it ought to be.

* * *

A Little Bit Previous

What Scoop calls real patriotism took place on Thursday morning, February 21, when Bob Stanton came rushing out of his office with an American flag and unfurled it to the breeze. It took him only a few minutes to discover that Washington's birthday wasn't until the next day, and the flag consequently disappeared.

* * *

At least he had the idea. When Washington's birthday did show up, there were only about six flags along Oakland's streets to tell the world about it. (Scoop's wasn't among them).

* * *

New Equipment for Gassers

It has been rumored that the Gas company had to buy its employes some new equipment so that they could read Col. Bell's gas meter. The new equipment consisted of a flat-bottomed scow, two oars and a propellor.

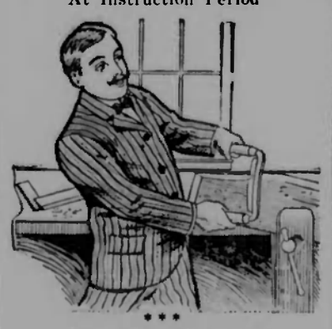
It seems that the last time Russell Brown, one of the gassers, went to read the Colonel's meter, he wasted so much time waiting for the tide to go out that Mr. Gilbert thought it cheeper to buy the boat and accessories. Russell took his horn along and while waiting for low tide, practiced on the cellar steps with his cornet until Col. Bell dropped some flashlight powder in the valves.

The following picture was taken by the Col. just after Russell had discovered the powder, and catches him in the act of wielding a wicked looking bolo knife.. The Col. almost got stuck in the pantry.

Highly Incensed

* * *

It seems as if all the Grace-ful school teachers of the county have been sitting on seats that are screwed to the floor for so long that when they get into a drug store they forget themselves. Bill Sturgiss now has a sign up there reading "These chairs tip easily. School teachers beware."



* * *

Intimate Glimpse of "Tommie"

Col. Bell visited Oakland High school this week, to get a slant at the manner of instruction used in preparing the future citizen. He discovered Tommie Graser perspiring over a lecture to the agriculture boys on the proper way to plant potatoes and onions together so that both could grow profitably. You've heard it before—the onions making the potatoes' eyes water, etc.

The following picture shows Tommie in one of his favorite postures, working on a milking stool for contented cows, while he tells his pupils that story about the two Scotchmen.

At Instruction Period

The Grantsville Theatre

Grantsville High school is sponsoring a play entitled "The Shakeup." The scene is being laid in the "Love Nest." It is expected that the curtain will be drawn before long..

* * *

"Poky" Slim" Shaw was reported to have had a vest on the other day, the first time in his life, in preparation for his boss' appearance. He's going to keep it on for he has learned that the vest is the only material on which an egg or other food spot would look genteel. Ask Major Hoople.

* * *

A Time-Keeping Fish

Jim Painter is getting out his rod and tackle, his sinkers, flies, and reels, in preparation for the coming vacation. And in order that he may not be behind the times, he is practicing also on his "fish stories," with the result that he cornered the following in Harned's Drug store: Betty and Andalusia, the gold dust twins; Buster Keaton Neil Fraley, Cot McComas, "Poky" Shaw, Jerry Stanton and of course Bill Frazee, all of whom are active members in the Amalgamation Society for The Oppression of Work.

He reeled off the folowing story in fine style:

About two years ago I was plying my rod in Dunkard Lick. While baiting my line the hook caught my watch and it was tossed into a deep hole. Time passed, and last year I returned to the same spot. I baited my line and was quickly rewarded by an eighteen pound catch. Admiring it I noticed a swelling in the gill of the piscatorial prize.

"Annoyed, I hastily split open the fish and found that the swelling was caused by the watch I had lost the year before. After that I was not in the least astonished to find the watch running and almost in perfect time. The fish had apparently attempted to swallow the watch but the stem had stuck in its gill and the movement of the gill had kept the watch wound." This proves that the time spent in fishing is never really lost.

Already Has the Fever.

OUR THIRTIETH PRESIDENT

Written for The Republican by GEORGE B. LOCKWOOD

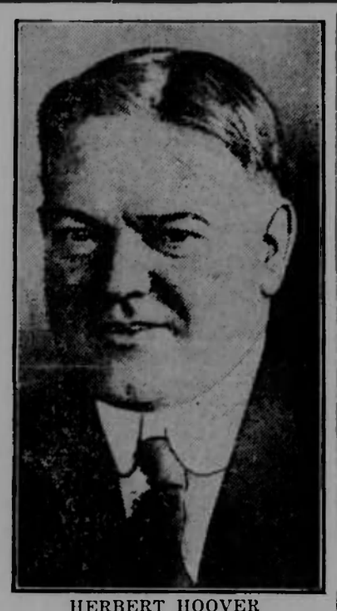
The source of human greatness is never obvious. It is to be found not in one, but in many qualities, and in the manner of their blending. It is to be found not in mere mentality, but in the combination of intellect with character. Experience plays no small part in its development with those who are capable of wisely assimilating experience. The school is only one step in education; the man headed for greatness finds life a university in which courses are continuous.

No man has ever come to the presidency of the United States, since the first president, better known at the time of his assumption of the chief magistracy, than Herbert Hoover. Better known, that is, thruout the world for his record of achievement; for what has been said and done. But the personal qualities of many presidents have been better known; partly because they had been longer in public life; partly because they were more obvious. No man ever went into the presidency through a more striking manifestation of public confidence; but that confidence was based not upon what people know about Mr. Hoover personally, but because of the ideas and deeds which constitute his known record. That is a far sounder basis of confidence than partiality for a personality. To most people, including some who know him fairly well, Mr. Hoover is something of a mystery; but what he has been able to accomplish is no mystery; it stands out as one of the most striking records of achievement ever set to the credit of an American; a record impressive not in one field, but in many; beginning with small things and then broadening to matters of world-wide moment; and every job well done.

Some explanations of Mr. Hoover's achievements, however, are apparent. First must be placed the factor of motive. The element of first importance in any life is the purpose that guides it. That may be inherited; it may be acquired through contacts; it may be willed. As one reads of the earlier life of Herbert Hoover, it is evident that from the beginning of his adventurous life he saw something in his work beside a means of gaining fame or fortune. His warm imagination saw the broader relaships of all tasks. So in Aus- as a youth called to the super- ency of a mine, he saw some- others had stumbled over, ıely that industry was a human d not a mere mechanical thing, and ıat the hearts as well as the hands of men must be put into it if it was to succeed even from a dollar and cent standpoint. So one of the first tasks to which he set himself was that of making the conditions of labor endurable.



He made the success of the enterprise worth while to his associates who worked with pick and shovel, as well as to those who drew dividends from the enterprise in London. He did not wait until he became a candidate for the presidency of the United States to preach the doctrine that all worth while progress is based on comfort and opportunity for the every day man. He put that theory into practice in the first great enterprise he managed. And it worked; worked so well that he soon rose to the management of a large group of mines, and was called thence to even larger responsibilities.

So it may be said that Mr. Hoover was in public service from the beginning, for he saw in industry an instrumentality of public service. The illustration of that ideal may be seen in all his career as a manager of mining enterprises on four continents, and the altruism which lay at the bottom of it found in the relief work of the World war, the most prodigious field of action ever opened to humanitarian leadership. He served all business connections to throw himself into that work; indeed, he closed the door on commercial endeavor forever.

A friend of Mr. Hoover, returning from Russia by way of London after Mr. Hoover had become secretary of commerce, carried to him at the request of a group of business leaders the traveller had met in the British capital, an offer of a salary of a half million dollars a year and an interest in profits that would probably have netted as much more, to undertake the direction of one of the largest mining operations in the world. This was an annual return greater than Mr. Hoover's entire fortune. Secretary Hoover's reply to the tender was

"When I was a younger man I had some ambition to acquire wealth. After passing through the World war, witnessing the agonies of humanity and feeling its desperate needs, I have lost interest in that. I made up my mind some time ago that the rest of my life would be given to public service, either in office or out of it."

What, obviously, is Mr. Hoover's motive? He sees in government, as he saw in business, a means of making political machinery count for a world of greater happiness and wider opportunity for humankind.

That motive has animated men who have done more harm than good in the world. It is usually linked with lack of practical sense. It often inspires men with patent processes for making the world over in a night thru some device of economic or political legerdermain. Men with their eyes on the stars usually walk into some bog and drown and draw others after them. It is often affected by demagogues who publicly profess love for the people in order that they may exploit the people for personal advantage. It is often proclaimed by fanatics whose real inspiration is not a love for humanity, but class hatred. The world has a right to be suspicious of men who loudly proclaim their love of the people. They are mostly visionaries or counterfeits. Herbert Hoover does not wear his heart on his sleeve either in politics or private life and he does not megaphone his ideal of service. But he lives it. That is better.

Now what are Mr. Hoover's qualifications for making his ideal a reality? No more practical minded man has ever come to the presidency. His profession is that of engineer. That was a side line with two other presidents: Washington and Lincoln. Lincoln was a surveyor and an inventor; he studied Euclid to make his thinking exact. Washington was a land surveyor who took an active interest in engineering projects such as the building of canals and highways. An engineer is a pre-planner who must know, not guess, what materials will do when they are put together. Political and economic doctrinaires do a flourishing business in showing fancy blue prints of structures that may cave in before half finished, if ever started at all. President Hoover will be no revolutionary. He will build carefully, but surely.

Like all men trained to the exact, rather than the inexact sciences, Mr. Hoover has a respect for facts. The extent to which he acquires and assimilates them impresses everyone who discusses a problem with him. Men who consider themselves, and are experts is given lines, are often astonished to find that Mr. Hoover can match his knowledge with theirs in their own special fields.

Respect for facts involves a willingness to give up a belief if the facts interfere with holding it. Therefore Mr. Hoover bears no label, such as "conservative" or "radical," "liberal" or "reactionary." Such labels involve preconceptions which facts often cannot overcome; and they are often greatly misapplied.

The explanation of Mr. Hoover's mastery of facts is found in his unusual power of concentration. He works long hours, but what is more important, he does not waste his time. Few of us utilize very much of the time we are supposed to employ in serious work. Most of us would be surprised if we could be confronted with the record of our wasted moments. Mr. Hoover's callers do not have their time or his wasted by the usual small talk about nothing in particular. While listening, Mr. Hoover often occupies himself with drawing geometrical designs on a piece of paper. His mind, however, is not on that job, hut in digesting what is said to him, without diversion throngh gazing out of a window or watching the gestures or facial expressions of the speaker. Mr. Hoover has a lively sense of humor, but he spends no time in persiflage. He spends as little time as possible on the meaningless formalities of "society." The only amusement he cares much for is occasional outdoor activities, especially fishing.

Mr. Hoover has little audacity; some of his friends think too little. Audacity, however, does not go with engineering. He does not underestimate difficulties; in his pre-convention campaign and even in the general campaign he was about the least hopeful of Hoover men. But in polities, as in war, it is better to overestimate than under-estimate the strength of the enemy; it costs nothing but mental wear and tear and ensures ample preparation for any contingency.

President Hoover will care as little about the pomp and circumstances of his great office as any man who ever lived in the white house. Power for power's sake has no appeal to him. In Europe for a time after the armistice he wielded greater power than any crowned head; there is no new "kick" in that for him.

It will become evident that in the organization of his administration, while he will have due regard for the ohligations of party affiliation and support, President Hoover will have only the highest possible efficiency in mind. He realizes that if his administration is a success publie sentiment will support him; any yielding to pressure or expediency which may impair the efficiency of his administration will weaken public confidence and make his task more difficult. There will be no petty intrigue, no playing to the galleries, no compromising of principles, with a view to the effect on another national election.

It is probable, indeed, that the small variety of politics which is so much on view in Washington, will cease, in the light of President Hoover's example, to be as popular as it has been in the past. Perhaps the leadership of President Hoover will serve to impregnate many others with the thought that the national government is too important an institution to be made the football of personal and partisan ambitions.

What of the Hoover era in national affairs? Will it realize the expectations of those who hope for so much from a new type of leadership which is a symbol of the great change that has made the functions of our national government primarily economic rather than political?

That is not all up to Mr. Hoover. Much will depend on the support given him by those who elected him, and by those millions who opposed him for election to the presidency but who as loyal Americans have accepted the result and have the same interest as their erstwhile adversaries in advancing the welfare of the American people. Much will depend on the attitude of legislative leaders of both the Republican party and of the opposition party as well.

There is reason to believe that we are only on the threshold of national progress; at the beginning of an era of invention, organization and cooperation which will bring about that abolition of poverty which Mr. Hoover has declared to be a realizable dream.

"The American system" of social and economic service, as Mr. Hoover pointed out in more than one of his notable campaign addresses, means the widest possible diffusion of prosperity and opportunity. It means the unloosing, rather than the chaining, of the spirit of individualism which has been responsible for our almost miraculous national progress.

America's service to the world depends upon the maintenance of our own national heritage and ideals, not in accepting the outworn European conceptions of the master state and the subject citizen, whether monarchial or socialistic. It depends upon the maintenance of our own national economic as well as political independence. It depends upon the maintenance of both moral and military defense against the elements, from within and without, which cannot comprehend the unique value of our national heritage and would destroy it. It depends upon the greater earning and wider diffusion of wealth, the broader opening of opportunity for the millions; upon better and happier homes, whose hearthstones shall become altars of American patriotism. And thus may we assume leadership in the world: by the power of example and the influence of our worthwhile achievements. We may well hope to see our country travel far on the way toward this goal under President Hoover.

Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service

THE practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system.

The gasoline tank is built integral with the cowl and is unusually sturdy because it is made of heavy sheet steel, terne plated to prevent rust or corrosion. An additional factor of strength is the fact that it is composed of only two pieces, instead of three or four, and is electrically welded—not soldered.

Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way.

The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine.

The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service.

Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order.

The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine.

As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention.

The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds.

Have your Ford dealer look after these important little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A thorough, periodic checking-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance.

ACCUSES BUTLER OF FALSE CHARGE AGAINST MACKALL

$2,500 Paid Tippett

The check for $2,500 given to Tippett by Butler, made out to and endorsed by Francis J. Woods, another of the convicted roads employes, was produced by Mr. Baetjer. Tippett denied that he knew the money was part of the fund with which Butler was planning to reimburse the roads body for salary overdrafts. Butler, under questioning this morning on testimony given in two separate cases, growing out of the roads shortages, admitted that he had testified falsely.

Wilmer, also, as the session was nearing adjournment, made the charge that witnesses before the legislative committee were being tampered with, when he refused to give Senator S. Scott Beck, chairman of the committee, a list of witnesses whom he wanted summoned. He said that when he could bring them in without his intention being known, he would do so, but that he had no idea of letting the committee know who they were, so that there could be a "general getting together of heads to fix a story."

18 Witnesses to be Summoned

Requisition, for summons of eighteen witnesses to appear before the grand jury in a further probe of the State Roads Commission scandals, was made late today by Herbert R. O'Conor, state's attorney.

Names in the list sent by Mr. O'Conor to the clerk of the criminal court included those of Daniel H. Carroll, deputy state auditor, who uncovered the first peculations in the Roads Commission; C. C. Crogon and Raymond E. North, Haskins and Sells auditors who directed the final check; Joseph Allison Wilmer, Republican floor leader in the House of Delegates; Richard B. Tippett, attorney, and his two former clients, Thomas A. Butler and Charles A. Robins, now serving sentences in the penitentiary for their parts in the shortage; two other state roads employes convicted in the shortage but awaiting sentences, and a number of other witnesses who have testified in the various investigations of the roads case.

Others Listed

Included in the latter were the names of Lewis M. Mr. O'Conor's request that the clerk issue the summons to appear when and as directed by the grand jury itself. What the present grand jury contemplates could not be learned today. Mr. O'Conor himself refused to discuss the matter, but it was expected that the grand jury would make a complete investigation of the roads affairs from beginning to end.

MT. LAKE PARK.

We Have All That Necessity Requires

We are honestly of the opinion that this section of the crest of the Alleghenies can offer to the person seeking surcease from the strain incident to the present day business activities and the renewal of that vitality so necessary to carry on, as much, if not more, than any other place to our knowledge. By this time, you also doubtless know that we are further of the opinion that we lack many things to make this the Resort Desirable.

It used to be that the tired business man made "whoopee" at some place where he could blow the foam off the top and view the musical comedy composed principally of girls and skirts. Now, however, Mr. Volstead has put all places on a par, and fashion has decreed that it is not at all necessary to spend good money to go tto a show. So, what have you?

Well, we have a climate unsurpassed. The testimony of hundreds who have been benefitted by a sojourn here proves the fact. And the benefits derived are not confined to the summer months.

Our water needs no chemicals to purify it. It comes from the mountain side, far from the contamination of community life. However, we have dozens of natural springs, a number of which should be developed and kept sanitary and clean. We are informed that crystal spring is to be improved and beautified. That end of the Park would be improved by tearing down the old ball stand and fixing up and painting the stable and ice house.

We are on the main line of the B and O. railroad, a few hours ride from the cities of the east and mid-west.

Hard surfaced roads connect with the National Pike, and present indications point to the early completion of the roads leading to the old Northwestern Pike, thus giving an all the year outlet east and west.

Our electric needs are supplied by the West Maryland Power company and its service is prompt and efficient.

We have natural gas in abundance and good service by the company supplying it.

The Oakland Fire Department is promptly on the job at every call. We ought to have a system of fire plugs, standardized with Oakland, so its hose and equipment could be used in fighting possible fires at the Park, and we should otherwise assist the department in reducing the fire hazard here.

The physicians of Oakland, who serve the Park, have no superiors, and they are always on call.

The town and country markets are bountiful.

And you can find no more inspiring scenery east of the Rockies.

Having all this, and more, in conclusion, it would seem to be the part of wisdom and good business judgment—a good investment—for those who are largely interested, to spend the necessary money in making Mt. Lake Park more inviting to the people at large. Make them want to come; return them to their homes satisfied so they will want to come again.

ROADS BOOKS AUDITED IN SLIPSHOD WAY, REVEALED

Dawson Testifies That Items Properly Okayed Were Never Questioned—Others Testify

State House, Annapolis, Md., Mar. 6—Slipshod methods of auditing the books of the state vouchers and checks of the State Roads Commission, were placed before the legislative committee and the Nelligan Commission, sitting in joint session today to continue their investigation of the affairs of the roads body.

George H. Dawson, chief account clerk of the roads board, who had charge of the dual payroll bookkeeping of the commission, testified that nothing, properly okayed by the proper person, was ever questioned, and that only the most daring irregularity in vouchers would have attracted his attention.

Ousted From State Service

And immediately after he had concluded this testimony and before he had left the stand, it was brought out that he had been ousted from the state service. Under questioning by Alexander Armstrong, one of the counsel for the legislative committee, he admitted that when he concluded his vacation, which he is now on, he was not returned to the roads office, where he had been employed.

Williams was called to the stand by J. Allison Wilmer, members of the committee and Republican floor leaders in the House of Delegates, and repeated the testimony that he had made sometime ago before the Nelligan Commission in Baltimore.

He said that he had been forced to withdraw from the contract when John N. Mackall, former chairman of the Roads Commission, had sought to force him to start immediate work on the construction of the houses, Williams claiming that there were no piers in place at the time on which to place the houses, and that the span over which he was to move his ma-

DEER IN MARYLAND ARE ELUSIVE, TRAPPERS SAY

West Va. Commission Hunters Have Reached that Conclusion

Ralph Young, trapper for the West Virginia state game and fish commission, may be efficient when it comes to catching foxes and other predatory animals in traps and even has a record for catching boh cats bare-handed, so the story goes, but when it comes to coraling wild, untamed deer in the hills of Maryland, it is another story. Young, who some time ago succeeded in bagging a small buck while on one of his expeditions in the West Virginia highlands, ran into difficulties in Maryland where he had gone to capture a number of deer which the West Virginia officials desired to purchase. The one lone spike buck which Young captured in West Virginia was worn and emaciated and put up little resistance when Young appeared—but in Maryland the story was different.

Gives Up Chase

After chasing 50 deer over the greater part of the state during last week, Young and G. C. Hamilton, game warden, also employed by the West Virginia commission, gave up hope of capturing any animals. A contract entered into between game officials of Maryland and West Virginia stipulated that the Maryland deer must be captured. That Young and Hamilton proceeded to do—but didn't.

Ernest Angelo, chief game protector, sent Young and Hamilton to entrap the fleet-footed animals.

Yesterday Angelo received a short note from Young which stated that corrals had been built, countless miles had been run and the total fruit of their labor was one deer—which broke its neck in a corral shortly after capture so was totnlly useless to any game and fish commission.

Deer Too Smart

Young stated that they had experienced no difficulty in constructing the corrals, similar in design as those used in rounding up steers, but that these Maryland deer seemed to have had previous experience with corrnls and avoided them.

The West Virginia state game and fish commission has purchased and distributed 27 deer since the first of the year, Mr. Angelo said. The deer were distributed in game preserves in Mingo, Tucker, Logan and Randolph counties. They were purchased in Minnesota and Kansas.

Little "Girl Sprouts" Wish to Become Girl Scouts

Since last October, twelve of the young girls of Oakland have been trying to organize a Girl Scout troop, but without the aid of the Oakland citizens, they say, they have not been able to accomplish this.

Every Saturday afternoon they have met with their leader, Miss Kathrine Brown, at the different homes of the girls and have enjoyed themselves as much as "Girl Sprouts" could.

The citizens of Oakland have helped the boys organize a troop and if their generosity would extend to them to attain their purpose of becoming girl scouts, it would be greatly appreciated by them. Any one who will volunteer to help are asked to write to any of the members. The membership includes Misses Annabell Stemple, Adeline Stuck, Clara Bell Hamill, Gladys Aronhalt, Helen Giessman, Geneva Winters, Mary Lynn McIntire, Alice Butt, Betty Broadwater, Virginia Gilbert and Mildred Stemple.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT SHOWS GOOD CONDITION

Indebtedness on Water Farm Mortgage is Cancelled—3,000 Feet Street Improvment

The annual financial statement of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland for the year ending February 28, which will be found on another page of The Republican today, shows the town in better financial condition than it hos been in its history, according to figures set out in the report.

The statement shows that the indebtedness on the water farm mortgage has been entirely cancelled by the payment of $1,060, and that the town now owes nothing except its bonded indebtedness. In addition to this 3,000 lineal feet of stree improvement was made throughout the year, the most outstanding being the paving of the Court House hill, which has long been called an "eyesore" to the town.

These expenditures are in addition to the ordinary and necessary expenses aggregating $1,000 per month. There is a cash balance in the treasury of $4,995.45, which is $11.93 more than the balance at the same time last year.

During the past year there have never been any town orders presented that were not paid in full, Delbert Davis, president of the council, stated. "I consider the statement very satisfactory," he said.

The foregoing statement was presented by A. G. Ross, clerk, and was passed by the council and approved by Mayor L. M. Fraley at the monthly meeting Monday night.

The passing of the monthly bills and other routine business occupied the remainder of the session. Monday evening's meeting was the final session of the present council as the annual election for members of the body will be held on Monday, March 11. The new council will organize on April 1.

Congressman Zihlman Appointed on Airport Commission

Congressman Frederick N. Zihlman, representative of the sixth Congressional district of Maryland, has been appointed by Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the House of Representatives as a member of the Joint Commission on Airports, which commission is to investigate and report as to the site of the proposed Air Port for the City of Washington, D. C. The first meeting of the joint commission was held yesterday.

Congressman Zihlman was also reappointed a member of the National Capital Park and Planning commission.

Large Crowd Attends Terra Alta Minstrel

A packed house witnessed the presentation of "The Sunshine Minstrel," at the Maryland theatre last Thursday night. The show was composed of local talent from Terra Alta, W. Va., and was given for the benefit of the Knights of Pythias lodge of that town. The minstrel was considered a fair success, D. A. Caruthers, manager, the quartet, end-men, and others who gave special selections, being well received. Prior to its presentation in Oakland, the show was given at Terra Alta and Kingwood.

HERBERT HOOVER BECOMES THIRTIETH PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES BEFORE GREATEST INAUGURAL CROWD

Takes Oath of Office at 1:08 O'Clock—Urges Citizens to Aid in Law Observance

Washington, March 4—The Presidency of the United States passed to Herbert Hoover Monday in a colorful ceremony which he himself described as "a dedication and consecration under God."

Speaking to all the world in an inaugural address delivered from the historical east steps of the Capitol, the new chief executive declared disregard of law the nation's greatest peril, and appealed directly to his fellow citizens to help secure observance of the prohibition law.

Takes Oath at 1:08 O'clock

With hands upraised, he had repeated the words of the official oath of office, administered by Chief Justice Taft, at 1:08 o'clock and had kissed the bible at a passage saying "he that keepeth the law; happy is he."

A half hour earlier Charles Curtis had succeeded Charles G. Dawes as Vice-President in a ceremony inside the Senate Chamber, enlivened unexpectedly when the new and retiring second officer, making the customary brief address, disagreed directly on the old subject of the Senate rules.

One of the greatest inaugural crowds in history assembled along the hallowed parade route to honor him with colorful plaudit, and thronged the Capitol plaza to see him take his official pledge of service and kiss the Bible at that passage of Proverbs which says:

"Where there is no vision, the people perish: but he that Keepeth the law, happy is he."

The ceremony brought into official roles for the first time in the history of inaugurations, three men who have been chosen by the mandate of the people to sit at the head of the state.

President Coolidge, weary of high office, remained with his successor through the opening hours of the day's great events, but he already had announced that he and Mrs. Coolidge would leave for their Northampton home as soon as their responsibilities had passed to new shoulders. It fell to William Howard Taft, now chief justice to be selected to administer the oath of the presidency to President Hoover on the twentieth anniversary of the day he himself took up the duties of chief executive.

Hoover's Call At White House

Following long precedent, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover went to the White House to call on the retiring President and First Lady of the Land before the hour set for the inauguration itself, and to ride with them in a Cavalry-escorted motor cavalcade from White House to capitol. Their departure from the place they have called home for eight years—but a few doors distant from the house which Woodrow Wilson retired eight years ago today, and where he died—was first of a long procession of events spanning the day until late afternoon.

From early morning the weather had been threatening. The skies were dappled grey, and the weather bureau foresaw rain by late afternoon. But these apprehensions did not appear to dim the interest and enthusiasm of the thousands who lined the way of honor and waited hours in the mild March breeze to see the passing of authority to a new successor of Washington and Lincoln.

Calvin Coolidge, once again a private citizen after 30 years of government service, turned from the inaugural ceremony to begin at once his journey home to Northampton. He had seen power pass from him with whatever emotion may have been struggling within hidden behind a serene inscrutability. For the immediate future, he will devote himself to a series of magazine articles.

Parade Last Act of Program

An inaugural parade, in some respects the most ambitious in history, was the last act of the inaugural drama.

Including in its allotted units the great dirigible Los Angeles and a hundred circling airplanes. Nearly every state had its place in the long line of marching clubs, bands, military commands, and automobiles loaded down with silk-hatted Governors. Officials estimated that the rear guard would not pass the White House reviewing stand until late afternoon.

Everywhere about the chief and lesser actors in the day's panorama of history-making there were cheering throngs. They came from everywhere, overran the stands built for them along Pennsylvania avenue, and crowded the sidewalk thickly over the whole mile stretch from the White House to Capitol.

Grey and threatening skies saw the induction of the new administration into office but until the ceremonies had passed their peak only a little misty rain had fallen.

SEVERE WIND AND SNOW STORM HITS COMMUNITY

Automobile Is Wrecked on State Highway—Many Windows Broken

One automobile was wrecked and many windows were broken last night as the result of a severe wind and snow storm which hit this section with considerable force.

A tree was blown across the State road near King's hill, north of Oakland, and a Thomas, W. Va., produce truck struck it and turned over, about 1 o'clock last night, it is reported. The driver of the truck was not injured but the car was damaged considerably.

What might have been a serious fire was almost caused when the chimney on the old Bullard property was blown down about four o'clock this morning. The greenhouses of the H. Weber and Sons company were damaged to some extent by the high wind, a number of the window panes in the houses having been broken.

Windows in the store of G. A. Fraley and Sons, and in the homes of Mrs. D. E. Offutt and F. A. Thayer, and numerous others, were blown in by the force of the wind, and parts of roofs were blown from houses in several instances.

This storm has proved to be the most severe in this section this year, and it is expected that many more slight damages to personal property will be reported before the end of the week.

Man Being Held on Charge of Forging Checks

Joe Miller, about 25 years old, of near Terra Alta, was arrested by county officials Monday on a charge of forgery. He was given a hearing before A. S. Teets, justice of the peace, and held under a $300 bond for his appearance at the June Term of court. The charge was preferred by I. R. Rudy, of the Coffman-Fisher company, who stated that a check for $5 had been foged in the Oakland store, and one in Cumberland.

George Whiting, of Friendsville, was arrested on a charge of unauthorized use of a car. He was given a hearing Tuesday before A. S. Teets, who withheld decision in the case. It was learned that the man had no operator's card.

WELL KNOWN PASTOR DIES AT HOME IN NEW CASTLE

Associated With Mt. Lake Park Mission School for Many Years

The Rev. Job L. Stratton, minister of the Methodist Episcopal church for more than half a century, and associated with the Mt. Lake Park Summer School of Missions for more than a quarter of a century, died Sunday, February 24, at his home in New Castle, Pa.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, February 27, with interment in Oak Park cemetery, New Castle.

He was in the ministry for 56 years, leaving every church he served richer in the things that make for character and good citizenship. He was always ready to serve every good cause to the extent of his strength and ability. He was retired at the time of his death.

Rev. and Mrs. Stratton have been closely associated with Mt. Lake Park for 38 years, having missed but three years in all this time. They both attended the Summer School of Missions last year and had plans made to be there the coming season. Rev. Stratton was one of the promoters of the Park's interests. The many friends of Mrs. Stratton will remember her having closely associated with the activities of the Park in all these years, at the present time is president of the Board of Directors of Thompson Rest Home, and has been treasurer of the Board of Directors of the Summer School of Missions since its organization thirteen years ago.

Members of Troop Committee Address Scouts

Two short talks by W. W. Dawson and F. E. Rathbun, members of the Troop Committee of the local Boy Scouts, and the passing of a number of tests, featured the last meeting of Oakland Troop No. 1, at the Scout hall last Friday evening.

The talks were along lines of general interest to boys, and Mr. Rathbun included in his talk a few remarks concerning his recent trip to an educational conference in Ohio. Thirty-seven boys were present.

While the Tenderfoot and Second class scouts passed a number of tests, the First class scouts promised to have ready a number of merit badges for the next meeting of the Court of Honor, March 25. The following tests were passed:

David Walter, pacing, compass, knife and ax; James Treacy, Kenneth Lawton and Richard Glotfelty, first and second class thrift, pacing; Stuart Hamill, Lewis Jones, Walter Dawson, Carl Hinebaugh and George Kerins, pacing; Roger Maroney, knife and ax, pacing; Gene Nordeck, second signalling, knife and ax; Schell Hoye, second signalling.

CITY ELECTION TO BE HELD MONDAY, MARCH 11

Meeting Tonight in City Hall to Select Candidates—Polls to Open at 8:00 A. M.

That a citizens' meeting to select candidates for the annual municipal election to be held on Monday, March 11, would be held this evening, was the positive announcement of L. M. Fraley, mayor. The meeting will be called to order at 7:30 o'clock in the Town hall, Oakland. Mayor Fraley, and the citizens present, will then name their chairman for the evening.

It is thought by a number of the citizens who are interested in municipal matters that only one ticket will be named at this evening's meeting, and if such should be the case it is hinted that one and perhaps two of those now in office who are contemplating retiring from official duties, will be nominated for reelection.

Thus far, no one has signified his intention of becoming a candidate. Three persons are to be chosen for members of the Town council and one person for Town Treasurer, the councilmen to serve for two years, and the treasurer for one year. The retiring councilmen will be Delbert Davis, Samuel B. Aronhalt and William Whorton.

The polls for the election will be open at 8 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until the hour of 6 o'clock p. m., as advertised in The Republican for the past three weeks.

"I sincerely hope that there is much interest shown by the citizens tonight in these municipal matters," Mayor Fraley said. "All who can should attend the meeting at the City hall."

Rev. D. M. Funk Speaks At Brotherhood Meeting

Rev. David M. Funk, former pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Lutheran Brotherhood, held Tuesday evening in the Sunday school room of the church. Rev. Funk chose for his topic, "Love's service to a lost world."

It was the regular Lenten meeting of the Brotherhood, and there was a goodly number present, considering the weather conditions. Stanley Stahl, Bert Welch, W. E. Yutzy, and Charles Reckard were named as a committee to prepare for the next meeting. Guy Yutzy, president, had charge of the meeting.

Dr. McComas Buys Thirtieth Ford

Dr. Henry McComas has purchased his thirtieth Ford. The sale was made during the past week by C. C. Reckard, local manager of the E. S. Evans' garage, who states that the doctor has seemed more than pleased with his new model.

Dr. McComas began purchasing Fords in 1905, and since that time has purchased one each year. "You'd never know the new Ford belonged to the same family," he said. Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh also purchased a new Ford during the past week.

NUCLEUS FOR A FUTURE JUNIOR HIGH IS FORMED

Seventh Grade Children of Hutton School Now Attend at Oakland at Request of Parents

The nucleus for a Junior High school at Oakland in the next two or three years was formed on March 1, when four seventh grade pupils of Hutton elementary school were transported by bus, free of charge, to Oakland Grammar school, at the request of their parents, Mr. F. E. Rathbun, superintendent of schools, announced yesterday.

"The demand for a Junior High school will become more pronounced and intensive as the value of the merits and plan are evident to the parents of children who have about completed the elementary school education," Mr. Rathbun said.

The four who are now attending the Oakland elementary school from the Hutton school nre George Mellott, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Mellott; Gladys Gank, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gank; Velma Ralston, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elby Ralston, and Eleanor Baker, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker.

This act on the part of the parents of these children at Hutton, seems to be the beginning of the biggest step in educational advancement for Garrett county since the establishment of High schools, according to Mr. Rathbun. It is evidence on the part of parents that they want the best educational opportunities to help their children. It shows that there is a desire for equal educational advantages for both the town and country child, and parents of surrounding communities will likely make a demand within a year or so for the same facilities as Hutton is now receiving.

Possibility of 100 or Over

The possibility of having more than 100 seventh grade pupils obtain the advantage which would be offered in a Junior High school is present in 19 one and two-teacher schools within bus distance of Oakland. These pupils could come from Dodge, Broadford, Mt. Lake Park, Loch Lynn, Pleasant Valley, Bernard, Lynndale, Swan Meadow, Mason, Shield's Run, Gauer, Red House, Sunnyside, Silver Knob, Cherry Creek, Fairsweep, Crellin, Spring Glade, and Armistead.

The parents of the Hutton children felt that the step would increase the knowledge of the seventh grade pupils and better prepare them for high school by placing them under one teacher who could devote all her time to their needs, and also that it would increase the efficiency of the one-teacher in that the teacher could divide her time to better advantage among six remaining grades instead of the original seven.

Similar Opportunities for All

Similar advanced educational opportunities are available for the seventh grade elementary children in those schools surrounding Friendsville, Grantsville, Accident and Kitzmiller. In each of these four centers similar junior high schools may be formed as parents in the surrounding schools become more interested and active in their requests for such advanced educational opportunities for their children.

High School Tansportation

The transportation of high school students has now practically reached its greatest possibilities since several of the high school buildings of the county are already too crowded for the best results upon the part of students and teacher. And it may be found mandatory as a result of the crowded conditions of these high school buildings to discontinue a few of the present high school bus lines. However, this possibility will not be definitely known until it is learned whether or not there will be available any funds for new buildings, either from a bond issue for new building purposes as submitted and recommended to the Garrett County members of the present General Assembly for immediate passage or from direct county levy by the Board of County Commissioners.

The Oakland Volunteer fire department held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night at the City Hall. Only regular business was transacted.

Mr. Harry Edwards, manager of Edwards' Chevrolet Sales, spent Sunday with his family at Grantsville, returning to Oakland early Monday morning.

Text Of President Hoover's Inaugural Address

Here is the text of the inaugural address of President Herbert Hoover, delivered Monday at Washington:

My Countrymen:

This occasion is not alone the adminisration of the most sacred oath which can be assumed by an American citizen. It is a dedication and consecration under God to the highest office in service of our people. I assume this trust in the humility of knowledge that only through the guidance of Almighty Providence can I hope to discharge its ever increasing burdens.

It is keeping with tradition throughout our history that I should express simply and directly the opinions which I hold concerning some of the matters of present importance.

Our Progress

If we survey the situation of our nation hoth at home and abroad, we find many satisfactions. We find some causes for concern. We have emerged from the losses of the great war and the reconstruction following it with increased virility and strength. From this strength we have contributed to the recovery and progress of the world. What America has done has given renewed hope and courage to all who have faith in government by the people. In the large view, we have reached a higher degree of comfort and security than ever existed before in the history of the world. Through liberation from wide-spread poverty we have reached a higher degree of individual freedom than ever before. The devotion to and concern for our institutions are deep and sincere. We are steadily building a new race—a new civilization great in its own attainments. The influence and high purposes of our nation are respected among the people of the world. We aspire to distinction in the world, but to a distinction based upon confidence in our sense of justice as well as our accomplishments within our own borders and in our own lives. For wise guidance in this great period of recovery the nation is deeply indedbted to Calvin Coolidge.

But all this majestic advance should not obscure the constant dangers from which self-government must be safeguarded. The strong man must at all times be alert to the attack of insidious disease.

Failure of Our System of Criminal Justice

The most malign of all these dangers today is disregard and disobedience of law. Crime is increasing. Confidence in rigid and speedy justice is decreasing. I am not perpared to believe that this indicates any decay in the moral fibre of the American people. I am not prepared to believe that it indicates an impotence of the federal government to enforce its laws.

It is only in part due to the additional burdens imposed upon our judicial system by the 18th amendment. The problem is much wider than that. Many influences had increasingly complicated and weakened our law enforcement oganization long before the adoption of the 18th amendment.

To re-establish the vigor and effectiveness of law enforcement we must critically consider the entire federal machinery of justice, the redistribution of its functions, the simplification of its procedure, the provision of additional special tribunals, the better selection of juries, and the more effective organization of our agencies of investigation and prosecution that justice may be sure and that it may be swift. While the authority of the federal government extends to but part of our vast system of national, state and local justice, yet the standards which the federal government establishes have the most profound influence upon the whole structure.

We are fortunate in the ability and integrity of our federal judges and attorneys. But the system which these officers are called upon to administer is in many respects ill-adapted to present day conditions. Its intricate and involved rules of procedure have become the refuge of both big and little criminals. There is a belief abroad that by invoking technicalities, subterfuge and delay the ends of justice may he thwarted by those who can pay the cost.

Reform, reorganization and strengthening of our whole judicial and enforcement system both in civil and criminal sides have been advocated for years by statesmen, judges, and bar associates. First steps toward that end should not longer be delayed. Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress. It must not come to be in our republic that it can be defeated by the indifference of the citizen, by exploitation of the delays and entanglement of the law, or by combinations of criminals. Justice must not fail because the agencies of enforcement are either delinquent or inefficiently organized. To consider these evils, to find their remedy, is the most sore necessity of our times.

Enforcement of the 18th Amendment

Of the undoubted abuses which have grown up under the 18th amendment, part are due to the causes I have just mentioned; but part are due to the failure of some states to accept their share of responsibility for concurrent enforcement and to the failure of many states and local officials to accept the obligation under their oath of office zealously to enforce the laws. With the failures from these many causes has come a dangerous expansion in the criminal elements who have found enlarged opportunities in dealing in illegal liquor.

But a large responsibility rests directly upon our citizens. There would he little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law-abiding citizens is supplying the reward and stimulating crime.

I have been selected by you to execute and enforce the laws of the country. I propose to do so to the extent of my own abilities, but the measure of success that the government shall attain will depend upon the moral support which you, as citizens, extend. The duty of citizens to support the laws of the land is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist. No greater national service can be given by men and women of good will—who, I know are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor. Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support. The worst evil of disregard for some law is that it destroys respect for all law. For our citizens to patronize the violation of a particular law on the ground that they are opposed to it is destructive of the very basis of all that protection of life, of homes, and property which they rightly claim under the laws. If citizens do not like a law, their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation: their right is openly to work for its repeal.

To those of criminal mind there can be no appeal but vigorous enforcement of the law. Fortunately they are but a small percentage of our people. Their activities must be stopped.

A National Investigation

I propose to appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the whole structure of our federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the 18th amendment and the causes of abuse under it. Its purpose will be to make such recommendations for re-organization of federal laws and court procedure as may be found desirable. In the meantime it is essential that a large part of the enforcement activities be transferred from the treasury department to the department of justice as a beginning of more effective organization.

The Relation of Government to Business

The election has again confirmed the determination of the American people that regulation of private enterprise and not government ownership or operation is the course rightly to be pursued in our relation to business.

In recent years we have established a differentiation in the whole method of business regulation between the industries which produce and distribute commodities on the one hand, and public utilities on the other. In the former, our laws insist upon effective competition in the latter, because we substantially confer a monopoly by limiting competition, we must regulate their services and rates. The rigid enforcement of the laws applicable to both groups is the very base of equal opportunity and freedom from domination for all our people, and it is just as essential for the stability and prosperity of business itself as for the protection of the public at large. Such regulation should be extended by the federal government within the limitations of the constitution and only when the individual states are without power to protect their citizens through their own authority. On the other hand, we sroould be fearless when the authority rests only in the federal government.

Cooperation by Government

The larger purpose of our economic thought should be to establish more firmly stahility and security of business and employment and thereby remove poverty still further from our borders. Our people have in recent years developed a new found capacity for cooperating among themselves to effect high purposes in public welfare. It is an advance toward the highest conception of self-government. Self-government does not and should not imply the use of political agencies alone. Progress is born of cooperation in the community—not from governmental restrictions. The government should assist and encourage these movements of collective self help by itself cooperating with them. Business has by cooperation made great progress in the advancement of service, in stability, in regularity of employment and in the correction of its own abuses. Such progress, however, can continue only so long as business manifests its respect for law.

There is an equally important field of cooperation by the federal government with the multitude of agencies, state, municipal and private, in the systematic development of those processes which directly affect public health, recreation, education and the home. We have need further to perfect the means by which government can be adapted to human service.

Education

Although education is primarily a responsibility of the states and local communities, and rightly so, yet the nation as a whole is vitally concerned in its development everywhere to the highest standards and to complete universality. Self-government can succeed only through an istructed electorate. Our objective is not simply to overcome illiteracy. The nation has marched far beyond that. The more complex the problems of the nation become, the greater is the need for more and more advanced instruction. Moreover, as our numbers increase and as our life expands with science and invention, we must discover more and more leaders for every walk of life. We cannot hope to succeed in directing this increasingly complex civilization unless we can draw all the talent of leadership from the whole people. One civilization after another has been wrecked upon the attempt to secure sufficient leadership from a single group or class. If we would prevent the growth of class distinction and would constantly refresh our leadership with the ideals of our people, we must draw constantly from the general mass. The full opportunity for every boy and girl to rise through the selective process of education can alone secure to us this leadership.

Public Health

In public health the discoveries of science have opened a new era. Many sections of our country and many groups of our citizens suffer from diseases the eradication of which are mere matters of administration and moderate expenditure. Public health service should be as fully organized and as universally incorporated into our governmental system as is public education. The returns are a thousand fold in economic benefits, and infinitely more in reduction of suffering and promotion of human happiness.

World Peace

The United States fully accepts the profound truth that our own progress, prosperity and peace are interlocked with the progress, prosperity and peace of all humanity. The whole world is at peace. The dangers of a continuation of peace today are largely the fear and suspicion which still haunt the world. No suspicion or fear can be rightly directed toward our country. Those who have a true understanding of America know that we have no desire for territorial expansion, for economic or other domination of other peoples. Such purposes are repugnant to our ideals of human freedom. Our form of government is ill adapted to the responsibilities which inevitably follow permanent limitation of the independence of other peoples. Superficial observers seem to find no destiny for our abounding increase in population, in wealth and power except that of imperialism. They fail to see that the American people are engrossed in the building for themselves of a new economic system, a new social system, a new political system—all of which are characterized by aspirations of freedom of opportunity and thereby are the negation of imperialism. They fail to realize that because of our abounding prosperity our youth are pressing more and more into our institutions of learning. That our people are seeking a larger vision through art, literature, science and travel that they are moving toward stronger moral and spiritual life—that from these things our sympathies are broadening beyond the bounds of our nation and race toward their true expression in a real brotherhood of man. They fail to see that the idealism of America will lead it to no narrow or selfish channel, but inspire it to do its full share as a nation toward the advancement of civilization. It will do that not by mere declaration but by taking a practical part in supporting all useful international undertakings. We do not only desire peace with the world, but to see peace maintained throughout the world. We wish to advance the reign of justice and reason toward the extinction of force.

The recent treaty for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy sets an advanced standard in our conception of the relations of nations. Its acceptance should pave the way to greater limitation of armament, the offer of which we sincerely extend to the world. But its full realization also implies a greater and greater perfection in the instrumentalities for pacific settlement of controversies between nations. In the creation and use of these instrumentalities we should support every sound method of conciliation, arbitration and judicial settlement. American statesmen were among the first to propose and they have constantly urged upon the world the establishment of a tribunal for the settlement of controversies of a justifiable character. The permanet court of international justice in its major purpose is thus peculiarly identified with American ideals and with American statesmanship. No more potent instrumentality for this purpose has ever been coceived and no other is practicable of establishment. The reservations placed upon our adherence should not be misinterpreted. The United States seeks by these reservations no special privilege or advantage but only to clarify our relation to advisory opinions and other matters which are subsidiary to the major purpose of the court. The way should, and I believe will, be found by which we may take our proper place in a movement so fundamental to the progress of peace.

Political Entanglements

Our people have determined that we should make no political engagements such as membership in the league of nations, which may commit us in advance as a nation to become involved in the settlements of controversies between other countries. They adhere to the belief that the independence of America from such obligations iereases its ability and availability for service in all fields of human progress.

I have lately returned from a journey among our sister republics of the western hemisphere. I have received unbouded hospitality and courtesy as their expression of friendliness to our country. We are held by particular bonds of sympathy and common interest with them. They are each of them building racial character and a culture which is an impressive contribution to human progress. We wish only for the maintenance of their independence, the growth of their stability and their prosperity. While we have had wars in the western hemisphere yet on the whole the record is in encouraging contrast with that of other parts of the world. Fortunately the new world is largely free from the inheritances of fear and distrust which have so troubled the old world. We should keep it so.

Permanent Peace

It is impossible, my countrymen, to speak of peace without profound emotion. In thousands of homes in America, in millions of homes around the world, there are vacant chairs. It would be a shameful confession of our unworthiness if it should develop that we have abandoned the hope for which all these men died. Surely civilization is old enough, surely mankind is mature enough so that we ought in our lifetime to find a wey to permanent peace. Aboard, to west and east, are nations whose sons mingled their blood with the blood of our sons on the battlefields. Most of these nations have contributed to our race, to our culture, our knowledge and our progress. From one of them we derive our very language and from many of them much of the genius of our institutions. Their desire for peace is as deep and sincere as our own.

Peace can be contributed to hy respect for our ability in defense. Peace can be promoted by the limitation of arms and by the creation of the instrumentalities for peaceful settlement of controversies. But it will become a reality only through self-restraint and active effort in friendliness and helpfullness. I covet for this administration a record of having further contrihuted to advance the cause of peace.

Party Responsibility

In our form of democracy the expression of the popular will can he effected only through the instrumentality of political parties. We maintain party government not to promote intolerant partisanship but because opportunity must be given for expression of the popular will, and organization provided for the execution of its mandates and for accountability of government to the people. If follows that the government both in the executive and the legislative branches must carry out in good faith the platforms upon which the party was entrusted with power. But the government is that of the whole people. The party is the instrument through which policies are determined and men chosen to bring them into being. The animosities of elections should have no place in our government for government must concern itself alone with the common weal.

Special Session of Congress

Action upon some of the proposals upon which the Republican party was returned to power, particularly further agricultural relief and limited changes in the tariff cannot in justice to our farmers, our laborer and our manufacturers be postponed. I shall therefore request a special session of Congress for the consideration of these two questions. I shall deal with each of them upon the assembly of the Congress.

Mandates From the Election

It appears to me that the more important further mandates from the recent election were the maintenance of the integrity of the constitution; the vigorous enforcement of the laws; the continuance of economy in public expenditure; the continued regulation of business to prevent domination of ownership of operation of business by the government in competition with its citizens; the avoidance of politics which would involve us in the controversies of forcign nations; the more effective reorganization of the departments of the federal government; the expansion of public works; and promotion of welfare activities affecting education and the home.

These were the more tangible determinations of the election, but beyond them was the confidence and belief of the people that we would not neglect the support of the embedded ideals and aspirations of America. These ideals and aspirations are the touch-stones upon which the day to day administration and legislative acts of government must be tested. More than this, the government must, so far as lies within its proper powers, give leadership to the realization of these ideals and to the fruition of these aspirations. No one can adequately reduce these things of the spirit to phrases or to a catalogue of definitions. We do know what the attainments of these ideals should be. The preservation of self-government and its full foundations in local government; the perfection of justice whether in economic or in social fields, the maintenance of ordered liberty; the denial of domination by any group or class; the building up and preservation of equality or opportunity; the stimulation of initiative and individuality; absolute integrity in puhlic affairs; the choice of officials for fitness to office; the direction of economic progress toward prosperity and th further lessening of poverty; the freedom of public opinion; the sustaining of education and of the advancement of knowledge; the growth of religious spirit and the tolerance of all faiths; the strengthening of the home; the advancement of peace.

No Short Road to Progress

There is no short road to the realization of these aspirations. Ours is a progressive people, but with a determination that progress must be based upon the foundation of experience. Ill-considered remedies for our faults bring only penalties after them. But if we hold the faith of the men in our mighty past who created these ideals, we shall leave them heightened and strengthened for our children.

In Conclusion

This is not the time and place for extended discussion. The questions before our country are problems of progress to higher standards. They are not the problems of degeneration. they demand thought and they serve to quicken the conscience and enlist our sense of responsibility for their settlement. And that responsibility rests upon you, my countrymen, as much upon those of us who have been selected for office.

Ours is a land rich in resources; stimulating in its glorious beauty; filled with millions of happy homes; blessed with comfort and opportunity. In no nation are the institutions of progress more advanced. In no nation are the fruits of accomplishment more secure. In no nation is the government more worthy of respect. No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose. I have no fears for the future of our country. It is bright with hope.

In the presence of my countrymen, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, knowing what the task means and the responsibility which it involves, I beg your tolerance, your aid and your co-operation. I ask the help of Almighty God in this service to my country to which you have called me.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

At the time this is written the most important political maneuver of the week has been the bold attempts of one of the lawyers hired by Governor Ritchie in the so-called roads "investigation" to jam Lawyer Richard B. Tippett and his former client, Thomas S. Butler, now serving a prison term as one of the head men in the looting of the Roads Commission treasury.

The thing was boldly done, this badgering of the witness Butler and the bringing forth a cancelled check in an effort to show that Lawyer Tippett had accepted from Butler as a fee for his defense money known to have been stolen.

The attempt, bold as it was, failed, for it was stated and not refuted that the money had been raised on a mortgage. But the attempt gave an indication of the length to which the state administration's people are going in their effort to balk a full investigation. It must have been cheering to those who want to see wholesale corruption which has marked the Ritchie administration cleared up to see that Lawyer Tippett directed the attention of the public to Attorney Baetjer's transparent effort to protect the former chairman of the roads commission. To the public, from the beginning, Mr. Baetjer has appeared to be defense counsel rather than an investigator.

Butler, turning State's evidence, has been a chief witness for the prosecution and it is this witness against whom the Ritchie forces have directed their most strenuous efforts. They want to break him down because he has been letting out some of the wholesale rottenness of the administration.

The big question now is not about the roads administration, for the average citizen knows that it has been very rotten and that the efforts to cover up this rottenness have made it smell the worse. The real question is now the party effect.

Of course, the State administration being credited to the Democratic party, that party gets the blame for the scandal even though it is not half so much a scandal of the Democratic party as a scandal of the comparatively small Ritchie group which has been running the State for nine years with the aid of Republican votes.

But the Governor, in his great wisdom, picked Edwin G. Baetjer, a leading corporation lawyer and a known Republican, as his chief counsel in the case. At first it was thought Mr. Baetjer was to help investigate---help the Nelligan committee which committee was already headed by a very strong friend of the administration. But he has developed into a defender of the State administration and that is to some extent a gain for the Governor, who is being credited with great skill in having brought the Republican Mr. Baetjer to his aid.

Talk on the Streets
Is Growing in Volume

Of course there is great talk about it on the streets and it seems that before it is all over there may be a scandal within a scandal. But the Democrats who profited by the roads administration are hoping that the participation of Mr. Baetjer in the effort to break down the chief witness for the prosecution will have the effect of hamstringing the Republican party in the State election next year.

A month ago it seemed that the table was all set for the Republicans and that the Gubernatorial nomination would not be worth a tinker's dam to the Democrats. But many now see in the Baetjer activities in behalf of the Democratic State administration a tarring of the Republicans with the Democratic stick.

It is true that there is another Republican lawyer more or less in the mess and that is Alexander Armstrong, a former Attorney General. Some of Mr. Armstrong's friends bemoan the fact that he accepted employment from the Ritchie machine in this matter but I am told that Mr. Armstrong looks upon it as a purely professional matter. Be that as it may, the fact is that if Mr. Armstrong thinks of running for Governor again (as some say he does) his participation in the Annapolis mess may easily hurt him unto his political death. His best friends do not like to see him put in position where it may appear that he is a party to the washing of the Ritchie dirty linen.

It is true that the Democratic lawyers at Annapolis do not give Mr. Armstrong much chance to do anything, and it seems that if he wishes to put a question he has to wait until everybody else is through.

Butler's Testimony
Not Broken Down

Notwithstanding the desperate efforts of the Ritchie forces, the Butler testimony has not been impaired in any essential point. Much that was developed at Annapolis came out in the roads trial last May and people around the court house are familiar with it. Mr. Baetjer, representing the defense as he appears to be, evidently got a copy of the Butler testimony from the State's Attorney when he was seen at the official's office last week.

Butler let out a few more statements about the alleged drunkenness at the annual frolics given by the late Roads Chairman with the money of the taxpayers. Of course, this will be denied. No doubt the deniers are all ready now with their stuff. To date it has not been brought out how much the taxpayers have had to pay for these parties though it is currently reported that Mackall spent as much as $20,000 a year for the expenses of the Chairmanship. Perhaps the Nelligan-Beatjer people know all about this but they are very secretive. They probably have their own good reason for their reticience concerning the use of the public's money.

The public should not forget that Butler, after pleading guilty, turned in and helped the State's Attorney to complete his investigations of the stealings and frauds that were practiced for eight long years of the Ritchie administration and which began a few weeks after Ritchie turned out the old Roads Commission appointed by Governor Harrington and handed it over to his political associates.

Butler was a reliance of the State's Attorney and in becoming a State aid for the time being was under the advice of Lawyer Richard B. Tippett. Much rascality that had not been uncovered by the auditors up to that time was revealed by Butler and later, on making persistant demands for a hearing, Mr. Tippett uncovered more rascality. It is for their activity that these men are now being attacked by the Governor's forces among whom are some notorious near-thieves. And everyone who knows anything about modern life is well aware that in a civilized community a near-thief is more dangerous than an outright thief.

Democrats Looking For Next Year Candidate

Those Democrats who in 1926, disgusted with the Ritchie regime and its disregard of law, refused to support the Governor for renomination, together with others who actually supported him over Wm. M. Maloy, have now begun to cast about for a suitable candidate to save the party from wholesale wreck. Of course, they know that Ritchie is dying hard and that he is still hoping that some last minute miracle will save his political life. He will wait till the last minute to announce his withdrawal as a candidate for a fourth term and then he will endeavor to name the party standard bearer.

The Governor's opponents are trying to find a sizeable man who has not been tied to or who has never surrendered to the Ritchie regime. Samuel K. Dennis was becoming the most available Democrat for the nomination when he flabbergasted his friends by accepting an appointment to the bench at the hands of Governor Ritchie. Since that time the Dennis talk has lessened considerably inasmuch as the Governor's henchmen are saying that Dennis has been eliminated.

Of course, no one has the light, to say that Judge Dennis wants to be a candidate. Some of his friends say he would be much pleased to have the nomination handed to him on a platter but that he is not in the mood to fight for it. But the situation now seems to demand a real fighter. Otherwise the party will remain in the hands of those who are now riding it to a fall.

There is some mention of Emory L. Coblentz, the chief objection to him being his supposed closeness to the present Governor and the fact that he was among the indorsers of Ritchie for the third term. His ability and honesty are not questioned but whether he would prove the sort of fighter Maryland now needs is another matter. It will surely take a great deal of battling to rid the Maryland government of the influence of the grafters who have fattened in the last nine years.

Brooke Lee Still Advising The Governor

They tell me, the wise ones do, that Speaker Brooke Lee is now the Governor's chief political adviser and that it was on the advice of Lee that Harrison Rider was named as State Insurance Commissioner to succeed the late Carville D. Benson. And on top of this comes a report that Rider did not in accepting the place, sell his political soul to Ritchie as many others have done.

Further it is said that Ritchie seriously considered giving the insurance place to William I. Norris but that Brooke Lee steered him off this. All of which should be interesting to those who are not on the inside of what is left of the once adored royal family.

When the Baltimore City insurgents under the leadership of Jackson and Bichy were last December trying to block the nomination of Lee for Speaker they counted on the support of Rider in Baltimore County and Comptroller Gordy in Wicomico county. They hoped to get enough votes to make the Democratic Speakership caucus fruitless. But hearing of the plan, Lee came to Baltimore, saw State Treasurer John M. Dennis and then called on Rider who took him around to see the Baltimore County members of the House and line them up for one more trip. It was probably in payment of this debt that Lee lined the Governor up for Rider.

Of course, Brooke Lee is hardly so obtuse that he cannot note the declining of Ritchie in the public confidence. Lee has ambitions of his own and the time may come when he will find it necessary to desert Ritchie entirely and rally to the side of his old political friend, Senator Tydings.

PRESIDENT HOOVER.

The American people have welcomed Herbert Hoover to the Presidency of the United States. It is a big job, one of the biggest any man anywhere has ever been called to fill.

He accepts the leadership of a united country. There are sectional, party and class interests, but in the minds of the rank and file of citizens these divisions are secondary to that larger community of interest which makes us Americans. He was elected by a large majority, but he is President of all. Without this unity of the nation no President could govern wisely and well. For the essence of democracy is the reciprocal relation between government and people.

He accepts the leadership of a prosperous country. He is spared the problems of war reconstruction, of debased currency, of industrial chaos, of wholesale unemnloyment, of general poverty which in less happy times have cursed this country and still are a blight in some other lands.

But even national unit and prosperity cannot make the problem of government here a simple one. Our very size as a nation, our unpresedented wealth and power magnify the problems. The mass is unwieldly, distance strains direct representation and spreads law enforcement thin. Prosperity itself begets ever larger industrial and financial units, which dwarf the balancing power of farmers and laborers which challenge the very government's sway.

To national are added international problems. Ours is an invisible empire of loans, of investments, of trade vaster and more powerful than the territorial empires of old. The world works for us. No major development can occur in any country without affecting some American interest. And by the policies of Washington and the rates of Wall Street the whole world is touched for good or ill.

If ever a man was fitted for this gigantic task of American and world leadership Hoover seems to be that man. He is trained as an engineer, an organizer, an administrator. His experience is national and international. Already he has had enough of wealth and fame. He has no selfish interest to gain. He has the ability and the freedom to serve the people.

And he has the people's faith. They believe in him. Their trust will be his strength if he finds himself with his back to the wall, protecting the nation's interests from partisan groups, from selfish politicians and from predatory wealth.

The great responsibility of this high office must humble Herbert Hoover today. The confidence which is poured out upon him in such generous measure, must humble him even more in consecration to his task. Just because he comes to the office so well equipped, just because he is so widely trusted he must not fail.

We believe he will succeed. And we wish him health and happiness in the service of our country.

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

President Hoover departed somewhat from the precedent by laying major emphasis in his inaugural address on the weakness of our present system of criminal justice. It is a weakness which the generation of the American Revolution desired in government, for the rebellious Colonials were eager to escape judicial as well as administrative oppression. The Federal judicial system was very weak at the beginning. It was left to John Marshall to establish later its power of annul unconstitutional legislation. With its rather limited criminal jurisdiction it succeeded in escaping many of the repronches hurled at state enforcement of criminal laws, until the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act clogged and paralyzed its machinery.

Criminal law in the states is beyond the scope of Federal action. The President says, however, that the Federal government must set an example of judicial reform and reorganization for purposes of law enforcement. Such a task, long delayed, will require an enormous effort. The President will appoint a national commission to investigate "the whole structure of our Federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the causes of abuse under it." He will recommend transfer of a large part of the enforcement activities from the Treasury Department to the Depnrtment of Justice. This transfer cannot be made for some time and the commission's investigation will cover months. No very immediate change in prohibition enforcement is, therefore, in prospect.

The whole country, wets and drys alike, would like to see the commission dig deep and be thorough. More stringent enforcement, when it comes, should come under the most favorable circumstances. The prohibition experiment ought to have a complete test in order to satisfy both its supporters and its opponents that it is either workable or unworkable. We believe that such a test must inevitably be followed by modification or repeal and the substitution of a new system of liquor control. We think that the moderate opinion of the country is steadily shifting toward this view. But only a final test can unite the nation upon reform.

Apart from this discussion of a very practical and urgent problem the address was devoted to a summary of the ideas and aspirations which lay behind the President's extraordinarily successful candidacy last year. He merges his own policies with the Coolidge policies. Among the things he stands for are maintenance and enlargement of prosperity, economy in administration, an advance in education and care of public health, economic development which will help all and yet keep open the door of opportunity for all, the encouragement of private initiative, peace and friendly relations with other nations but no embarrassing political partnerships, good will at home and abroad, the lessening of poverty and the unhampered working out of the American experiment of freedom, self-government, tolerance and intellectual and spiritual progress.

The inaugural address was really a condensed embodiment of the President's political philosophy as outlined by him in the last campaign. It carried its appeal then to all sections of the country. It represents a twentieth century spirit of Americanism, renewing the Americanism of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Our problems now will yield to this spirit as they did in earlier days. It sets standards which are rooted in the new as well as the old American faith. The 1929 inaugural has, therefore, the breadth, nobility and vision associated with other great inaugurals. It strikes with equal dignity and distinction the deepest notes of our present and our past.—New York Tribune.

Reasons for Joining American Legion Given at Meeting

As an added incentive to the American Legion drive for membership, ten reasons were read at the bi-monthly meeting of the local organization Monday night why an ex-service man should join the American Legion.

They are as follows:

1. Because the Legion keeps alive in the veteran that high plane of loyalty to country and ideal citizenship, upon which he stood while in the service of the colors.

2. Because it identifies a man as one of standing in his community and makes of him an example of good citizenship for his children and neighbors.

3. Because the Legion has been the organization which caused every bit of legislation to be passed for the benefit of the veteran, and the veteran may need the Legion again.

4. Because, if veterans do not uphold the strength of the Legion now, while its power is at its peak of ten years of existence, future benefits for all veterans will be effected.

5. Because, except for the Grace of God, the veterans might easily have been one of the disabled today, and he owes it to those boys who suffer all the days to uphold strength of the Legion in order that justice may continue for them.

6. Because, some day the veteran's own orphans or his own widow may need the Legion's guardianship and help.

7. Because, he owes it to his mother, sister or wife to lead them into the wholesome association of the American Legion Auxiliary.

8. Because, good fellowship among the comrades of the Legion, wherever they meet, is an open door to many life-long business associations of mutual benefits to veterans.

9. Because, the public trusts and has abiding faith in Legion endeavors, and membership opens up unlimited avenues for leadership in one's own community, the extent of which is limited only by the veteran's own ability.

10. Because, it is a priceless privilege that marks a man not only for what he was, as all veterans are marked, but for what he is today, a man of character and worth; a man wide-awake and eager for opportunities of the right kind; a man who has a voice in public affairs, for when a man signs up with the Legion, that man subscribes to the Legion program which has never failed.

Loch Lynn Election

An election for the officers of Loch Lynn was held on the 4th of March, at which there were two tickets in the field, Citizens and Independents. The candidates on the Citizens ticket were elected.

H. M. Weeks .....24
Tax Collector—Two years

Clerk—Two years

The hold-over councilmen are C. P. Martin, and C. E. Hardesty.

The newly elected mayor, C. W. Shipley, is a master mechanic and operates the Oakland Welding company. Mr. Biggs is a machine operator for the Davis Coal and Coke company, and Mr. Hutchinson is operating near Aurora for the Connecticut Lumber company. The collector, Mr. Kesner is a carpenter by trade. Mrs. Hardesty is the wife of councilman Hardesty, who is an employe of the B. and O. railroad company.

A special meeting of the new council has been called for next Monday evening, at which time the attorney for the town, Mr. E. R. Jones, will be present. The purpose of the meeting is to consider a revision of the by-laws of the town and the transaction of any other business that may be properly done. We understand the citizens are urged to be present and present their views in relation to the proposed amendments.

The public hearing on proposed improvements, as outlined in the above announcement, shows that the new council recognizes that the individuals composing it are but the servants of the people and are willing to be guided by the will of those who show enough interest in public affairs to attend.

There is no legitimate reason, as we see it, why Mt. Lake should not be put in position where the people of the community can be represented in public affairs by a mayor and town council. As we have said before all interests would be benefited, the objects for which the Park was created could be promoted better and the permanent residents provided with living conditions in keeping with the spirit of Christian progress.

Among those who were in Washington for the inauguration of President Hoover were Mrs. J. A. Enlow, Miss Enlow and Mrs. Utterback and son Bobbie.

As there was much rain on the day of the ceremonies we were rather glad our name was not on the "wading list." The radio reports were greatly enjoyed by a large number here.

Messrs. D. M. Lower and A. M. Riley were also among those present. It is reported that Mr. Riley was personally recognized by the President and accorded a most cordial nod of the head.

Mr. Wiley Welling, Jr., employed in Cumberland, was a week-end visitor of the Park.

Company Puts New Standard Gasoline on Market

Just as changes in traffic conditions bring changes in motor and automotive engine design, so the trend is to create new motor fuels.

The Standard Oil company, New Jersey, according to company officials, through the development of its research department and the cooperation of various manufacturers of motor cars, has anticipated 1929 motor needs. The result is a new and improved "Standard" gasoline that not only works better in the most modern of motors, but starts rapidly and gives fast acceleration to older models as well.

Experimentation has been carried on with this improved gasoline for some time and tests were made by various local distributors of automobiles in their newest models, with very satisfactory results, it is stated.

BAPTISM AND THE LORD'S SUPPER

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 3:13-17; 28:19, 20; 1 Cor. 11:23-29.

GOLDEN TEXT—This do in remembrance of me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Things God Wants Us to Do.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Things God Wants Us to Do.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Meaning of Baptism and the Lord's Supper.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place of Baptism and the Lord's Supper in the Christian Life.

I. The Baptism of Jesus (Matt. 3:13-17).

1. His request (v. 13).

This was in act, if not in word He came from Galilee to Jordan to be baptized of John.

2. John's hesitancy (v. 11).

He perceived something in Jesus which impressed him with the unfitness of such an act.

3. Jesus' explanation (v. 15).

He insisted upon John's compliance on the ground that it was a method of fulfilling all righteousness.

4. The Heavenly acknowledgment (vv. 16, 17).

As Jesus emerged from the waters the heavens were opened, the Holy Spirit descended, and a voice declared, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

II. The Apostolic Commission (Matt 28:18-20).

1. The authority of Jesus (v. 18).

God gave Him all authority in heaven and on earth.

2. The Commission of the Apostles (vv. 19, 20).

(1) It was to teach (make disciples of) all the nations (v. 19).

(2) Baptize believers (v. 19).

This baptism, the divinely appointed way of making public confession is to be in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, indicating that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the Holy Trinity.

(3) Teach obedience (v. 20).

Profession is not enough; it must issue in obedience.

3. The all-sufficient promise (v. 20)

The Lord told the disciples their difficulties would be great after He had gone away, but promised them the presence and fellowship of the all powerful Savior and Lord.

III. The Lord's Supper (I Cor. 11:23-29).

1. Its institution (v. 23).

(1) Time.

It was on the night of the betrayal of Jesus, just after the betrayer had been announced.

(2) Circumstances of.

It was in connection with the eating of the Passover (Matt. 26:26).

(3) The elements used. Bread, doubtless common bread of the Passover feast. The cup, fruit of the vine

2. The Significance of the Lord's Supper (vv. 24-26, cf. Matt. 26:26-28)

Jesus took material things and made them to be symbols of His own body and blood.

(1) A memorial of the Lord (Luke 22:19) to be observed in remembrance of Him.

(2) To show the Lord's sacrificial death (v. 26). He did not die as a hero, or as an example of unselfish devotion, but as a substitutionary ransom.

(3) It is a guarantee that our sins are forgiven (Rom. 4:25).

(4) It symbolizes the believer's reception of Christ (I Cor. 10:16).

(5) A forward look to a completed redemption (I Cor. 10:26).

3. Qualifications for participation in the Lord's Supper (vv. 27-29).

(1) A proper apprehension of its meaning (v. 27). Eating and drinking unworthily primarily refers not to the demerit of the communicant, but his failure to grasp its meaning and importance.

(2) Church membership (I Cor. 11:18-22).

The Lord's body is the church which is composed of regenerated men and women united to Jesus Christ as head and to each other as members of that body by the Holy Spirit.

3. Orderly walk.

Conduct which disqualifies for participation in the Lord's supper:

(a) Immoral Conduct (I Cor 5:11-13). It is most perilous for one who is guilty of immorality to approach the Lord's table (I Cor. 11:30). Sickness and death are often visited upon such.

(b) Heresy (Titus 3:10; I John 4:1, 3).

(c) The one who stirs up a schismatic strife (Rom. 16:17) in the church should be excluded from the Lord's table.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN,

J. H. CARTER,
Resident County Agent,
Oakland, Md.

Orchadists Warned Against Red Mite

The fourth week in March marks the zero hour for State orchadists who are preparing sprays and spray equipment to go "over the top" in the annual spring warfare against European red mite, it is declared by Dr. E. N. Cory, entomologist for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Although full strength sprays may be used effectively in the winter months, it is during the three weeks preceding blossoming time, April 15 to 20, that the eggs of the red mite are most susceptible to the spray. Dr. Cory warns, however, that the strength of the spray applied during the pre-hatching period must be much less than that used during the winter months or the foliage and fruit will be injured.

Experimentation at the University has shown that lubrication oils are best for spraying for red mite, although it is pointed out, the conditions which prevail in the individual orchard should govern the type of oil spray used.

Opinion is divided regarding the advisability of treating orchards that were not infected with peach leaf curl the year before, and as a result, the safest plan to follow is to spray with lime sulphur or other fungicide before applying oil spray if peach leaf curl is known to have been in the section the year previous.

Difficulty may be encountered, it is said, in the case of apple orchards which were infected with scab the year previous and which should be treated with lime sulphur this year, because in this section where the interval between the delayed dormant period and the pink or pre-pink stage is so short, it may be difficult to get control of the apple scab if an oil spray is applied during the delayed dormant period. The remedy for such a situation, it is shown, is to apply the oil spray somewhat earlier in order that the orchard may be well covered before it is necessary to use the lime sulphur. The lime sulphur should then be applied at the beginning of the pre-pink stage so as to furnish a protective covering of fungicide to the new growth when the spores of the scab are discharged.

Harford County Boy Wins $100 Scholarship

William T. James, Jr., of Harford county, familiarly known among the Maryland 4-H club members as "Billie," has been awarded the $100 scholarship offered by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company for outstanding achievements in 1928, it is announced by E. G. Jenkins, State boys' club agent for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Billie, who is now a student at the University of Maryland, is depending upon a herd of cows, owned in partnership with his father and acquired through club work, to pay his way through college. He has been a club member in Harford county for a number of years, interesting himself chiefly in dairying, but engaging in other agricultural enterprises as well.

One of his ventures was the purchase last spring of nine stands of bees at a cost of about $75. He now has fourteen stands, which, with supplies, he now estimates are worth $150. If the coming year proves favorable for honey gathering, he expects to be able to show a still bigger profit.

Billie's partnership arrangement with his father gives him a half interest in all the purebred dairy cows on the farm and a fifteen per cent interest in all the grade animals. His revenue from this source during the past year was approximately $550.

As a 4-H club member, Billie has been active both in his county and in the State. He is president of the Dublin 4-H club, was a member of the State dairy cattle judging team the past year and made the highest score for the team in the national contest at Memphis, Tenn. He has won numerous honors and prizes at county and State fairs where his heifers have been exhibited.

Two scholarships, one for boys and one for girls, each for $100, will be made available again this year by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, it is announced by O. K. Quivey, agricultural agent. The scholarships may be used at any recognized college or university in the country. The company has awarded eight to Maryland club members in recent years.

No. 2874 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate owned by Nancy A. McRobie, Abraham A. McRobie and Thomas R. McRobie, Jr., late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, and for the distribution of the proceeds therefrom.

The bill states:—

That Nancy McRobie died seized and possessed of an undivided one-half interest in the surface of twenty-five acres of a tract of land called "Bank Territory," conveyed by John T. Hubbard and others to Nancy McRobie and Thomas R. McRobie, Jr., by deed dated January 24th, 1888, and recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 13, folio 404, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, the deed being filed as Exhibit No. 1; that Abraham A. McRobie died seized and possessed of the surface of two parts of the tract of land called "Bank Territory," the first containing 30.6 acres and being the same which was conveyed to him by deed from McCulloh Coal Company dated July 20th, 1904, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 47, folio 352, etc., and the second containing 29.5 acres, and being the same which was conveyed to him by deed from McCulloh Coal Company bearing date October 31st, 1906, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 181, etc., of the Land Records of Garrett County, both of said deeds being filed as Exhibits 2 and 3; that while seized and possessed of her interest in the above real estate the said Nancy McRobie departed this life, intestate, in Garrett County, on December 7th, 1916, leaving surviving her, as her next of kin and heirs at law, her husband, the said Abraham A. McRobie and the following children and grandchildren, to-wit: Ellen Hinebaugh, a daughter, who intermarried with James Hinebaugh; Stella McRobie, now a widowed daughter; Elizabeth Madigan, a daughter, who intermarried with Michael Madigan; Abraham A. McRobie, a son, who intermarried with Bertha McRobie; the above all being adults and residing in Garrett Co.; Thomas R. McRobie, a son who departed this life intestate, October 30th, 1928, leaving as his heirs at law his two daughters, Beulah, who intermarried with Daniel A. Holland, and Bessie, who intermarried with Charles Upole; Alfred E. McRobie, a son, who departed this life intestate November 19th, 1927, leaving as his heirs at law his widow, Lulu McRobie, and the three remaining minor children, to-wit: William A. McRobie, a son; Edith Fay McRobie, a daughter, and Esther Louise McRobie, a daughter, all residing at West Leisenring, Pa.; Lucinda Bailey, a daughter, who intermarried with William Bailey, (now deceased) and departed this life intestate March 13th, 1924, leaving as her heirs at law the following adult children, to-wit: James Bailey, a son, who intermarried with Roberta Bailey, Robert Bailey and Lawrence Bailey, single sons, and Agnes, a daughter, who intermarried with a certain Joseph Bonnelli, but whose present place of residence is to the complainants unknown, the said Joseph Bonnelli residing in Garrett County, Maryland, but the said Agnes Bonnelli having deserted him; and the following grandchildren, children of Harriett Ann McRobie, a deceased daughter, who departed this life September 21st, 1890, to-wit: Bertha Long, an adult daughter, who intermarried with a Mr. Long (now deceased), and Daniel McRobie, a son who departed this life intestate, during the year 1928, leaving as his heirs at law the following children, to-wit: Nettie, a daughter, who intermarried with Joseph Daniels; Clyde McRobie, a son, adults, and Lena McRobie, a daughter, James McRobie, a son, and Russell McRobie, a son, infants, the place of residence of said five children being to your complainants unknown, and Ethel McRobie, his widow; and the following grandchildren, children of Lafayette McRobie, a deceased son, who departed this life February 1st, 1910, intestate, to-wit: Gilmore McRobie, a son, who intermarried with Sarah M. McRobie; Sylvester McRobie, a son, who intermarried with Jennie McRobie, Jackson McRobie and George McRobie, single sons; Harry McRobie, a son, who intermarried with Ural McRobie, and Nora McRobie, a widowed daughter, all residing in the State of West Virginia, and Anna Cox, a daughter, who intermarried with Bonner Cox and residing in Garrett County; that while so seized and possessed of the real estate set forth in the first paragraph of the bill and his undivided one-third interest in the aforesaid land of the said Nancy McRobie, as surviving spouse, the said Abraham A. McRobie departed this life, intestate, at his home in Garrett County, on the 31st day of December, 1917, leaving surviving him, as his next of kin and heirs at law the children and grandchildren as set forth in paragraph three of the bill; that while seized and possessed of his undivided interest in the aforesaid land of Nancy McRobie and Abraham A. McRobie, as one of their heirs at law, and the undivided one-half interest in and to the parcel of twenty-five acres of "Bank Territory," mentioned and described in paragraph one of this bill and "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 1," the said Thomas R. McRobie, departed this life, intestate, on the 30th day of October, 1928, leaving surviving him as his heirs at law his two daughters as set forth in paragraph three of the bill; that said real estate is not susceptible of partition in kind without material loss and injury to the parties entitled to interests therein, and in order to make a division of said interests it will be necessary that said real estate be sold and the proceeds thereof distributed according to law; that it would be for the benefit and advantage of the parties to this cause that the said real estate be sold and the proceeds thereof, so far as the interests of said infants are concerned, be invested in some more productive fund and the balance distributed to the other plaintiffs and defendants; that the said Joseph Bonnelli, Anna Cox and Bonner Cox are residents of Garrett County; Lulu McRobie, William A. McRobie, Edith Fay McRobie and Esther Louise McRobie reside in the State of Pennsylvania, and the place of residence of the remaining defendants, Agnes Bonnelli, Lena McRobie, James McRobie, Russell McRobie, Nettie Daniels, Joseph Daniels and Clyde McRobie is to your complainants unknown.

The bill then prays for a decree for the sale of the real estate and for the distribution of the proceeds therefrom, for general relief, for the writ of subpoena against the resident defendants and the order of publication against the non-resident defendants.

It is thereupon, this 13th day of February, 1929, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 16th day of March, 1929, give notice to the said absent defendants, Lulu McRobie, Agnes Bonnelli, Nettie Daniels, Joseph Daniels and Clyde McRobie, adult non-resident defendants, and William A. McRobie, Edith Fay McRobie, Esther Louise McRobie, Lena McRobie, James McRobie and Russell McRobie, infant non-resident defendants, of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 1st day of April, 1929, to show cause if any they have why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Office Being Bombarded

The Republican employes were ordered to stay away from in front of the windows of the front office by the boss editor, when early Monday morning several shots rang out and it was learned that building and its occupants were being used as subjects of a bombardment from the top of the Oakland Hotel hill.

This was in fulfillment of a threat by Jim Painter who said he was going to camp up there with his best gun and fire away until the building and its occupants were in dust. And all because last week's article in Scoop didn't do his story-telling justice, he says. "I have told better ones than that," he argued. And so he has been popping away all week, and thus far he has made two hits in the telephone office, two in the Blue Bird inn and the rest have whizzed harmlessly overhead. If no hits are made by Friday Jim says he will use his fly casting rod with a weight on the end of the fly.

Capitol Pictures Developed

The Washington visitors returned Tuesday and as a number of pictures had been taken for the inaugural, Col. Bell was buried under an avalanche of negatives. In the work of unearthing himself he picked what he claimed to be the best one and presented it to Scoop for publication. It shows Geo. Giessman, Oakland's most ardent Republican, astride the Capitol dome, White House attendants brought him his lunch and an umbrella and he remained on his perch until Hoover said "I do." He then showed his activity by descending in a parachute right on the back of a G. O. P. elephant in the parade, and led the procession up Pennsylvania avenue.

Minutes previous meeting read. Mose Sincell heartily welcomed back into fold until it was discovered that he hadn't brought his dues. Banished until next meeting. Walt Janoske moved that Legion purchase another British gun, American cannon balls to match. Motion seconded by I. Romanus Rudy. Treasurer squashes possibility. No funds. Old Business—Mit Sincell, "We need more paid up members." Betty Dawson, "We need more paid up members." Delbert Davis, "We need more paid up membeers." Motion, "We need more paid up members," carried unanimously. Committee appointed to appoint a committee to look into the matter.

Program Presented

The program consisted of reading old love letters written to the members' wives during the war. The prize winner evoked tender memories. It read: "Don't send me no more nagging letters, Lettie. They don't do no good. I'm three thousand miles away from home, and I want to enjoy this war in peace." (Loud cheers and making of whoopee!)

For lack of more business, the meeting adjourned, following refreshments prepared by James Fazzalari, consisting of delicious onion sandwiches.

ROADS BOOKS AUDITED IN SLIPSHOD WAY, REVEALED

Baetjer Refutes Testimony

Edwin G. Baetjer, counsel for the Nelligan Commission, sought to prove that there had been no piers in place, by introducing pictures taken on the date Williams claimed none were in place.

Williams said that after he had been forced to withdraw from the contract, on which his bid was $5,-115, it was let to Christopher and Ensey at a figure above $10,000, and that the actual payments totalled more than $11,000.

Mr. Wilmer also attacked the letting of the contracts for the final link in the Crain highway, which he said were on extensions, without bids, and that they were given at a higher price than that of the original contract.

Assails Methods Used

Wilmer also attacked the committee and Mr. Baetjer on his handling of witnesses, and also assailed the handling of Thomas A. Butler on the stand and the authenticity of a roster of visitors at the roads building in Baltimore, when Butler and Charles Robins, another convicted former employe of the roads commission, were "turned loose" among the records of the Commission, after the shortages in the accounts had been discovered.

Dawson, questioned on practices in the office in passing vouchers and bills through his hands for payment from the revolving payroll funds, told the committee that he never questioned anything that had been given the approval of the proper persons and that would not have noticed any irregularity such as Butler's $500 salary advances in one month on a salary of $300 per month.

The auditor also testified that he never noticed any changes in the figures on fraudulent bills and vouchers and checks which passed through his hands for payment.

GETTING READY FOR THE SUMMER

With the winter ending and the out-of-doors' season coming soon, the State Department of Health is reminding owners or operators of summer camps that no camp can be operated without a permit and that only those camps that meet the State requirements for sanitation and general care, will be duly licensed. In the notices that have been sent to camp operators, Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, calls attention to the fact that last year's permit does not hold over for a second year. A new permit is required for the 1929 season.

Applications should accordingly be made promptly so that the necessary inspection can be made before the season opens. Applications must state the exact location of the existing or proposed camp, the approximate number of persons to be maintained, the probable duration of use, and the proposed method of sewage and garbage disposal. The regulations apply to all places used as a camp or picnic ground for a period of six days or longer and accommodating ten or more persons.

During the coming season, the supervision of the camps will continue to be under the direction of the Deputy State Health Officers, or local Health Officers of the section of the State Department of Health. Camps that meet the requirements of the State Board of Health will be duly certified and will be posted with placards stating the approval of the Board.

Supervision and inspection of the camps under the present regulations were begun in 1926. During that year 105 camps in 19 counties were inspected and less than half—49—met the requirements and were licensed. The next year, 133 camps were inspected and 78 were licensed, twenty counties being represented. In 1928, 194 camps were inspected and 76 were licensed. Twenty counties were again represented, Caroline, Worcester and Somerset being the only counties in which there were no licensed camps. Of the counties in which camps were licensed, Anne Arundel led with 16; Frederick county next with 15; Montgomery and Washington counties, each had four and the rest were divided among the remaining counties.

Operators or others interested in the establishment of such camps may obtain a copy of the application blank, the Rules and Regulations Governing Camp Ground Sanitation and wells from pollution together with plans for the proper disposal of sewage by writing to Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, 2411 North Charles Street, Baltimore City. Plans for small living quarters in such camps, with advice in regard to suitable building materials, arrangement of doors and windows, etc., will also be sent on request.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear father, Thomas R. McRobie, who died 4 months ago today:

Lonely are our hearts today
For the one we loved so well;
He bade no one his last farewell
He waved his hand to none.
His spirit fled before we knew
That he from us had gone;
God called him home, it was His will
But in our hearts he is living still.
We miss him, yes we miss him,
When we see his vacant chair;
And how sad the home without him
But we know he is resting there.
Sweetest thought will ever linger
Around the grave where he is laid.

Sadly missed by sisters, brother and two daughters.

MACKALL CONTINUES TO DENY ALL ROAD CHARGES

Number of Bills Passed in Legislature During Week—Clerks Forbidden to Sell Books

John N. Mackall, former chairman and chief engineer of the State Roads commission, in resuming his story of the irregularities which resulted in the shortage in the commission funds, entered further denials to any personal irregularities, although he admitted poor judgment in several cases.

Questions concerning road opening celebrations, silver gifts, surplus war materials and other items were asked by Charles McHenry Howard and Alexander Armstrong, counsel for the legislative Grand Inquest committee and the Nelligan commission.

Mackall denied any favoritism, denied ever having signed any of the salary advance vouchers shown him, denied he had given material away, and said the road opening celebrations and expenses were no secret.

Bills Introduced This Week

The following bills were introduced, disposed of, refused and passed during the past week's session of the legislature:

The Senate passed the house bill providing the election supervisors of Garrett county be paid only in election years.

Delegate Arthur H. Green, this county, sought to regulate the rights of corporations transporting gas in condemnation of rights of way in another offered in the House on Friday, but Garrett and Allegany counties were refused exclusion from the law on this matter on Monday.

Mr. Lawton entered a bill authorizing county commissioners to pay the sum of $200 yearly to Grantsville fire department in addition to $600 to Oakland fire department, as long as said departments should remain active.

Clerks Restricted

Clerks and attaches to clerks in courts issuing marriage licenses are forbidden to offer for sale any book or other merchandise to persons applying for marriage licenses under another act passed.

The House passed a bill restricting boating and fishing privileges on Deep Creek Lake in this county, on Tuesday.

Oakland High Defeated in Three Games Played

Oakland High school basketball team was defeated in three games played during the past week, two of them being on foreign courts. The Green Street Juniors, Cumberland, won their twentieth consecutive victory at the expense of the local team last Friday night at Cumberland, 37-14. Stemple played the big role for the Garrett county dribblers with four field goals. Sollars, also scored two points and Casteel two.

The second taste of defeat was given them Monday night when Terra Alta won at Oakland, 23-19. Butler, with three goals and one foul led the local scoring. Oakland led at half time, 12-11.

The Aurora Bears defeated the High school quint at Aurora on Tuesday night, 44-24. Oakland led at half time, 14-6, but a second half spurt by the Bears sent them far ahead. Casteel was high scorer with five field goals and five fouls. Glotfelty, substitute, also made two goals.

The local team defeated the Terra Alta High school reserves at Naylor's hall last night, 9-7. Stemple and Casteel were the Oakland scorers.

STRAWBERRY HILL LEADS RECORD FOR ATTENDANCE

Percentages for February are Announced by J. L. Fitzwater

Strawberry Hill, a two-teacher school, had the highest percentage of attendance among the public schools of Garrett county during the month of February, according to an attendance bulletin just published by John L. Fitzwater, attendance officer. The percentage was 99.2.

Pine Swamp, District number 6, and Painter, District number 1, had the highest percentage among the one-teacher schools with 98.5 each. Promised Land, District 14, was third with a percentage of 98.1.

Kitzmiller, with a percentage of 94, led the high schools of the county; Kempton was second with 93.9; Grantsville third with 93.5, Accident next with 92.7, Friendsville next with 91, and Oakland last with 87.4. In the graded schools Oakland Grammar was fourth with 90.6.

"Low percentages of attendance throughout the various schools were caused by the prevalence of a number of minor communicable diseases," Mr. Fitzwater stated. "Measles and mumps and influenza especially, have played havoc with the records."

Following is a list of the hanner schools in each election district among the one-teacher schools:

Painter, District 1, 98.5; John Friend, District 2, 97.5; Engle, District 3, 91.7; Bond, District 4, 95; Winding Ridge, District 5, 95.9; Pine Swamp, District 6, 98.5; Pleasant Valley, District 7, 89.2; Harris-Bennett, District 8, 94; Long Stretch, District 9, 93.7; Armistead, District 10, 86.8; Warnick Jacobs, District 11, 82.9; Bowser, District 12, 92.5; Peerless, District 13, 96.5; Promised Land, District 14, 98.1; Merrill, District 15, 92.1.

SCOUTS TO HAVE CHANCE TO EXHIBIT LEADERSHIP

First Class Scouts to Help in Conducting Light Drill Movements—Many Tests Passed

Each first class Boy Scout of Oakland Troop No. 1 will have a chance to show his individual leadership qualities, if the plan now under way by the scoutmaster turns out successfully. Beginning tomorrow night a certain time at each meeting will be given over to light drill movements and "setting up" exercises, and every boy will have a chance to show his ability. A chance will also be given to the boys in managing the troop's affairs and routine business.

A total of thirty-three tests were passed either during the past week or at the meeting last Friday evening. Waller Hoye is now a first class scout, having passed signalling prior to the last meeting. Fred Peddicord has passed all necessary requirements for membership and is now enrolled on the books as a full fledged Tenderfoot Scout and is entitled to wear the Boy Scout uniform. Since these two have advanced themselves, the troop now has 22 first class scouts, 4 second class scouts, and 13 tenderfoot lads.

An inspection of personal equipment is being made by each individual scout so that he will be ready to go on a few over-night hikes when the weather becomes a little better suited for traveling.

Seven Tenderfoot scouts went on a short trip Saturday morning to the top of the Oakland Hotel hill, under the supervision of Thomas Gonder, junior assistant scoutmaster, and Waller Hoye, and passed their cooking tests. They were Kenneth Lawton, Walter Dawson, Lewis Jones, Roger Maroney, George Kerins, David Walter and Stuart Hamill. David Walter also passed his fire-building test.

Other tests included were: Roger Maroney, compass; Lewis Jones, knife and axe, safety, firebuilding, tracking, compass oath and laws; James Treacy, compass, cooking, firebuilding, knife and axe, first aid, tracking, safety, oath and laws; David Walter, safety; Stuart Hamill, safety, knife and axe, thrift and compass; William Kahl, flags, tenderfoot; Walter Dawson, safety; and Carl Hinebaugh, knife and axe. A number of others passed their thrift test.

TO HOLD FOURTH CLINIC FOR ORTHOPEDIC CASES

Dr. George Bennett to be in Charge of Clinic on Friday, March 22, at Court House

Arrangements for the fourth orthopedic clinic to be held in Garrett county, are being made for Friday, March 22, by Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse. The clinic will be held in the Court House, Oakland, beginning at 9 o'clock, and all old and new cases and recent infantile paralysis sufferers are requested to be present.

Dr. George Bennett, orthopedic specialist, Baltimore, will be in charge of the clinic, and he will be assisted by Miss King, and members of the welfare committee of the Oakland Civic club.

The purpose of the clinic is to further aid those who have already been helped, and to take care of any new cases which may have been found. In the three orthopedic clinics held in the county previously, 118 people have been examined, according to figures compiled by Miss King. Twenty-eight of these have had hospital care and are either cured or greatly improved; and 6 have been measured and fitted with braces at home.

Dr. Bennett will talk to the Oakland Rotary club at its regular meeting on Friday evening, March 22, and will discuss the reenactment, with amendments, of parts of the Annotated Code of Maryland, 1924 edition, title "public education," which has to do with the phsically handicapped child, and which is now before the Maryland legislature for discussion.

"I certainly hope that all parents of children suffering from the effects of infantile paralysis or other orthopedic conditions, will see that their children receive the examination," the health nurse said. "There is no charge whatever for the examination, and it may be the means of preventing serious trouble in the future."

Concluding Mid-Week Service To Be Held Next Wednesday

The concluding mid-week service will be held in St. Mark's Lutheran church next Wednesday evening. Rev. B. T. Trevey preached the sermon at the Garrett Memorial Presbyterian church last evening to a large audience. His topic was "Christ a Ministering Master."

The churches of Oakland have been enjoying an unusually splendid union mid-week Lenten service and the every-member canvass has proved a mighty stimulus.

The noon day half hour services, with the three hour service on Good Friday will be held in the Presbyterian church during Holy Week. During this time the stores and business houses will again be asked to close their doors.

Miss King to Conduct Home Hygiene Class

A class in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, for high school pupils, is being conducted by Miss Rhesa M. King, public health nurse, at the Court House every Friday at 2:45 o'clock. The course of instruction will last for 12 weeks, Miss King said. There were 16 present at the last meeting, and more are expected tomorrow afternoon. Anyone in the High school who is interested, is invited to attend. The class is similar to the one conducted at Loch Lynn.

A lecture on first aid and demonstration will be given next Monday at the Grantsville High school by Miss King.

CONFERENCE OF WARDENS WILL BEGIN ON MARCH 22

Foresters to Hold Two-Day Session in Oakland—Will Discuss Fire Prevention and Control

Approximately forty forest wardens of Garrett County are expected to gather for a two-day conference at Oakland on Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23, according to H. C. Buckingham, district forester. The conference will be held under the direction of the State Department of Forestry, and it is expected that F. W. Besley, State forester, and others connected with State work, will be present.

In the past these conferences have been largely attended by the wardens, and last year twenty-three wardens were present despite the heavy snow that all but blocked the highways of the county, many of the men having to plow through deep snow drifts in order to get to the meeting..

Problems of forest fire control and prevention will be discussed and plans formulated for the spring fire season. Mr. Buckingham stated. "The work of the forest wardens in their communities," he said, "is having a marked effect as the records show a gradual decrease in the number and size of fires now as compared with a few years ago.

"The earnest cooperation of everyone is requested so that we can wipe out the fires caused by carelessness. In this way we will reach the goal of forest protection, so that our woodlands will be permitted to develop and serve the communities."

The meetings will in all probability be held in the City Hall building.

Local Men. Wanted, Are Arrested in West Virginia

Lester Baker and Paul Jeffers, both of Oakland, are wanted by authorities here, were arrested at Morgantown, W. Va., by State police, it has been reported to W. D. Casteel, sheriff of Garrett county. It was not learned what the charge was.

Harry Cuppett, of Terra Alta, was arrested Monday on a charge of reckless driving and was fined $10 and costs before W. A. Gonder, justice. County authorities were riding in a car behind Cuppett, it was stated, and every time they tried to pass, Cuppett was said to have driven over to the left side of the road.

Job Sines, who was sent to the House of Correction on a charge of stealing sheep, at the last December term of the Circuit Court in Oakland, died yesterday morning, it was learned. Death was due to appendicitis.

Presents Model Airplane to Elementary School

An airplane, fashioned after the regulation type, and large enough to carry passengers was presented to the children of the Wiles Hill school, Morgantown, W. Va., by Irvan Speicher, a West Virginia university student, and formerly of this county. The aircraft has been named "The Spirit of St. Louis" and the name is painted on the side.

Presentation of the unique gift was a feature of a program by the children, and Miss Lillian Bailey, principal of the school, made the speech of acceptance.

Mr. Dunkle, president of Frostburg Normal school, gave a very interesting talk to the Seniors yesterday afternoon.

The seniors have been busy taking snapshots for the year book. This will be a new feature and will make the book well worth the price.

COUNTY MAY HAVE TWO POTATO CLUB PROJECTS

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to Sponsor Two Clubs this Year

That there would be two potato clubs in Garrett county this year, instead of the usual one, was the announcement made yesterday by John H. Carter, county agent. This will give twenty boys in the county the advantage of receiving certified potato seed for project work.

It has been the custom of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to sponsor a Certified Potato Seed club in a number of counties of the State in connection with the University of Maryland extension service, and last year the privilege went to members of the agriculture class of Oakland High school.

The railway company furnishes each of the boys with five bushels of certified seed potatoes which are to be planted on a measured quarter acre of ground. Members of the club are expected to attend stated meetings under the direction of the leader and study potato culture.

Since it is desired that the potato clubs rotate each year, Grantsville, Friendsville, or Accident High schools will have the first chance of accepting the project. Selection of the members of the two clubs will be made in a short time, it was stated.

DAIRY SIRE SPECIAL DUE IN OAKLAND ON APRIL 24

To Distribute Fifty Purebred Animals to Dairymen at Cost—Articles to be Given Away

Fifty purebred Guernsey, Jersey and Holstein bulls, selected from the nation's best herds and calved by cows with high milk and butter fat records, will be distributed to West Virginia and Maryland dairymen at cost through the West Virginia-Maryland Better Sire Special, which will operate over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, April 17 to 26, stopping in Oakland on April 24.

The bulls were selected by field representatives of the American, Jersey and Holstein breeders' associations. Since the associations regard this as a promotion project for their respective breeds of cattle, there is a double assurance that the bulls will be of high quality.

By buying through the Special the dairyman saves freight charges and his own time in hunting a good bull for his herd. The pedigree of each bull as well as the price for which it will be sold, is to be marked over each animal in the car. Any questions which the purchasers might have will be answered by the field man who may select the bull.

Sixteen stops are to be made by the train, Oakland and Hancock being the only Maryland stations. A stop is also made at Terra Alta, West Va.

In connection with the special in Oakland, six articles of dairy equipment are to be given away by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad; two 60-pound type Chatillon scales, one 5-gallon milk or cream can, one milking stool. These articles are being shown in the display window of D. M. Dixon & Son's store on Second street. They will be awarded to six farmers owning a cow, the six to be decided upon by the drawing of numbers.

Small Blaze Extinguished at Mt. Lake Park

Sparks emitting from a chimney, ignited the roof of the dwelling owned and occupied by S. R. Oswell and family, Mt. Lake Park, about 10:15 Tuesday morning, but the blaze was extinguished with slight damage.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire department was called but when they arrived at the scene a few minutes later, the fire had been put out by neighbors, by forming a bucket line. A small hole was burned in the roof.

Improvements Being Made

Considerable improvement is being made and rearrangements are taking place in the building now occupied by Edwards Chevrolet Sales, on Liberty street. The stock room and the office have been moved to better positions within the building and new equipment, consisting of steel bins and display cases, is being added. Stanton D. Whipkey, local contractor, has finished the work of remodelling and the new equipment is already in place.

Whorton, who was a candidate for re-election, led the councilmen's ticket with a total of 252 votes, while Howard Stuck was second with 207. A total of 356 votes were cast, less than half the number cast the same time last year.

"There were no big issues on hand," Mayor L. M. Fraley stated, "and a heavy vote was not expected. The vote, however, was the smallest in four years.

The highest individual score for one game, three games, and the highest total of all five players for one game for this season, was made on Monday night in competition among players of the Oakland Bowling league, "Dutch" Walter, of the Presbyterian team, being responsible in a large way for all three records.

He rolled a score of 211 for a single game, a total of 516 for three games, and helped his teammates roll up 729 points to win the first game from Crellin by a comfortable margin. The Presbyterians also took the other two games. Postoffice took three from the Lutherans the same evening. # THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

The week's best show continues at Annapolis where it seems that the Governor's two committees, camouflaged as "investigators" apparently are doing their best to discredit any and all who undertake to tell anything worth while about the corruption and incompetence that marked the roads administration for eight long years.

Director Edwin G. Baetjer, Jr., however, caught somewhat of a Tartar on Wednesday when he tackled Delegate Joseph A. Wilmer of Charles, a minority members of the committee and one who at first hand knows something of the maladministration of the roads department and its operation as a political machine.

Mr. Wilmer stood out as one mnn with the nerve to denounce the method followed or permitted by the committee through which witnesses have been browbeaten in an effort to break down their testimony and at the same time frighten any other who might otherwise be willing to come forward and tell.

It's an old game—as old as the hills and every lawyer knows it, but the layman who has never been in court falls an easy victim. There are few witnesses who have the nerve or knowledge to protect themselves against an experienced lawyer.

Browbeating of Dan Carroll
May Be the Next Best Move

Looked at from the outside and noting the inclination of Lawyer Baetjer to become a witness for the administration instead of an investigator one sees preparation for making a victim of Daniel H. Carroll, the Deputy State Auditor who discovered the deplorable conditions existing in the State Roads department.

Everbody who has been reading about the scandal or talking about it knows that Dan is in bad. He discovered the scandal and it leaked out while the Governor and Roads Chairman Mackall were trying to cover it up. Dan has never been forgiven. His chief, State Auditor Milbourne, tried to cut him off the payroll with the Governor's acquiescence but when the public learned of it the Governer ran away and left Milbourne who is now to be legislated out of office along with Carroll and all the others.

But Carroll is in bad and it seems that his great offense was in finding what had been covered up and what the administration tried to keep on covering up after Carroll had pointed out the thefts.

So now it is alleged by Mr. Baetjer as the Governor's representative that Carroll went to the State Roads office at night with former employees and that records were destroyed. This is all for the apparent purpose of damaging Carroll and imparing his usefulness as a witness for the prosecution in cases yet to be uncovered. He has been the State's Attorney's most valuable witness in clearing up the cases now the effort of the State administration is to destroy him. There is no other way for the uninvolved individual to look at it.

One might think that the investigators would seek to strengthen the hands of the State's Attorney but they are working the other way. The committee or committees at Annapolis are evidently doing their best to whitewash the higherups. No one can see them producing anything worth while of their own volition. All that is brought out is what is forced upon them.

Ritchie Machine Claims
An Important Point

Naturally the members of the Governor's outfit many of them shivering with fear, are claiming they have made big gains. They exult over the denunciation of Witness Butler by the Nelliganites but they rejoice more over the fact that Lawyer Baetjer is considered a Republican and as such is doing the heavy work in washing the Governor's very dirty linen. This is a big point and these followers of the Governor claim that this will prevent the Republicans from making effective use of the scandal in the State campaign next yenr.

On the other hand there are those who think that if Baetjer so mixes things up that little or nothing comes out of the so-called investigation one of the chief beneficiaries will be a certain prominent Republican who is in the road building business and who, it has been frequently alleged, was greatly fnvored by the Ritchie State machine.

Fourth Termers Now
Beginning to Whisper

Since an effort began to revive the waning political fortunes of the Governor one hears occasionally a suggestion that perhaps the Governor should be a candidate for a fourth term for "vindication." Vindication, I suppose, would be an approval of the gross negligence that permitted the wholesale looting of the roads funds.

To date I have traced these fourth term suggestions down and I have located two in Baltimore City. One comes from one of the Governor's appointees who naturally wants to hold on, and the other is a minor boss who has some friends on the State payroll, hopes to keep them and get more about the first of May.

Of course, Secretary of State Winebrenner wants to hold on and as for Speaker Brooke Lee, he seems to be completely dominated by the Governor. He would certainly go along. I have not heard of any others. Later I shall try to give all the names to the public so that it may be seen who is willing to sanction a fourth term fiasco for the Democrats.

Grand Jury Resumes
Criminal Investigation

Fortunately the Grand Jury of Baltimore City has been handed a mass of data in the roads case by State's Attorney O'Conor and I hope that this important body, created for serious business, will not be influenced by the Governor's hippodrome at Annapolis. That Mr. O'Conor has gone before the new jury at this time indicates that there is still much work to be done as a result of the delving into the case by the officials who have not been appointed to their places by the Governor.

Since the final adjournment of the last Grand Jury the rumor persists that that body came within an ace of presenting one of the higher-ups and three members of that jury have been specifically mentioned as those who made a strenuous fight against it.

Those who know the State's Attorney best say that he will go through with the business despite the vast amount of pressure that is said to have been exerted on his office by friends of those who may be involved. For the scandal undoubtedly is the most far reaching that Maryland has ever seen and the end is not yet if a full inquiry can be made. This is difficult for the Baltimore City Grand Jury and the practicable way would be for the work to be done by a Legislative committee but the Legislature in hopelessly under the domination of the Governor and those who are obligated to him is one way or another.

To date I have seen no report of the acquiring of rights of way, of the final disposal of the vast quantity of war materials, nor of other matters of great importance to the taxpayers.

I would like to see the committee screw up its courage to the point of putting Speaker Lee on the witness stand and asking him why it was he insisted on the Governor appointing an incompetent man for State Auditor under his reorganization plan. It would be worth while to hear the Speaker hum and haw and try to explain. Then the Governor might be called to explain about that appointment. He might say the salary was insufficient for a qualified man but he would find it difficult to show why it was that in making the State budget himself he did not fix the salary high enough to protect the interests of the taxpayers.

The Governor might also be asked to explain why it was that when he received complaints about the way the roads department was run he turned a deaf ear, and this, too, even to some of the most intimate advisors.

For the life of me I cannot see that the penning up of the underlings can satisfy the taxpayers who have to bear the burdens of our long misgovernment.

The Governor might also be requested to tell whether there is any truth in a report to the effect that in one of his campaigns one of the war surplus automobiles given to the State was repared out of the highway fund and turned over to him for campaign purposes in order to save his higher priced car. If the Governor used one of these cars as reported, he might have had the curiosity to inquire what became of the remainder of these vehicles.

Organization Formed
For Administrative Research

I see that at last some sort of an organization has been formed to carry on a work of research in the State government if I read it aright and it is certainly high time for something to be done. There are published names of men who do not seem to he after any office and they should be able to do something. As matters now stand in Maryland everybody's business has come to be nobody's business and things have been going from bad to worse for nearly ten years, one result already being one great scandal with others in the making unless some new agency becomes active. It is not likely that the State administration, having been asleep all these years, can now suddenly reform iitself. The reform will have to come about through proddings from the outside and the putting of new people with proper ideals in high office.

Sunday Movies Battle
Engages Statesmen

The battle for Sunday movies in Baltimore goes on at Annapolis. There is no predicting the outcome. There are some who hold the first need of the movies is improvement in their character. Some, it seems, are hardly fit to be shown on week days.

There is, of course, a strong lobby for the Sunday movies and I hear that if the measure gets through some of our local politicians will have fat bank accounts.

KERINS BROS. TO STAGE ESSEX CHALLENGER TESTS

Are Enthusiastic Over Hudson-Essex New Creation and Believe In Them Wholly

Backing the militant Essex slogan to the limit, Kerins Brothers Garage, Hudson-Essex dealerrs, will this week stage an "Essex Challenge Week," during which Essex the Challenger models will be submitted to every conceivable test.

The outstanding test will be quick acaccelleration, and stamina in climbing hills, which will take place either tomorrow or Monday, with three prominent citizens acting as judges. The Messrs. Kerins invite all motorists to attend and view the test.

This is part of a national "Essex Challenge Week," in which every dealer of the vast Hudson Essex organization will take part.

The "Challenger" slogan was first conceived when test after test revealed that the 1929 Essex, with 76 improvements, was matching much more costly cars on every count, say the Messrs. Kerins, local dealers.

In speed, performance, easy riding, fast get-away, quick and certain braking and gasoline consumption, the new car so astonished dealers and distributors who had gathered at the factory in Detroit for private showings and demonstrations, that one distributor enthusiastically remarked that the new Essex could challenge any thing. Thus the militant title "Essex the Challenger" was born.

GRANTSVILLE.

William L. Stahl

The many friends and associates of W. L. Stahl, many years a resident of Grantsville, felt a saddening shock when they learned of his sudden death, which came Monday morning at his home following just a few days illness of pneumonia. Mr. Stahl was 57 years old.

The deceased was well known in the Airbrake Company where he had worked for 22 years. He worked up until the latter part of last week when he became ill. Pneumonia set in almost immediately and his condition became critical in a short time after he took sick. Death came at 10:30 o'clock on Monday evening.

In addition to being a member of the veterans employes organization of the Airbrake company, he was an elder and active worker of the Christ Lutheran Church. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Stahl, a daughter, Mrs. F. G. Herbert, of Philadelphia, a son, William, of North Braddock, and the following sons and daughters at home: Bulford, Charlotte, and Walter. A brother, C. D. Stahl, of Wilmerding, and a sister, Mrs. W. H. Guinn, of Jennings, also survive.

Funeral services were held last Thursday at the residence with Rev. J. M. Weber, Lutheran pastor, in charge. Burial was in the Grandview cemetery.

Severe Storm

The most severe wind and snow storm experienced around Grantsville, raged for two days last week. Much damage was done to orchards and sugar camps; old bonses were torn down and trees blown over. The temperature was from 5 to 10 degrees above zero. The entire roof of the National Garage, owned by Milton Rodamer, was torn off and lodged against the home of Mrs. Rebecca Johnson about 50 feet away. The windows were broken and the west side of the building badly damaged. The kitchen and two bedrooms were damaged the most. The plaster was torn down and dishes were broken. Mr. Rodamer and several men had been working near the roof just before the accident happened, fixing the hall for a basketball game, which was to have been played on Saturday night.

The loss was estimated at about $2,000 while the cost of the damage done to the Johnson residence was not known as Mrs. Johnson was visiting in Frostburg.

Teachers Changed

Miss Ruby Dahlgren of the Turner school has been transferred to the Grantsville school. She will have charge of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades, Miss Hamburg, second, third and fourth, and Miss Anna Tennant first grade. The pupils from State Line school, several miles west of Grantsville will be brought to the Grantsville school after this week.

How much better it would be if you had extension telephones upstairs—perhaps two or more,—in the bedrooms and guest rooms. An extension should also be in the living room, another in the pantry—in fact, there should be a telephone wherever and whenever needed.

HOOVER MAKES A GOOD START

Political writers are busy weighing Hoover's first week in office. Why not? It is all too short a time in which to judge a man, but even a week can reveal a President's canacities and methods, especially a critical week such as this has been.

Usually when there is a change of administration one of two things happen; either the new President flounders around for several weeks finding himself or else he permits the Washington bureaucrats inherited from the previous administration to make important policy decisions for him. Mr. Hoover has done neither.

His first week in office has been characterized by an extraordinary sureness of touch. He has conducted himself and government affairs as though he has been in the White House for many years instead of only a few days. All of that, of course, cannot be attributed to original genius. After all, he has been in and out of the White House daily as a Cabinet officer, and as a Cabinet officer whose advice was sought on many problems unrelated to the Commerce Department.

This first week has substantiated the advance predictions that Mr. Hoover is to be the "strong man" type of President, one who knows his own mind and who acts with precision.

Take the Mexican case. Here was an unexpected revolution in a neighboring country vitally affecting American interests. It was the largest revolt in Mexico in years, and apparently was timed exactly hy the revolutionists for the very day of the change of administration in Washington. But Hoover understood the Mexican situation without having to depend entirely on either the Secretray of State or the American Ambassador. He acted quickly, without bluster, but effectively. He threw the full weight of American prestige and resources on the side of the Mexican government, to which he sold war supplies while tightening the American arms and supply embargo against the rebels. He ordered Brigadier General McCoy, as great a diplomat as soldier, to the border. He acted more quickly and surely than other Presidents have done in similar circumstances.

In the midst of the Mexican crisis Hoover was straightening out the tangled press relations which he inherited. By increasing the number of quotable press statements and by obtaining a representative press committee to help in reforming the White House conferences.

In the same week the President made headway in his plan for a nonpartisan commission to study law enforcement and general legal reform; got the Congressional leaders together on farm relief legislation and arranged for a special session of Congress; withstood attacks of the strong Republican industrial group demanding general tariff revision upward; saw the beginning of negotiations at Geneva for American adherence to the World Court.

All of this is gratifying. It does not mean that Hoover has yet settled any of the many problems before him. It does not mean that he has made no mistakes and will make no others.

It does mean that he has made a good start on a long, hard road.

MAKE CHAINS PAY A JUST TAX

(From The Interstate Grocer)

The retail grocers as well as all other merchants should fight the chains till hell freezes over and then continue the struggle on the ice in order to force them to pay their just taxes. There can be no possible excuse for permitting a situation such as is pointed out in Washington, Mo., in this issue where the Kroger company pays a paltry $26.90 city, county, and state tax on a stock said to represent a total value of but $1,060 and having sales of $45,000 a year, whereas a grocer who has grown up in that city is called upon to pay $87.50 on a stock of $3,500 with sales of $24,000. The home merchant, therefore, is compelled to pay about three times as much tax as the chain corporation which is, therefore, a liability rather than an asset to that city, Franklin county and Missouri.

We have no doubt that the same comparison of taxes paid by chains and individual merchants applies in practically all other states. The average chain store does a larger business than the average retailer in taxes. Is it not apparent on its face that that is dead wrong and should be corrected? It can, if the merchants of all classes will demand relief from this unfair taxation system of levying taxes on merchandise carried rather than on sales. The only true yardstick whereby to measure taxes is the amount of money taken in. It is the only equitable way to do it as then the chain and independent merchant would pay in proportion to income. That is the way the income tax is figured as the man or corporation with the least net income pays the smallest tax.

Just the reverse is true in this chain store business. In the instance cited in Washington the two Kroger stores take out of that community about $75,000. All they leave in Missouri is about $5,000 for salaries, rent and taxes. All the remainder passes out of the State of Missouri as not even the general buying is done by the division warehouse located in St. Louis. As The Interstate Grocer points out in the news columns in the case of home-owned grocers not less than $15,000 of the $75,000 would be retained in Washington by the store owners based on 20 per cent of total sales for salaries, expenses, profits, etc. Then, too, there would be a good proportion of the other $60,000 which would go to wholesalers, to the payment of their rent, salaries, etc., as well as to manufacturers in Missouri.

In the case of Kroger, however, just a little of the $75,000 taken out of Washington goes to pay clerical hire in the St. Louis division office and what little that system may buy of Missouri products. The fact that it has more than 100 private brand products prove conclusively that Kroger is after every penny it can take out of Washington and Missouri. What applies in this instance is very likely true of all other cities of practically all states. Here is concrete evidence that the chain store is nothing but a leech upon the community, county, and state, yet it is paying less taxes than the local merchants who helped build up the cities and states. What a travesty on equal taxation that is! The latter are paying the larger part of the tax burden, while the interloping chain stores are paying a minor part and destroying these cities at the same time.

The Inter State Grocer appeals to all of its readers to see that it is given the facts with reference to what the chains of all kinds, in all lines of business, are paying in their communities compared to what these local merchants are paying. We want these facts in order to be in a position to show the injustice that is being perpetrated upon the citizens of the cities in favor of the chain stores—the enemies of the cities. The chains holler from the housetops when a measure is introduced in legislatures to place a special tax on them. Why, then, should not the merchants of this country complain against the tax favoritism of the chain stores. This is a fruitful field for attack upon the chain stores and, with the right effort, the rank injustice can he quickly corrected.

MT. LAKE PARK.

The Future

The future of Mt. Lake Park should be the primary consideration of all property owners and citizens. What is being done and what can be done to promote its future welfare is a vital matter. No activity of life stands still. It either progresses or retrogresses. It is a fact within the knowledge of all that the summer population has decreased rather than increased. Nothing has been accomplished, or attempted as far as we can see, to add value to the large investment in property. It would seem as though from the end of the short season of activity until the beginning of the next, say from the middle of September until the first of the next June, all activities and thought of improvement ceases. The only hope seems to be during this time is that an All-wise Providence will, in some mysterious manner, take the matter in charge and do for us what we ought to do for ourselves. This is a vain hope, for it is an old truism, as old as our civilization, that the Lord helps those that help themselves.

We cannot afford to depend solely on the few short weeks of activity of the Mt. Lake Park Association. It, no doubt, has its own fixed policies and its own problems. At the same time we can not get along without co-operation, and we believe a closer contact between it and the individual interests of the Park, with a common purpose having for its object the rehabilitation of this community, will be beneficial to it and its objects, as well as us.

In view of the present condition, the question arises: "What are we going to do about it?"

In the first place, it is of paramount importance that we do those things which will make this resort a source of pride to its residents, and an attraction to the outsider. Money and time spent in this direction will have the same beneficial effect for us as a community as the good appearance of the individual has upon his fellow associates.

In making any suggestions, we have in mind the limited sources of finances and the limitations thereby imposed upon the officers of the Park. No criticism of them can be legitimately made.

At the same time nothing can be accomplished unless there is a beginning. Even castles in the air are useful as an incentive to work for an ideal.

The natural beauty of the place can be enhanced by the judicious planting of shrubs and flowers; by making and keeping the streets and sidewalks in good repair and state of cleanliness; by a cleanup campaign of alleys and other unsightly and unsanitary places; by keeping the grass and weeds cut along the main walks and driveways, and especially along the front of the Park facing the railroad.

And then, when we have put our house in order, organize and support clean and healthful amusements for the improvement, rest and relaxation of those who visit us and make this resort worth their while to spend time with us.

We hope to further expand these views next week.

Remember, however, that a community can be no bigger than the ideals and desires of its citizens.

Windstorm Wrecks Schoolhouse at Bayard

The Union District High school, Bayard, West Va., near the Garrett county line, was damaged to the extent of about $1,500 last Wednesday night, March 6, when a windstorm of unusual velocity struck that vicinity.

The building, which has been built about six years, was badly damaged by the storm, almost the entire roof being carried away. A large part of the sheathing and rafters of the building also went with the roof while the bell tower and bell were blown down and demolished. A portion of the brick work at the top of the building was blown down, and it is claimed that the flues have been weakened. Large pieces of the plastering fell from the ceiling, and as the balance of it showed signs of falling, school was dismissed until after repairs have been made.

The town was without electricity for several hours on Thursday morning, high winds having broken the power line leading from Buffalo mine. The storm caused damage to a number of other properties in that section.

CAMPAIGN FOR REDUCING INJURIES AIM OF B. & O.

One-Third of All Fatal Injuries Occurring on Railroads Are Chargeable to Trespassing

Because one-third of all the fatal injuries that occur on the railroads are chargeable to trespassing on tracks and property, an intensive campaign for reducing personal injuries is being made by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, according to Howerd P. Stuck, local station agent.

"In doing this," he said, "the company is bringing before its employes the importance of complying strictly with the safety rules and the safety means which have been furnished as a protection. Much has been accomplished in the past along the Safety First lines, but there still remains much more to be done."

Trespassers Numerous

"Some people think that train wrecks cause most of the casulties on railroads, "Mr. Stuck said, "but this is far from being the case. Fatalities to trespassers, that is, persons who have no business on the railroads, amount to eight times the number of all classes of persons killed in train accidents. It is even more impressive to notice that one-third of all the fatal injuries that occur on the railroads are chargeable to trespassing on the tracks.

"The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has assigned to its police department the duty of preventing trespassing on tracks and cars. Adults found trespassing are warned to discontinue the practice and repeated violations result in their arrest and prosecution.

"Children found trespassing are warned and letters are written to their parents asking their cooperation by instructing their children to remain away from tracks and cars. The regulation will be enforced in this community," Mr. Stuck concluded.

The Republican goes into the homes of the best people of Garrett county; its advertising columns bring results.

Lesson for March. 17

THE CHRISTIAN'S SABBATH

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:8-11; Matthew 12:1-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—For the Son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath Day.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Day. Sunday.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Day. Sunday.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Keeping the Lord's Day.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Lord's Day In Modern Life

The designation "Christian's Sabbath" is a misnomer. The word "Sabbath" has a definite meaning. It signifies rest, cessation from action. When God had finished the heavens and earth, He desisted from creative action (Gen. 2:1-3). Since God's creative work was completed in six days, He ceased from action on the seventh day, which was therefore called the Sabbath, or Rest Day. Five definite objects may be assigned to the Sabbath:

1. To commemorate the work of creation (Gen. 2:3, cf. Ex. 20:11).

2. To keep alive the knowledge of the true God. Creation witnesses of a creator. Keeping the Sabbath in mind kept in mind the creation, and the creation made real the Creator.

3. A forward look to the time when man shall enjoy full fellowship with God (Heb. 4:1-10).

4. To Israel it was a sign of the covenant between them and God (Deut. 5:12-15).

5. It was made for man's well-being (Mark 2:27).

At least while man's earthly condition continues, the Sabbath is needed to keep a proper balance between his body and his soul.

I. The Fourth Commandment (Ex. 20:8-11).

1. Obligations enjoined (20:9, 10).

(1) Work through six days (v. 9).

The command to work six days is just as binding as the command to rest the seventh day. In fact, there can be no rest unless there first be work.

(2) Rest on the seventh day (v. 10).

There must be cessation from all work on the Sabbath. Since God gave the example and then sanctified the day, it should be kept holy. It was not only to give relief to the physical body but to be a time when man's thought would be turned to God. It was designed to keep fresh in his mind the consciousness of God and His mercies. The human spirit should be refreshed by the study of God's Word.

2. How this commandment may be broken.

(1) By engaging in labor or pursuing business interests on this sacred day.

(2) By devoting it to amusements, since it was designed to keep fresh in mind the consciousness of God.

(3) By making it a day of feasting.

II. The Son of Man Is Lord of the Sabbath (Matt. 12:1-8).

1. The hungry disciples plucking corn (v. 1).

This took place on the Sabbath day and became the occasion for criticism.

2. The Pharisees finding fault (v. 2).

They asserted that Christ's disciples were breaking the law, when in reality they were only violating the traditions with which the law was encumbered. The Lord's purpose in instituting the Sabbath was to conserve man's highest interest and contribute to his happiness. It is extremely unfortunate when human tradition is elevated above the Word of God.

3. Christ's reply to the cavils of the Pharisees (v. 3-8).

In this reply He shrewdly answered the Pharisees and pressed His transcendent claim as to the dignity of His person. This claim moved them to plot His death. As to His claim, observe:

(1) He is greater than their greatest king (v. 3, 4). David, when rejected, was forced to do that which was unlawful for him to do (1 Sam. 1). Because they had rejected the one greater than David, the plucking of the ears of corn became a necessity.

(2) He is greater than their sacrifice and priesthood (v. 5). If the priests, because of their position and services, could violate the Sabbath laws and be blameless, much more the One greater than they in performing His work of sacrifice and redemption for them should be considered guiltless. He was the true sacrifice and priest.

(3) He is greater than the temple (v. 6). The temple, with all its gorgeous rites and ceremonies, was typical of Christ. Much more then did He have the right to do what He did.

(4) He is greater than the Sabbath (v. 8), because He is Lord of the Sabbath.

Great Task of Happiness

It was for the joy that was set before Him that our Lord endured the Cross, despising the shame. The joy of the Ascension is but an echo of the joy of Bethlehem, and the task of Christ was one "great task of happiness."

To Gladden Our Hearts

Love's liftings often precede His liftings. He sifts to get rid of the chaff, and He lifts to gladden our hearts.—Selected.

First Installment

The first installment of that nerve-racking serial being written by John Weber entitled, "He'll Come Home," (in six parts), is included in this week's column. John spent much time in a study of conditions at Weber's crossing and here is the first chapter:

Part Two Next Week

The stimulus of an election was apparent Monday morning when Michael Maroney was seen on the streets of Oakland busily engaged in various and sundry duties.

The New Councilmen

Col. Bell was busy, late Monday night rounding up George Little, J. W. Whorton, and H. P. Stuck, the newly elected councilmen, for an action photo and the accompanying print shows how they expect to influence the Mayor and Town clerk when it comes to building streets up in their respective ends of town. They posed especially for Scoop and The Republican. They should have entered the oratorical contest held recently in the Oakland opera house.

By special arrangement with H. C. Sincell at his store, Col. Bell got an advance cut of him as he was expecting to appear tonight at the Sauer Kraut supper at the Lutheran church. Mr. Sincell posed for the Col. at his office desk. The implements in his hands were borrowed from the Blue Bird Inn next door. Mr. Sincell is in his usual jovial mood.

Scoop is glad he wasn't responsible for the local appearing about the boss last week. However, Archibald-son said he never mentioned the name of the town becaus it was Atlnnta and people might get him hooked up with a famous building in that locality. A post card from him this morning did say he had visited the place.

Movie Corporation Formed

Since all the movie theatres in Friendsville, Steiding, Hoyes, Accident, Red House, Gartner, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Mt. Lake, Bloomington, Swanton, Gobler's Knoh, Sang Run and Oakland have been clamoring for the filming of a beautiful love story within the confines of Garrett county, to be shown exclusively in these domains, Scoop has been instrumental in having a movie corporation formed.

Sang Run was the last to add its name to the list. The delegation from there appeared Wednesday morning in Oakland with the final results of the last presidential election for Sang Run district, and before leaving presented their plea to Scoop.

Lawrence Dixon, Tom Flannigan, Ed. Offutt, Louie Waingold, Mayor Fraley and "Poky" Slim Shaw are said to be the backers of this corporation which is expected to run into millions.

To be Filmed at Grantsville

The first venture will be a ten reel feature, taken in the vicinity of Grantsville, now also known as Hollywood, and it is rumored that contracts have been signed to have the same characters appear in the picture that are appearing in the play at the Grantsville High school.

The scene will be laid around the High school building, the Casselman river bridge and Puzzley Run hill, and nearby points of interest. Col. Bell has ordered an elaborate special movie camera and he will be in charge of the "takes." This will be in within a few days. The first picture will be entitled "That Tickling Sensation Called Love," and following is an advance cut of the heroine.

At the Fountain

* * *

The corporation named the following to positions: James (Col.) Bell, photographer; Joseph "Buster Keaton" Gonder, director; Scoop, scenario writer; "Sprig" Tower, studio manager; Grover "Monk" Stemple, title editor; John Cropp, art editor; Judson Loar, in charge of hiring actresses; and James Kerins, Dan "Andy Gump" Smouse, and Jerry "Major Hoople" Stanton, as judges.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear son William Custer, who departed this life September 7, 1928, six months ago today.

He has gone across death's river,
To the shores of evergreen;
How I long to see his dear face,
But the river flows between.

Oh, how long the time has been
Since you went away;
But in my mind it seems
As though it was just yesterday.

In my heart your memory lingers
Ever tender, fond and true;
There is not an hour dear William
That I do not think of you.

But again I hope to meet you
When this day of life has fled;
Then again in heaven to greet you
Where no farewell tears are shed.

By his mother, Effie Custer.

It is thereupon, this 13th day of February, 1929, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 16th day of March, 1929, give notice to the said absent defendants, Lulu McRobie, Agnes Bonnelli, Nettie Daniels, Joseph Daniels and Clyde McRobie, adult non-resident defendants, and William A. Good seed potatoes are being produced in Garrett county and the Extension Service is anxious that more and better seed be brought into the county.

Dr. R. A. Jehle, specialist in pathology, University of Maryland, was in the county March 7, in interest of better seed potatoes. He recommended tuber unit stock. The certified growers were glad to get stock of such high quality and have already placed their orders for seed.

If you are interested in good seed potatoes, visit certified seed growers while their potatoes are in the field.

If you wish to obtain some local certified seed, get in touch with Mr. H. P. Miller or Mr. Olen Yoder, Grantsville. Their prices are low for good stock.

Baby beef production is increasing in Maryland. It is a good project for 4-H club members.

The fact that no use of pasture is made may appeal to boys in Garrett county. If any one is interested, get in touch with the County Agent.

Dr. C. E. Poe, Government veterinarian, Hagerstown, visited the County Agent's office on March 12 in the interest of completion of the tuberculine testing of Garrett county cattle.

If you are interested in having your herd tested for tuberculosis, you might return immediately your Agricultural inquiry which is being sent out by the County Agent this week.

Remember it is just as important to the cow that her food be palatable as it is to you that your food be palatable.

Have you tested your seed corn? A little time to make a germination test will save time and worry when your corn comes up, and result in more bushels per acre at harvest time.

If you are not familiar with a good method of making germination test, confer with your County Agent.

Farming Now A Science

Farming has changed from trial and error in Grandfather's day to a science and business now, and one of the first steps in any business is organization. Therefore, farmers should organize their work and conduct it in a business-like way. Keep records and suitable accounts will tell whether or not you are making money on certain enterprises. It will enable you to find the weak places in your business and make changes necessary to put your business on a paying basis. Remember the old saying "A chain is no stronger than the weakest link." So let's stop the leak rather than adding more to leak out.

Baby Chick Season Here

Baby Chick season is here. March and April chicks are preferred over those hatched in May and June for three reasons. First, the chicks get a good start before hot weather which is favorable for poultry diseases, and causes the chicks to lose vitality; second, lice and mite are generally much more numerous later in the spring than they are early in the season; third, the early hatched chicks have a better chance to grow into laying condition in the fall, and other birds make good broilers.

If you want to make money from your poultry, start early with healthy chicks from good stock.

Cleanliness Needed in Growing Chicks

Cleanliness, the keeping of records and separation of the sexes at an early date mark the three important steps to success in growing healthy marketable chickens, according to W. H. Rice, poultry specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Cleanliness is of paramount importance in every phase of the poultry industry, Mr. Rice declares, and particularly in the rearing of young stock. Only vigorous, disease-free chicks or eggs from disease-free hens, preferably from officially certified, B. W. D. tested flocks, should be used, it is pointed out. Good chicks should weigh eight pounds net per hundred or 1.5 ounces each at hatching time. For chicks of this quality, the parent stock must be in first class condition and hatching eggs should weigh at lease twenty-four ounces to the dozen.

Mr. Rice also emphasizes the importance of having bright, clean surroundings for the chicks. The buildings should be systematically cleaned, washed with lye, disinfected and whitewashed at regular intervals. In addition, the buildings should be moved each year to locations where fowels whre not kept the previous year. This precaution, plus a change of litter every five days and a daily disinfection of the food troughs and drinking fountains, will do much to prevent losses from diseases and parasites.

Separation of the cockrels from the pullets at an early date is advised, since the former grow rapidly and have a tendency to monopolize the feed troughs, drinking fountains and roosts.

Keeping records is an important factor in success with poultry, it is asserted, otherwise the real reasons for losses are not always discernable.

Red Clover Wanes As Popular Crop

Failure of Maryland farmers to grasp the opportunity to grow high quality seed for use in the State is resulting in a steadily waning production of red clover, once a favorite crop of hundreds of good farms thruout the central sections of the State, it is said by agronomy specialists at the University of Maryland.

According to F. C. Holmes, in charge of the seed laboratory at the University of Maryland Experiment Station, the supplies of red clover seed available at this time are largely unsatisfactory. There is little home-grown seed in Maryland and, as usual most of this is very weedy.

Red Clover seed grown in foreign countries and in western sections of the United States is not adapted to Maryland conditions, it is pointed out, because of the prevalence of anthracnos, a disease to which the clover plant is really susceptible. Red clover grown in Maryland and in such adjoining states as Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and southern Ohio and Indiana, however, will in a period of years acquire a resistance to the disease that renders the seed suitable for local conditions. Production of high quality seed in these sections, however, has apparently made but little headway.

In view of the small quantity and ordinarily poor quality of adapted seed and the uncertainty of seed from other sections, farmers in Maryland are generally being advised to use a substitute hay crop composed of timothy, alsike clover and alfalfa. The recommendation ordinarily calls for a mixture consisting of about eight pounds of timothy, four to five pounds of alsike clover, and six to ten pounds of alfalfa per acre. Results from this mixture will be far more satisfactory than from a poor stand of red clover, it is said.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

Though the Ford tires are designated as 30 x 4.50, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel-spoke wheels.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the side-walls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent premature wear.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

SECOND EARLY DIAGNOSIS CAMPAIGN WILL BE HELD

Fight Against Tuberculosis to Begin in April This Year

In spite of the fact that the organized campaign to control tuberculosis has been carried for twenty-five years and in that time has helped to decrease the tuberculosis death-rate from 200 per 100,000 population to 80.8, there still remains a vital phase in which much needs yet to be done, stated Elizabeth Cole, of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

In order to encourage people to realize the value of thorough and frequent periodic examinations, therefore, an Early Diagnosis Campaign was conducted in March, 1928. With the cooperation of the medical profession, the public press, posters, pamphlets and motion pictures, the message of "Early Discovery—Early Recovery" was intensively broadcast during that month. The result was increased visits to tuberculosis clinics, increased beds in sanatoria, and a more general interest in what services state and local tuberculosis associations could render their respective communities.

The campaign was financed by the Christmas seals sold in December. Accompanied by a plea to buy the penny Christmas seal, their message of health education is annually broadcast. The Early Diagnosis Campaign, however, is solely educational and seeks to keep before the people the need for combating the disease thruout the year. Especially after the winter's strain and when other spring housecleaning is on one's mind, it is important to consider the fact that the body, too, requires a good overhauling.

The campaign will be repeated in April of this year. Tuberculosis has its danger signs as most diseases have. They are: "too easily tired; loss of weight; cough that hangs on; indigestion." Persons having these symptoms will be urged to consult their physicians or a specialist. And there will be opportunities at specially conducted clinics for free examination.

TO CONDUCT EXPERIMENTS ON POTATOES IN COUNTY

University of Maryland to Conduct Research Work in Accident and Friendsville

The State Plant Path Pathology department of the U. of M., under the direction of C. E. Temple, is to conduct experimental work this summer at Friendsville and Accident, John H. Carter, county agent, announced. The experiments will be conducted on the control of late blight and certain insects affecting potatoes in Garrett county.

The department expects to test out the relative efficiency of Bordeaux dust and liquid Bordeaux, and a close check will be kept of the numerous experiments which will be made. The work will begin about the middle or latter part of May, Mr. Carter stated, and will continue until the potatoes have matured. For the purpose of noting differences, some sections of potatoes will not be sprayed or dusted, while others will receive just the one treatment.

One man will be in charge the entire summer, but frequent visits will be made by various agriculture professors of the university to note the progress made.

Potato growers in Garrett county are asked to keep a close check on the findings of the experts, so that they might profit by the experience. The results of the experiments will have an important bearing on the research work in the entire state in regard to the potato.

Mr. Carter is planning to have a "potato tour" at the end of the season when the results can be inspected by all those interested and valuable information obatined for next year's crops.

CRELLIN CITIZENS GIVE FINE PROGRAM AT LODGE

Garrett Lodge Has Many Activities Mapped Out For Some Time

The entertainment furnished by the citizens of Crellin, at the meeting of the Knights of Pythias, held last Friday at Castle hall, Oakland, was the best ever witnessed in the lodge, in the opinion of many.

The committee staging this splendid event was composed of Charles W. Ream, Harry S. Mickey, and M. E. Lee. Mr. Mickey's band was easily the outstanding feature of the evening. The sextette, the Sanders' trio, and a reading by Louise Moomaw contributed to the success of the program. A masterly address was made by Homer Shaffer, and the clog dance by Clyde Sisler, and the Charleston as executed by Margaret Sanders brought forth applause. Mrs. Knotts and Mrs. Holler rendered a duet.

Prof. F. E. Rathbun expressed the thanks of Garrett Lodge for the splendid cooperation shown, and made special mention of the attitude displayed by the visitors. Refreshments were served by the committee.

The committee in charge of Friday night's diversion is composed of D. W. Walter, Walter Hardesty, and George Fulk. An interseting program is assured and a large attendance is expected. During the months of April and May, several classes of candidates will be iniated.

To Hold Half-Hour Services During Holy Week

Union Holy Week services will be held in the Garrett Memorial Presbyterian church, beginning Monday at noon, in keeping with the annual custom. The services will last one half hour and will be held each day during the week until Friday when a three-hour service will be held. The entire community is invited and urged to attend these services.

The meditation for these services will be taken from the activities of Christ during this week. The merchants and other business men are again asked to cooperate and close their places of business during these half-hour services and from 12 until 3 o-clock on Good Friday. An offering will be taken each day at the door.

Bill Is Introduced

Arthur Lawton, delegate to the legislature, introduced a bill yesterday authorizing Garrett County commissioners to levy $750 annually for expenses of sheriff.

SELECTION OF TERRITORY FOR POTATO CLUBS MADE

Accident and Friendsville Classes to be Given Opportunity

That the two potato clubs would be formed from the agriculture classes of Friendsville and Accident High schools, was the announcement made yesterday by John H. Carter, county agent. This is in accordance with the plan announced last week that there would be two potato clubs in Garrett county this year instead of the usual one.

The list of ten names from each of the two schools will be announced next week. Last year the potato club was formed in Oakland High school with good results.

All the seed for the project has been ordered, according to the county agent. The seed will be of the tuber unit stock and will be the best available, it was stated.

The clubs are sponsored by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, which furnishes the boys with five bushels of certified seed potatoes. These are to be planted on a measured quarter acre of ground and at the end of the season the potatoes from each grower are judged and graded.

C. M. T. C. APPLICATIONS SHOULD BE MAILED EARLY

Government is Planning Month of Health, Education, and Patriotism—Begins July 6

A month of health, education and patriotism is being prepared for 4,500 boys from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and District of Columbia, who take the opportunity to enroll in the 1929 Citizens' Military Training camps, to be held from July 6 to August 4. Garrett county's quota for this year is ten, and one application, that of Waller Hoye, Oakland, has already been sent in.

Prof. F. E. Rathbun is chairman of the procurement agency for Garrett county with the following as members of the committee: W. J. Glenn, Friendsville; J. Edward Ford, Grantsville; A. A. LaMar, Accident; Miss Katharine Conley, Oakland; Foster Speicher, Oakland; Asa Lewis, Kempton, and Clarence E. Topping, Kitzmiller.

Information may also be obtained from other High school teachers of the county.

Applications from Garrett county will go to Fort Eustis, Va., where 1,800 boys from Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia and parts of Pennsylvania will be stationed. A boy must be 17 years of age, and physically fit, before having his application accepted. Fifteen hundred applications have been sent in thus far, according to an official announcement.

The object of these training camps is to bring together annually for a month's training, the best representative young American citizens from all sections of the nation; to give them the basis of military instruction and that physical and moral development that will fit them to become influential leaders in their respective communities in time of peace and leaders for National defense in time of war; to inculcate a stronger patriotism and a wholesome respect for discipline and obedience to constituted authority; above all, to teach the young men of this generation their serious duties, responsibilities and obligations to home and country.

There is work to be done in these camps, a bulletin says, drills marches, field maneuvers, organized athletics, schools and indoor instruction, but there will also be wholesome and elevating recreation.

All who desire to attend camp are requested to get their blanks filled in and mailed early, as there will be a waiting list long before camp opens.

GARRETT COUNTIAN WINS 4-H CLUB PRIZE OFFERED

Dorothy Welch, Mt. Lake Park, Awarded $25 by Virginia Farm Paper

Miss Dorothy Welch, Mt. Lake Park, Garrett county, has been awarded the $25 prize offered by the Southern Planter, a farm paper published in Richmond, Va., for the Maryland 4-H club girl who best exemplifies leadership in her club activities, it is announced by Miss Dorothy Emerson, Girls' Club Agent for the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Miss Welch has made outstanding progress in 4-H club work during the past year, according to Miss Elsie M. Benthien, home demonstration agent for Garrett county. Among other things Miss Welch has the unique distinction of being the only club girl in the State who has ever undertaken the leadership of two clubs at the same time. For two years she has been the leader of the 4-H girls' club at Swanton, and in February organized her second club at Mountain Lake Park. The latter club has grown rapidly, it is said, including in its membership many girls of grammar and high school age.

Miss Welch is a senior in the High school at Oakland and hopes to continue her education in college.

Library Receives New Books—Donation Received

The Library bridge club met at the home of Miss Elsie Benthien Monday evening. Three dollars was collected and turned over to the treasurer. Mr. George D. Sprague made a donation of $5. All donations are gratefully received.

A number of new books have been received, which are reviewed by Mrs. Elizabeth Pearce Thayer. Sentinel of the Desert," by Jackson Gregory. In the hidden hacienda before a painting, sits a handsome man with snow white hair and a face of terrible scars. A bare white arm parts the curtain as Blondino and his bandits gallop up. So begins this story of the brave southwest. A tale of loyalty and betrayal, tender love and flaming hate.

"The Masked Rider," by Hoffman Birney. Through the pages runs the hot breath of the desert; a rare cowboy story. "The Treasure House of Martin Hews," by E. Phillips Oppenheim. Truly an achievement in sensation, one of the best stories Oppenheim has ever written, and of its kind is positively great.

"The Dimmest Dream," by Alice Ross Clover. A wonderful love story of a young girl, thoughtless, pleasure loving, who finds that life demands more of her than she has ever dreamed. But she comes through with her head held high, with a new sweetness discovered in living for some one besides herself. "The Bishop Murder Case," by S. S. Van Dine.

Garrett County Wardens to Hold Two-Day Session in Oakland—State Men to be Present

The conference is being held under the direction of the State department of forestry and a number of the State men will be present and speak.

Plans for the spring fire season will be formulated at this meeting and other important subjects taken up. The ultimate aim of the organization is to wipe out all fires caused by carelessness.

About 40 wardens are expected for the conference.

ARTHUR WILT FOUND NOT GUILTY OF TWO CHARGES

Justice Rules Insufficient Evidence—Piedmont Youth Caught

Arthur Wilt, about 20 years of age, of Crellin, was pronounced not guilty of two charges preferred against him, at a hearing Tuesday night before W. A. Gonder, justice of the peace, but after an appeal by J. C. Renninger, State's attorney, on one charge, was held under $200 bond for his appearance at the June term of court. The bond was furnished.

The two charges of disorderly conduct and of carrying concealed weapons were preferred by Mrs. Nellie Shaffer, Crellin, and the warrant for his arrest was issued by A. S. Teets, justice. The case was removed to Justice Gonder, and after the trial ruled that there was insufficient evidence to convict the man.

Piedmont Youth Caught

A youth about 15 years old, from Piedmont, W. Va., who gave his name as Kenneth Karnes, was arrested by Thomas Seymour, deputy, Friday morning at Mt. Lake Park just as he alighted from an eastbound freight train. He was held by county authorities until Piedmont officers were notified and came after him that afternoon.

The youth was said to have taken a 13-year old girl with him on a freight train going west. They got as far as M. & K. junction where they spent the night. The boy was on the return journey home when arrested at the Park.

WALTERS IS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE FOR SLAYING

Prohibition Informer, Twice Convicted, Sentenced in Hagerstown

Life imprisonment was the sentence imposed Monday in Washington County Circuit on Reginald E. Walters, former prohibition informer, twice convicted of slaying his chief, Hunter R. Stotler, in July, 1927. Stotler operated in Garrett county and made numerous arrests here.

Stotler was shot down on a lonely road near Boonsboro, while he and Walters were searching for stills at night. Walters returned alone with the story that their automobile had been ambushed by moonshiners and Stotler was shot and killed. Later he confessed he shot Stotler and claimed it was self-defense.

He also alleged Stotler had been intimate with his wife. But the State claimed he killed Stotler because he was jealous of Stotler's superiority in the prohibition forces and because Stotler was blocking his way to promotion.

Walters was first tried before a judge and jury and was convicted. His attorneys appealed and the Appeals Court, several months ago, granted him a new trial. He was tried and convicted a second time last month.

Judge Frank G. Wagaman, with Associate Judge Albert A. Doub, presided and imposed sentence. Walters' counsel did not indicate that they would file any further motions in the case.

In imposing sentence, Judge Wagaman remarked that he hoped the officials of the Maryland Penitentiary would see that the sentence was carried out. Those in the courtroom construed the remark as bearing on the recent escape of Jack Hart.

Running events, high and broad jump, shot put, relays, volley ball, speed ball, and other athletic contests will be participated in by practically all schools of the county. Further details will be announced later by Mr. F. E. Rathbun, superintendent of schools.

MT. LAKE ACTIVITIES TO GET UNDER WAY JUNE 28

Almost Continuous List of Conventions, Conferences, Etc., Cover Period to August 18

An almost continuous list of conventions, conferences, and other activities covering the period from June 28 to August 18, is noted in the sixteen-page folder just now being distributed by the Mountain Lake Park association, through the efforts of Frank E. Baker, superintendent. Chief among these is the thirty-seventh national convention of the Young Peoples' Christian Union, under the United Presbyterian church of North America, to be held from Wednesday, July 24, to Monday, July 29.

This one convention, it was stated, would bring more people to the Park than any four which have been held there within the past few years. The meetings include camp meetings, Epworth league conferences, school of theology, summer school of missions, Lutheran day, anti-saloon league day, tenth annual tennis tournament, and the Christian citizenship program.

Following is a condensed program:

June 28 to July 7, forty-sixth consecutive year, Mountain Lake Park Camp meeting, interdenominational; leaders of national reputation.

July 8 to July 15, Pittsburgh conference Epworth League institute, twenty-second year.

July 15 to July 22, Baltimore conference, Epworth League institute, fourteenth annual affair, composed of 500 young people.

August 13 to August 18, Christian Citizenship program under leadership of Dr. W. W. Davis, Baltimore.

Mountain Lake Park is considered an ideal place for conventions and it is claimed that the scenic beauty within a radius of 25 miles of the Park cannot be surpassed.

Miller School Moved To Grantsville

Sixteen pupils of Miller school are now attending Grantsville elementary school in accordance with a new plan of F. E. Rathbun, superintendent of schools. They are being transported by bus, and started to their new school on Friday.

Miss Anna Elrick, former teacher of Miller school, was transferred to Red House, to fill the position left vacant by Miss Eva Montgomery, who resigned in order to attend the State Teachers' college at Harrisonburg, Va., for the purpose of obtaining a first grade certificate.

Grantsville elementary school will hereafter be a four-teacher school, and will be the third largest in the county. Definite appointment of the new teacher has not yet been made.

The testimonial dinner to be given to Representative Fred N. Zihlman at Silver Spring on Maryland day, promises to be a brilliant affair. It is being arranged by Mr. Zihlman's Silver Spring neighbors and other friends and will be entirely non-political.

H. S. PRINCIPALS DRAW TOPICS FOR DECLAMATION

Both Boys' and Girls' Contests to be Held Same Night in April at Friendsville

The principals of the Garrett county high schools, at a meeting held while at the regional conference on Wednesday at Frostburg, drew from sealed envelopes the topics on which their pupils would declaim at the Boys' and Girls' County-wide Declamation contest, to be held at the Friendsville High school late in April. Numbers on the subjects drawn, also settled the order in which the representatives would be called upon.

Following were the subjects chosen:

1. How can the foreigner be best trained to form a correct conception of our laws? Representative of Kitzmiller High.
2. What is the true meaning of Americanization? Representative of Friendsville High.
3. Should Germany continue to make reparation for the world war? Representative of Accident High.

6. What is the Kellogg Peace Pact? Representative of Kempton High.

A five minute talk will be given in each case, and the winners will receive awards. The boys' contest is sponsored by Delbert Davis, cashier of the First National Bank, Oakland. The girls' contest is sponsored by G. A. Fraley, of the Garrett National Bank, Oakland, and this contest will be the same as in former years. Preliminary contests are being held at the different high schools to select various representatives.

BOYS' 4-H CLUB TO BE REORGANIZED IN COUNTY

State Boys' Club Agent and County Agent Make Necessary Plans

For the purpose of reorganizing boys' 4-H clubs in Garrett county, Mr. E. G. Jenkins, better known as "Daddy Jenks," State Boys' club agent, University of Maryland Extension division, was in Oakland on Tuesday and Wednesday, conferring with the County agent, John H. Carter, and also speaking at the Oakland High school on Wednesday morning.

The members of the club would conduct projects for the purpose of learning how to raise better crops and better livestock, etc., and it is the hope of the club leader and the county agent, that several clubs will be started in Garrett county. Immediate attempts will be made. Mr. Carter said, to form a club at Oakland and Grantsville, and other communities showing interest will also be assisted to his fullest extent.

There were 2,625 boys and girls enrolled in club work in Maryland last year, 78 percent of whom carried their projects to completion. The value of the projects which club members owned or produced amounted to $230,299.43.

The dairy club work lead all others with 606 members, 490 completing their work with 855 animals at a value of $122,932.

In Garrett county 24 club members were enrolled in dairying and 10 in an Irish potato club. It is hoped that more will be entered this year and that all will complete their projects.

Civic Club to Hold Its Annual Election Next Tuesday

The annual election of officers will be held at the next regular meeting of the Oakland Civic club, to be held at the home of Mrs. Milton Sincell, Tuesday afternoon, March 26, at 3 o'clock. Other important business will be transacted and all members are urged to be present.

Wade Hinebaugh the Hunter

Wade Hinebaugh is said to be dickering with several Indian tribes for the sale of bows and arrows. He is also inspecting local sumac, hirch, sassafras and hickory trees in case he can't come to a bargain with Chief Mud-eye or Pain-in-the-neck.

During hunting season Wade purchased a wonderful rabbit trailer but the first day out it disappeared when he pulled his trusty "12-gauge." He was discovered at home. The next week he got a chance to trade it for a real rabbit dog, with only a small "boot." Congratulating himself on the trade he repeated the first scene, but with the same effect—he didn't see his companion until he reached home. Now Wade remarks that his only chance is with the bow and arrow. There isn't a shot in a carload and he can reach for them anytime instead of a shell.

While the Boss is Away

Scoop and the Col. thought that no better time could be picked for showing an exclusive picture of the hoss editor, because he was away and couldn't censor anything that might be put in about him.

So, Col. Bell hired a high powered airplane and went to Atlanta where he hovered over the Federal prison for half a day, hoping to catch sight of the boss. When he didn't appear, he widened his area to the out-skirts of the town and he was found there fishing for alligators or what have you. Due to the high waters in that section he stood right beside his automobile and cast his rod into deep waters.

Notables in Conference

A conference of three notables of the United States was noted in front of the Garrett national bank on Tuesday by members of the Amalgamated Society for the Suppression of Work, holding their daily meeting in Harned's drug store. In the midst of arguing about those industrious people who worked all the time, Dr. McComas, honorary member of the society, spied the celebrities across the street.

"There are Firestone, Edison and Burroughs in conference." And looking across the street there stood Harvey Loraditch, H. C. Sincell and Bill Browning. Bill, or rather Burroughs, was telling about the things he saw and did in Cuba, which had to do with the study of nature, brass rails and other metals.

The background to the picture was formed by Jim Painter and Bill Johnson, who were planning where to go on their next vacation. It is rumored that they have passed requirements for membership into the Drug Store society.

If John Sweeney doesn't believe in signs, he at least believes in bells. He heard the Catholic church bell ringing at 10:30 one morning this week, so he took the town horse with which he was working to the stable, gave her some dinner, and came down street, believing it to be twelve o'clock. At least John made Michael Maroney, street boss, believe his tale.

The specially constructed movie camera for the filming of the ten reel feature in the environs of Grantsville has not arrived yet, according to the Col. but other deatils are being taken care of.

Judson Loar has been swamped with lady applicants, but he has informed them all they must have "it" or they can't be selected. Bill Butt is sore because he wasn't appointed title editor, and in the meantime Dick Coddington has withdrawn all his capital from Oakland's three banks and wants to invest it in the movie concern and become a stockholder. This is to be decided by a meeting today of the backers of the corporation.

THE PASSING SHOW

By the Man In The Street

(From The Observer)

To get the atmosphere of the Grand Inquest Committee of the General Assembly of Maryland in conjunction with the Nelligan Committee, alleged by the friends of the State adminstration to be engaged in trying to fix the responsibility for the maladministration of the State Roads Department the writer of these lines went down to Annapolis one day this week and took a peek.

The morning session was over and it was a long wait till the afternoon session. But of a sudden while this poor reporter was busy in the lobby discussing international problems with George Lewis, the great body convened in the old Senate Chamber. Hurrying in after noting the arrival of deposed Road Chairman John N. Mackall with his lawyer, Wm. L. Rawls, nearly all the seats provided for witnesses and spectators were found to be occupied. In the last row on the left were a half dozen seats but when the writer undertook to occupy them the sergeant-at-arms warned: "You can't sit there: those seats are reserved for the defense."

Notice to all the world that this was a trial, instead of the investigation alleged by the followers of the administration. So it was that Mackall and his lawyer sat on the left while this spectator found a seat way up front on the right and almost facing Lawyer Edwin G. Baetjer, Jr., who seems to be anxious to catch perjurers who perjure against the reigning house of Ritchie.

We wait until there arrives Chairman Senator Scott Beck of Kent, his brow bulging like the famous brow of Daniel Webster. He stoops and whispers to Lawyer Charles McHenry Howerd and Joseph Napoleon France but takes no whispering note of Lawyer Alexander Armstrong, G. O. P., sitting alongside.

In the chamber are secretaries and messengers of the Governor waiting to catch a word to take to the Executive office upstairs. Also many others not identified.

At one end of the long table sit Haskins & Sells, the men who made the latest road audit and who also made the system of accounting for the Roads Commission through which thieves walked without touching the sides. They are seated next to Mr. Baetjer, the figure wizard of the Baltimore bar, as well as a strong friend of the reigning Governor. Close by is Richard B. Tippett, grim and cold. Comes late Speaker Brooke Lee and takes a seat behind Mr. Armstrong and close to him is Secretary of State Winebrenner, like Lee, a Mackall champion.

On the witness stand is Daniel H. Carroll, Deputy State Auditor, who seems to have gotten into disfavor with the Ritchie administration by digging out the Roads scandal in the course of his official duties.

Mr. Baetjer in mild tones resumes the examination of Carroll begun in the forenoon. He recites a long proposition and Carroll has to say "yes." The spectators think—some of them—it sounds like a frameup. When Mr. Baetjer runs down Mr. Armstrong brings out the statement from Carroll that State Auditor Lewis M. Milbourne, a Ritchie-Lee appointee, objected to carrying the audit of the Roads Commission books further back than the one year in which the stealing was first discovered. Milbourne's alleged reason was that prior years had already been "audited."

At this statement by Carroll the reporters who had been drowsing over their pipes came to life for a few minutes. Haskins & Sells took some notes or one of them did.

At one point Carroll said something about a bill for tar figuring in the accounts. Some snickered at the mention of tar pots in a whitewash hearing.

Brooke Lee whispers something to Haskins & Sells.

Carroll says the Governor was notified of the scandal the day after Mackall was notified. At that time the overdrafts amounted to more than $9,000 but there were other revealed stealings the aggregate of which Carroll did not state.

Later in the week it came out that Ritchie and Mackall had the main facts as to the scandal for more than a week before the story leaked into the daily papers. They were keeping all in the dark. They were covering it up for political purposes. Mackall wanted to hold on to his job—Ritchie wanted desperately to hold on to his.

Lee puts one question—not important—but framed in such a way as to show that it was intended to help some poor unfortunate higher-up. Brooke Lee is a minute man and he proves it. He thought the question up in a minute—one could almost see it flashing through his mind.
